Remember When...

Mark W. gave Missy L. Ex-Lax and told her it was chocolate. • Watching the "Movie" in 5th grade, while the boys got to play outside. • Mr. Preusse set his sweater on fire. • "Felt is Squishy." • Mr. Ketel set the fire alarm off. • Lyle R. locked himself in Shommie's closet. • Chad Kasper puked up cherry crisp in the Parish School • Jeremy E. locked Sarah B. in the art cage at the middle school. • Playing kick the can at Bob E.'s. • Ross W. really hated girls. • Jamie S. depantsed Abe H. while he was hanging on the bars. • The circus in kindergarten. • Tanya L. crushed the bag of cookies, then banged the bag on the table until it broke open and left Gina B. sitting there alone looking guilty. • We forgot Paul V. at Disney World. • Heidi V. rear ended a school bus. • Sybil P. wasn't carrying a purse---Hey, what's in there anyway. • Claudia G. wasn't in the bathroom---Hey, she must know Sybil P. • Ron B. dumped glaze all over in ceramics and Joe W. had to wash his hair and Adam L. looked like a clown. • Why we were so mean to substitute teachers---Me either. • Stef V. fainted in the hallway. • They soaked Jessica V.'s underwear and threw it in the freezer. • Alisha D. slapped Mike N. for calling her Igor. • We used to play "got ya last" and the end of the day. • Marriages at recess. • Remember asking "Will you go with me?" and not knowing where you were going. • Middle school dances. • Girls, do you remember your number from the showers. • Remember having "boy or girl germs" with no take backs. • Remember why Mike N. had a monkey shrine in his locker in his Junior year. • Have you seen Charlotte B's and Stef V's barrel of monkeys and wondered why? • Mr. Lund---Ah the good old days. • Can you count how many times Maureen C.'s been pulled over---Didn't think so. • Remember the last time you use 2 wheels instead of 4? • Remember who was grandma nosey. • Remember the time that Sarah J. stayed awake for an entire class. • Throwing spitballs in General Science 9. • Remember the last time Lisa W. quit laughing. • Remember going to the nurse's office when you didn't have your homework done. • Remember all of Alissa H.'s fender benders. • Hey Joe S. and Ross W. are you sure you know where Amber H. lives? • Remember the last time you didn't see Rod L. scratching or adjusting himself. • Kurt M. made it snow in the auditorium. • In 6th grade when Jon W. snapped all the girls bra's to see if they were real. • You could go skinny dipping in the crow and get away with it. • Mrs. Shomshak didn't call us "whippers or whipper butts." • Mr. Skogen did his beached whale impression in world history. • Todd E. used his vocal cords. • Jeremy E. combed his hair. • All the fun we had in 7th hour senior comp. • Remember all the disgusting food on the ferry boat in Winnipeg. • Alissa H. and the B-squad told Katie D. that Alissa H. didn't have a phone and Katie D. believed them. • Remember Pete H. had hair. • Who is known as thighmaster. • The last time we didn't win the battle of the classes. • Remember they gave Mr. Wilmes the greatest Christmas present of all. • To those in the Star Wars gang---May the force be with you. • G.I. Joe and Barbie were cool. • Freshman respected seniors. • Remember Jerry. • The Seniors did the wave at Graduation!

GRADUATION 1994

Students Literally Give 100%

Similar to graduation ceremonies in the past, this year's Commencement began with a procession and rendition of every senior's favorite song--"Pomp and Circumstance" played by the band. Senior Class President Ross Weber officially opened the program by welcoming 100 graduates and their family and friends and introduced distinguished faculty and board members.

Following introductions and greetings, Senior band members and Mrs. Khlun performed one last time with the STMA band and graced the audience with a well-rehearsed and conducted "Dances with Wolves".

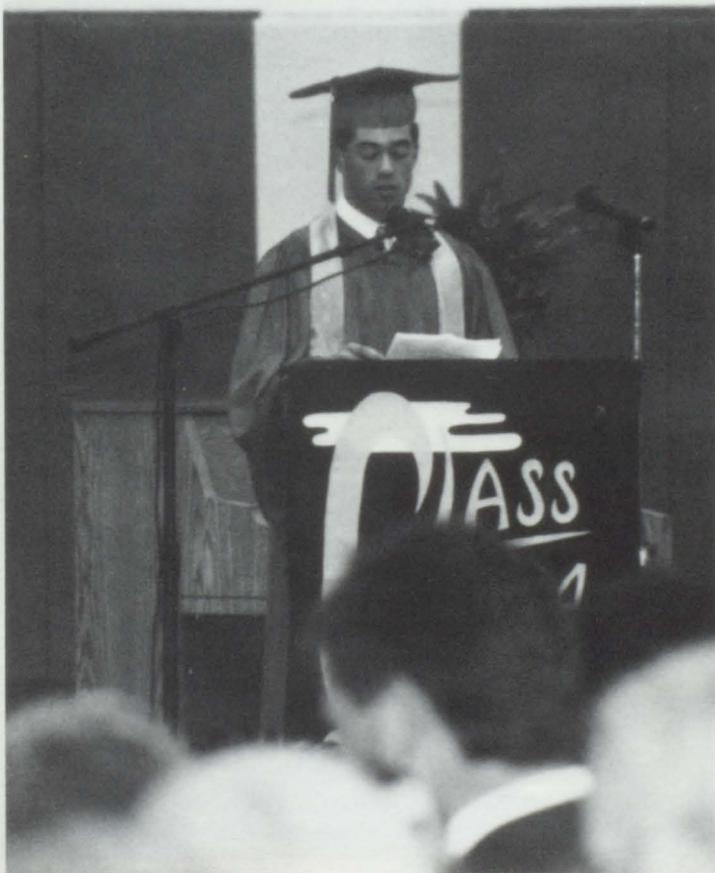

Alyssa Haller gave a reminiscent and moving Commencement Address, which was followed by a musical treat from the Senior Choir Members as they sang "Dreams to Dream."

Charlotte Bistodeau's and Shawn Williams' humorous and insightful rendition of their "Our Remember Whens" entertained and proved to be a welcomed break from the seriousness of the program for many graduates.

Towards the end of the commencement, Supt. Mr. DeMatteis recognized and commended STMA's Foreign Exchange Students and Honor Graduates and Mr. Barthel awarded several graduating seniors with local scholarships.

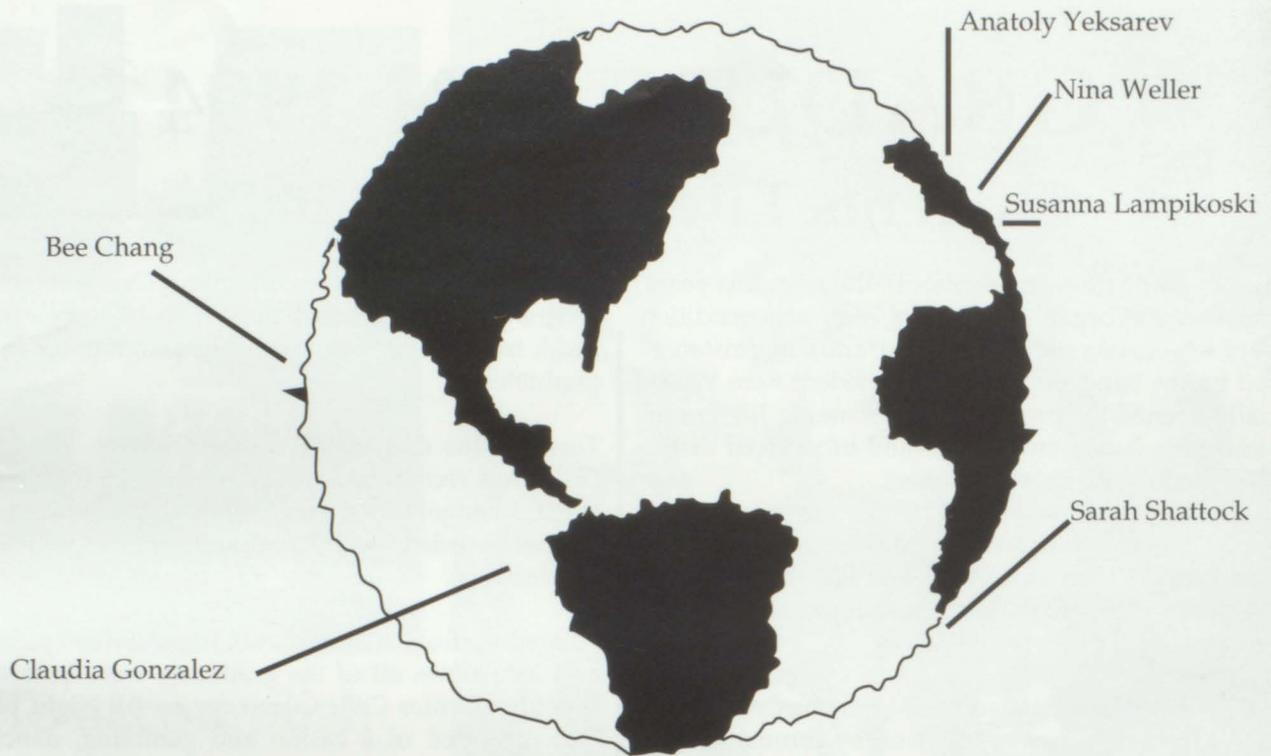

Following all of the "Pomp and Circumstance", pictures and formalities all of the graduates were bussed to Brooklyn Center Civic Center for an All Night party that consisted of a casino and gambling, dancing, swimming, pool games, lots of food, and an intriguing performance by a hypnotist.

A Global Perspective

"Students need to be more aware of other places and people"

How would you like to take a trip for a year to someplace on the other side of the world, leave your friends and family to live in a different country, speak a foreign language or learn about the customs and way of life of different peoples? However frightening or exciting it may sound to some, six young people have embarked on that adventure.

During the past year, St. Michael-Albertville has become home for six foreign exchange students: Sarah Shattock from New Zealand; Anatoly Yeksarev from the Ukraine; Claudia Gonzalez from Columbia; Bee Chan from Hong Kong; Nina Weller from Germany and Susanna Lampikoski from Finland. In addition to actively attending regular classes at the Senior High, all of the students have participated in sports or extra-curricular activities both in and out of school.

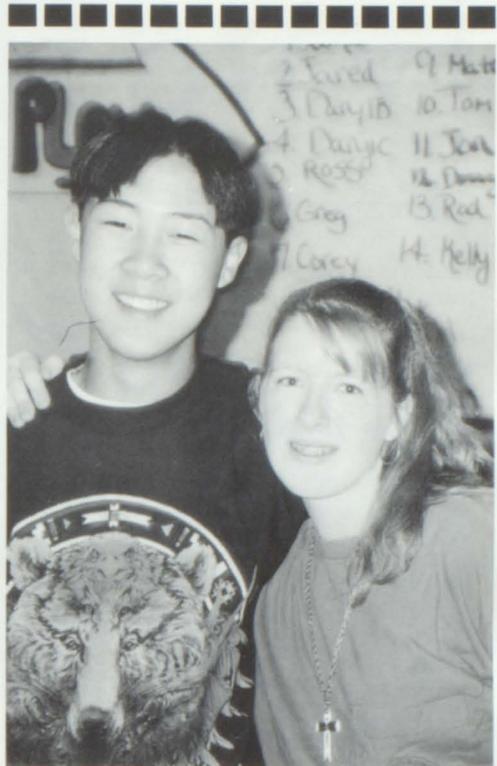

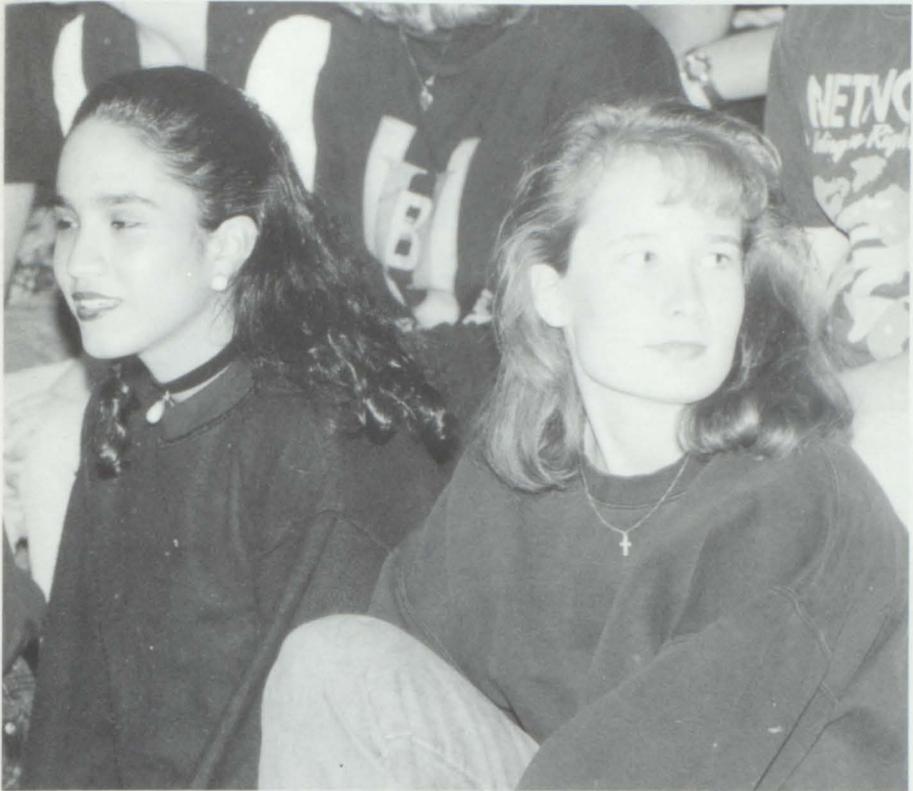

When asked to share their reflections on their student exchange experiences, all of them agreed that their experiences have enabled them to become more independent, better at adapting to new surroundings and that more American students should do what they did and take part in similar exchange programs. According to Sarah exchange student from New Zealand, "Students need to be more aware of other places and people."

Throughout the year Sarah, Anatoly, Claudia, Bee, Nina and Susanna have enlightened and made many STMA students aware of the differences in life, culture and perspectives around the world. While making all of us here at STMA more internationally aware of the world in which we live, it is likely that they have also learned something about themselves and the United States in the process.

Although a total of six students attended school this year, only four were able to attend and participate in Graduating ceremonies.

Junior "Faves"

"Aladdin", underwear and feeling sick all have special significance for 1994's Junior class

Almost everyone has a favorite food, television show or childhood memory, but how about a favorite excuse for being late, clothing article or movie? In a "Favorite Five" poll given to this year's Juniors, they shared many of their thoughts relating to these above items.

In a poll that asked Juniors to List their "Favorite Five Movies", most listed "Aladdin" & "Grumpy Old Men" as their favorites. Some of their other movie favorites included "Mrs.

Doubtfire", "Tomstone" and Steven Spielberg's "Schindler's List".

When asked to comment on the topic of clothing, most Juniors honestly admitted that their primary clothing necessity was underwear. Some of their other clothing necessities included ever-popular blue jeans and shoes. In addition to the more traditional clothing needs like jeans etc., Juniors agreed that flannel and any type of "GRUNGE" attire were also favorite clothing necessities.

Although English and Study Hall are listed as two of the top five classes at the Senior High, "Bosenomics"--more commonly known as Economics--ranks a close third or even a questionable second to Study Hall.

Although the Juniors seem to share similar favorites when it comes to movies, classes and clothing, the same doesn't ring true for creating excuses for being absent or late to school.

When asked to list reasons for being absent from school, the Junior's responses varied from truly being ill to the more creative. A few examples of those creative excuses include: "My car ran out of blinker fluid", "I was suffering from chemistry burnout", or "my hand got frozen to the door knob." Surprisingly enough, no one was stopped by Martians or attacked by a large, rabid dog!

Making a "Fresh"

Freshmen share their

During the 1993-94 school year, the class of 1997 became just another generation of Freshmen to begin a fascinating, yet frightening experience at the Senior High. Just as past generations of freshman dealt with being the "new students in the halls", so too did this years Freshman class.

When asked to share their fears concerning their first year of highschool. Most Freshman agreed their biggest phobia, by far, was not being able to find their classes. Other worries included threats of being teased by older students, and lockers not opening.

In addition to sharing their fears of a new high school, some Freshman reminisced about junior high. A few of their memories include: Mr. Schumacher's face turning red, Mr. Walter's "crazy couples", and walking up and down flights of stairs. Overall, Freshman missed being the oldest students in the school and the general feeling of familiarity they had grown comfortable to at the Junior High.

Along with their fears and memories, Freshman also had a few complaints. There were an overwhelming number of replies that expressed feelings of hardship from being the youngest people in the building. Many felt they have been unfairly labeled as too young and insignificant and look forward to becoming carefree Seniors. In their opinion, becoming a Senior means taking more elective classes; picking on the underclassmen--like themselves--; and having a worry free, long awaited, last year. We'll see...

After Years of Service, LaVerne "Retires"

After dedicating many, many years of hard work and special service toward the betterment of the St. Michael-Albertville school district, LaVerne Beaudry has retired.

Although most of us only knew her as the friendly office secretary, LaVerne has worked in several other areas of the district. Throughout her years in the district, she has worked as a bus driver, an office aid, a nurse, principal, and secretary. Despite the fact that she has "retired", she continues to substitute within the District.

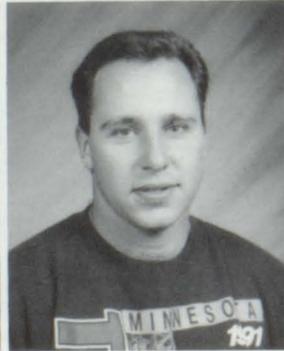

LaVerne may have "retired," but our memory of her and her dedication to this district will never be forgotten. We wish her well and look forward to seeing her in the hallways every once in a while.

The Trend Continues...

Last fall we began the year in a new school, this fall the trend continued; we began the year with a new principal.

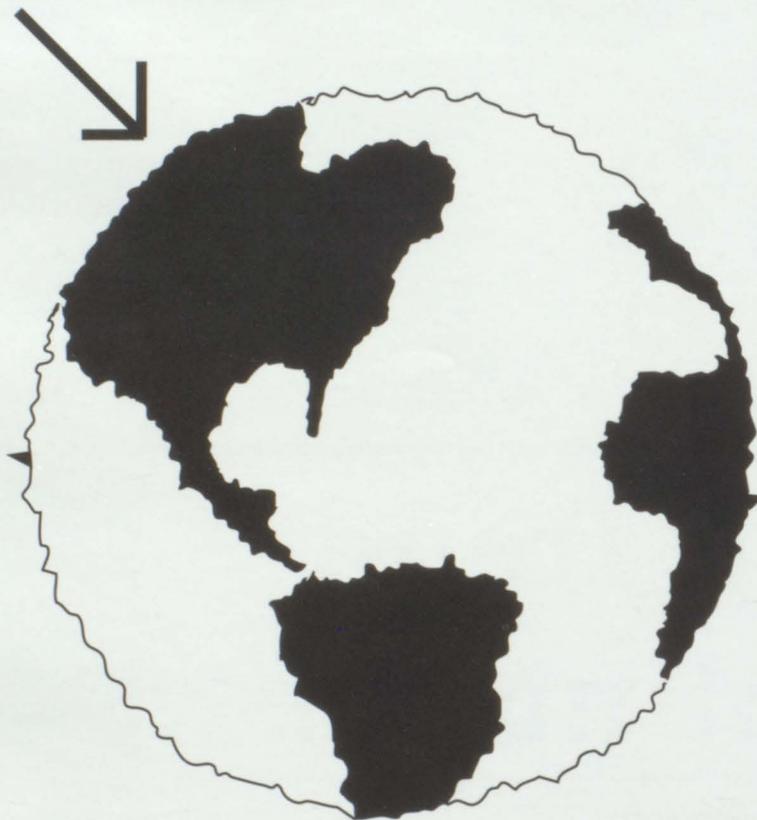

Mark Minkler is not a stranger to the field of school administration. Prior to starting his job as Principal at STMA, he was an Assistant principal at the Buffalo Senior High School.

Sometimes it is hard to become accustomed to a new job atmosphere and community, but Mr. Minkler has adjusted well. During the past year, his enthusiasm and refreshing educational outlooks has earned him respect from both students and colleagues. Overall, Mr. Minkler has been a great principal and we wish him continued success at STMA.

...Out of this World

"Hey Scottie, you can forget about beaming me up! I think I'll stick around down here and check out what is going on at STMA . During different times of the year, students and faculty engage in exciting, yet peculiar activities. Check back with me in a few hours. If I do not respond, I am probably busy playing Tug-O-War."

HOMECOMING

WEEK

This year's Homecoming was one of victory, reunion, and the return of school tradition.

To kick off '93's Homecoming festivities, royalty was crowned at the beginning of the week. The two lucky winners of this year's title of King and Queen were Jamie Scherber and Tanya Larson.

In the tradition of class competition and school spirit, student and staff participated in the "Battle of the Classes". Despite hearty underclassmen competition, the Senior class succeeded in winning the coveted Sword of Victory.

Although Homecoming week was filled with many activities, STMA athletes maintained their team's goals and played to the best of their abilities. Examples of their mental and physical determination were displayed in the Varsity football team's victory over Annandale, and the volleyball team's match versus Watertown-Mayer.

Keeping with the "Homecoming" theme, Alumni from 1983's volleyball team, returned during Homecoming week to cheer on and support our volleyball teams at Watertown-Mayer.

After a year's absence, the "Traditional" bonfire was placed back onto the week's list of special activities. In addition to sparking students' enthusiasm for the week's upcoming special activities, the bonfire served as a warm reminder of school tradition.

After a wonderful week of Homecoming activities and the Knight's football victory over the Annandale Cardinals; students, including student alumni from the last year, attended the annual Homecoming Dance sponsored by the National Honor Society.

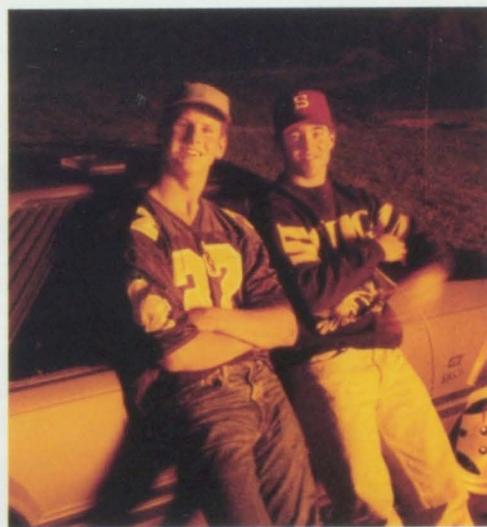

Holding to tradition, this year's Homecoming was one filled with excitement, competition and reminiscence.

HALLOWEEN

Its' Looks May Be Deceiving

Contrary to popular belief, Halloween does not have its' origins in student rituals of dressing up as strange creatures. According to historical research, Halloween originated from ancient Druids reactions to fear and death.

The first accounts of Halloween festivities can be traced back to an ancient druid festival called Samhain. On the last evening of summer, Druids knindled bonfire up on the hills of the British Isles to frighten away witches and spirits of the dead who were thought to wander free during that night. Later, this tradition became a Roman holiday that honored the dead.

Fernia, the Roman holiday that honored the dead, was eventually Christianized by Pope Boniface IV to honor saints and martyrs and to serve as a day of prayers of intercession for dead souls who had not been thoroughly purified.

Many years later in Great Britain, the observation merged into a day called Halligon or "All Hallows" and the night before became "All Hallows Eve" or what we presently love to dress up for and call Halloween.

"Once Apon A Dream"

PROM 1994

Where: St. Paul Radisson

When: Saturday, May 7, 1994

Announcers: Alice Hedlund and Earl Bauman

On the evening of May 7, 1994 the Senior High Gymnasium was packed with an excited group of spectators. Unlike the typical audience that usually fills the gymnasium bleachers to watch basketball or volleyball games, this particular audience gathered to witness their friends and family members begin an exciting evening called Prom.

Although the excitement that goes along with Prom had, for many students, began weeks prior to the actual event, the Grand March officially signified Prom had actually arrived. In preparation for the Grand March, students and faculty began decorating the gym Thursday afterschool. Sticking to the theme, "Once Apon A Dream", the gym was transformed into a dreamy and wonderland-like atmosphere with the help of foil, balloons, flowers, music and other decorations.

Following Grand March, students mingled with friends and family, took pictures with their dates and friends and then departed for dinner at restaurants of their choosing.

Around 8:00 that evening, students and their dates arrived at the the St. Paul Radisson. Arriving at the hotel couples quickly posed for portraits and then entered the ballroom where they were entertained by an up-beat and exciting KDWB Sound and Light show until 12:00 that evening.

Just like any special event, Prom occurs once a year; to some, Prom will be remembered as an event that was and continues to be "Once Apon A Dream".

Left: Who says you can't combine comfort with style? Jake Tamte and Tara Billman sport interesting, yet elegant prom attire.

An Outstanding Season

Coach Melissa Mischke saw the team through hours of grueling, late night practices and eight, very early morning meets and in the end, all of the team's hard work paid off.

In spite of its' small size, only 7 members, the team competed in a variety of categories and received many awards. Individual winners include: Ambre Middleton, winner of top honors at the Sauk Rapids Early Bird Meet in Humorous Speaking, Lisa Vetsch, who placed 4th at Park Center Super Meet in Discussion, Celest Thell who placed 4th at the Wright County Conference meet in Creative Expression, Darrin Bless and Bill Bistodeau, who placed 4th at the Wright County Conference meet in the category of Dramatic Duo and Michelle Zachman, who placed 1st at the Milaca Invitational in her category of Informative Speaking. Later, at a subsection meet held at STMA, Darrin and Bill again received 4th place honors and Michelle captured the first place title in her speaking division, thus allowing them to advance to the section meet where, Darrin and Bill placed 7th and Michelle 3rd.

As a result of the members many awards and spectacular wins, the 1993-1994 season speech was "The Best" many of members ever remember, but there is always next year and who knows what the that will hold?

Academic Decathlon

Throughout 44 states and Washington, D.C., thousands of high school students in groups of 9, compete in annual testing and quizing events where they are asked to write, speak and solve problems in the following categories... Mathematics, Science, Economics, Language and Literature, Fine Arts, Social Science, Speech, Interviews, Essay and Super Quiz.

If you were given the list of the following enviromentalist authors: Buckminster Fuller, Rachel Carson, Jacques Cousteau, Jane Goodall, John Muir and Henry David Thoreau could you write and essay describing their impact on the world of science and literature? Well, if you were part of the STMA Academic Decathlon Team this could be one of many questions that you would be expected to complete.

In life individuals are faced with problems, frustrations and situations that they can not handle alone; the Peer Helpers at STMA helps individuals face those problems.

During the year, Peer Helpers attended workshops where they discussed and practiced different methods of peer counseling and listening skills. As the group's name hints, Peer Helpers are student counselors who help other students resolve and or vent their academic, family, and friend problems. Unlike adult /student counseling, peer counseling enables students to feel more comfortable about looking for help or advice--many students fail to receive help due to fear of speaking to an adult.

Due to the success of the Peer Helping Program and the planning and confidence of Mrs. Lynch, a new peer guidance group will be formed next year. In addition to Peer Helpers, STMA students will have access to student mediators who will act as mediators in student vs. student arguments.

National Honor Society

With the help of Mrs. Shomshak, the STMA National Honor Society helped make 1994 a year to remember.

A few of the many activities sponsored by NHS include Battle of the Classes held during Homecoming and Winter week; a student talent show that gave the student body a chance to turn talent into cash and a student and staff appreciation day held to thank everyone for donating to the local foodshelf during an annual food drive. Although all of the latter NHS activities were fun and exciting for the majority of STMA's students and faculty, many are unaware of the other activities the NHS organizes and sponsors.

Throughout the year, dedicated NHS members donated their time and energy tutoring fellow peers, recycling paper in classrooms and organizing dances. In addition to these school related activities, members also volunteer a great deal of work in the community and fundraise money for local and national charities. One of this year's major community service projects for NHS members included working with people in local retirement homes; during the year members served Thanksgiving dinner and took time to play bingo with retirees.

Overall, STMA's NHS chapter serves the student body, as well as the surrounding community, in an exciting and well organized manner that is both commendable and well respected.

YearBook

After hours of long hard work, frustration, fun and sometimes the feeling of being completely confused, yearbook members completed the yearbook and put down their croppers in early July.

Although work on the yearbook usually begins immediately at the beginning of the school year, this year's work didn't begin until early December due to the lack of an advisor. Faced with the loss of about three months of working time, the challenge of fully designing the entire yearbook on a computer system and working with a new advisor, the yearbook staff had to spend many extra hours working on the yearbook.

When asked to voice their feelings about working on the yearbook, many agreed that it is hard work, but at the same time, also a great deal of fun. One Junior staffer commented, " We probably worked on it--the yearbook-- three or four times a week after school until 4, 5 or even 6 O'clock sometimes for the entire year. Sometimes it seemed that we didn't get anything done, but I guess we did because we finished it!"

Some may think that working on the yearbook is not fun or intriguing , but little do they know! According to several members, the Yearbook is a great way to get to know everyone in the school either by face or name.

Choir

Several Receive Superior

This past year, several members of the Concert Choir participated in the State-Section Vocal Contest held at Milaca High School. After hours of before and after school rehearsals, many were rewarded for their blood, sweat and tears by earning Superior or Excellent ratings. Soloists who received a Superior ratings include Sarah Barthel and Maria Barthel.

Ensembles who received the top score possible, a Superior, include all members of the Triple Trio and the Pop Singers.

Overall, the Concert Choir received an Excellent rating at the Large Group Contest, which was the second highest rating of all the choirs combined.

This year the annual Choral Award, an award presented to the outstanding choral musician based on thier leadership and musical talent, was presented to Senior Missy Lidburg.

Several Receive Superior Rating

This past year several groups prepared for the State Solo/Ensemble Contest by practicing early before school, after school, and even on weekends. After individuals received their scores from competition, most realized their practicing had paid off after all.

After grueling band practices and a year of competition, the following groups all received a superior rating—the highest possible ranking in band competition: Percussion Quartet, Brass Quintet, Clarinet Trio, Flute Duet, Saxophone Quartet and Jazz Ensemble.

In addition to group awards, many soloists received superior ratings: Adam Kolles, Eric Luther, Melanie Smyre, Nathan Correll, Katie Domka, Sybil Phillips, Jeff Lenz, Jim Burke, Darrin Bleess, Tony Becker and Paul Vetsch.

Another exciting event which occurs each year is the announcement of the annual winner of the Huber Award. This award is in memory of Joseph Huber who was the first band director and Principal of the St. Michael-Albertville school district.

This year's recipient of the 25th annual Joseph Huber Award was Paul Vetsch. Paul was president of the band, involved in Stageband, Trumpet Quartet, Brass Choir, Pep Band, and Commander of the Marching Band.

One Act Play

Masks of Angels

Once upon a time, the play began with an unknown man following a mysterious woman and two street vendors selling masks. The time of year is late winter and the carnival is in full swing. Athens is now a town of fun, excitement, and tragedy. As the play progresses the audience learns that the man, Dimitrius, is following his wife, Maria, who has left their home in Australia to be with her lover in Greece; the two street merchants are two lonely souls.

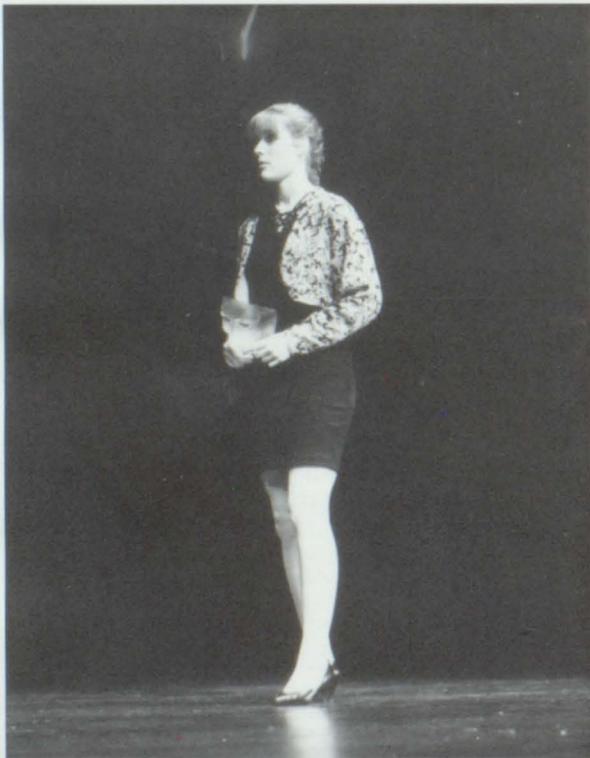

A man named Petro, a soldier, wounded in battle enters. A woman named Margo, an ageing prostitute is desperate for money and cigarettes.

The action begins and takes place on a street in front of a tavern, where Petro and Margo are not welcome. As the two discuss their lives and how their lives have become what they are, Dimitrius tries desperately to hide his identity from his beloved Maria by rushing out into the street to change masks. While Dimitrius into the street periodically to change masks. While Dimitrius argues over the price of the masks, Margo realizes that he is the long lost love she's been telling Petro about. She calls his name, but she is so old and haggard, he does not recognize her. At one point, Maria decides to change her mask and as she does, Petro realizes that she was his love of long ago, but like Dimitrius, she does not recognize him either.

The action builds until finally it climaxes as all four characters come together and confront their pasts; thus, altering their futures.

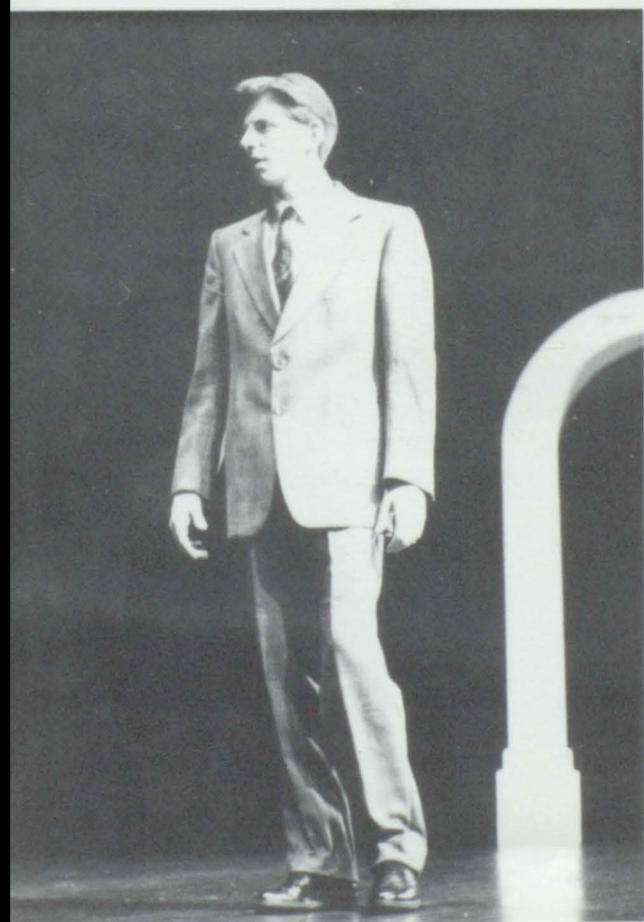

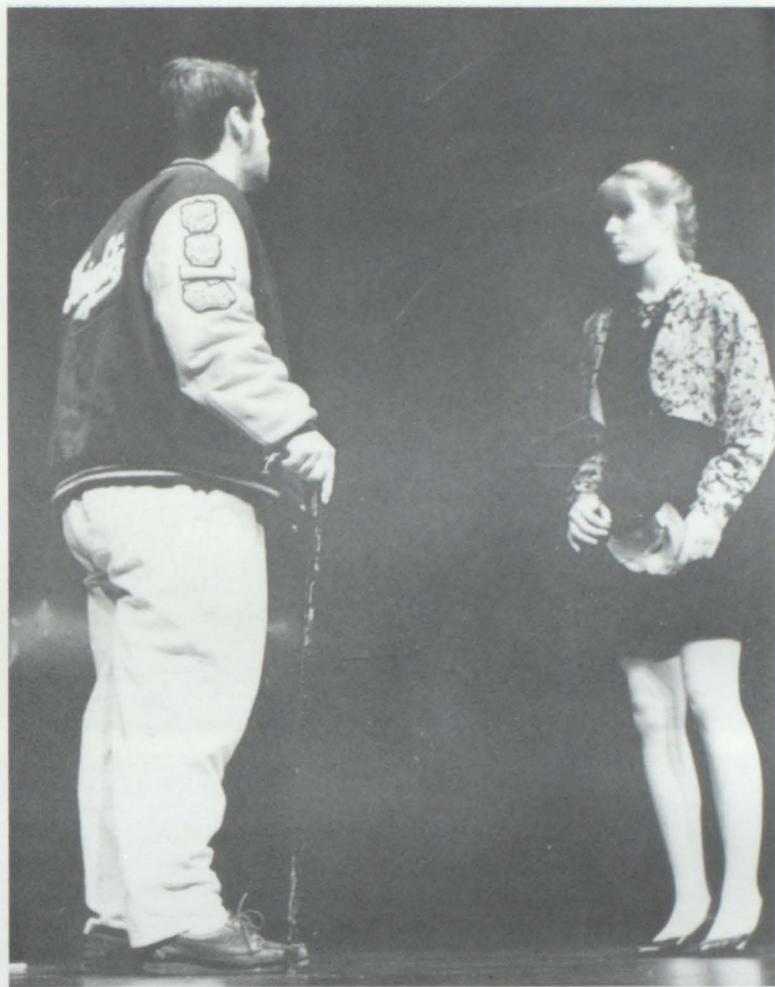

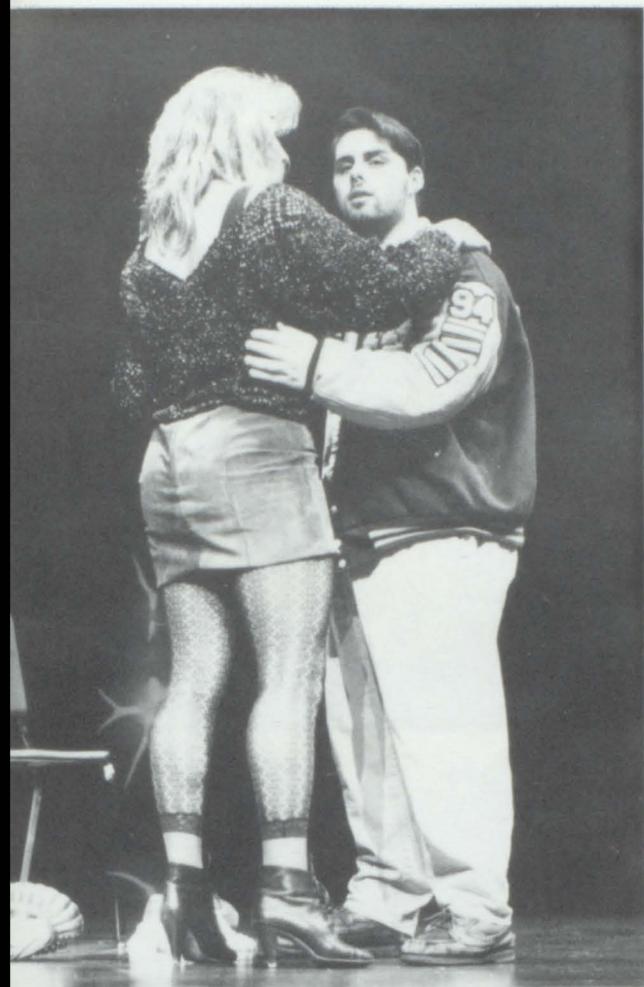

The cast of this show did an excellent job with their characters and earned a well deserved second place at sub-section and went on to compete in section competition. Congratulations!

Snoopy

Due to the tremendous success of last year's production of OKLAHOMA!, the St. Michael-Albertville drama department decided once again to dazzle their audiences with a musical. The 1993 production of OKLAHOMA! was the drama department's first attempt at putting on a musical under the direction of Mrs. Jan Lefebvre.

With the 1994 production of SNOOPY, the department took a different approach toward producing a musical. Based on the popular comic strip by Charles Shultz, SNOOPY was more of a show for the whole family; kids loved seeing their old favorites on stage. Characters such as Lucy, Charlie Brown, and of course, Snoopy gave everyone something to laugh at. And the adults were entertained by the singing, dancing, and humor of the show. When asked if she--Mrs. Lefebvre--thought portraying cartoon characters on stage would be difficult for her actors, Mrs. Lefebvre simply replied, "Not at all." She was right not to worry. Many of the youngsters who attended the performances were suprised to find out afterwards that the actors on stage were actually sixteen, seventeen, and eighteen not six, seven, and eight years old.

Although SNOOPY was a different type of musical, it was still well recieved by everyone who experienced and had an opportunity to perform in it.

DANCELINE

The 1993-94 Knights in Motion danceline survived the school year and many members can't wait to get back into it next year. Beginning after football season students ranging from Freshmen to Seniors gathered to put together a danceline that would entertain their families, friends, and classmates. After many weeks of hard practice and creative choreographing, they were ready to perform. The danceline appeared approximately a half dozen times at various basketball games and wrestling matches; each time they performed they were a hit.

After getting warmed-up with school performances, the Knights in Motion geared up for their big, one-time competition at the Minnesota State Competition. Prior to competition, the group was narrowed down to sixteen members who had to begin intensely practicing a new routine choreographed by Kelly McGinnis and Jenny Steffens to the song To No Limit.

The Danceline placed 8th in State Competition.-a well earned accomplishment. Next year many of the members hope the line will be bigger and better.

A "F•R•E•S•H" New World

Under the leadership and watchful eyes of Sandy Greninger and Kris Holstad, Cheerleading took on a new attitude.

This year, STMA cheerleaders attended a Cheerleading camp at the U of M and learned many new and innovative ways to create and entice crowd enthusiasm. Combining some of their own ideas with new routines that they had learned at camp, STMA's cheerleaders began the year with a fresh style.

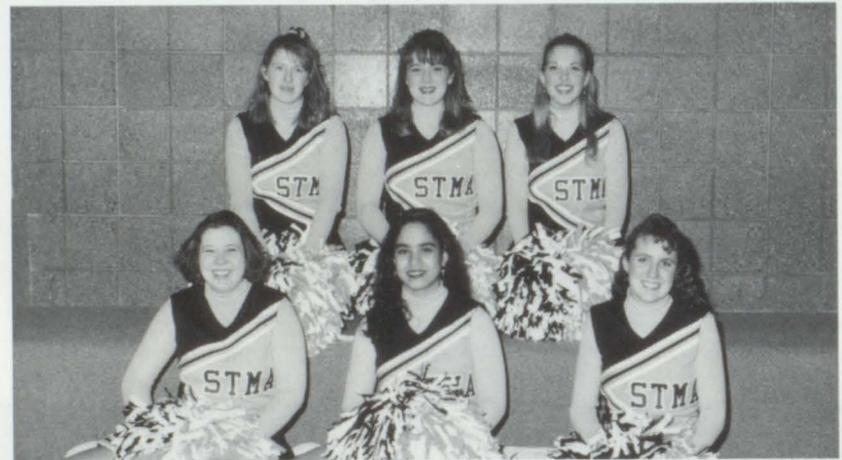

During the Winter sport season, the number of cheerleaders grew, thus added to their need for more practice time and organization.

When asked to comment on the overall Cheerleading season, one cheerleader responded by saying, "We were constantly being complimented on the incredible job we were doing and were received with as much enthusiasm as we went out there (into the crowd) with. By the end of the season, we all left with a different, yet positive feeling about cheerleading. Our new attitude did more than just get the crowd more involved, it instilled respect within ourselves and perhaps even changed the way cheerleading is stereotypically perceived here and at other schools." --Apparently their hard work, practice and dedication paid off!

Cross-Country

This year's Cross-Country team had one of their best seasons in ten years. This season started with long, hard practices and ended in sweet success and a bare-faced coach.

At the beginning of the season, the team made competing at the State level a goal. As an incentive for the team to accomplish their goals, Coach Mike Beck agreed to a bet; if the team reached their goal he would let them shave his mustache. Little did he realize what he was getting himself into.

With a great deal of effort and dedication the team's practice paid off. All members performed very well with several All Conference titles. Seniors Lyle Robeck and Missy Lidberg, Juniors Brooks Grossinger and Mike Stoick and Eighth grader Sara Eicher all received the honor. Mike Stoick competed in and won Sub-Section competition. Mike eventually finished the season by also running away with the Section championship, winning first place.

The boy's team raced all the way to their first State meet in ten years. At the State competition the team ran right into fourth place--The highest STMA has ever finished. Earning the honor of All -State were Lyle Robeck and Mike Stoick.

After realizing that his team had met and accomplished their goal by attending the State Meet, Coach Mike Beck fulfilled his end of the bet; the boy's team shaved off his mustache before a gym full of cheering pep-fest attenders.

Tennis

This year's tennis team may have been small in size, but its' members ardent enthusiasm enabled the team to better last year's record to 3-5 at the end of the season. Senior team Co-captions Amy Sellers and Stefanie Angus ended the season with a records of 6-13 and 9-10. In addition to earning the team's MVP award, Nancy Angus also earned the privledge to be Co-captain on next years team with Kristy

Sellers. Next Fall, team members are looking for new direction. In addition to losing two excellent leaders and Co-Captains, the tennis team will find themselves under the guidance of a new coach. --Mr. Riles, a teacher at the St. Michael Elementary school and the Tennis coach for the last 4 years retired his coaching position following the 1993 season.

Football

This year's football team had one of their best seasons and looks forward to a new and different team next year.

The Varsity Football team ended their season as conference champions with only one loss, during the last game of the season against Saint Cloud Cathedral.

Due to the loss of nine senior players, Head coach Bauman is upset; he is losing many experienced and enthusiastic players who he has worked with for the past few years. In addition to being faced with restructuring and training a new team next season, Bauman is also confronted with, yet looking forward to, having his team compete in the Class A sport division.-- This will make STMA the smallest Class A school in the state.

When asked to comment on how next year's squad will perform as a result of the teams' changes, all Coach Bauman will say is "See you in August!"

Volleyball

As a rule, continuing a school's long tradition of winning can be rough for any athletic team. Rules however, can and are broken every season. A perfect example of this is this year's volleyball team who, despite beginning the season with only three returning Seniors, finished the season at Sub-sections.

Obviously there is no single explanation for the Knight's success, but team work may have played a major role in shaping the Knight's relatively fresh and young volleyball team into one of power and success. Whether on or off the court, team members listened to and exhibited their coach, Paul Moore's advice on the importance and benefits of working as a team. (Obviously his advice and the members hard work paid off because the team finished the season with a 25-04 record.)

In addition to their impressive seasonal record, the team placed first in the Crow River and Crusader Tournaments and placed a respectable fifth at the Apple Valley Tournament. The Knight's went on to compete and win at Sub-Sections eventually ending the season with a loss to New London Spicer at the start of Section 5A competition.

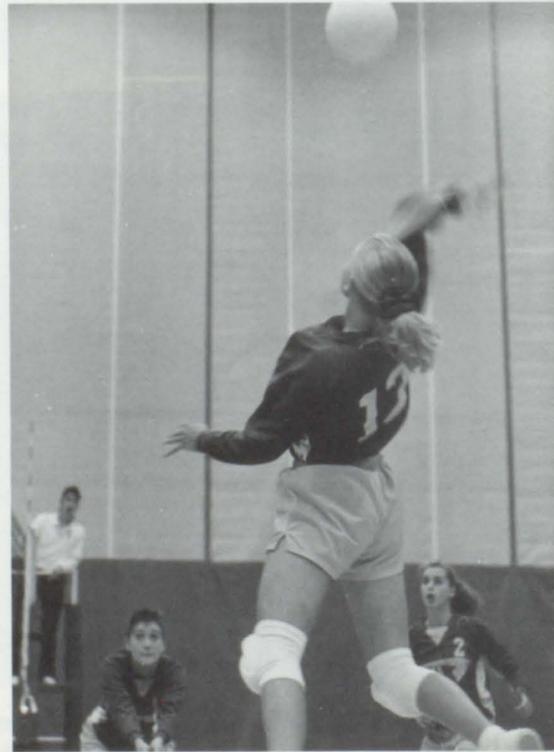

Along with an excellent season, the Knight's volleyball team had many impressive players. Senior Tanya Larson and Junior Nicole Johnson received All Conference titles. Seniors Gina and Sarah Barthel also received All Conference Honorable Mentions.

Hockey

Both the Knight's Hockey team and its' individual players had a successful season. As a team, the Knight's completed their athletic season with an impressive 12-12 record. Similar to the team's performance many individual players finished the season with athletic honors.

Senior Jamie Gasper, the Knight's leading scorer with 30 goals, was named Most Valuable Player at the end of the season. In addition to receiving this title, Gasper and teammate Senior Ryan Wenger, received Honorable Mentions. A few other individuals who received athletic recognitions include: Jamie Scherber who was named AllConference, Ben Kelley Most Improved and Matt Gmach the Most Dedicated Player Award.

Perhaps the Knight's most memorable game was their 3-2 over-time victory over Annandale-Maple Lake. In addition to the roar of the crowd and feeling of determination and concentration that captured both those on and off of the ice, the Knight's victory was particularly special for one other reason: Their victory placed them into the 2nd round of Regional play-offs for the 1st time in three years.

Although no one can predict how a season may (or may not) develop, Coach Mashuga is looking forward to another successful season. Next year's team consists of many experienced and seasoned players who will add to the team's overall skating, shooting and scoring ability and hopefully make the 1994-95 hockey season one of both personal and team success.

Girl's Basketball

The 1993-94 Girl's Basketball team had a tremendous season with an overall record of 13-9; the team was very strong. The Knight's had the best start the have had in recent memory this season and what they lacked in size, they made up for in quickness.

Senior Tanya Larson led the team in most areas and was named All-Conference. She was also voted most valuable player by her teammates at the end of the season. Senior Sarah Barthel also did very well and earned an All-Conference Honorable Mention. At the end of the season, Senior Lisa Klaers was voted Best Hustle and Senior Katie Shueller was voted Most Improved, by their teammates.

The basketball team ended their season with four losses despite their winning streak. Coach Lisa Sukalski said, "Our season has been pretty good and it's a tough way to end it, especially since we have six seniors. Overall, it's the best season we've had and I hope the players can remember that."

Gymnastics

Stress, Competition and the excitement of success best describes STMA's 1994 Gymnastic season.

In every sport, athletes experience their share of stress, competition and the gratification of improving as a team or as individual athletes; this year's gymnastic team and its' members proved to be a perfect example of what every athlete must and does experience when striving for "Number One" and personal best.

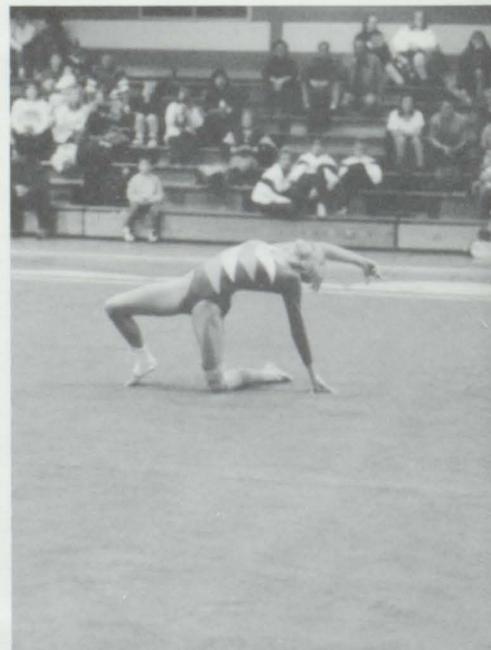

Although none of the team or its' individual members advanced to compete at the State level, many of the team's members believe that the 1993-1994 season was the best out of the past few years. When asked what made this year's record so particularly special, members cited returning individual experience, strict practice and competitive determination as reasons for the team's successful season --the best winning record in three years.

Looking toward to next season, members find themselves excited because they will have many returning members , yet restless with the fact that they will be instructed by a new coach and under the usual competitive stress that gymnastics brings.

Boy's Basketball

Thrills, chills and spills... No this isn't an introduction for an amusement park, but rather a description of this year's Boys Basketball team.

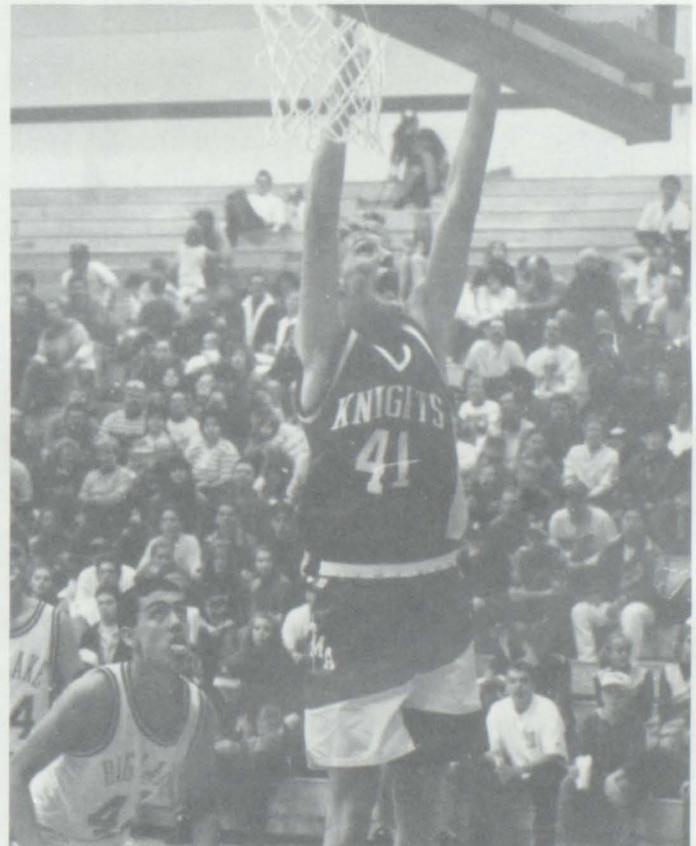

The 1993-94 STMA Boys Basketball team had a very successful season. They finished with the 3rd best record in the school's history. There was many high and low points in the post season. The turning point of the season was the 58-59 loss to Dassel-Cokato; the loss made them work harder and as a result they became closer and worked harder to improve their record. Although there were low points in the season, there were high points too.

During the last few seconds of a game against St. Anthony, Tom Wines shot a winning basket. Another memorable moment in the season was the teams' last season game against Milaca.

During double overtime, Rod Litzau and Joe Seifert made a few incredible dunks, thus allowing the team to win their last regular conference game -- it was one of the best High School Boys Basketball games played in a long time.

All in all, it was a tremendous season for both team members and fans. The team pulled together and exerted a tremendous amount of effort right to the end... there were no quitters on this years team!

Wrestling

The 1993-94 wrestling season was one of fun, success and new attitudes.

Over the course of the season, team members learned many things about wrestling, as well as themselves. Competitively, the team was outstanding; the team was never outscored in a single dual until their loss in the quarter finals to Foley in an exciting 25-25 tie breaking match.--Foley eventually became Minnesota's Co-champions.

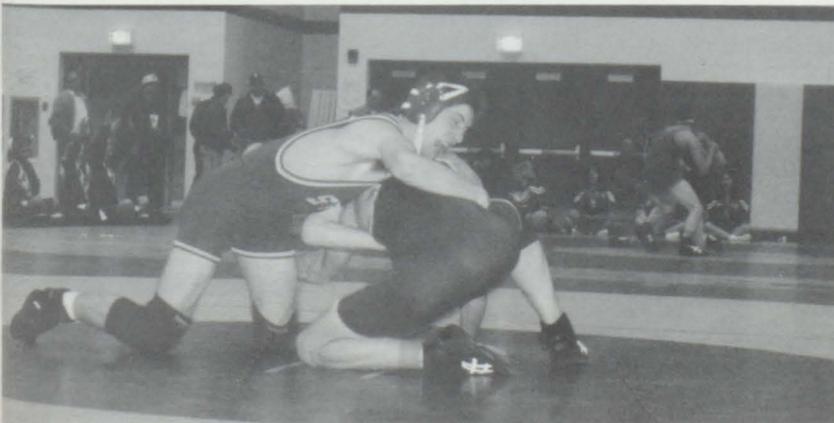

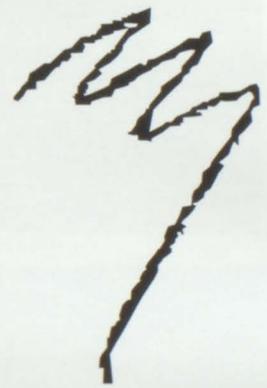

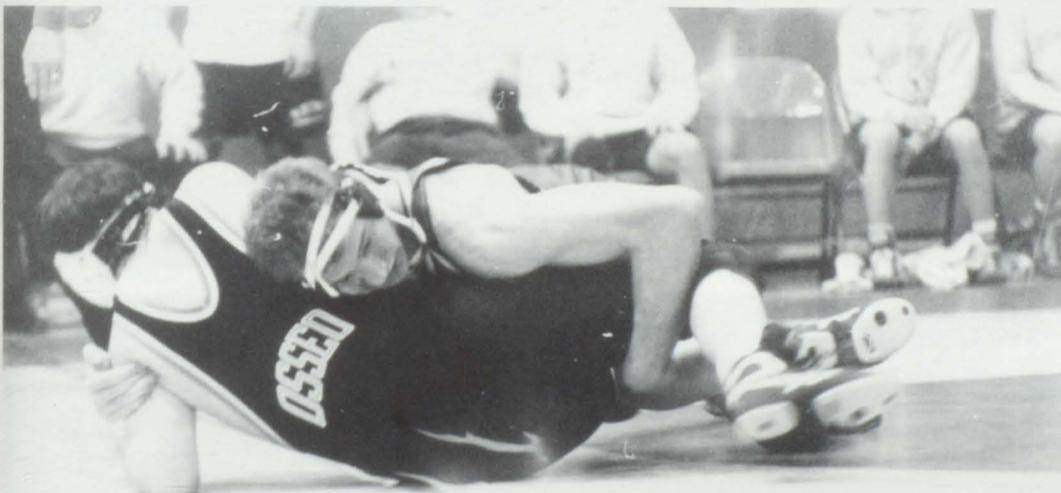

In addition to many wins, the team's successful season was one of many highlights: Being Invitational Champs of their home tournament and the WCC, placing second in a very tough Bismark Rotary Tournament and the Hutchinson Invitational. Perhaps the major highlight of the season, both individually and team-wise, came at the Section Tournament.

After beating Paynesville in the Section Team Finals, STMA qualified five individuals: Aaron Martin, BJ Mariotti, Dan Dincombe, Pete Haag and Billy Dehmer.

To finish the season, the Knight's placed 5th at the State meet and Duncombe won an Individual State title at 135 pounds.

Softball

Pitching, Hitting, and Sportsmanship

During the course of the Spring athletic season, the Girl's Softball team displayed excellent pitching, hitting and overall sportsmanship skills.

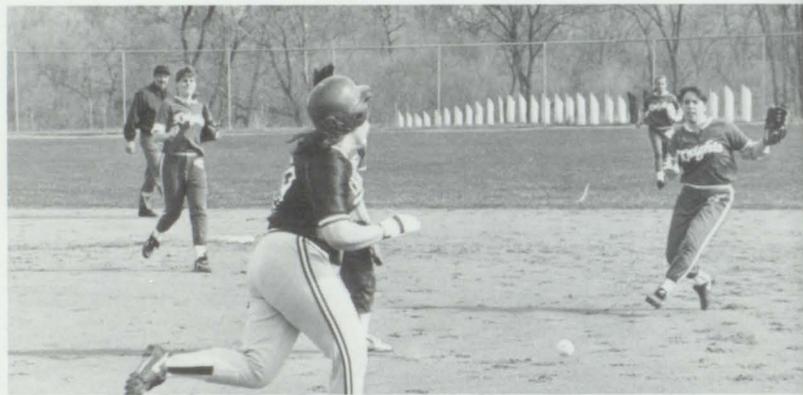

From beginning to end, Renee Schmidt and Sarah Barthel possessed the best batting averages; Renee finished the season with a batting average of .515 and Sarah with an average of .429. In addition to a successful batting season, the team also performed well pitching-

Between the team's three pitchers, the team was able to finish the season with a record of 6-15. The pitchers who made the 6-15 season possible include Jamie Martin, Andrea Scherber and Renee Schmidt. Overall, Jamie finished the season with a record of 5 wins and 5 losses; Andrea Scherber, 2 wins and 2 losses; and Renee Schmidt 0 wins and 1 loss.

Although the team, like any team, hopes for a better season next year; the hope may become reality. Although the team will be losing a few players next year, many of the team's stronger players will be returning as Juniors and Seniors. With these returning team members, STMA fans can only hold their breaths until next Spring to find out how well the team will do.

Baseball

Following the trend for this years' sport teams, the Baseball team had an action packed season that included thirteen wins and four losses.

This year's team will be losing nine Seniors to graduation, thus leaving only seven experienced varsity players to begin next season. Members are not sweating it though, they are confident that they will be gaining many underclassman who will take over some of the previous Senior positions as well as, help out in other areas.

At the end of the season, the team faced a heart breaking loss to Becker-Maple Lake. Overall, the team had a great season that will be remembered by all who watched and participated in it.

Track

Both the Boy's and the Girl's track teams had an extraordinary season this year. They both scored well at every meet and brought home many medals and ribbons.

Similar to many of this years athletic teams, Track will be losing some great senior talent to graduation. A few of the graduating athletes include Joe Seifert in the high jump, and the 400 yard dash; Lyle Robeck in the Mile and two mile; Anatoly Yeksarev in the Shot-put and Discus; Missy Lidberg in the 4x400m relay team and the Shot ; Gina Barthel in the 4x800m Relay team; Allissa Haller in the 4x176 yrd relay team and the 4x200m Relay team. Although many senior team members will not be returning next year, there are quite a few under-classman and "next year" seniors that will easily fill the void and help the team in next years meets.

Overall, the track team had a wonderful season despite rainy cold or searing hot weather; the season is sure to be remembered. Joe Seifert and Kirsten Peterson advanced to complete in state meets held in June. Kirsten placed 3rd in high jump, and Joe placed 3rd in high jump and 2nd in the 400m.
