DEDICATION

MRS. BESSIE GILMORE

We, the Yearbook staff and student body of Belmont Central School, take great pride and pleasure in dedicating this 1968 Reflector Yearbook to Mrs. Bessie Gilmore.

Mrs. Gilmore's patience, kindness, and consideration for her students, and her years of service and devotion to her profession have enriched the lives of many young people in Belmont. We'll miss her wonderful sense of humor and her buoyant spirit when she leaves Belmont Central School.

In Appreciation—Mr. Howard L. Howbridge came to teach in Belmont in 1931. With the exception of a few years' absence for military service in World War II, he served Belmont Central School as vice-principal and as a mathematics and science teacher until 1967. He also supervised many extra-curricular activities during these years. As Junior Class advisor, he took charge of the Junior Prom every year and on several occasions helped direct dramatic productions. He also served as advisor to The National Honor Society and the Student Council for a number of years.

Both present and former students and teachers wish to express their deepest appreciation to Mr. Howbridge for all these years of dedication to the welfare of our school. We miss him at BCS.

HISTORY OF THE CLASS OF 1968

The class of 1968 first entered the halls of BCS on a September day in 1955. Although we were of mixed emotions, Miss Mary Disparti and Mrs. Eleanor McDonnell soon put us at ease. On entering school that year there were 43 students of whom 26 are left. They are Jim Austin, Bob Clark, Bill Corbin, Diane Fuller, Shelley Grastorf, Joyce Kemp, Steve Lowe, Janet Mayo, Diane Miller, Dave Mitchell, Pris Morse, Frank Pasquale, Duane Rafter, Michele Rice, Carol Ricketts, Dave Robbins, Don Schwert, Dan Scott, Sue Shuttleworth, Harlan Smith, Jeff Sortore, Chris Tompkins, Kathie Wells, Mark Wesche, Jamie Williams, and Lynda Winterhalter.

The next year found us moving on to the classes of Mrs. Mary Hosmer and Mrs. Virginia Horner, and also meeting two new fellow students, Brad Cooper and Cathy Smith. It was in first grade that we had our first encounter with the "classical" Dick and Jane books.

Second grade found us "enjoying" arithmetic under the direction of Mrs. Helen Steenrod and Mrs. Virjean Francis. Dave Austin joined us in time to present a gym demonstration for our parents and to help us make bread.

The next September we were met at the door by Mrs. Bernice Hall and Mrs. Helen Kane. Several new seats were added as Earl Mehlenbacher and Art Serra visited the post office and the "Dispatch" with us. We also learned to write instead of print this year.

In fourth grade we tackled those multiplication tables for the benefit of Mrs. Gertrude Cline and Miss Ruth Rossney. In May, we were deeply saddened over the untimely death of Mrs. Cline. However, Mrs. Teresa Wirt filled in and we finished our last year "downstairs."

Weren't we the "big deals" climbing those stairs every morning to the rooms of Mrs. Bessie Gilmore and Miss Grace Hammond, our fifth grade teachers? Although we had a lot of fun initiating the sixth graders, our teachers finally encouraged us to settle down and learn "something" so that we would pass.

Sixth grade, taught by Mrs. Freda Tower and Mr. Robert Goodwin, was even more hilarious than fifth grade, except there seemed to be stronger punishments. Several students paraded down the hall holding Mrs. Tower's hand and wearing a baby bonnet, while others wrote lengthy essays for Mr. Goodwin and others felt the sting of his paddle. Jerry Horton came on the scene as we made some crude efforts to write plays which we presented for our teachers. Later we took a trip to Buffalo to the zoo and museums.

Well, here we were at the second step of our upward climb—junior high school. In Seventh grade, having our number increase as Charley Butler joined us, we tried to settle down to work for Mr. Richard Rose and Mr. Robert Boyer—but to no avail. Our favorite classes that year seemed to be industrial arts and home economics.

Eighth grade found some of the "uncontrollable talkers" copying the Constitution for Mr. Robert McMahon and Mrs. Doris Wells. That year we also enjoyed gloating our eighth grade "superiority" over the Sixth and Seventh graders.

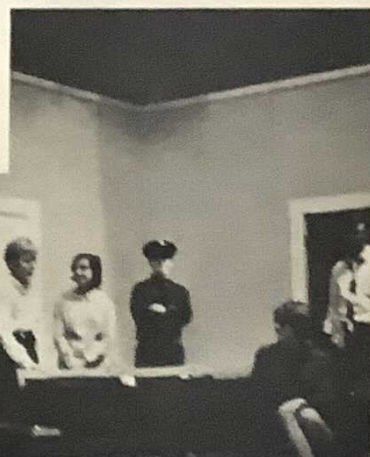

According to a well-known law of physics, what goes up must come down. This is exactly what happened to our egos during initiation. However, we took it all in stride and marched on to be Sophomores.

We then held our Sophomore Hop and netted a grand profit of $28. Jean Hinman, Shirley Gordon, and Vic Norton came along in time to take their first Regents with us.

Our Junior year seemed to be crammed full of exciting adventures and Art Serra arrived back at the proper time to enjoy them with us. We ordered our class rings which, of course, were the "neatest." In November, we discovered some "ham" instincts in a few of our classmates as we presented our Junior Play, "Play It Smart." The cast included Bill Corbin, Chris Tompkins, Steve Lowe, Diane Fuller, Carol Ricketts, Joyce Kemp, Shelley Grastorf, Bob Clark, Michele Rice, and Harlan Smith. In April we presented our prom, "The Impossible Dream," with music by the Galen Stout Quartet. Despite a lack of cellophane tape and many doubts offered by Mr. Howbridge, we finished the decorations. On that perfect night, Diane Fuller and Bradley Cooper were crowned Queen and King. Their court included Joyce Kemp, Diane Miller, Shelley Grastorf, Steve Lowe, Bob Clark, and Dave Mitchell. We also managed to capture the most points in Field Day bringing more honors to the class of 1968.

As Seniors, we startled everyone with our salesmanship as we sold 150 percent of our quota of magazines, to raise money for our Senior Trip to Washington. Finally, the great day arrived and we boarded the bus along with Mr. and Mrs. Donald Strach and Mr. and Mrs. Galen Stout. We then had four days and nights of "peace," "enjoyment," and "relaxation." We returned home and began applying to colleges and preparing for our Senior dance in December.

Now as we 37 seniors look back over the years of our education at BCS, we can proudly say that we shall always remember the joys, sorrows, friendships, and experiences that we have known while together. Our heartfelt thanks and gratitude go out to those who have made these years most memorable for us.
