Time Has Flown

The time has flown
since yesterday
when we were waiting
to be where we are today.
Now the days of
walking through the leaves
and riding buses
are almost to an end.
We now look back
and see the shadows
of our memories
in the faces of those coming next.

The time has flown
since yesterday when we were gazing
up those unknown stairs,
wondering when we'd ever
get to climb them by ourselves.
Now we look at another pair of looming, unknown stairs.
The future faces us with its blinding light.

What shall we do
when those glass doors
close behind us
for the last time?
They say it's up to us
to do the best we can.
So now we go to do our best to find some good in Man.

In Memoriam

William Chester Fanton
1957-1974

In this small way we would like to show our lasting remembrance of William C. Fanton, a very special friend and classmate of the Class of '76.

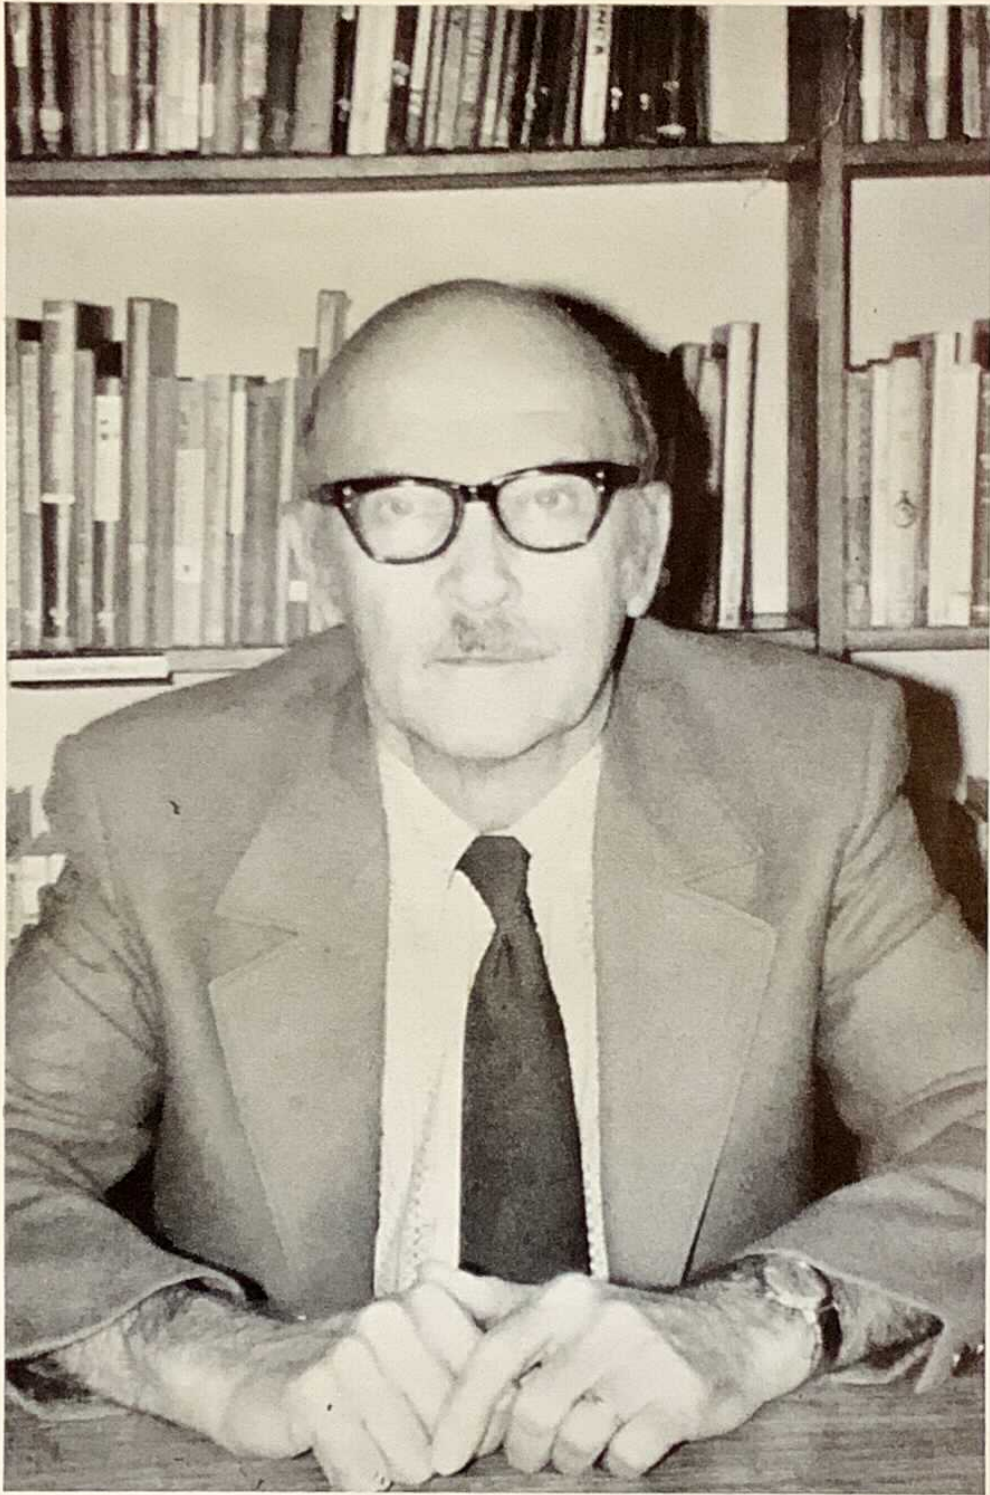

Bill seemed to have the warm, outgoing and friendly way about him that always made it fun to be with him.

We thank God for being able to have known him and for all the good times we shared.

Though he was a part of our class for only three years, we will never forget the memories we had and the friendship gained from knowing "Billy" Fanton.

Dedication

Mr. Harold B. Crowther

In recognition of his thirty years of service as both a social studies teacher and vice principal at Belmont Central School, we, the yearbook staff, take pride in dedicating this, the 1976 REFLECTOR, to Mr. Harold B. Crowther.

Aside from his regular duties, he was the National Honor Society advisor and a bus driver.

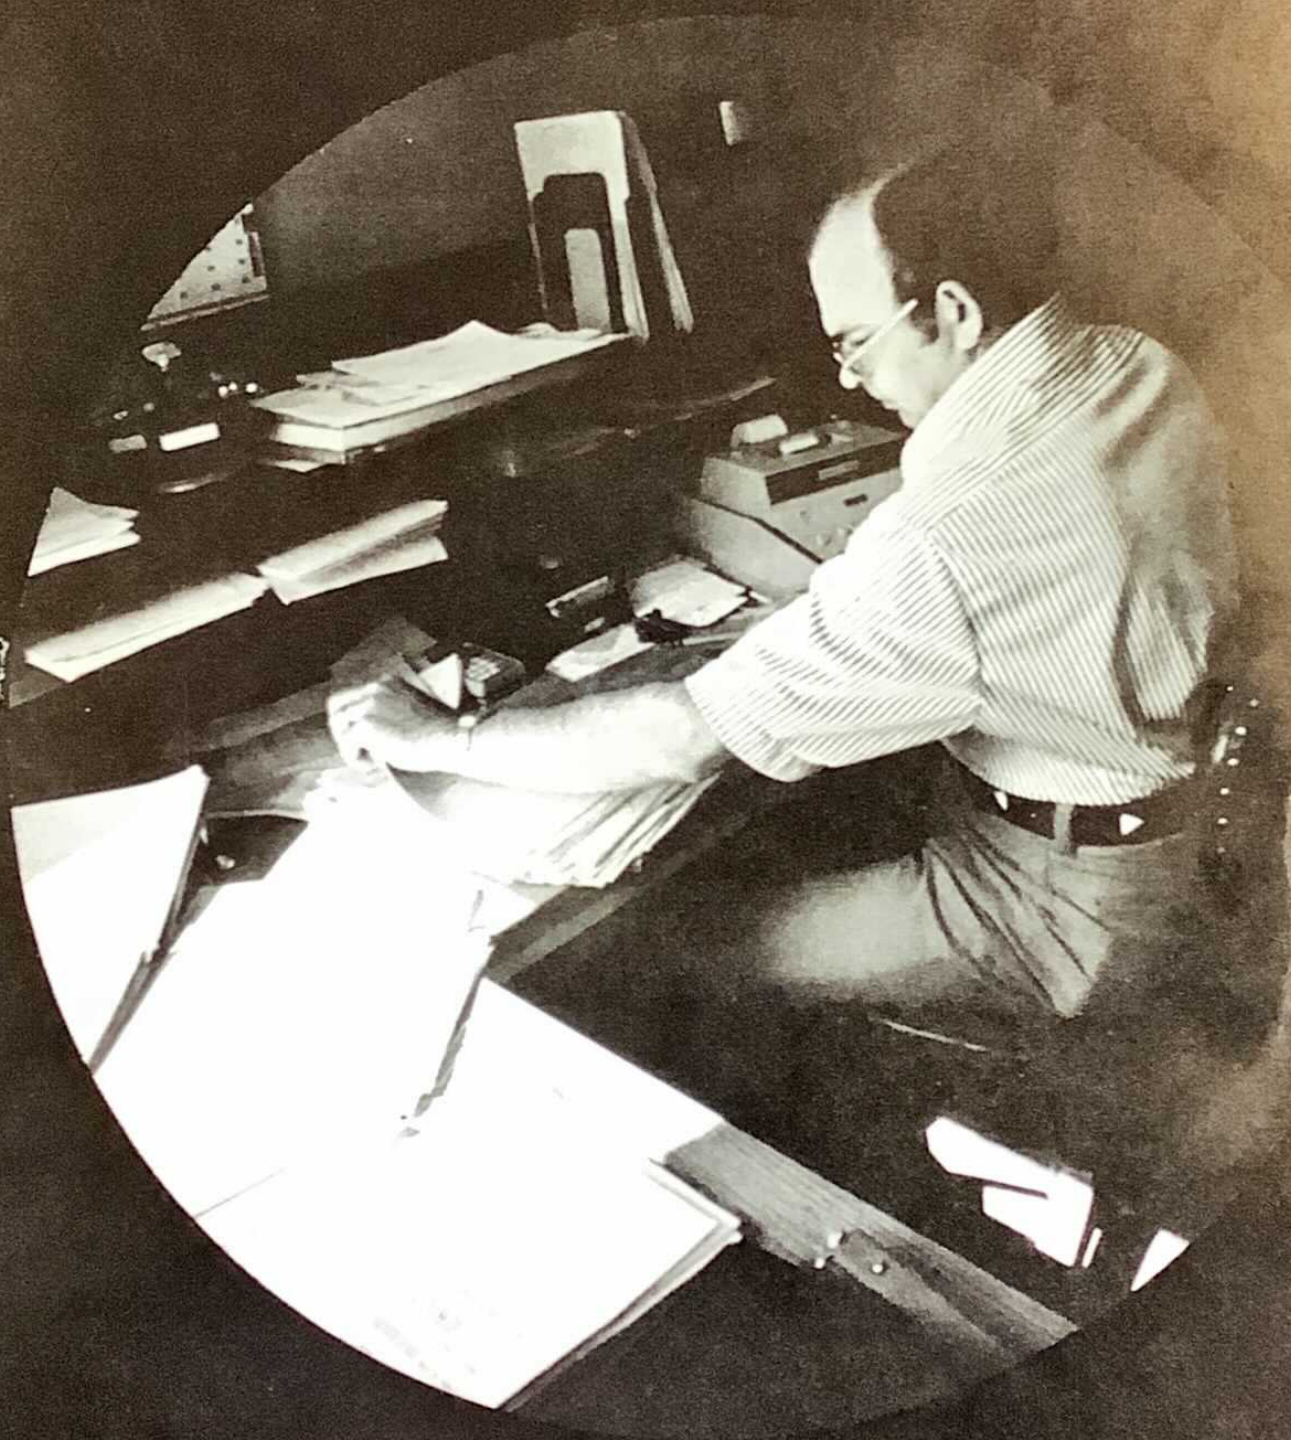

Throughout the many years he spent at Belmont Central, we will always appreciate the kindness, patience and consideration that he felt toward the entire student body.

Thank you, Mr. Crowther.

"Let us be patient, tender, wise, forgiving, in this strange task of living; for if we fail each other, each will be grey driftwood lapsing to the bitter sea."

History of the Class of '76

A long time ago in the land of Belmont, fifty-seven little bright eyed children danced among the halls of Belmont Central School. We were joyfully greeted by Miss Mary Disparti and Mrs. Eleanor McDonell. Together these 57 children proudly mastered the arts of kindergarten, like how to assemble toys and swing around the May Pole in rhythm. Out of the original class, only 30 have remained to graduate. They are Bob Abbott, Vicki Benjamin, Mike Bidwell, Sue Bliven, Ellen Bogan, Lowell Brown, Victor Butler, Tina Carpenter, Diane Chilson, Dawn Cline, Martin Feldbauer, Laura Francisco, Candy Grastorf, Cathy Hanchett, Maureen Harding, Eric Hotchkiss, Calvin Kemp, Jamie MacMurray, Joe Mead, Steve Middaugh, Phil Mitchell, Scott Orians, Deb Parks, Luanne Presutti, Vicki Raub, Dave Scranton, Marlies Warner, Pam Weber, Joan Weinman, and Sue Winterhalter.

Now that kindergarten was over, we were faced with the situation that "it's time to settle down and learn." To handle the problem, we were put into the hands of Mrs. Mary Hosmer and Mrs. Virginia Horner. People often say that first grade is the hardest, but for our class it was FUN AND EASY.

Mrs. Virjean Francis and Mrs. Helen Steenrod were our teachers in the second grade. It was they who taught us to add and subtract, a most painful experience for most of us. Whenever you were caught talking, you were made to write 100 times, "I will not talk in class." This was just our teachers' way of making us all better writers!

The next year we were welcomed by Mrs. Bernice Hall and Mrs. Louise Patterson. As the years rolled on, our army was getting bigger and better. Barb Stanton decided to test out our class during this year. We spent most of the year studying Indians. During the second half of the year, we made a trip to Mr. Llewellyn Casterline's museum. Dawn Graham also joined our class this year.

Miss Ruth Rossney and Mrs. Frances Swain took control over us in the fourth grade. For those students in Miss Rossney's room, we spent most of our free time learning to knit. She thought it was important for both boys and girls to know how to knit. Most of the boys were too embarrassed to ask their parents for knitting needles so they used two pixie sticks. This was also the year for learning our multiplication tables. April Brown and Denise Graham became members of our class this year.

Fifth grade gave us our big chance to switch classes. We liked the idea of going from class to class. Mrs. Patricia Tompkins and Mr. Delmer Jackson were the teachers who helped us along the way. Remember taking turns to go to Mr. Jackson's room to turn the chicken eggs in the incubator? Our teachers also had the honor of chaperoning the class on an all day field trip to Niagara Falls.

As we entered the sixth grade, we had the privilege of breaking in a NEW teacher. Boy, was that fun! Mr. Robert Jones and Mrs. Mary Jane McNeil really made our year fun! Who could ever forget that wonderful graduation ceremony we held? The students in Mrs. McNeil's class fixed a dinner including dishes from all around the world. The dinner was a big success, and everyone had fun. This was the year Mr. Jones' class won the P. T. A. Membership Drive Contest, beating his wife's grade by three points. During this year, Kim Benjamin and Roy Costley joined our ranks.

Seventh grade taught us the realities of life. Math class was always a threat to our grades and our home life. Not many of us had a home life after failing math. This was the year we were assigned homeroom teachers. Half of us got Miss Sharon Simons and the other half Mr. James Lockwood. You can still look up and see the grease mark where some certain person threw an oatmeal cookie on Miss Simons' ceiling. Anyone know anything about it? Debbie Reynolds joined us this year.

Eighth grade gave us the opportunity to break in, not one, but two new teachers. Girls were practically fainting over the sight of Mr. James Steen. They thought he was the greatest thing that ever stepped into this school. Georgia Veihdeffer and Bill Fanton joined us this year.

Some of us were really lucky to get into the homeroom of Mr. James Kane. He made our math class a lot more interesting, and he definitely made our study periods a complete riot. For some of us, this was the last year we would get homework from Mrs. Doris Wells.

High school arrived at last! Colleen Connor and Carol Smalley arrived on the scene just in time to find out what happens to all freshmen on the first three days of school. With a little courage and endurance, everybody lasted through initiation! For money making projects, we spent most of the year having Bake Sales. Most of us had the privilege of taking our first Regents exam. What a bummer!!! Some of us proved our singing or dancing skills by participating in "The Gift of the Magi" and "You Can't Take It With You." Bonnie Troidl and Patty Sue Hotchkiss moved to Belmont and became members of our class this year.

Tenth grade went kind of slow for us. We really didn't have anything to look forward to that year. Brian Birdsall came just in time to help us present our Greaser Day. We had a "best dresser-upper" contest and Joe Mead won for the boys and Percillah Smalley for the girls. Or was it the other way around? That night we held a dance at which everyone had a good time. Joe Zajicek joined us this year.

When eleventh grade came around, we had plenty of things to keep us busy. Tom McNinch came just in time to drive for our paper drives. Who can forget getting up at 9:00 on cold winter mornings to collect papers from door to door? We held our Junior Prom on May 23, 1975. At 12:00, we watched as Brian Birdsall and Joan Weinman were crowned King and Queen. Their court consisted of: Sue Winterhalter, Martin Feldbauer, Jamie MacMurray, Tom McNinch, Carol Smalley, and Scott Orians. Nine members of the class were inducted into the National Honor Society. At the end of the year, some of the class members participated in the play, "The Yankee Doodle." Christine Reniff joined us during the year, and Colleen Connor left at the end of the year.

Our senior year has finally arrived! It is almost hard to believe! Steve Trainor and Mona Neilson were added to the class just in time to prepare for the senior trip and start plans for graduation. We have only a short time left here at Belmont Central School, and we shall make the most of it.

As seniors, we have learned many things in the years we have spent at Belmont Central. We must now go and face the world and learn of many others. We will have closed the doors to this school, and we cannot turn back. Each and every one of us will go in separate directions and seek higher and better things. With much respect and admiration, we say thank you and good-bye.

School Days

The wonder of a life-long friend.
Always there – through heartaches and tears;
Sharing jokes,
teacher troubles,
and the homework blues.
Flying beside you in a fast-moving game of soccer, basketball –
Learning with you the history of the world;
nouns, adjectives and conjunctions.
Knowing the importance of preparing for the world
we must some day live in – without each other's comforting words.
The echo of slamming lockers will remain with us as we walk out of thirteen years of security.
