Nicholas Poppy (LD 1991) for his contributions to th*e* Arts which receive praise by admirers of comedy in the popular media and by his peers. He has been nominated three times and in 2011 he received an Emmy in the category of Outstanding Short Format Live Action for an Entertainment Program for his work as a producer for Comedy Central for the program The Daily Show. Emmy Awards are presented in various sectors of the American television industry and are considered the most prestigious award one can receive for a career in that medium. Nick currently works as a senior producer overseeing Original Digital Programming for ABC News. From "fake" news to "real" news, as Nick states it. He was nominated by Wade Seibert (LD 1965), chairperson of the Alumni Honoree Committee and Dr. Judith Witmer, Recipient of the 2010 LDAA Community Service Award. Until his retirement, Nick's father, Wendell Poppy, was a popular principal at elementary schools in the Lower Dauphin School District.