DEDICATION

MRS. HELEN MAC EWAN

In recognition of her twenty-eight years of service as a secretary at Belmont Central School, we take great pleasure in dedicating this 1973 Yearbook to Mrs. Helen MacEwan.

During these years, Mrs. MacEwan has served not only several administrators but the faculty and students as well. To her we express our warmest regards and gratitude.

BUS DRIVERS

What a way to start out anybody's day!

Sodium benezine, and . . . what?

Speak no evil, hear no evil, (see?) no evil.

The fantastic first period study hall.

The kindergarten rides again!

Here's a dime to call your mother.

Wait! I forgot MY pillow!

Oh, I get it now!

Senior Auction.

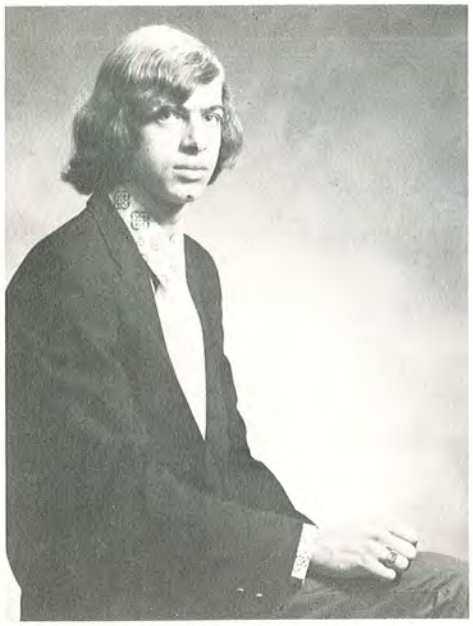

Now, kids, no fooling around!

1. No, that's not how you do it!
2. All right you guys, out of this hotel, now!
3. That kid fell off the curb again.
4. And that's the truth!
5. Of course I told her.
6. Oh, Earth!
7. Sam, are ya out there?
8. Boys! In our room?
9. One more "jawbone" and I'll . . .

FOURTH GRADE

The children on this page have been grouped into one picture because they are all members of a learning situation new to BCS. These children are the first participants of the open classroom-team teaching program which began in September 1972. Under this program the children are grouped closer to their own ability level and are given material which corresponds to that level. The children progress from level to level as they are ready for the material. This type of classroom promotes success instead of failure. Learning centers, such as science, language, audio visual, etc., are set up around the room and the children are free to move from one center to another when they have time available to them. These centers provide an enrichment to the academic areas and reinforce concepts taught in them.

THE GIFT OF THE MAGI

The park bums and others.

"Allow me to introduce Della Young."

"Oh, what a lovely Christmas."

"Louder, I can't hear you!"

"You've cut off your hair!"

"Mme. Sofronie's selections are tres chic."

The men (and women) behind the scenes.
