Leadership – L. William Fox, Class of 1961, local business leader and philanthropist. Fox and his sister, Jean, took over the Fox's Markets family business in Middletown and expanded the business. The company was well known and respected by families in the school district and provided job opportunities to workers, especially young adults. His father, Leroy believed strongly in giving back to organizations important to the customers. In 1993, Fox's Markets started a Save and Share Program and more than $1 million was donated to 450 non-profit organizations in the area. Fox's personal philanthropic commitment to the community continues today with his family's sponsorship of scholarship awards to Lower Dauphin senior students in honor of sons, Jeremy (Class of 1991) and Brian (Class of 1993) , as well to libraries, animal shelters, and the scouts. Fox was nominated by Russel Cassel (Class of 1965 and President of the Lower Dauphin Alumni Association) and Kathy Imhof Weber (Class of 1974 and a past winner of the Distinguished Alumna Award.)
