Chasing the Storm

Field Kindley met the face of change when the 95-96 school year began. Students would now spend the lunch hour on a closed campus. Throughout the previous year, there had been a large debate about terminating the open lunch hour. Despite difference in view and the continuous storm of protest from students; the final vote was passed. In addition, an attempt to soften blows to the football team was on its way. After a search, a new varsity coach had been hired. A change in leadership occurred when the principal moved over, leaving new administration in charge. The former activities director and vice-principal would step up to become principal and a new assistant principal was hired. Despite the many changes, the student body stands together when the storm blows over.

Field Kindley Memorial High School sits empty after sleet and a light dusting of snow left the roads too slick to travel for two school days. As a result of the weather, the Interstate Basketball Classic also had to be delayed and began a day late.

How do you feel about change?

"Change is good because without it life would be dull!" Chrissy VanWinkle, 11

"I am strongly against change because I hate readjusting to new policies or situations."
Andy Duchan, senior

"Change is good in most ways but bad in a few, also. It is good because life would get boring without it, but it can be bad if you're not expecting it. It could hurt you or someone else."
Tabitha Thomas, junior

"Change is always good. Most people don't like it, but if everything was always the same it would get boring."
Thomas Slavin, sophomore

designed by jami bohr and kristen mcgehee

Seven when it isn't easy, students at Field Kindley stay together and show support for their school. The athletic teams have bad streaks, but surviving is not impossible when fans still attend the games and pull for the team. The Nado spirit stays high when students are there to show encouragement for the players. Hope is not lost just because one game is. Students are also sure to stick together when there are important decisions to be made about them. They stand up for their beliefs and let their position be known. It is not impossible to ride out the storm and face the twister. There can be a lot of obstacles, but patience can conquer the most difficult problem. It's not always easy in student life, but the students keep on fighting and surviving the twister.

Showing Nado spirit, Nick Williams, Clark Wilson, Judibeth Parker, and Todd Hayes along with fellow students show loyalty to the basketball team by attending a game during the Interstate Basketball Classic. Megaphones became common at home games this year when fans began using them to loudly voice their spirit. "I go to the home games to get loud and obnoxious to help get our team fired up so they can win," Williams said.

While dutifully holding balloons being prepared for the formal homecoming assembly, senior Brent Thompson looks admiringly at his handful. photo by kristen mcgehee

How do you view student life at Field Kindley?

"Student Life is more stressful, say than it was three years ago. There are more things to learn, more responsibilities, but more freedom as you get older."

Nicole Rickner, freshman

"I think that every student wonders at one point of time in their life if they're going to be accepted by their peers. Some make themselves out to be something that they are not. Some just go with the flow and be themselves. There can be a lot of pressure out there, if you let it get to you. I say don't let anything drive you away. Just be yourself and you will be a lot better off."

Erik Wolf, senior

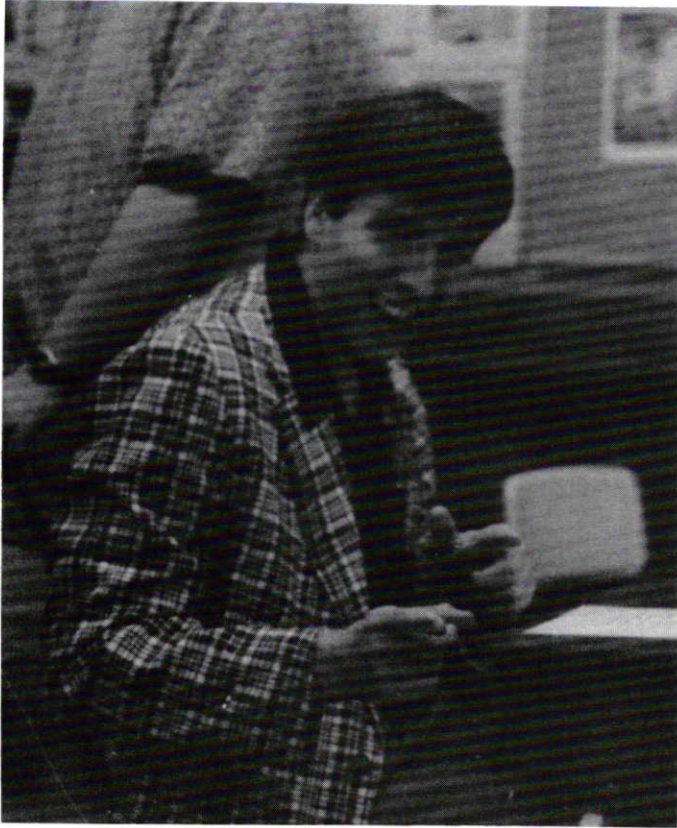

"I think many students are so concerned with themselves, that they ignore the friends that are hurting and need someone to talk to."

Julie Blevins, senior

designed by jami bohr and kristen mcgehee

Junior Clint McCurry shows his school spirit on Polyester Day of Spirit Week. "My mom made the jacket for my dad in the '70's, and I got the pants at the Salvation Army," McCurry said.

The Nado basketball team gets fired up in the huddle before the game starts. "Usually, we are all just pumping each other up and then B.J. quiets us down and tells us what to do," Desmond Andrews said.

Cassy Thomas helps the junior class show their school spirit during hall decorating. "It felt great to win because we showed that the juniors really are the best," Thomas said.

Do you think school spirit is good this year? Why or why not?

"It is pretty good, but it doesn't help when people ignore the cheerleaders when they're trying to get the fans fired up."
Melinda Wulf, senior

"No, because either people just don't care or we get in trouble for any school spirit we have."
Candice Houglund, sophomore

"I think school spirit is high this year because the Nado rock and we all know it."
Zac Morris, junior

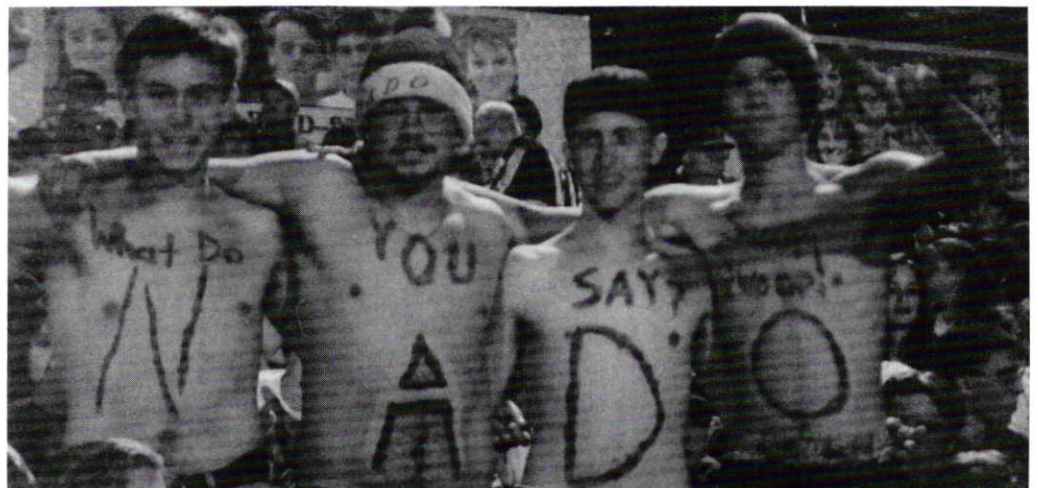

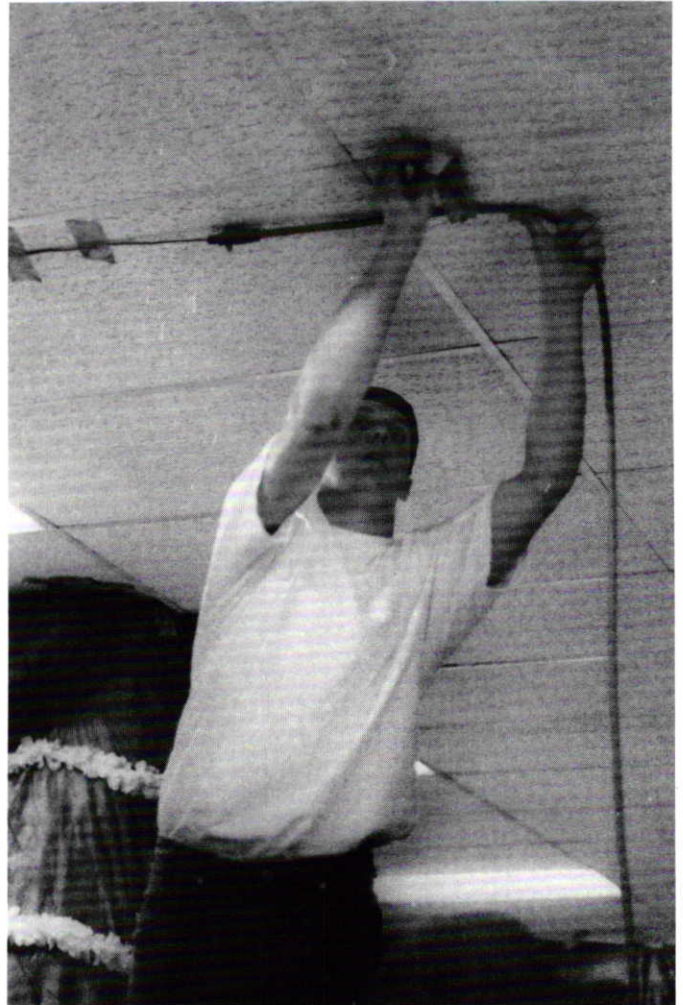

Senior Danny Handshumaker helps the senior class in their effort at hall decorating.

Seniors Brian Fisher, Adam Bauer, junior Zac Morris, and sophomore Mike Owen take it all off for the Nado football team.

SUMMER

camp, friends and fun

designed by april hawkins

What did you do over the summer?

"My most memorable experience over the summer was when I lost my memory."

Jason Hoover, senior

"Going to Arkansas, and spending time with my aunt and uncle that I have not seen in 12 years."

John Milos, freshman

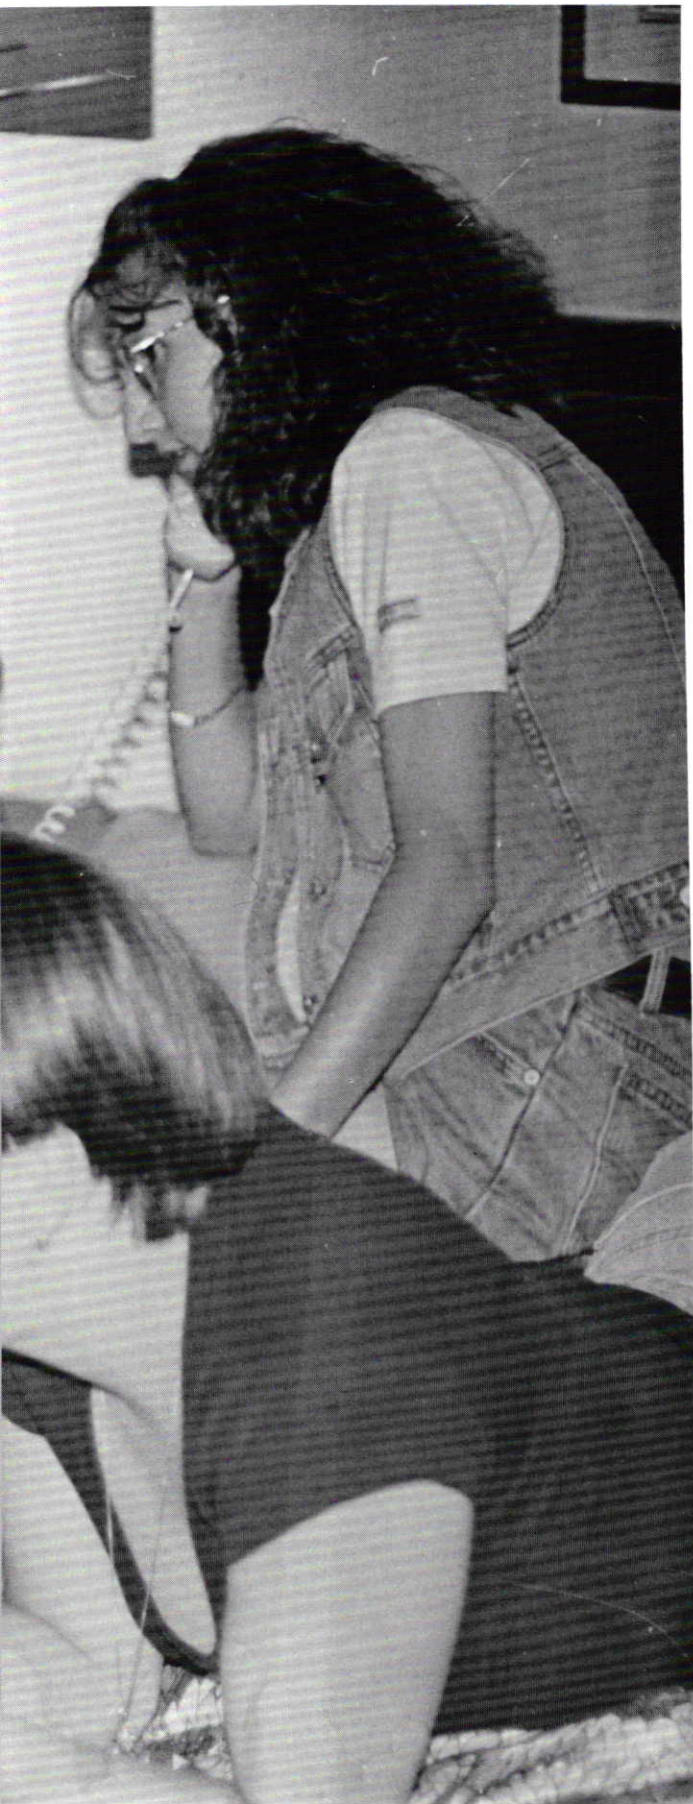

"Spent a lot of time with my boyfriend. My most memorable experience was the Fourth of July when I met a lot of his family."

Kim Mangan, junior

During band, junior Landon Diveley practices a new song on the snare drums for the upcoming school year. Diveley goes to band camp because it gives him a start on the marching season. "I play the drums because that is what I have always played and I think it is fun," Diveley said.

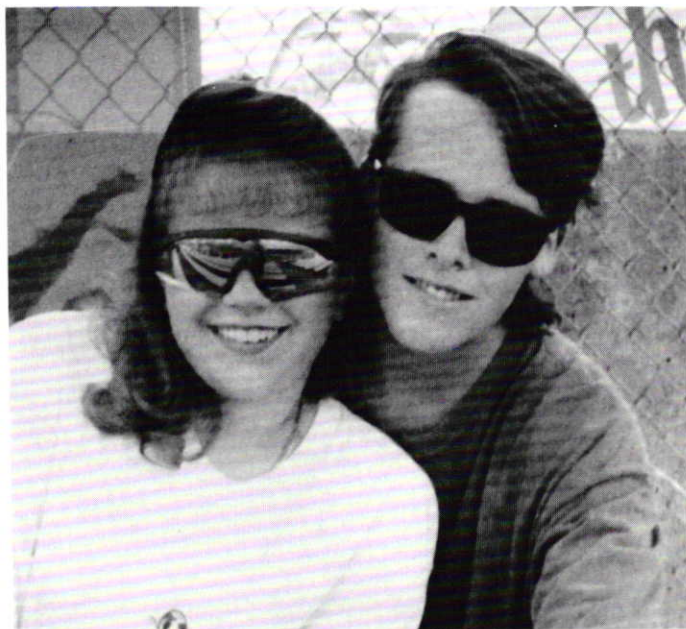

Members of the 1995 marching band walk down the street as they practice for the upcoming football season. The band is directed by junior Derek Thomas, he has been drum major for two years. "I enjoy conducting because I like to teach people new things, the authority is great too," Thomas said.

Using their spare time to watch TV and talk on the phone, juniors Jami Bohr and Kristen McGehee rest in their room after working in Desktop Publishing class at journalism camp. "We loved our teacher, and there was this really conceited guy we spent our time talking to on the phone. You could say we had a lot of fun," McGehee said.

Taking a breather after walking around at the Fair and Rodeo, sophomore Stacy Handshumaker and senior Nate Mason take time out of their conversation to pose for the camera. "I really enjoyed Fair and Rodeo. I liked the rides, but the shows were even better," Handshumaker said. all photos by dan barriger

While riding in the Grand Entry of the Fair and Rodeo, senior Scarlet Hough carries a Wrangler flag around the arena at Walter Johnson Park. Hough has been the Southeast Kansas Queen and the Southeast Kansas reining champion. "I do it for fun, and it is good training for the horses. You do not win very much money, but I like the competition," Hough said.

Seniors Clark Wilson and Monica Swigart await the voyage on the back of a convertible for the coronation before the football game against Labette County. "I was honored and felt it was a privilege to be nominated by my classmates," Wilson said. photo by delores parker

The royal couple for Homecoming 1995 are seniors Audrey Blue-Briggans and Kevin Hendrix. "Being crowned Homecoming queen was an experience that I will never forget. When I was younger and would go to the homecomings, I never dreamed that I would be out there," Blue-Briggans said. "Put it this way, I'm just glad that I have a lot of friends that like me," Hendrix said. photo courtesy of the coffeyville journal

Seniors Brian Fisher, B.J. Newton, Clark Wilson, Kevin Hendrix, and Daryl "Sweet P" Newton were the king candidates for Homecoming 1995. "I hated that I had to run against my best friend because I would be upset if I won and he didn't, and I'd feel the same if he won and I lost," B.J. Newton said. photo by amber smith.

Q How long did it take you to prepare for Homecoming night?

It took about 45 minutes to get ready.
Daryl "Sweet P" Newton, senior

It only took about an hour to shower, get dressed, do my make-up, and my hair.
Monica Swigart, senior

About 45 minutes. Those cuff-links were tricky.
Brian Fisher, senior

It took about 15 minutes.
Lori Grover, senior

Senior Judibeth Parker is escorted by her father on Homecoming night. "We had to be there at 6:30, I started about 5:30 and got finished at 6:15 and made it there on time," said Parker. photo by delores parker

The 1995 Homecoming queen candidates were seniors Audrey Blue-Briggans, Judibeth Parker, Lori Grover, Monica Swigart, and Jenny Lamm. "It was fun, because we have been friends for a long time and we got to go through the experience together," Lamm said. photo by amber smith

brown bagging it for a change designed by ryan thompson

Doing the dew and munching on chips, freshman Kyle Sandon enjoys his lunch in the upstairs gym balcony. "I don't like closed lunches because in elementary school I couldn't wait to get to high school because of them. It is too crowded and when you finally get your food you barely have enough time to eat half of it," Sandon said. all photos by amber smith

Gabbing with friends, freshmen Mardecia Blue Briggans, Laticia DeAnda, and Jill Smith enjoy one another's company during lunch. "My favorite place to eat is in the gym balcony," DeAnda said.

How has closed lunches changed your day?

It's made my day really long and crappy. I do not like being at school so long.

Jennifer Gillman, junior

It seems to make my day longer. There is no time for us to be by ourselves.

Melissa Logan, sophomore

I think that closed lunches are responsible for our falling senior English grades. If we had time to be laid back and kick it with our friends, then we would come back ready to learn.

Noel Worthington, senior

It is okay because I have never had an open lunch.

Eric Wiles, freshman

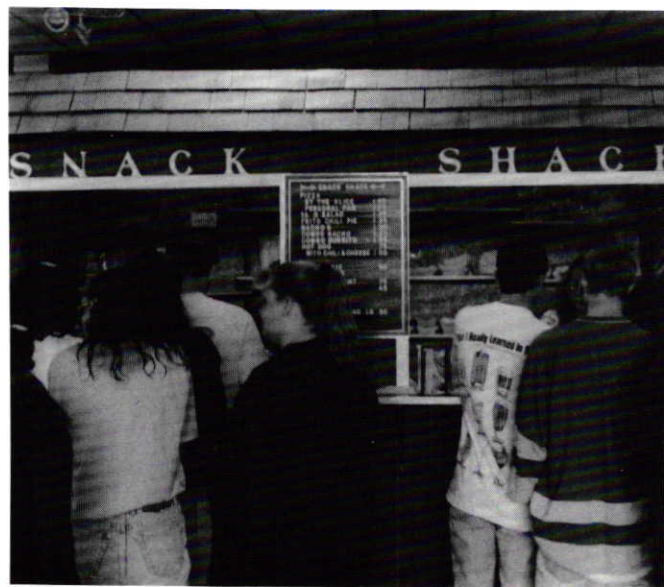

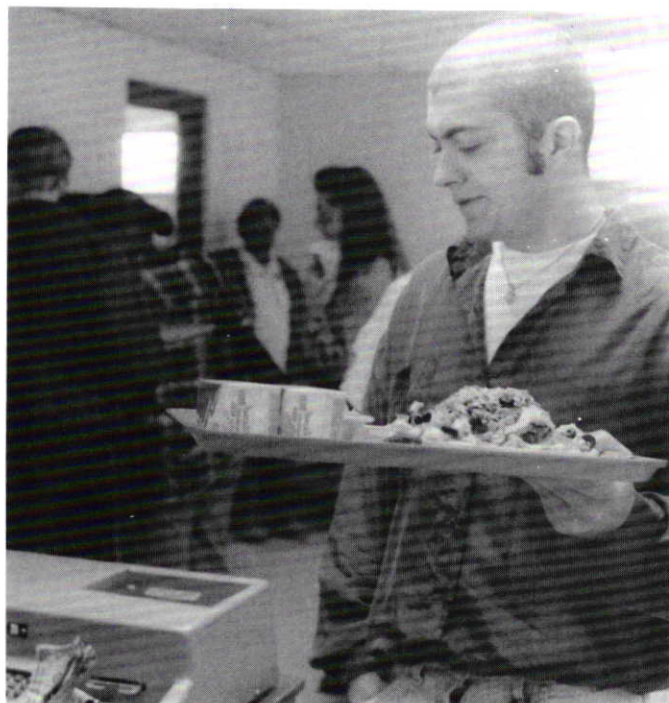

The day seems twice as long since it isn't broken up by open lunches.

Bob Jacobs, junior

After dropping in the last coin, freshman Curly Esaw makes his selection from a pop machine in the commons area. "I hate waiting in line and food isn't very good, that's what I hate about lunch," Esaw said.

During lunch at the food service center, junior Tim Madl pays for his lunch and is ready to eat.

Crowding around the Snack Shack, students wait eagerly in line for their lunch. "After three years of open lunches, standing in big lines for a long time is hard to get used to," senior Melissa Jones said.

At Family Dollar, junior Jeff March puts prices on merchandise. March doesn't get any benefits while working at Family Dollar. "I have a job to pay for car insurance," March said. photo by amber smith

Senior Chris Bookter makes change after taking an order while working the cash register at Taco Bell. Bookter usually closes once or twice a week. "I would like a promotion, but that will never happen," Bookter said. photo by amber smith

As a Wal-Mart checker, senior Anita Buster gives change to a customer. Buster likes her job, but since she's not eighteen there's a lot of things she cannot do. "I spend my checks on long distance phone calls to my boyfriend," Buster said. photo by suzy sheeley.

Q What made you decide to get a job?

I love to spend money and my parents weren't generous enough.

Audrey Blue-Briggins, senior floor supervisor at Family Dollar

I needed money and my parents thought it would be beneficial to my future and make me more responsible.

Brook Balentine, junior waitress at Sirloin Stockade

Originally, I wanted to go to England with Mrs. Staudt. Then I decided I needed a car and college money.

Anita Buster, senior cashier at Wal-Mart

Employed as a sacker at Country Mart, senior Barry Morgan puts groceries in a customer's vehicle. Morgan has worked at Country Mart for six months. "I work 20-25 hours a week," Morgan said. photo by suzy sheeley

While working at Subway, junior Becky Rogers sacks an order for a customer. The one thing that Becky doesn't like about her job is "making the setup for onions." Rogers said. photo by amber smith

EARNING CASH

Raising ostriches in their spare time, the Staudts take a breather to show off their daughters at their farm, Sandy Ridge. "The best part about working with my spouse is that we can make arrangements with each other when one of our kids is sick," Sue Staudt said. all photos by suzy sheeley

Former FKHS graduate, Jim Owen, takes time out of his busy schedule to take a picture with his son Mike Owen. "The worst thing about having my dad here is when people talk about him and I have to whoop 'em," sophomore Mike Owen said.

The Harbaughs, Darrel, Erin, and Jacob, are just one of the many school families at FKHS. The Harbaugh kids are following their father's footsteps as he also graduated from Field Kindley.

SCHOOL RELATIONS

when it's all in the family

designed by jaime lopeman

What is the best or worst part of having a member of your family at FKHS?

The best thing is that I can keep track of her (Stacy).

Linda Handshumaker,
English

The worst thing is that no matter what I do my mom can find out.

Stacy Handshumaker,
sophomore

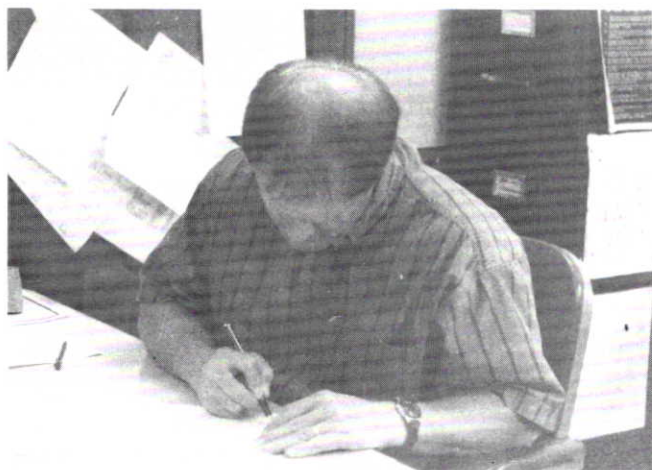

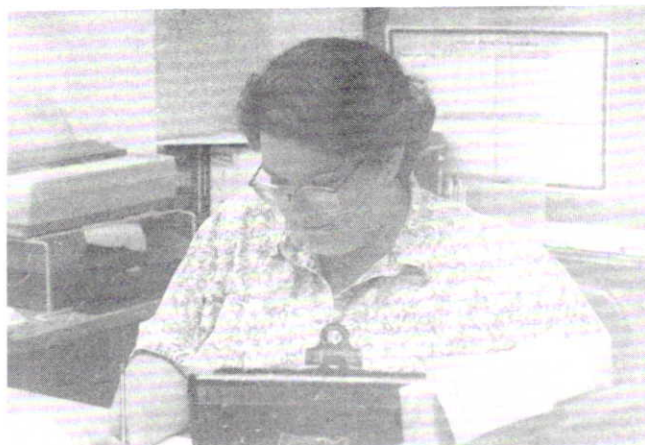

The best part is knowing he's (Brendan) at school.

Larry Murdock,
Accounting

The best thing is I can get money whenever I need it. The worst is when he makes fun of me in class.

Brendan Murdock,
sophomore

Sharon Watts works diligently to get papers graded. "It's nice to have my best friend working with me," Watts said.

Reluctant to have his picture taken, Jim Watts hides his face from the photographer.

Sharing lunch together, teachers Frank and Martha Bobek enjoy the pleasure of each others company.

Candidate Ryan Plute is escorted by her father, Willis Plute, at the homecoming game. "The best thing was making my family proud. It is something I'll always have to remember," Plute said. photo by amber smith

The winter homecoming candidates were Doug Robison, Chris Kneedler, Adam Bauer, Chad Runyon, Brad Shepard, and Adrian Wilson. photo by amber smith

Candidate Brad Shepard and his mother, Babs Shepard, wait for the announcement of king and queen. "To know that my class thinks enough of me to put me up for such an honor is truly special," Shepard said. photo by amber smith

What were you thinking before you walked out on the court?

"All I could think about was, I hope Angie wins so I can dance with her because that would really rock my world!"

Chad Runyon

"I was ready for it all to be over with."

Chris Kneeder

"I was afraid of falling or doing something to embarrass myself."

Mandy Humble

"I was just having a good time being back there with everyone."

OUR TOWN

thespians produce play

designed by stephanie adams

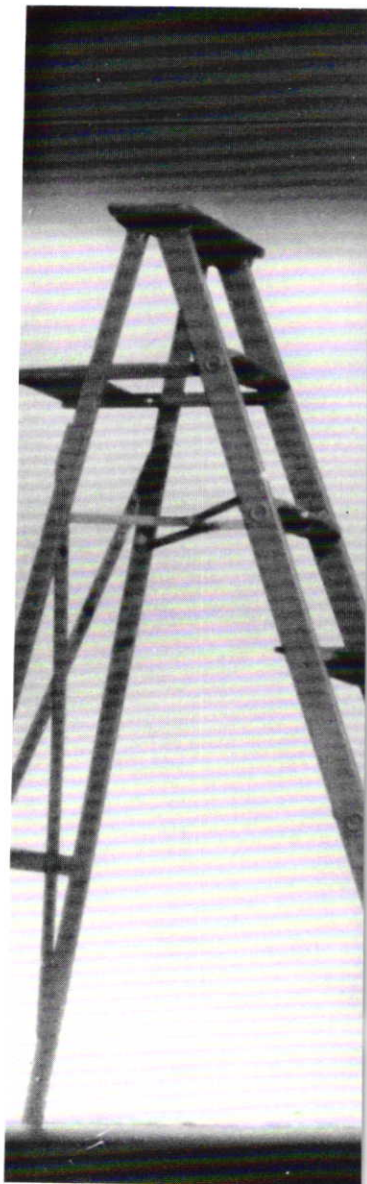

Were you pleased with the outcome of the play?

Yes, because everyone I've talked to said it was great and I feel everyone did fine.
Chuck Edwards,
 sophomore
George Gibbs

I was pleased with the outcome of the play. We all put a lot of work into it, and everyone did such a good job on both nights that it was impossible not to be happy.
Jessica Neely,
 sophomore
Emily Webb

Yes, the students gave a good performance and they can be proud of that. We also had nice size audiences with over 300 people in attendance.
Deann Merry,
 play director

Freshman Missy Malone tries out for a part in the fall play, Our Town. Malone played the part of a dead person.

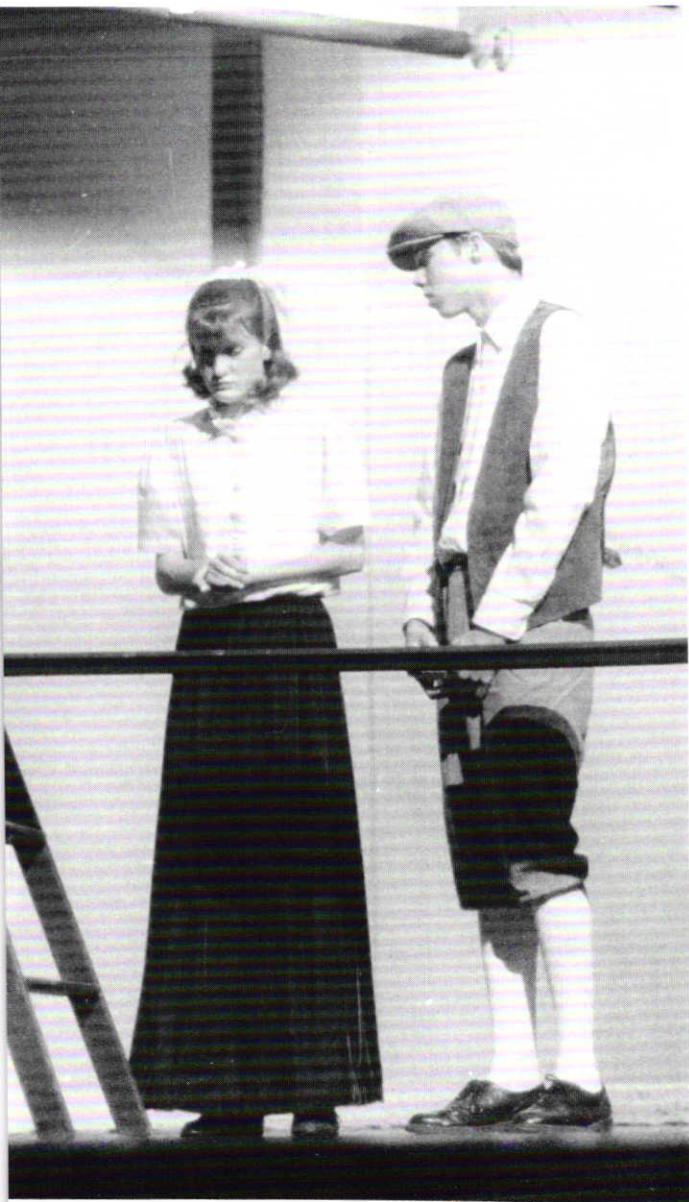

After her death, Emily Webb (Jessica Neely) returns to her past and watches her mother, Mrs. Webb (Erin Harbaugh) start the day in a somber mood.

In the play Our Town, Professor Willard (Sarah Davies) tells the audience about the town as Brook Balentine listens.

Emily Webb (Jessica Neely) and George Gibbs (Chuck Edwards) have a discussion at the soda shop after school. The hardest part for Edwards was the funeral scene. "Because for a long time I couldn't make myself cry. But I finally got the hang of it."

After choir practice, Mrs. Soames (Amanda Cranor) gossips on Main Street with Mrs. Webb (Erin Harbaugh) and Mrs. Gibbs (Jennifer Bumgarner) while Emily Webb (Jessica Neely) studies in the background.

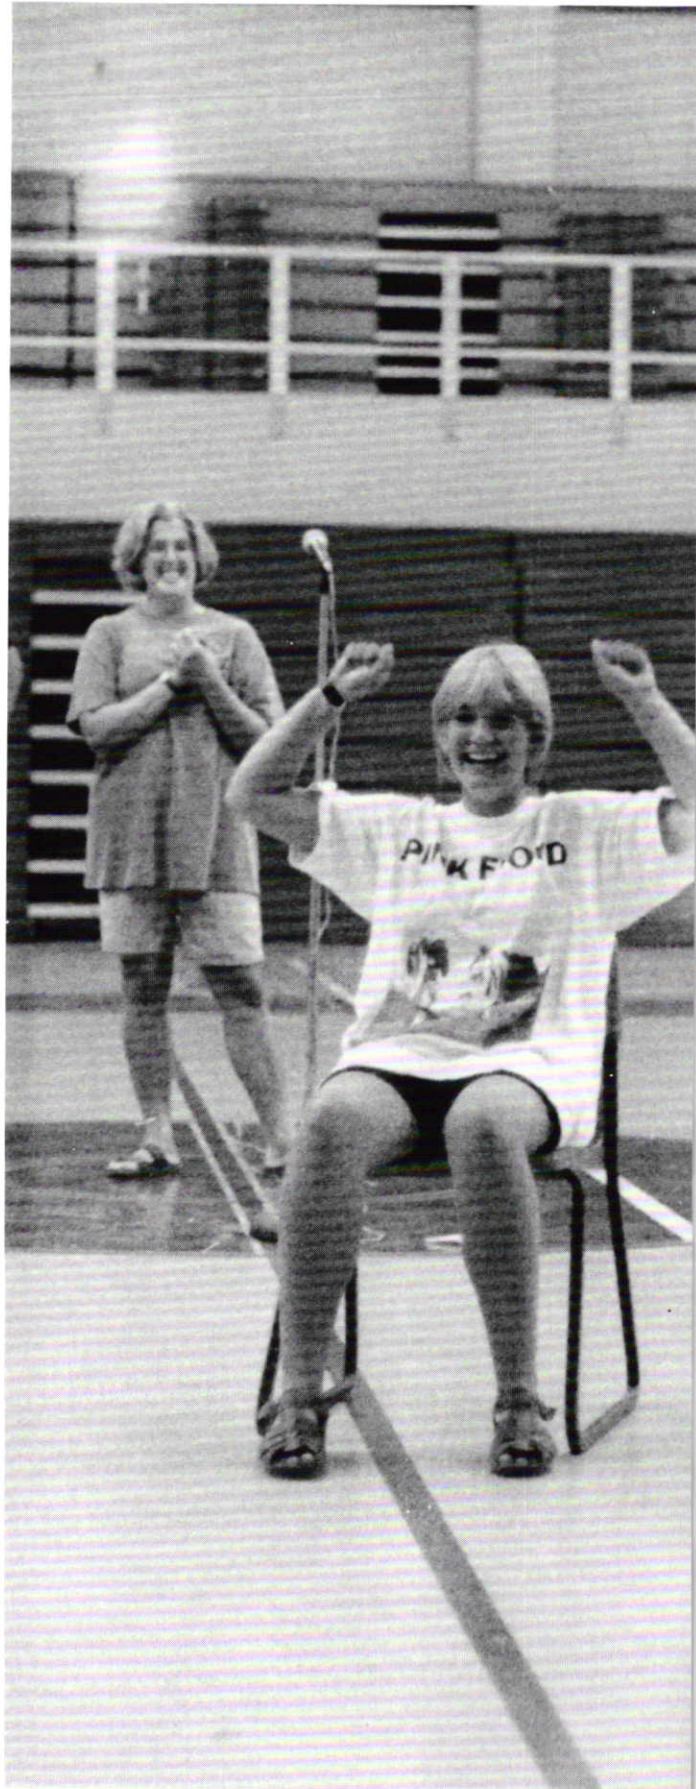

Cast members Kyle Wilson, Zac Morris, Jennifer Bumgarner, Chuck Edwards, Jessica Neely, Erin Harbaugh, Brad Shepard, Mike Bumgarner, Kelly Felts, Amanda North, Leslie Hendrix, Brook Balentine, Charlene Payden, Angela Haynes, Melanie Boren, Patricia Brown, Katie Burrows, Jessica Thompson, and Lindsay Hall pose for a picture after the play.

Doctor Gibbs (Zac Morris) and Mrs. Gibbs (Jennifer Bumgarner) stand outside to watch the moon and to talk. Emily Webb (Jessica Neely) studies in the background.

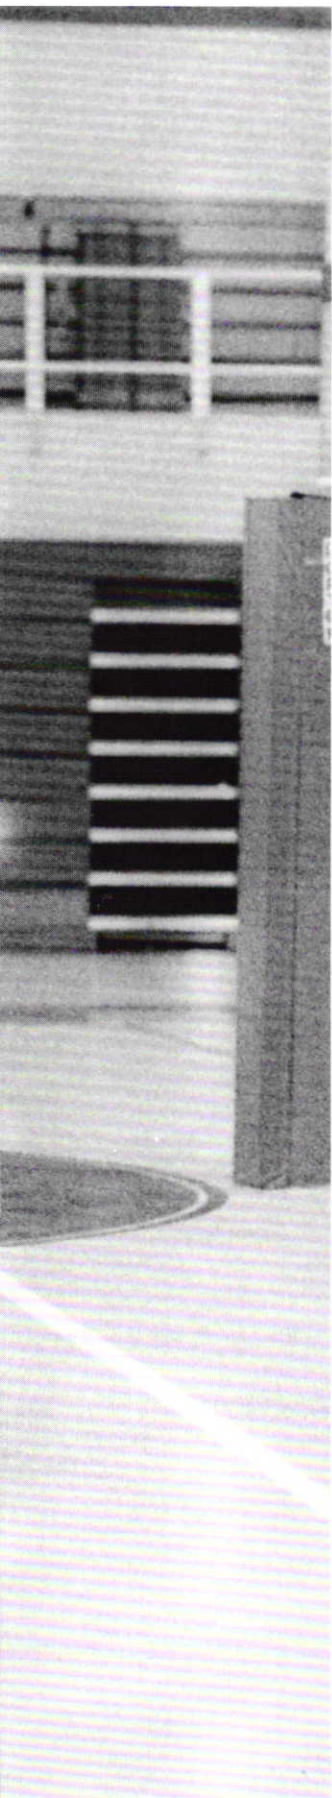

Passing the microphone to hear her response, junior Tony Wood acts as a translator for a foreign country. "The most difficult thing about improvisation is getting started, but once you get started it's easy," Wood said.

During a skit in a pep assembly, sophomore Kim Conrad imitates lifting weights while sitting on the toilet. "It was hard to be serious with everyone watching," Conrad said.

Members of Team Destiny pick junior Sierra Morrison, and freshmen Crystal Marion and Justin Shobe to bounce a ball on their heads during a motivational assembly.

Which assembly was your favorite this year? Why?

"The Talent Show because I got to get out of Spanish class."
Dwayne Shaffer, junior

"The Talent Show because it's funny to watch people embarrass themselves."
Jamie Kosty, sophomore

"The Rubber Chicken Factory because it was the most interesting."
Tara Sanders, freshman

"I liked the Fall Homecoming assembly the best because it had a lot of African-Americans in it."
LaKisha Alston, sophomore

After receiving his boutonniere, senior Adrian Wilson offers a carnation to fellow candidate senior Jana Ross during the Winter Homecoming assembly.

FRIENDSHIPS

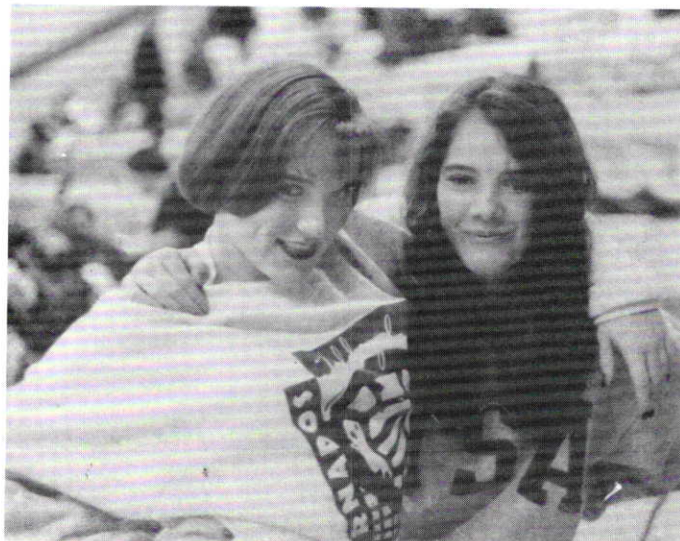

good times and fond memories

designed by megan robinson

At fall homecoming, seniors Jenny Lamm and Judibeth Parker pose for a family picture. "Because we're cousins, Judibeth has been my friend since we were little," said Lamm. photo by suzy sheeley

While discussing their longtime friendship, freshmen Kristin Lanning and Alisha Russell pull each other close in the gym at lunch time. "Alisha and I are such good friends because we have been through a lot together," Lanning said. photo by dan barriger

Who is your best friend?

Clarence Thomas and I started hanging out in the seventh grade. We were talking on the phone last summer and he said I was his best friend. I gave him a ring and he wears it all the time. I don't know what I would do without him, he takes care of me just like a brother.

Monica Todd,
freshman

Stephie (Stephanie) Segura is my best friend because she's a geek and I feel sorry for her. No, just playin'. We just get along and have a real good time when we're together. We don't have many similarities but we always act stupid together. I guess all of our differences are the reasons we're such good friends.

Brandi Halliburton,

When their tennis games get stressful, juniors Tara Downing and Monica Holley are there for each other. "Tara is a great partner to play with and is always there to give support," said Holley. photo by suzy sheeley

Perfection is a must as sophomore Stacy Handshumaker fixes her hair for school. "The most important thing to get ready for is a date with a cute guy," Handshumaker said.

Picking through her closet, sophomore Cindy Clough starts the long process of choosing what to wear. "Getting dressed takes the longest for me in the morning because I can never figure out what to wear," Clough said.

GETTING READY

students preparing for life designed by stephanie leads

What is the most important event in life to get ready for?

"Getting ready to go out into the real world."
Chrissy Van Winkle,
junior

"Waking up, because I never get any sleep and I don't feel like going to school."
Lori Grover,
senior

"Graduation-Nuff said."
Randy Harris,
senior

"The prom."
Jacque Broadway,
junior

"The rest of your life."
DeRhonda Alexander,
sophomore

"Basketball."
Mike Hudson,
freshman

During class, junior Becky Rogers takes time out to adjust her contacts. "The most important thing in life to get ready for is life itself," Rogers said.

Junior Amanda Cranor puts the finishing touch on her hair to look her best for school. "So much to do and so little time to do it in," Cranor said.

Senior Jorge Vinueza, Ecuador, plays the role of Jesus and his disciples in his solo act in DeAnn Merry's theatre class. "I like the people in Coffeyville because they are friendly. I don't like the stop signs, speed limits and drinking age here," Vinueza said.

Keeping in shape away from home, senior Adrianno Palma, Brazil, does some bicep curls in Physical Conditioning class. "My favorite subject is History," Palma said.

Q What are your likes or dislikes about FKHS?

"I like the interesting classes."

Maria Fernanda Falcao,
senior

"We don't have open lunch is my dislike."
Adrianno Maciel de Arruda Palma,
senior

"I like FKHS!!!"
Jivko (Jeff) Jivkov Kouyumoljiev,
senior

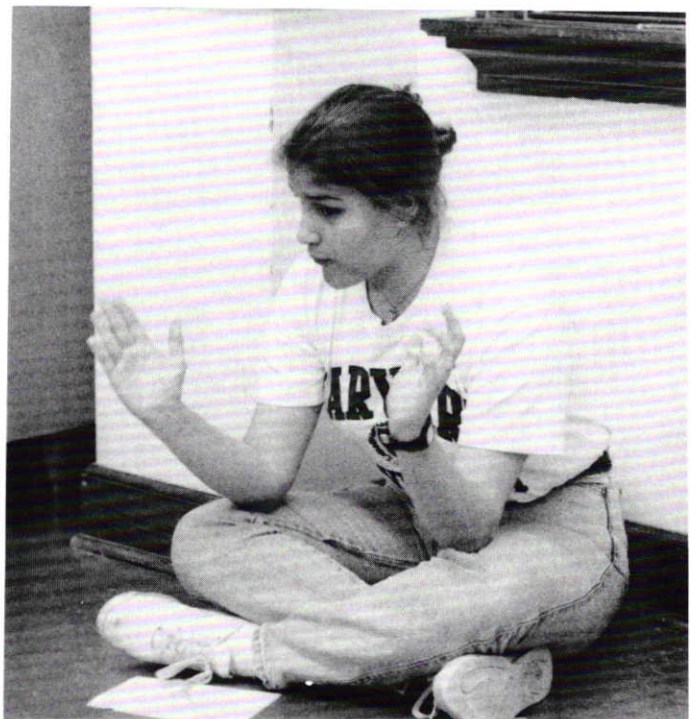

"I like the nice people."
Sonja Verena Herrmann,
junior

"My dislike is that I miss my friends."
Juliana (July) Arantes Figueiredo,
junior

"I like the new friends that I have made."
Bartosz Piotr Niewiadomski,
senior

Junior Sonja Herrmann, Germany, looks up from studying in math class. "My plans when I go back home are to finish school and go to college," Herrmann said. photo by amber smith

Showing off her acting skills senior Maria Vinueza, Ecuador, performs her improvisational solo act in her theatre class. "My dislikes about FKHS are the hour for school to start is too late and we leave very late to go home," Vinueza said. photo by dan barriger

In Theatre class senior Maria "Fernanda" Falcao, Brazil, has a conflict within herself in her solo act. "What I like about Coffeyville, it's a quiet and small city. I don't like that there aren't lots of places to go out," Falcao said. photo by heather barmore

Sophomore Jimmy Dale sings Smoke in Her Eyes to the audience at the 1995-96 Stuco Talent Show. "It was a great feeling of comfort," Dale said. all photos by amber smith

In second place was junior Dan Ashcraft along with the rest of his band, Doug Gambill, Justin Smith, and Chad Nash. They played For Whom the Bell Tolls. "It was cool to get second, but we didn't care if we placed or not," Ashcraft said.

Singing Not Too Far From Here was junior Anna Sullivan. "I heard the song on the television a few days after the Oklahoma City bombing. I really liked the song and felt that it was something that brings us all together when someone is hurting Not Too Far From Here," Sullivan said.

At the 1995-96 Stuco Talent Show, seniors Mike Harp and Mike Conrad perform Stairway to Heaven. "When the crowd responded with applause and joking little comments, I looked up at Mike and smiled," Conrad said.

TALENT

showing what we've got

designed by stephanie adams

Why did you choose to sing/play the song you performed?

"I was very surprised to win first place. This was the piece I was working on for a piano competition. Since I already had it worked up and memorized, I decided to play it."
Kristin Barker, sophomore

"I chose On My Own because I think it's a really pretty song. I first heard it when we went to New York and saw Ces Miserables on Broadway! I was captivated by the song and the message it carries."
Erin Harbaugh, senior

"We chose Love Can Build a Bridge because we knew we had done it before, even though Stacy didn't know we were singing together until after I signed her up!"
Jennifer Myers, freshman

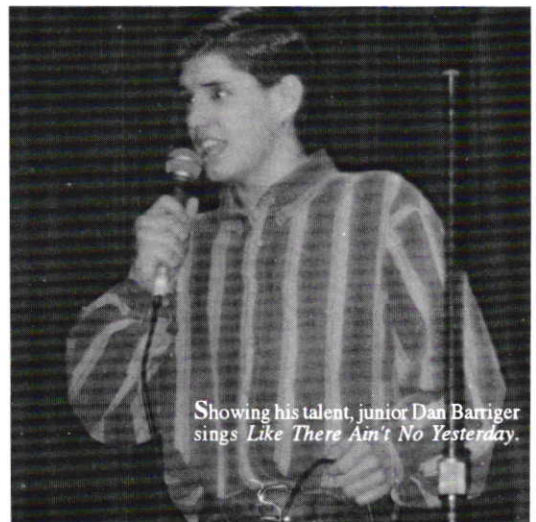

Performing for the last time in the talent show, senior Erin Harbaugh sings On My Own.

Singing her part in a duet, Love Can Build A Bridge, is sophomore Stacy Handshumaker. She and Jennifer Myers placed third in the 1995-96 Stuco Talent Show.

Showing his talent, junior Dan Barriger sings Like There Ain't No Yesterday.

DANCES

Breaking a sweat at the Fall Homecoming dance, senior Randy Harris gets down and boogies. "Loud music, good friends, and a willing partner as half as crazy as I am. I can't think of a better reason to get down," Harris said. photo by amber smith

Amanda Davis and Drue Banzet dance together at the Fall Homecoming dance. "The dances would be better if they were longer," Banzet said. photo by amber smith

What was the best dance that you have been to?

"Snowball was the best because it was formal and everyone went."
Shannon Smith, freshman

"I liked Morp the best because it wasn't formal and you could come even if you don't have a date."
Chuck Edwards, sophomore

"The dance that was the best was Snowball. It was the best because I had fun, lots of people were dancing, and I was there with my boyfriend."
Christi Leewright, junior

"I had a lot of fun at the Morp dance because a lot of people were there and we just had fun."
Melinda Wulf, senior

Sophomore Staci Temple busts a move at the annual Morp dance that is held in the fall. "I go to FKHS dances because they are fun and I like to dance," Temple said. photo by amber smith

Winter Homecoming King, Chad Runyon and Queen, Angie Howell share the spotlight for their royal dance. "I was still overwhelmed with excitement from winning King, that I felt like I was floating as we danced," Runyon said. photo by amber smith

designed by teri hargis

Walking for exercise, senior cheerleaders Heather Henderson and Melinda Wulf and sophomore cheerleader Jeannie Byrne walk after school to keep in shape. photo by dan barriger

Before exercising takes place, there needs to be a short jog to get warmed up then one needs to stretch. Junior Desmond Andrews stretches before a basketball practice to help ensure no torn or pulled muscles. photo by dan barriger

Q What got you interested in exercising?

"I believe I got myself interested in exercise. I figured it would keep me in good shape and help take some of the stress away."
Sara Lunt, junior

"I'm not interested in exercising. I just have to so I can be successful at the stuff I'm interested in."
Desmond Andrews, junior

"I learned at a very young age that exercise is very important for the body. I have been involved in coaching for a long time now and have kept up with exercising trends."
Dan Wall, teacher and coach

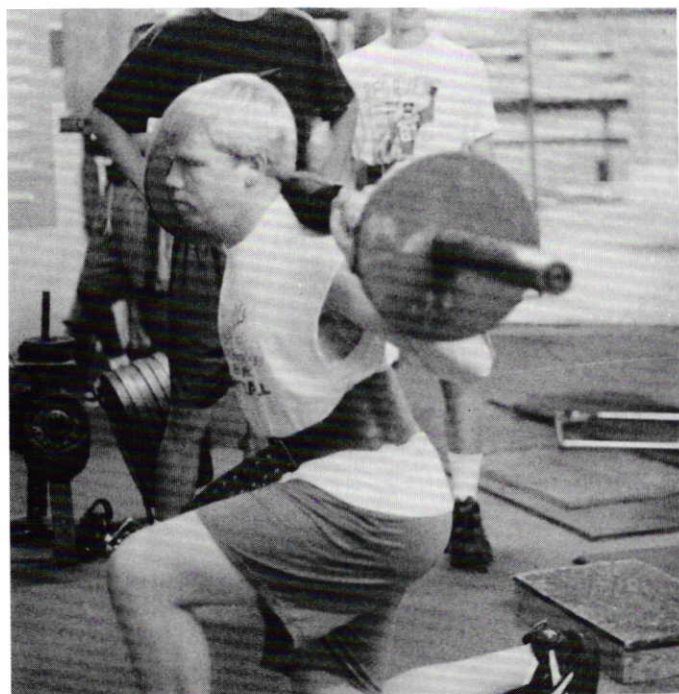

"I have always been interested in exercise. I play tennis, softball, and am on the dance team."
Jenny Hendrix, junior

In gym class, senior Chris Booker plays basketball with sophomore Jason Green. Basketball involves a lot of running which is also a good source of exercise. photo by dan barriger

PAST TIMES

free time with friends

designed by stephanie leeds

Being good friends takes up most of sophomores Jessica Neely's and Lindsay Hall's spare time, while hanging out after choir class. "I hang out with my friends when I just want to relax," Neely said.

Q How do you spend your spare time?

"I spend my spare time playing softball, working or doing other outside activities."

Holly Johnson,
freshman

"I like watching T.V., listening to my radio and hanging out with a few close friends."

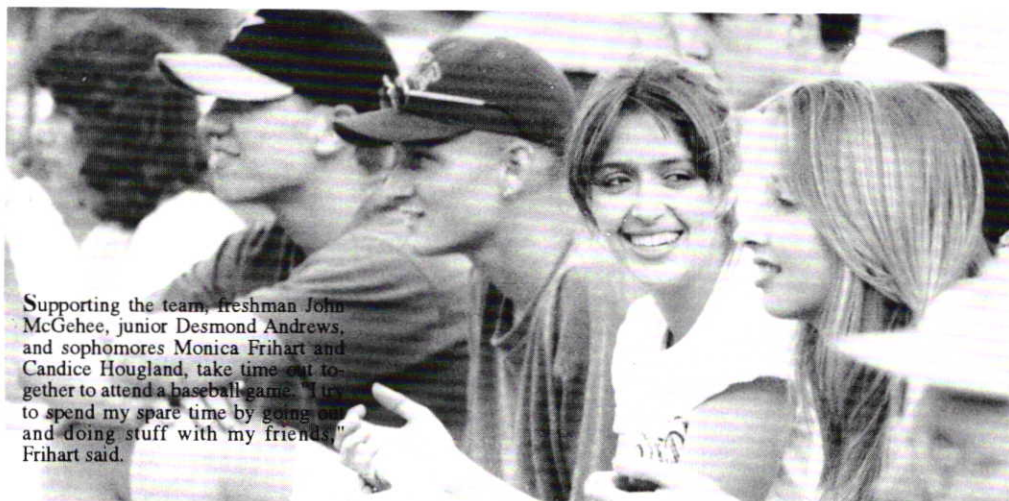

Tera Lanning,
senior

"I normally ride my bike, but if I can't I stay at home and watch T.V., play on the computer or go to my girlfriend's house."

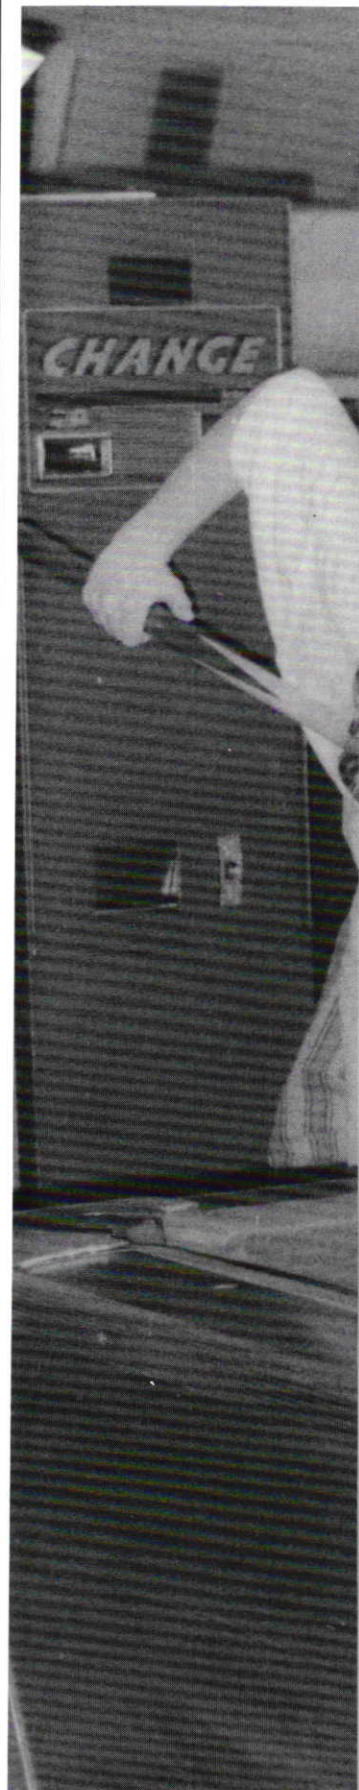

Jeremy Hoover,
sophomore

"I watch T.V., play basketball, eat and sleep."

Mike Reese,
freshman

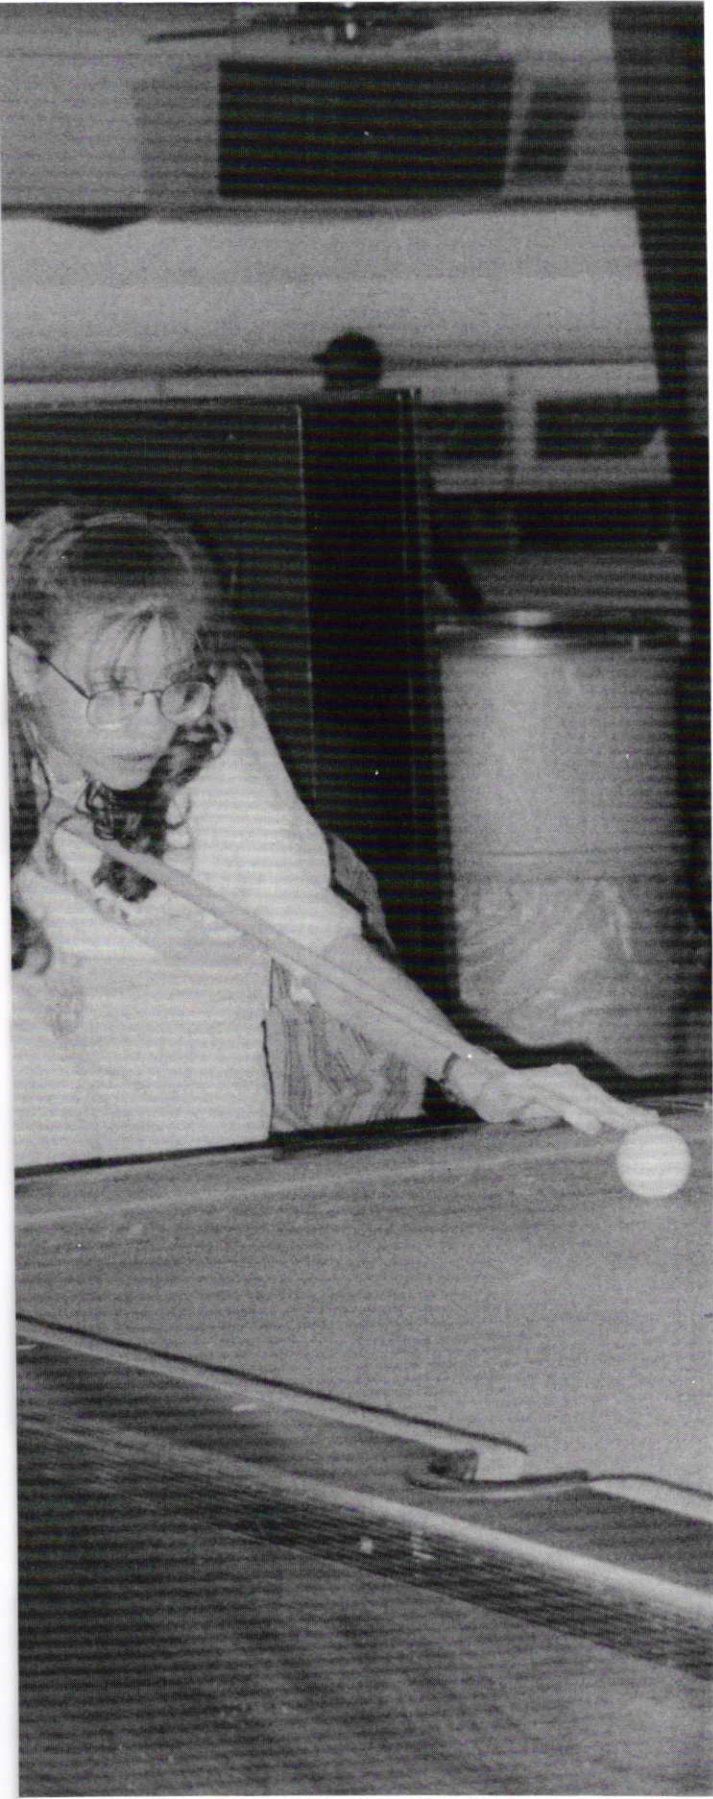

Supporting the team, freshman John McGehee, junior Desmond Andrews, and sophomores Monica Frihart and Candice Hougland, take time out together to attend a baseball game. "I try to spend my spare time by going out and doing stuff with my friends," Frihart said.

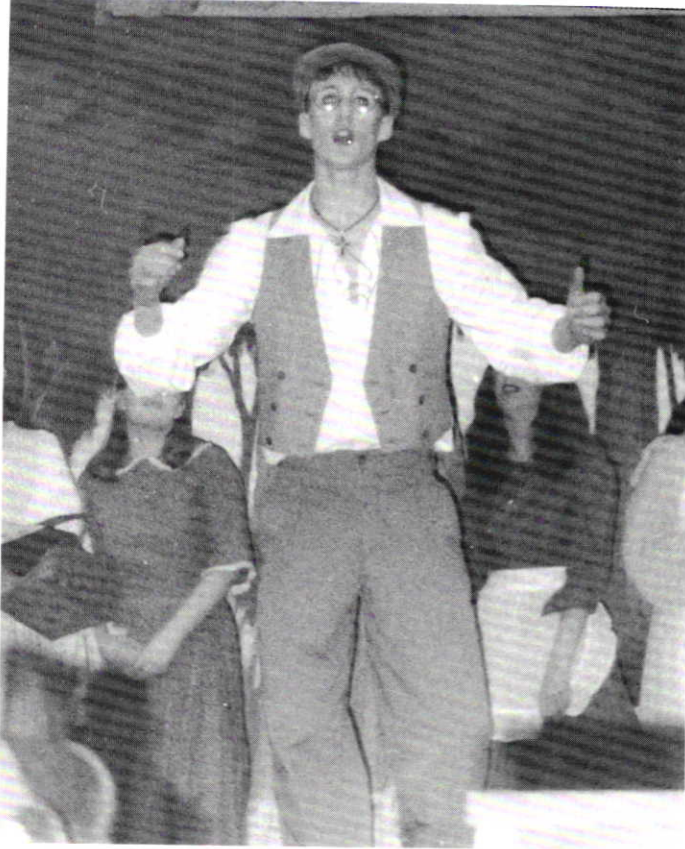

Enjoying the music, freshman Eric Riley listens to his CD player to pass the time. Many students spend their free time listening to music or watching television. photo by dan barringer

Focusing on the game, sophomore April Hurley plays pool at the bowling alley. "I usually sleep when I get home from school," Hurley said. photo by amber smith

Sophomore Cameron Brinker sings a song titled Go Home with Bonnie Jean. "I loved the song. The lyrics reminded me of me. It was hyper and funny. The outfit was really cool," Brinker said. all photos by amber smith

While grasping hands, sophomore Leslie Hendrix and junior Clint McCurry sing Heather on the Hill to one another. "This song was one of our better ones because we had to practice it so much for the grade schools," Hendrix said.

Gathering around a cart, juniors Zac Morris and Dan Barriger and sophomore Ryan Brumbaugh sing Machonachy Square. "It was a lot of fun working with everybody. We all worked hard and I think it turned out very well," Brumbaugh said.

Showing emotion as she sings, Amanda Davis performs The Real Love of My Life. "The musical was fun and I can't wait for the musical next year," Davis said.

What did you enjoy most about performing in Brigadoon?

"The audience reactions. Those people are like clay waiting to be molded. You can make them laugh, cry, love, or hate. It's kind of a power trip."

Randy Harris,
senior

"I enjoyed meeting people I never really knew."

Tim Madl,
junior

"I enjoyed all the stuff I did, but I have to say I enjoyed singing the most."

Cameron Brinker,
sophomore

Junior Ronnie Kitterman checks to make sure the lift is positioned properly under the car before lift off. "I love auto mechanics it gives me experience and it's fun," Kitterman said.

What is the best and worst thing about your car?

I love not having to depend on my parents for a ride everywhere, but whenever I go somewhere in my car, I always seem to end up at school!

Jennifer Bumgarner,
junior

The best thing about my car is that it was cheap, it runs, and I love it! The worst thing about my car is that it could use a lot of new things and there's some work that needs to be done on it.

Kim Conrad,
sophomore

The best is it's fun in the summer with the top down. The worst is there's not enough room in it for all my friends.

Jenny Hendrix, junior

The best thing is it gets me where I need to go. There is nothing really bad about my car.

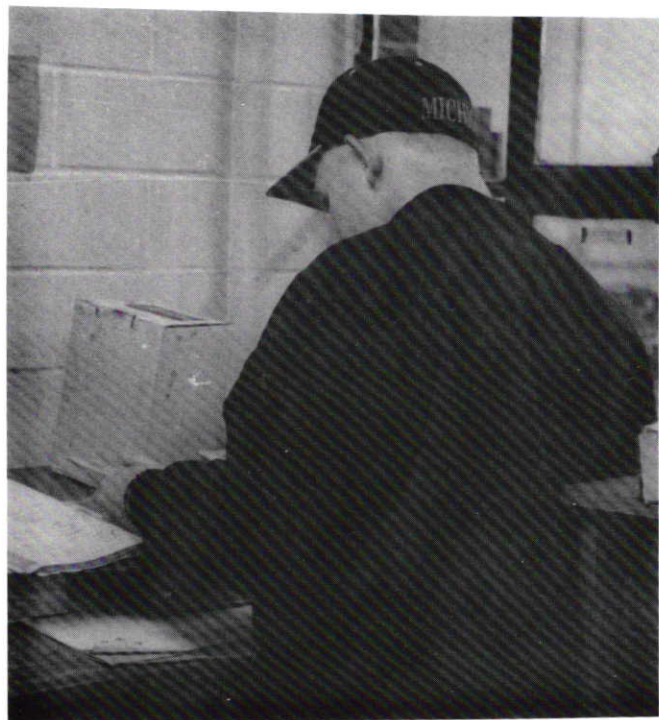

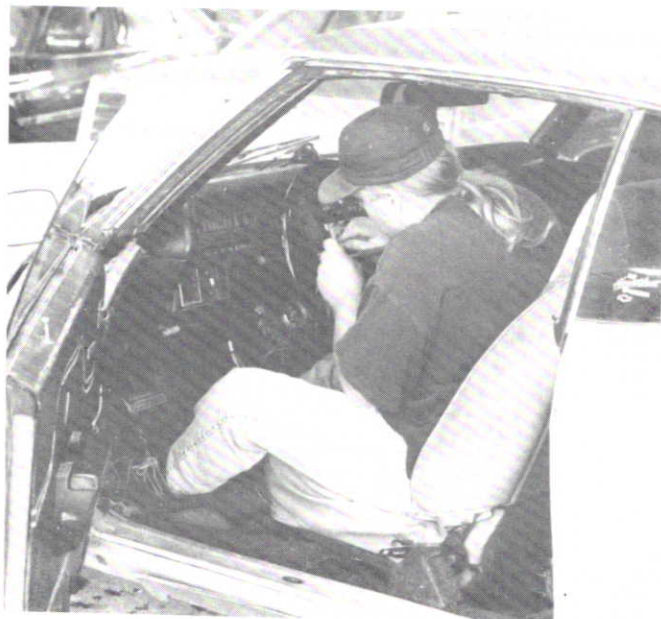

Holly Johnson,
freshman

Under the hood of a '66 Mustang seniors, Jason Romines and Andy Gagnon make repairs. "I like my car because it's quick and has a nice motor," Romines said.

Having his '72 Chevelle for only two months, senior Jim Moore works on it in auto mechanics class. "Everything gives me the most trouble with it," Moore said.

To help him figure out the problem junior Marty Meek reads a diagram showing repairs. "I like getting the chance to work on cars," Meek said.

Helping to clean up, Deane Zeigler picks up pop cans in the gym balcony. "I consider this task to be my help toward the environment. It's no hassle and I can save them up and cash them in," Zeigler said.

Juniors Tara Downing and Ryan White join the crowd as everyone gathers for pizza and hot dogs. "I love having the picnic every year for Earth Week. I really dug the shirts this year too," White said.

Do you feel that Environment Week should be made a bigger event? How?

"I feel it should be talked about in the community. Everyone could car pool or even walk to school."
Melodie McDaniel, junior

"Environment week is important and should be more involved. The school could go on nature walks and pick up trash around town."
Linda Handshumaker, teacher

"The school should get recycling bins and keep them out year round."
Desmond Andrews, junior

"It should be because I didn't even know what to do on the days of Environment Week. During the week I picked up all my friends and took them to school."

You go to school five days a week, 38 weeks a year, 13 years of your life. You are there for academics, but sometimes it appears to be forgotten. As you go to class and learn English, math, science, and social studies, sports and other activities crowd your mind. The fact is, you are there to learn. However, academics seem to be taken for granted. In the storm of the real world, what you learn can be vital to your life. Whether or not you think so, all of the hard work in your academic career builds character. As the storm builds throughout your life, you will continue to grow in academics.

How do you feel our academic program at FKHS prepares you for the future and your career?

I think that the academic program at FKHS is a good one. It has prepared me for college, and whatever else is ahead. There could be a few improvements made. More challenging classes could be added, but all in all it is a decent program.
Lisa Waddell, senior

I think the program does a good job of preparing you for your career with the courses offered.
Michael Bumgarner, freshman

I think our academic program helps you prepare for the world. If we had more time in our classes and more available electives, we might be able to take classes that we would need for college.

OPPORTUNITIES...

"I saw PPCE as a way to explore my opportunities before I spent my life savings to study a field that I may not like."

-Erin Harbaugh

EXPERIENCE...

"I got involved in PPCE because I wanted to observe and experience what a chiropractor does. I also wanted to see if I would enjoy being a Dr. of Chiropractics."

-Kerry Mersberg

ENJOYMENT...

"PPCE is fun, and it helps you decide on a career to follow."

-Jana Ross

OBSERVATION...

"I am really not sure what I plan to do in the future, but after observing surgeries at the hospital, it sort of makes me want to get in some sort of medicine."

-Clark Wilson

CHOICES...

"I chose this career because I like math. I also chose it because actuaries make a lot of money."

-Carissa Kendrick

SERIOUSLY...

"If you are serious about becoming somebody and doing what you want in life, this is one step further to that goal."

-Judibeth Parker

From new coaches to state championships, sports teams at FKHS experienced changes, victories and defeat. Being a member of a sports team is an honor and privilege at Field Kindley. Some people are naturally smart, but others use their talent and love for a sport to take them somewhere in the future. The Golden Tornado is a symbol that many other teams fear. To be a part of a team builds family, teamwork, leadership, confidence, grace, and can bring much glory. The only warning given is that to be an athlete the person must represent FKHS in a manner that is proper and honorable. The bottom line is that athletes respect athletes and just because we give them a tornado warning doesn't mean we have to win or lose dishonorably in the game of sports.

Road Trips...

The best thing is probably arguing over who's going to tell coach to, or who's brave enough to change the radio ourselves from 106.1 to something 'newer'."

Sara Lunt, junior

Favorites...

"The best thing about tennis is practice and the road trips."

Tara Downing, junior

Backhand...

"I like playing the net, but I dislike the sun and my backhand."

Leslie Hendrix, sophomore

Improvement...

"I need to improve on my serves and volleys for next season."

Alice Lo, freshman

Anticipation...

"I didn't have a very good season, but we played better than our record shows. We improved a lot by the end and hopefully next year I'll do a lot better."

Melissa Baldwin, junior

Playing the net at practice, sophomore Kelly Halliburton volleys the ball to her opponent. Halliburton played for the JV team this season. "I play tennis because I enjoy the competition and I love the sport," Halliburton said.

Coaching...

"I coach track, so this helps benefit the track program. I also run in road races so this sport is of some interest to me."

Rodney Schwab, coach

Respect...

"Cross country builds up your endurance and stamina and gives you respect for running."

Ryan Thompson, junior

Running...

"I wanted to get in shape for basketball, and decided that I would run in all the meets."

Jimmy Littleford, sophomore

Football

designed by tara downing

The Nado football team took the field this year with a new coaching staff, a new attitude towards the game, and a new sense of team unity. This helped them to improve game by game both offensively and defensively. Although the team lost games throughout the season their biggest loss was injuries to some starting players, which left them to finish the season with the younger, less experienced players.

Team finds success in play overall

Overall....

"The season wasn't a total success. We made great improvement, but we had a few injuries at key points and had a rough time finding people to fill them."

Josh Mecom, junior

Most Memorable....

"The whole aspect of playing football was memorable from watching the game film on Monday, to listening to the plays in the huddle on Friday. High School football is something I will always remember."

Clark Wilson, senior

Friday Night Lights....

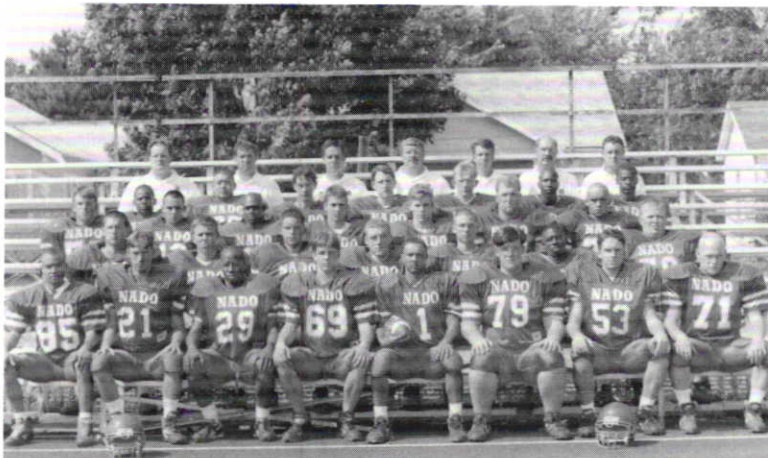

"The feeling you get Friday night under the lights. There's nothing like it in the world."

Noel Worthington, senior

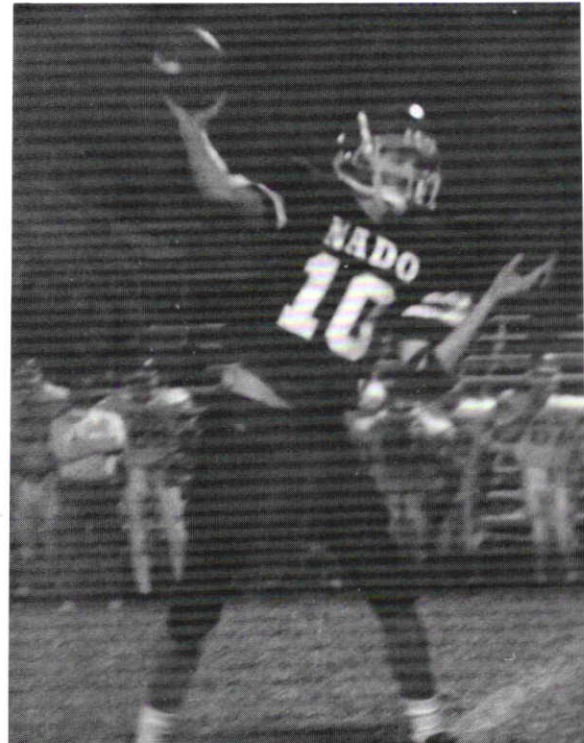

Improvement....

"We started off the season with a new coaching staff and a new game plan. I believe we made improvements each game as the season went along, both offensively and defensively. Also, our team unity was 100% improved from last year."

The 23rd Annual Harold Thomas Interstate Classic experienced many new changes. The Classic was re-scheduled due to the bad weather conditions, making it only a two day tournament. The games were preset with only six teams playing. In addition, the name of the tournament founder was added to the Classic title. Also, the winning trophies were given in honor of Coach Charles Bloomcamp. The victory team was the Leavenworth Pioneers while the Nado took fourth.

Performance...

"I think we played very well in the Interstate Classic. We beat Bartlesville in the first round in an excellent game for us and then we lost a heartbreaker to Springfield Hillcrest by two points. We then played a very good Leavenworth team and played very well losing 68-60."

Dan Wall, coach

Being selected...

"Being selected as a member of the All Tournament Team was a great feeling. I've worked hard, and it was of one my many goals I set this year. I know I couldn't have done it without the others."

New Changes...

"I believe that the new changes in the tournament were not successful, because they should have had more teams and kept them in brackets."

"I enjoyed watching everybody swim great. Another thing I enjoyed was watching the real talented swimmers do amazing things in the water."

Kevan Haggerty, senior

Tradition...

"We shave our heads because less hair means less resistance, and less resistance means faster times."

Spencer Gillis, junior

"Most of the significance of shaving your head is it gives you a good state of mind. It's real fun and it does help you get into the right mind set."

Kevan Haggerty, senior

Fun...

"I wouldn't say that I enjoyed shaving my legs and arms, but it felt pretty cool in the water."

Jonathon Niedenthal, sophomore

"I enjoyed stripping to a speedo and sliding across the shower floor with my teammates."

The wrestling team had a good season this year. Five team members traveled to Wichita for the state competition. Jason Hoover won the 5A state title at 135 lbs. Hoover wasn't the only wrestler to do well at state this year; Matt Schmidt placed fifth at 160 lbs. and Ryan Whittington placed sixth at 103 lbs.

Most Difficult...

"The most difficult thing about softball practice was the wind. There were a lot of days that the wind would throw off our catches and throws. We would really have to work on our judgement of it."

The organizations of Field Kindley help keep students active throughout the year. Outside of sports and academics, students participate in many clubs and activities. While clubs meet just once a month, students do make time to meet outside of school to continue what can't be finished in a 20 minute activity period. Every organization member keeps his eye out for new ideas and for each other. Some of the clubs have fundraisers to help pay for the club's activities. The diversity of the organizations here gives everyone a chance to be involved in an activity. In the storm of activity, students still find the time to make FKHS number one. That's why in organizations we are the eye of the storm.

What do you enjoy most about the clubs of Field Kindley?

"I enjoy FFA because it teaches you responsibility and it is fun to work with animals."

CLUBS GIVE MEMBERS A CHANCE TO LEARN ABOUT Culture

by april hawkins

Created to bring awareness and fun to FKHS, cultural clubs provide an education along with entertainment. The Spanish Club sponsored a food picnic for members. The French/German Club had a cheese tasting party. To help them learn more about their heritage, members of the Native American Club took many trips to see workshops and Indian rituals. Cultures experienced by students give them an insight they might never have had.

"I joined Spanish Club because it sounded like fun, and all of my friends were in it."

Kim Schmid, sophomore

"Being in a foreign language club gives you the advantage to learn more about other cultures."

With Honors

designed by kelly halliburton

Each year the National Honor Society and the Scholar Bowl select new members to participate in activities that help honor the school. The National Honor Society chose 36 new members with the Scholar Bowl adding five new members.

"The best thing about Scholar Bowl is the fun and fellowship we have while practicing. I don't always know the answers, but I learn a lot from my mistakes."

Marcy Mitchell, sophomore

"I think it's important to be in NHS because it's an organization that helps others and better prepares students for college. Also, it looks good on applications."

Kristin Halliburton, senior

"A few years ago, Coffeyville was THE Scholar Bowl. With Scott Steiger here, we struck fear into the hearts of our opponents. Living up to and restoring that legacy is an important reason to join."

Nathan Trisler, sophomore

"There is quite a bit of preparation. It is like any other sporting event because you have to prepare for it. We always ask a lot of questions."

Jessica Neely, sophomore

"National Honor Society gives you a sense of responsibility and superiority."

Mike Harp, senior

"We do community projects such as Meals-on-Wheels. My personal service project was speaking to grade schools students as part of the DARE program."

Brian Fisher, senior

During the Induction Ceremony for NHS, juniors Lindsay Pfister and April Powell receive their candles. "I think it's great to be in NHS and to be recognized as an honor student," Powell said.

Trips

designed by leigh quigley

Through the year, various groups, clubs, and sports teams take trips. Outside of travel, trips can provide both education and enjoyment for students.

"I enjoyed getting out of school, getting to go to Hollywood, and, performing in the Christmas parade."

Tara Downing, junior

"The most memorable thing that ever happened on a trip was, riding the skycoaster and meeting a guy named Buddy from Indiana."

Tina Main, sophomore

"The most enjoyable thing about my trip was all the fun and beating up on the guys."

Lori Reister, sophomore

"The most embarrassing thing that happened was when Allison and I were 15 minutes late because we left the school to go get ice cream. We had to run when we got back."

Carey Sortore, freshman

"I enjoyed getting outta school."

Sierra Morrison, junior

"What I enjoyed most about school trips is the fact that I didn't have to sit through boring classes and was able to get out of school."

Dan Ashcraft, junior

"After math contest, we stopped at a gas station outside Pittsburg. We all got back on the bus and it wouldn't start, after trying like 10 times, the bus finally started."

Christi Leewright, junior

STUDENTS WORK TO EARN MONEY BY

Fundraising

designed by tara downing

During the school year, many groups participated in fundraising. The French-German Club and the Spanish Club did fundraisers to make money to go to Worlds Of Fun in the spring. Club Brit raised money for their trip to England in the summer of 1996. Prom Committee did many fundraisers to make money for Prom. The cheerleaders and the Golden Gales participated in fundraising to go to camp. The band had fundraisers to go to Florida.

"Fundraisers are better when done by the group because promotion is much easier that way."

Tony Wood, junior

"Fundraisers are best when done by the group because there is strength in numbers."

Peri Hartzell, teacher

"Prom Committee's best fundraisers were the holiday items and T-shirt sales."

Monica Holley, junior

"The best fundraisers are things that kids will want to buy and is aimed towards the students."

Bob Jacobs, junior

"I thought selling ads was the most successful fundraiser for Prom Committee."

Christi Leewright, junior

"Fundraisers have been very successful for most people so far, but I haven't really made much money because I've been busy with basketball and chemistry."

Jennifer Gillman, junior

"The fundraisers for Prom Committee weren't very successful because they didn't raise as much money as I had hoped they would."

Amber Seese, junior

To see if he is interested, senior B.J. Newton looks at a fundraising brochure from one of the Spanish Club members. Students going to Mexico raised money by selling many holiday items.

IT'S ALL ABOUT COMPETITION, LEADERSHIP, AND FUN

designed by jaime lopeman

The year started well for the F.F.A. Four members traveled to Denver for nationals and came back with first place overall. Members traveled to different towns for competitions in meats, livestock judging, horse, dairy, antamology and horticulture. The group held a work auction where students were sold for eight hours of work. It raised $900 for the group's camps and projects. They ended the year with the annual F.F.A. banquet on April 30 with 220 people attending. Many awards were given, people were recognized for their accomplishments, and new officers were chosen.

"My favorite thing about being an officer was being able to help in the chapter. The worst was giving up my office."

Troy Main, junior, chapter president

"Ag. is the best class I have ever taken. I have learned more in this class than any other. It is fun too!"

Corey Hunt, sophomore

"Ag. is the best class this school offers."

Brandie White, sophomore

"The teacher is really great and I love all the people in it."

Jesse Sitsler, freshman

"I would like to say thank you for everything you've done for us kids, Mr. Messner. What other teacher would spend his Friday night playing surrogate mother to 12 baby pigs? We couldn't have done it without you. We love ya, Mess."

Mary Penick, junior & members of the Coffeyville F.F.A. Chapter

"I didn't know what to think about the class at first, but it turned out to be a great experience."

GROUPS WORK FOR COMMON GOALS

All Together

by jami bohr

Field Kindley's many clubs give students the chance to express their personalities and strive for common goals. Whether it be visiting art museums, attending a theatre workshop or giving incoming freshmen tours of the school, students learn from each other and from others. Clubs meet one day a month during activity period. This is not enough for all clubs so many have meetings during lunch and after school. Two new clubs were started at Field Kindley this year. The Drama Club began to allow members gain more knowledge about their talent in the theatre. Students attended theatre workshops and actual performances. The club is planning a trip to New York in the summer of 1997. Natural Helpers was also started this year. Members were chosen by their peers. Group activities included Natural Helpers training, new student orientation and tours for next year's freshman class. These clubs as well as others in the school allow students a chance to belong to a group and show their individuality.

"I belong to FCA (Fellowship of Christian Athletes) so I can go in at lunch and talk to Coach Wall."

Max Ruark, sophomore

"My favorite club activity would be doing either the school plays and musicals because I can be myself, weird and nobody would know any different."

Jennifer Myers, freshman

"I belong to clubs because it is fun to be in different activities."

Kelly Young, junior

"Clubs are fun. You get to go on trips and have fun with your friends. It's good to be involved in everything you can. I liked going with the French/German Club to World of Fun. It was foreign language day and people were talking in all different languages. It was awesome."

Lindsay Hall, sophomore

"I belong to the Spanish Club because I am going to Mexico this summer. Spanish meetings are fun because we get free donuts during the meeting."

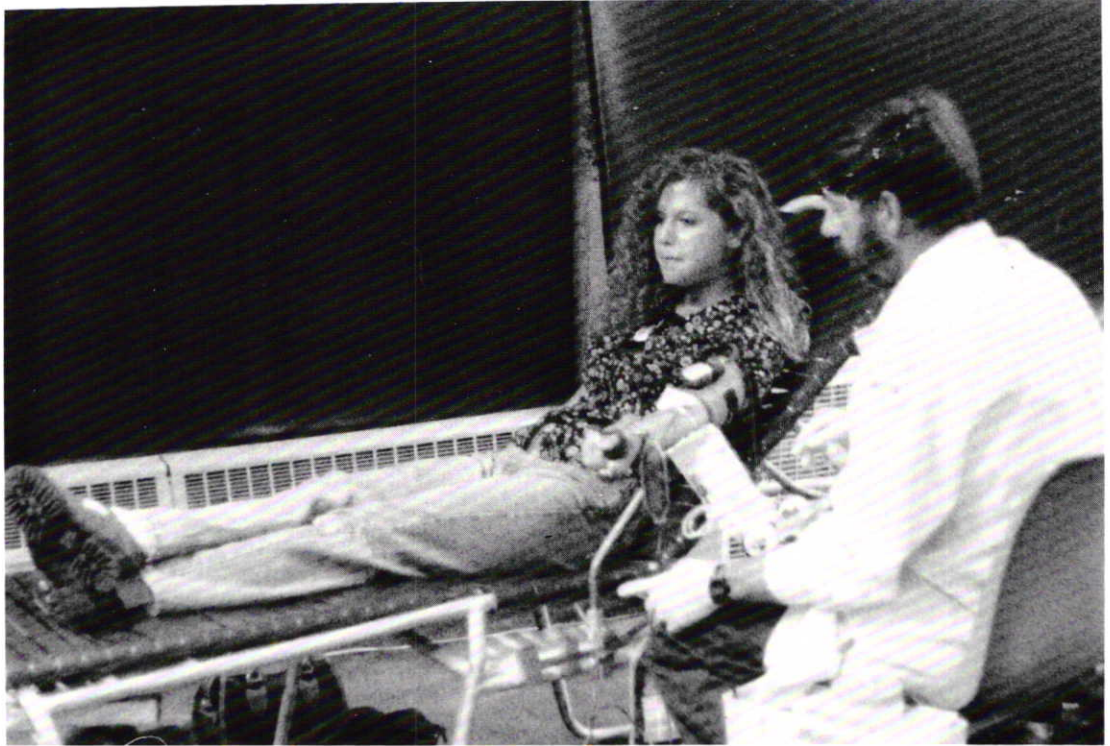

Thomas Slavin, sophomore

Student Council

designed by heather schuetz

During the 1995-1996 school year, Field Kindley's own Student Council was involved in a variety of activities. These activities included the Morp and Homecoming dances, hall decorating, a bonfire, spirit weeks, the Halloween Carnival, donut breaks, Turkey Days, Teacher's Luncheon, pep assemblies, the Talent Show, Grim Reaper Day, Blood Mobile and Environment Week.

"The best thing about Stuco is that we're helping to get the rest of the school involved in other activities, and it makes the school more fun to attend. We do a lot of activities that help the students have fun."

Brian Fisher, co-president

"Stuco helps benefit the school by promoting positive relationships between students, faculty, administration and the community. Stuco helps keep students informed about national events like Environment Week and Grim Reaper Day (Alcohol Awareness). It provides a voice for students to be heard by those who make decisions concerning their education and activities."

DeAnn Merry, co-sponsor

"Stuco is a benefit to our school, because we represent the student body and organize many activities. Stuco helps prepare me for the future, because there is a lot of responsibility and cooperation."

Alice Lo, freshman

"I think that the best thing about Stuco is the great activities we do. Stuco helps our school to be recognized in the community."

Monica Holley, junior

"Being in Stuco helps make you be a better leader and gives some responsibility."

STAFF MEMBERS LEARN RESPONSIBILITY WHILE ON Publications

designed by heather schuetz

This year the yearbook's staff members worked on a theme which describes our school mascot. This year the Twister's theme is When the Storm Blows Over. The newspaper staff worked diligently to produce 17 issues of action-packed news for the student body to read. At the regional contest this year, six journalists placed with two placing at the state competition. The deadlines and the stress of both staffs taught the members responsibility and time management.

"I wanted to be on the yearbook staff, because I have always wanted to be a teacher but since I started on staff, I have wanted to possibly write and design for a magazine. However, I could just become a journalism teacher and combine the two."

Jami Bohr,
yearbook co-editor

"The best thing about newspaper is the feeling you get when you write something you know that people will read."

Tony Unruh,
graphics editor

"I was surprised when I placed second at state, especially when I saw how many people I was up against."

Kristen McGehee,
yearbook co-editor

"I wanted to be on newspaper, because I was looking at journalism as being my major for college. Since I decided to major in something in the medical field, now it's just something I like to do."

Heather Barmore, staff member

"Being on the yearbook staff helps me to be a more responsible person. Having deadlines makes you manage your time wisely, and I think that will come in handy for college."

Breann Herring, organizations editor

Every year begins with the sight of new faces belonging either to faculty members or students. There is a roar of excitement from everyone as the halls fill up and the bell finally rings. The spirit is uplifted with the start of the sports season and the survival of the first day of school. The freshmen seem to be facing tough decisions such as which classes to enroll in and learning to take advantage of their new freedoms. The sophomores rejoice over the fact that they aren't freshmen any more and begin to strive for the top. The junior class is now a part of the upper classmen. They take advantage of their top seat by participating in many of the after school events and having their first prom. The seniors are caught up in a storm of questions without answers. It is finally their turn to decide which college to attend and how they can make their last year memorable. Throughout the year the students and teachers seem to be facing the storm.

How do you see the people of FKHS?

"Students who can make themselves very successful if they just use their ability to do so."

Monica Holley, junior

"I see them as typical people. Before I came to FKHS I heard a lot of false rumors about the people in Coffeyville. However, I've found the students and staff here to be a normal mix of talents, attitudes, potential, and goals. As a teacher, I enjoy watching and helping students to develop these talents and to strive for higher goals."

What do you enjoy doing in your free time?

"I do a lot of music, I write, sing, and compose music. If I have a lot of time I like to read a book."

DeAnn Merry

"Read, sleep, work outside in the yard when I can and sometimes help my husband work on his car projects."

"My personal hero has been my dad. He's always given me advice when I've had real problems."

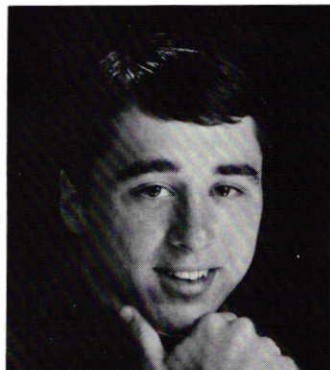

Kevin Hendrix

"Zac Morris? It sounds crazy, but Zac and I have grown up together and I admire his creativity. I also admire Zac's honesty and most importantly, his self-esteem! He doesn't let what other people think change him. I hope that one day I can have those same qualities."

What gave you the biggest laugh during your four years of high school?

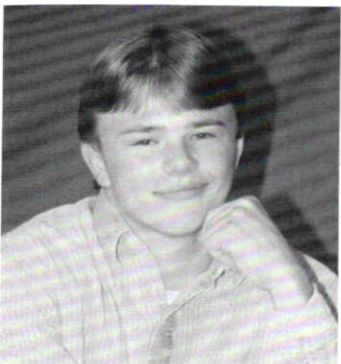

"Some of my biggest laughs were in my junior English class. Mrs. Bobek's different personalities were hilarious."
Robin Payne

"My biggest laugh was when Coach Hessler came into class with his clothes inside out and didn't even know it."
Marcia Cantrell

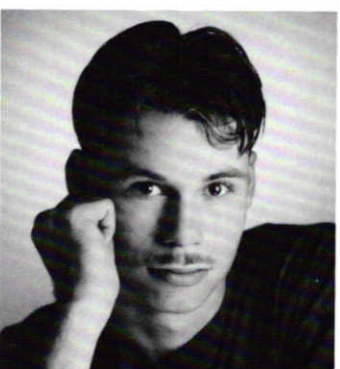

"Watching Doug Gambill freaking out after waking up with his eyelids taped shut with duct tape."

LOOK OUT WORLD,
 HERE COMES "AUDIE ANN"

LOVE,
 MOM, DAD AND "BANG, BANG"

Audrey Alford

DAN THE MAN!

We'll always be your biggest fans! We're so proud of you and all your accomplishments! Be all you can be!

You're our Energizer-- you keep going & going & going.....Remember, Life is what you make it.
 We Love You!

Mom, Dad & Michele

Danny Handshumaker

BRAD,

You are special to us and we are so proud of you. Never forget how blessed you are and where those blessings come from.

We love you forever,
 Mom, Dad & Doug

Brad Clark

KEEP ON SMILING JR!!

MOM, DAD AND HEATHER

Jana Ross

Curtis McWhirt

CURTIS,

Now that you're 17 and ready to graduate, we remember that happy blonde, blue-eyed little guy that gave us so much joy and fun. You were the first boy among friends your age to ride a bike, to roller skate, to play little league football, and even to get a mohawk haircut. You have always had an outstanding character of leadership. Don't be afraid to use it. We are proud of you and your accomplishments.

Love, MOM & DAD

Thanks for the hugs, MOM

PATRICIA,

What a beautiful daughter you are! The qualities we have watched develop have always made us proud: independence, honesty, sensitivity and intelligence. You achieve your goals with laughter and fun. Always keep your faith and vision. We love and admire you so very much. God Bless You.

Mom and Dad

Patricia Brown

LANETTE,

You have always been our first place winner. You have our support in whatever you choose and most of all.

OUR LOVE,
Mom & Dad

Lanette Stegmeir

DONALD,

God truly blessed us when he gave us you for a son. We are very proud of you and we thank God for you everyday.

Love,
Mom and Dad

Donald Greenfield

What is the single biggest change in you?

"My personality. BJ and my brother just turned me into a straight clown."
Kevin Hendrix

"My outlook on life. I have come to accept that no matter how much you try you will never be able to please everyone."
Julie Blevins

"I can concentrate on things that matter and not get mad about things that don't."
Jenifer Niedenthal

"Maturity. My freshman year I was a brat."
Doug Robinson

"The biggest change in me is that I have opened up more and I have started doing more things with my friends and have learned to have fun with my life."
Garick Standback

Details

The 59th volume of the Field Kindley Memorial High School's Twister was printed by Jostens Publishing and Printing Divisions, Topeka, Kansas.

The theme was chosen by the staff. The cover art was also chosen by the staff with the art designed by a Jostens staff artist. The silkscreen cover is black with royal purple and amber foil.

The front endsheets with violet art were designed by Dee Warren. The back endsheets are the current events section by Jostens.

Body copy is 10 point Times and captions are 8 point Times. Headline sizes and timesteps vary per section.

The 1995-96 Twister was designed and created by the staff in the Writing Lab using PageMaker 5.0.

All photographs were taken by staff photographers unless otherwise noted. Staff photographers develop their own film and photos in the publications darkroom. Group and class photos were taken by Doyal's Studio and Lifetouch provided the mugshots.

Press run for the 1995-96 Twister was 350 and was sold for $20 and $25. The book's estimated cost was $13,150 and was paid for by book sales and advertising.
