

Cory Mazzoni Class of 2008 Baseball

As a freshman for the Raiders in 2005, Mazzoni pitched for the varsity squad and continued to improve during his sophomore season when his team made it to the semi-finals of the WPIAL playoffs. Perhaps his most impressive year was during the 2007 championship season when he went 11 - 0 tallying 78 innings with 96 strikeouts. In the WPIAL bracket, SV finished 3rd. In the PIAA tournament, Mazzoni's pitching helped the Raiders win five games in a row to win the PIAA Championship. Overall at Seneca Valley, Cory amassed a 22 - 4 record as a pitcher during his high school baseball career with an overall ERA of 1.99. Right after graduating, the Washington Nationals drafted Mazzoni in the 26th round of the 2008 draft. Cory made the decision to honor his commitment to play Division I baseball at North Carolina State before going pro years later.
