The students (p.4) are surrounded by different perspectives at STMA. This is what creates a diverse student life dimension (p.46). No matter what our choices, they dictate who we become. For some, the focus is academics

(p.72), but for others, the scene involves the fine arts (p.88). Some want to be viewed as a part of the sports world (p. 100), while a new student might choose an organization (p.124) to join. Finally, the community (p.142) is also involved in helping to create this group perspective at STMA. H.S.

a different perspective

Beauty is in the eye of the beholder. However something is approached, viewed, or desired reflects personalities and moods. Look at things from a different angle and the possibilities are endless...at least that's how some people see it.

We have reached the dawning of a new millennium. Things are changing—some people love it...some people run away from it...some people don't care. Everyone has their own perspective on how to deal with change; it is all around us.

The new year has brought many changes to STMA. Seniors are being acknowledged with color photographs, protection is being enhanced with new security, athletics are supported with new tennis courts, and technology is constantly improving with new computers.

Everyone is a part of STMA because it makes us who we are. We all help to shape the styles and ideas that make up the High School. As the Seniors graduate, their perspectives are a permanent part of STMA. Everyone deserves to be noticed along with the differences they leave on peoples' lives. Individuality gets people places. When we look back at high school it is to remember who WE were, what WE did, and who OUR friends were. We all deserve this chance. Nobody knows what all of this means; not all questions can be answered; but everything is much clearer if you look at it with
a different perspective.

Traditionally, students display their pride by wearing blue and gold on Homecoming, as shown by Maureen Reilly, Kris Antil, Sarah Sirois, Rachel Jossart, and Kim Jokinen.

Focusing on the return, Michelle Kleist anxiously awaits her opponent's next move.

in their perspective

This year the Valor staff asked students what type of student they thought they were: Apathetic, Artistic, Athletic, or Traditional. We then selected one person from each grade, for each group and gave them an assignment: complete a yearbook spread to show what it means to be you. We hope this brings a few more perspectives to the book and these particular spreads can be found in pages 46-53.

"School doesn't help as much as what I can teach myself."

-Kip Rogers (10)

apathetic

"I like art. It helps me forget where I am."

-Nick Barbeln (11)

artistic

"I like sports for the challenge. You are always being pushed and encouraged to raise your standards and reach your highest potential. They are just a lot of fun."

-Ashley Poirier (9)

athletic

"I am proud to be a traditional student because of our easy going personalities and our ability to shine in our school. We know when to work hard to achieve our goals and when it's time to take a break and live life to the fullest! Class of 2000 Rocks!"

Mindi Marie Andersen

Love...without it there's no way of surviving.

Daniel Ross Anonen

You can never lose while you are fighting, you can only lose when you stop.

Christina Marie Armstrong

Yesterday's gone, tomorrow's too far away, so I think I'll just try to live life for today.

Angela Rose Bammert

Let your heart guide you...but listen closely, because it whispers.

Aaron Patrick Barthel

Jeremy Michael Barthel

John Carl Barthel

Like all good things, it comes to an end way too soon.

Laura Jean Barthel

Never pass up the opportunity to tell someone you love them.

Brianna Jo Bechtold

I'll lean on you, and you lean on me, and we'll be okay.

Jason Lee Becker

If there was a problem yo, I'll solve it.

John Alvar Becker

Give it your all, and do it with a smile!

Dustin John Beltrand

I sensed my loss before I even learned to talk.

Traci Lee Bergstrom

Thank you Lord for giving us this good life, and forgive us if we do not love it enough.

Robert Carlton Billman

If you're killed, you've lost a very important part of your life.

Michelle Elizabeth Bixler

Jennifer Lynn Bjork
There's nothing more magical than laughter.

Cari-Ana Lee Bloberger
Knowledge speaks, but wisdom listens.

Derek Jon Brant
The Love of Competition: You're only as good as your competition. If you want to be the best, you have to beat the best.

Joleen Marie Brown
Be aware that a halo has only a few inches to fall to be a noose.

Jamie Lynn Cagle
The poor man is not he who is without a cent, but he who is without a dream.

Gerald Paul Chenvert
The greater the obstacle, the more glory in overcoming it.

Steven Michael Chew
In three words, I can sum up everything I've learned about life: IT GOES ON.

Kate Jacobea Christensen
Other people may be there to help us, teach us, guide us along our path. But the lesson to be learned is always ours.

Emily Anne Christenson
It is not fair to ask of others what you are not willing to do yourself.

Travis Allen Cook
Procrastination is the art of keeping up with yesterday.

Benjamin Joseph Dehmer
The most dangerous predator known to man is woman.

Eric James Dick
Life is 10% what you make it and 90% how you take it.

Thomas John Diederich
Fill what's empty, empty what's full, and itch what needs to be itched.

Brandon Duane Duren
Learn from yesterday, live today, hope for tomorrow.

Bridget Marie Eliason
A smile is a light in the window of the soul indicating that the heart is at home.

Janell Liane Erkkila

Twenty years from now you will be more disappointed by the things you didn't do than by the ones you did do...Explore. Dream. Discover.

Karla Marie Eull

Keep your face to the sunshine and you cannot see the shadows.

Jessica Kerry Evermann

Do not ask of others what you are not willing to do yourself.

Anthony David Falbo

We are the youth, and we are knockin' on death's door.

Derek James Fore

I don't know the key to success, but the key to failure is to try to please everyone.

Joshua Ronald Fornelli

Hard work spotlights the character of people; some turn up their sleeves, some turn up their noses, and some don't turn up at all.

Michael Douglas Gniot

Don't take life too seriously, because you can't come out of it alive.

Jeff Carl Goeb

Kurt Joseph Gutzwiller

No gutz no glory.

Alexander Walter Haag

Life sucks and then you die.

Kimberly Ann Hackenmueller

Destiny is not a matter of chance, it is a matter of choice, it is not a thing to be waited for, it is a thing to be achieved.

Martin Jon Hackenmueller

I have never let my schooling interfere with my education.

Jillian Elizebeth Haller

Hold on to your dreams, for if dreams die, it is like a broken winged bird that cannot fly.

Amanda Jo Hanson

Learning to love yourself is the greatest love of all.

Kristopher James Hanson

Sarah Dawn Hanson

It's funny how we never get too old to learn some new way to be stupid.

Stephanie Anne Harselaar

A day without sunshine is like, you know, night.

Nikole Ann Hemann

Take time to laugh, it's the music of the soul.

Jessica Lynn Hess

We don't spend our lives finding out who we are. We spend our lives creating who we want to be.

Trisha Lynn Holm

Be careful what you think- your thoughts become words.

Eric Anthony Illies

Life is a process and not an event. You have to enjoy the journey! There is more to the trip than just getting to your destination.

Angie Marie Johnson

All the talent in the world is worth nothing without the will to work.

Lindsay Janelle Johnson

Climb high, climb far, your goal the sky, your aim the stars.

Myles Reed Johnson

Live for today and let the future take care of itself.

Ryan Michael Justen

If you see something you want, don't hesitate and think about it, just make up your mind and go for it.

Amy Nicole Karlson

You will find as you look back upon your life that the moments when you have truly lived are the moments when you have done things in the spirit of love.

Amy Lynn Kasper

Life is a gift from God. Open it with happiness!

Jeannine Rhea Kasper

God grant me SERENITY to accept things I cannot change, COURAGE to change things I can, & WISDOM to know the difference.

Michelle Denise Kleist

The best way to make your dreams come true is to wake up.

Eric Eugene Kolles

We didn't lose the game; we just ran out of time.

Jeffrey Steven Kolles
You have to take the pain to be worthy of the reward.

Amber Lynn Kuhn
Trust in the Lord with all of your heart, and lean not on your own understanding. In all of your ways acknowledge Him and He will make your paths straight.

Amber Rose Langford
To see a world in a grain of sand & a heaven in a wildflower, hold infinity
in the palm of your hand
& eternity in an hour.

Tessa Jean Lenneman
Talent is God's gift to you,
how you use it is your gift to God.

Katherine Jane Lidberg
There are two ways of spreading light: to be the candle or the mirror that reflects it.

Jane Marie Lindenfesler
Light the path for tomorrow with steps you make today.

Jared Duane Lindenfesler
If you can't spot the sucker in 30 seconds, then you are the sucker.

Sarah Ruth Lindenfesler
Anything worth having is worth waiting for.

Amanda Beth Lubke
Don't drive faster than your guardian angel can fly.

Eric Richard Luken
The roles we play are a dead-ended game, we must change, create, and rearrange.

Kari Rachel Lundeen
It's all in your head...

Joseph John Lynch
Most people run a race to see who is fastest. I run a race to see who has the most guts.

Jennifer Lynn Mathison
Start everyday with a smile and get it over with.

Shane Patrick
McLaughlin
Our greatest glory is not in never failing but in rising
each time we fall.

Nicole Lynn O'Donnell
There wouldn't be a sky
full of stars if we were all meant to wish on the same one.

Daniel Paul Olson

Happiness is not having everything, it's being content with what you have.

Anne Marie Oullette

Respect the opinions of others even if you disagree. Live in harmony with one another. Don't be proud, but be willing to associate with people of low position. Do not be conceited.

Jeffrey Paul Partridge

Jahna Roselle Peloquin

Always remember that you're unique—just like everyone else.

Nickol Jean Petersen

Keith Alan Peterson

Live life your own way, but don't get caught.

Sarah Elizabeth Pichler

Adam Henry Plantenberg

Exactly!

Benjamin Gerald Polaschek

Adam Donald Praught

In three words I can sum up everything I've learned about life: It goes on!

Jean Marie Prokott

If you don't read a book because someone says it's bad, then you are going to miss out on a lot of good books.

Heidi Jo Rademacher

Live each day as though your life has just begun.

Amy Rae Reemts

Martin Otto Robeck

Always remember, you can't clean something with a dirty hand.

Alexis Louise Cecilia Roden

Two wrongs don't make a right, because in life, we add, not multiply.

Blake Joseph Rosso

There's no point in living if you can't feel alive.

Keith Gerald Schirmers

10% of life is what you live, and 90% of life is what you want to live.

Jordan Joseph Schneider

Never tell people how to do things, tell them what to do and they will surprise you with their ingenuity.

Alison Kathleen Sellers

A sense of humor is what makes you laugh at something that would make you angry if it happened to you.

Sarah Bridget Sellers

I've had a wonderful time, but it wasn't here.

Theresa Marie Shovelain

Two roads diverged in a wood, and I - I took the one less traveled by, and that has made all the difference.

Nathan Scott Shulstad

Nicole Marie Sieber

Dare to be a Cheesehead.

Ryan Leander Sieg

Love does not begin and end the way we seem to think it does. Love is a battle, love is war, love is growing up.

Steven Daniel Steele

God has blessed me with overcoming the greatest challenges and the greatest defeats.

Christine Petra Stockmann

Expect the unexpected.

Jacob Christopher Thell

Don't sweat the small stuff.

Sarah Ann Trebesch

After silence, that which comes nearest to expressing the inexpressible is music.

Melissa Marie Trettin

An idea that is not dangerous is unworthy of being called an idea at all.

Amanda Rose Valerius

If you trust and believe in yourself, there's no limit to what you can do.

Barbara Janet VanHoorik
Cherish the things in life that are important to you. Without them, life is meaningless.

William Joseph Vee
Be yourself and good things will happen.

Jessica Ann Vetsch
We promise according to our hopes and perform according to our fears.

Maureen Theresa Vetsch
It doesn't matter what you do, as long as you change something from the way it was before you touched it-into something that's like you after you take your hands away.

Shelley Jeanne Vetsch
Fight the things you don't want to live with. Talk about the things that bother you. Ask why it has to be that way. Then change it.

Melissa Ann Walter

Rhonda Marie Waxweiler
You have to be prepared to die before you can begin to live.

Jennifer Lynn Weber
I have let myself dream freely and pursue the dreams that really move me.

Scott Robert Weber
Nothing lasts forever, not even your problems.

Brittani Kay Wegner
A friend is someone who dances with you in the sunlight and walks with you in the shadows.

Theron Adam Yantes
Life is like a box of chocolates, ya never know what you're gonna get.

Bethany Sue Zachman

Chad Thomas Zachman

Dustin Terence Zachman
We make a living by what we get, we make a life by what we give.

Emily Rose Zachman
If you always do what interests you, at least one person is pleased.

Jodi Marie Zachman

If you judge people, you have no time to love them.

Joseph Allen Zachman

Things that need to be said are usually inappropriate, therefore, I say nothing.

Kathryn Danielle Zachman

The City of Happiness is located in the State of Mind.

Travis William Zachman

Only those who risk going too far can possibly find out how far one can go.

Tressa Maria Zachman

Breonna Marie Zahler

In my eyes, the junior class stands out because...

I think that the junior class is very competitive.

– Ashley Baldrige

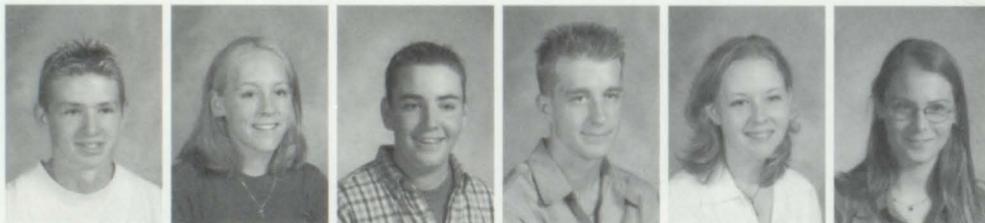

We stand out because we believe that we can make it no matter what, and no one can hold us down. JUNIORS RULE!!!!

– Tom Smith

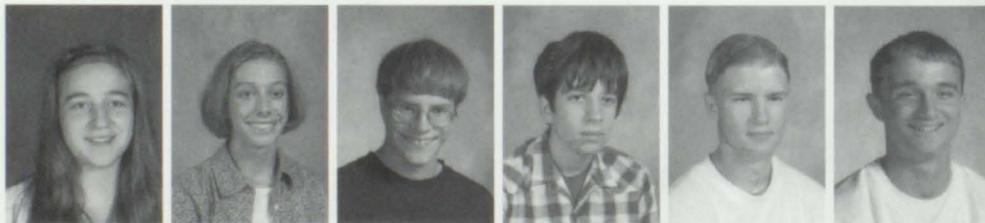

We never got drug down by other peoples' negativity, and we started our own trends regardless of what others would say.

While working in art class, Denelle McAlpine studies information for an upcoming project.

Discussing their morning in the junior hallway, friends Brandon Balfanz and Jessica Dawson get ready with others, including Natalya Galdina from Russia, for the long school day.

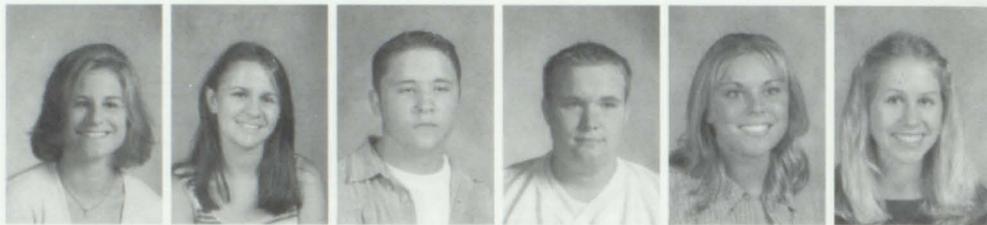

At the Thirty Hour Famine, most students just hang out with their friends while starving. However, as Katie Keizer, Betsy Koch, Erin Schumacher, and Cristine Erickson show, that doesn't mean you lose your sense of humor.

Is it true that the junior year is the hardest?

Yes, it is because all of your hard classes get scheuled into one semester and you get stuck with endless hours of homework every night.

—Anne Stenglein

It's already been very hectic. When you put together your classes, sports, Student Council, work, and the rest of your life! You almost go crazy!

—Brittany Bauman

Maybe, it just depends if you actually want to accomplish something during your senior year!

—Tiffany Zachman

a different culture

Foreign exchange students must be able to fluently speak a second language-English. This is an amazing achievement that Luisa de León, Natalya Galdina, and Christine Stockmann have accomplished in America.

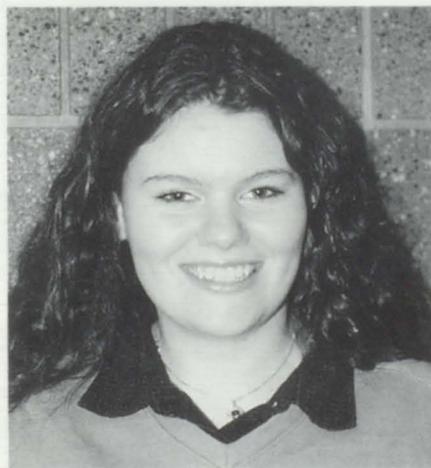

St. Michael-Albertville Sr. High had two foreign exchange students this year for the entire year: Christine Stockmann from Germany and Natalya Galdina from Russia. For the second semester, they were joined by Luisafernanda de León from Guatemala. All three were involved in school activities. Natalya used her artistic abilities to help out with the school musical and also participated in the one act and speech. Christine played on varsity tennis and softball, while Luisa joined the track team. They meet on various Thursdays during SNAP to share their joys and challenges. All three are meeting new people and experiencing new things in Minnesota.

By Emily Zachman

At times, instructions can be overwhelming in class. Since Christine Stockmann's native language is German—not English—Jennifer Anderson, better explains the assignment.

Christine Stockmann, 17, Germany

My most unforgettable comment was, "So you are from Germany?! Do you speak German?" My favorite American food is not the school lunch. My favorite thing about STMA was that I enjoyed the school activities and I think the school spirit thing is kind of fun, because you don't find that in Germany. When I get home, I'm going to: 1. Have a "welcome home" party with my friends and family. 2. Unpack my 1,000 souvenirs and new clothes I bought here. 3. mmh, I don't know yet, but I'll find something to do. My hobbies include skiing/snowboarding, hanging out with friends, listening to music, and going to movies. I am involved in tennis and softball at school. There are more things to Germany than just BMW, beer brands, and World War II.

Natalya Galdina, 16, Russia

Something I find interesting is bowling. My most unforgettable comment was, "Do you speak Russian?" My favorite American food is pizza. My favorite thing about STMA is school activities. My favorite thing about Minnesota is people. My least favorite thing about Minnesota is the weather. The first 3 things I'm going to do when I get home are go to school, go to swim in the sea, and partying. My hobbies include camping, swimming, travelling, reading, and drawing. I am involved in choir, the musical, the one act, and speech at school. There are more things to Russia than just communism, vodka, and cold weather.

Luisafernanda de León, 19, Guatemala

Something I find interesting are guys and yellow snow. My most unforgettable comment was, "How are the cars in Guatemala?" and "Have you eaten pizza?" My favorite American food is hamburgers. My hobbies include going to night clubs with friends and dancing, eating, and watching TV. My career goals are to be a graphic designer or architect, or be the best couch potato. I am involved in choir & track at school.

The Freshmen class stands out because "we all know how to have a good time while still managing our impressions," according to Megan Christensen.

After fasting for 30 hours, Sacha Orozco desperately calls for a ride home.

In my eyes, the freshman class

because...

We're all intelligent enough to know we're the best.

- Dan Christenson

At the beginning of the year we were all running around asking teachers for our rooms, but now we're more confident about high school.

- Jacki Johnson

They try to understand and try really hard to do what they are supposed to do. They get along with each other and they help each other when someone asks for help.

"Physical fitness is not only one of the most important keys to a healthy body, it is the basis of dynamic and creative intellectual activity. The relationship between the soundness of the body and the activities of the mind is subtle and complex. Much is not yet understood. But we do know what the Greeks knew: that intelligence and skill can only function at the peak of their capacity when the body is healthy and strong; that hardy spirits and tough minds usually inhabit sound gods."

what did you do over summer break?

Soccer most of summer, went to Michigan, Mexico, went to friends' houses.

-James Medina (9)

Worked, slept.

-Bill Hudson (11)

I went backpacking in the Porcupine Mts., where a black bear crushed my glasses case. I was terribly offended. I also went to Europe for 3 weeks!!

-Jessyca Duerr (11)

Soccer (Rules), Tennis, Yearbook & Swimming.

-Emily Zachman (12)

Worked, swimming, camping, horse-back riding, and chilled with friends and family.

-Cherish Cheney (11)

Slept in and did nothing.

-Joy Erickson (11)

I made some really great friends at Jubilee and went to Perkins every week!

-Angie Rines (11)

Gymnastics, gymnastics, gymnastics. 20 hours a week.

-Cassie Johnston (10)

While in Colorado, Jean Prokott, Mrs. Koss, Alexis Roden, and Emily Zachman joined the rest of the Minnesotans on the Cog Train up to Pikes Peak.

fun in the sun

This past summer brought many adventures to STMA's students whether it was camp, a trip, work, or just being with friends. Cheer-leading camp, band camp, and tennis camp are a few events that took place.

Some students kept in shape with weight training classes. Many had fun on trips to Colorado as well as foreign countries such as Mexico and France. Still others joined thousands at concerts such as Ozz Fest and Lilith Fair.

By Jessica Vetsch

While in Colorado for Marching Band, Renae Anderson and Jessica Dawson enjoy the carousel in Six Flags.

During their trip to Chicago, Shelley Vetsch and Sarah Trebesch take time to relax, watch, and listen to Jazz at the Rivonia Festival.

Wearing their underdog t-shirts, the Track Team celebrates the Boys' first place finish at the State Track Meet at National Sports Center in Blaine.

While taking advantage of the time they still have left to be in the outdoors, Sophomores Tina Lidberg, Alison Kleist, Tracy Reining, Jenna Oliver, Steph Helm, and Beth VanHoorik gather together after the all-school picnic lunch.

what did you think of the first day of school?

I was nervous and confused and it was hectic.

-Cassie Bixler (9)

I didn't want to be back here.

-Leann Stafford (11)

It was fun to see all your friends and talk to those you didn't see during the summer.

-Christina Kelter (10)

Great! I have to get up early again.

-Tom Smith (11)

I was very excited and anxious to get started.

-Mrs. Welty

It was the last first day of high school.

-Mindi Andersen (12)

It was my last first day and my brother's first first day of High School, and it was the first first day I arrived before the bell rang, because I finally got to drive everyday.

-Alexis Roden (12)

After picking up her schedule and materials in the gym, Mr. Minkler helps direct Chelsea Greninger to her first hour class.

a different routine

As students file into the school building on the first day of yet another year of studying & early mornings, anxious feelings are aroused. With the Freshmen asking "Where is my next class?" to the Seniors thinking it's their year to slack, the first day of school is a day in which many students think that the only good thing is the chance to greet friends not seen over break and laugh about summer memories.

After picking up their schedules in the gym, students were allowed to take a late start for their first class, followed with a break between A and B block. Later in the day at an all-school lunch, students headed outside to enjoy the sunshine and picnic on the grass. Music livened the party and people chatted with friends about the new school year. Finally, the last activity that kept the day from being too unbearable, was a pep-fest held in the gym. Now if only all the days would be like this, it wouldn't be too hard to adjust to the early morning wake-up calls.

By Julie Falbo &
Jessica Etheridge

Along with most of the Freshmen, Lydia Lechner wonders "Where do I go now?"

Chatting about the upcoming school year, Mr. Skogen, Sra. Jordahl, and Ms. Cornelius help to supervise the students outside in the sun.

Homecoming Royalty: (L to R) Jane Lindenfesler, Jodi Zachman, Amy Kasper, Trisha Holm, Maureen Vetsch, Johnny Barthel, Derek Brant, Jerry Chenvert, Joe Zachman, and Travis Zachman.
Junior Royalty: Tara Rose Nagengast and Tayler Vetsch.

what did you think of the coronation ceremonies?

Miniscus was awesome.
 -Adam Plantenberg (12)

It was romantic.
 -Dan Beach (10)

Very fun. Great to see all about the candidates and faces of those who won. Band and bon-fire-super fun.
 -Chelsea Hosch (9)

It's based on popularity and looks and I don't think it's a good idea.
 -Traci Bergstrom (12)

Lots of fun-next year is going to be even better, though!
 -Kelly Hofford (11)

Didn't go, Vikings were on.
 -John Dawson (11)

Excitement filled the air on coronation night as Johnny Barthel and Maureen Vetsch were named 1999 Homecoming King and Queen.

a unique reign

Coronation offered many new changes and events this year as several people worked together to make it fun and exciting. The event started off with the Junior class officers visiting the Homecoming candidates' first hour classes to surprise them with a crown and to announce to them their title of royalty. Then, the candidates were involved in a variety of activities throughout Homecoming Week, ranging from greeting the Freshmen to becoming lunch helpers. Also, this was the first year that St. Michael-Albertville saw coronation take place in the gymnasium due to the growth of the district. The night of coronation itself was just as exciting as the week's activities that surrounded it. The evening was topped off by the crowning of Johnny Barthel and Maureen Vetsch as King and Queen and Miniscus, a local band, playing for students at the bonfire following coronation.

By Malina Zachman & Jacquelyn Wallerius

It came much to her surprise as Jane Lindenfesler was named a Homecoming candidate while sitting in class one morning.

Although shocked, Trisha Holm stays calm and collected while being crowned as a Homecoming candidate.

To prepare for the football game Homecoming night, Freshmen Sarah Sirois, Kim Jokinen, and Ashley Poirier volunteer their efforts to put together the programs for the game.

what did you think of homecoming week?

It was fun, keep making Freshmen wear pink.

—Kevin Hegland (9)

It was the funnest week of the whole school year!!!

—Ashley Weber (9)

There was no parade.

—Joe Lynch (12)

It was fun, because we made t-shirts.

—Alison Sellers (12)

Fun as always! I love looking at everyone in their blue and gold!

—Brittani Wegner (12)

Needed a parade.

—Mike Gniot (12)

Pajama Day is always my favorite.

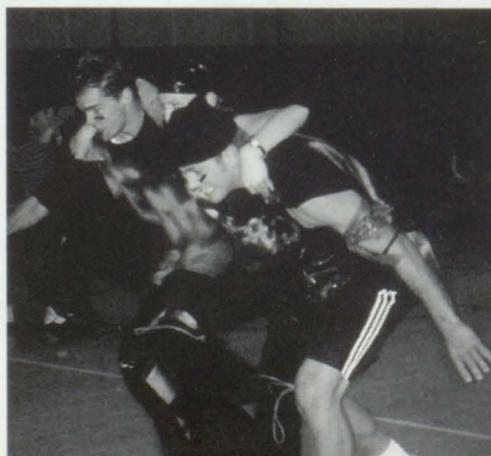

—Mindi Andersen (12)

Showing off the school colors for the big game, Freshmen Sara Vanderveen, Ashley Weber, Sara Cook, and Andrea Hess deck themselves out.

Racing in the three legged race, Joy Lynch, Tessa Lenneman, and Marty Hackenmueller try to gain more points for the seniors.

spirit and victory

With all of the
the spirit,
chaos, and
excitement,

Homecoming Week is one of the most memorable events of the school year. With activities organized by the NHS and Student Council, students embraced the STMA school spirit that brings the school to life. The National Honor Society prepared "Days of the Week" enabling students to use their creativity and dress up according to different themes assigned to each day. At the beginning of the week, Coronation was held, and King Johnny Barthel and Queen Maureen Vetsch were crowned. Following Coronation was the bon fire, where the students socialized with each other while having a little clean fun listening to Miniscus.

On Thursday, "Battle of
At the battle of classes, the pie eating contest was hilarious to watch. Participants Anne Oullette (12), Amanda May (11), and Tom Cavanaugh (10) eat through the whip cream to find the jelly bean.

Before the game, it is customary to sing the National Anthem. This year Angie Johnson (12) volunteered to lead the crowd as colorguard members, Danielle Smith (10) and Tessa Lenneman (12) salute the flag.

the Classes" was held, and the Senior class dominated the event. (This is despite misconceptions that the competition is rigged—nobody will ever know). The Juniors followed with second place, the Freshman took third, and the Sophomores took fourth. Finally, not to forget the main events of the week, STMA sports were well-enthused and well-played. Tennis and volleyball played Delano on Thursday. Volleyball lost 3-1, while tennis won 7-0. Finally the football team defeated Annandale in the game on Friday with a score of 59-12. The school gave hats off to all of the athletes, although students like to think that it was their support that actually led the teams to victory.

what did you think of halloween this year?

Fun—need more people to dress up.

—Chantelle Arone (9)

Embarrassing.

—Kari Holvik (9)

I thought it was kind of boring because I just watched horror movies.

—Lydia Lechner (9)

Halloween was fun, it was my first actual celebration of this holiday and I'm going to celebrate it next year with my friends too.

—Natalya Galdina (11)

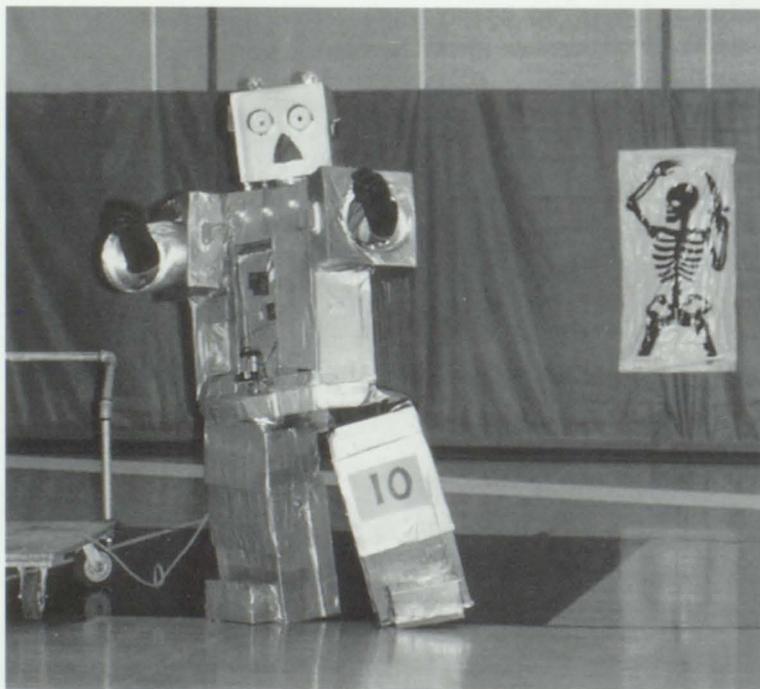

I thought it was awesome and I'm glad people dressed up.

—Anne Ouellette (12)

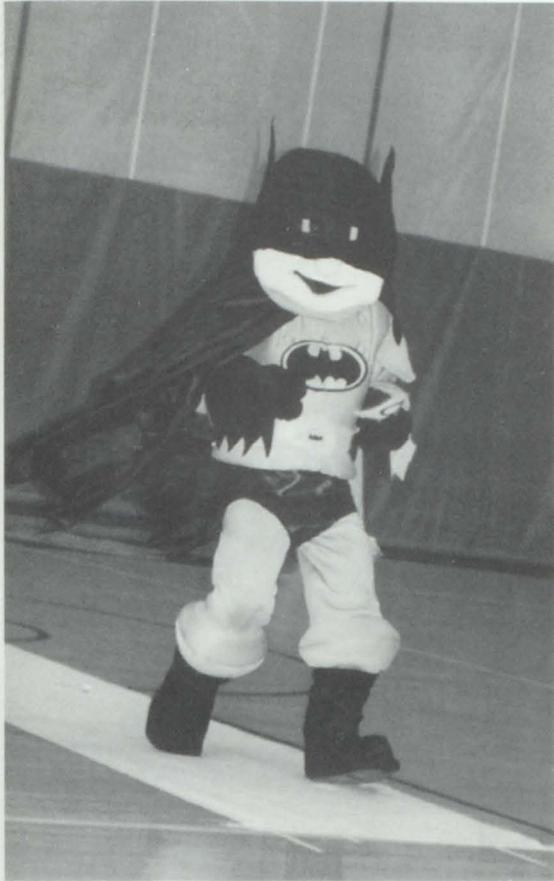

This Halloween ruled, I love candy.

—Nels Spence (11)

Stunning the crowd is a working robot (Dan Olsen) and his scientific creators. They walked away with the Most Creative and Best Crowd Reaction awards.

Making his first appearance as the dark hero Batman, Sir Michael of Albert (Bob Shoup) saunters down the runway.

spooky sightings

Halloween is on October 31st, which is also All Saints' Eve. Halloween started during the ancient times of the Druids and Celts. The evening of October 31st was the last day of their year. Celts would light fires to ward off evil spirits. The evil spirits would be summoned by Samhain, the lord of the dead. These spirits were thought to bring on the cold weather. In 43 A.D., the Romans conquered the Celts and adopted the Celtic New Year's Eve. They combined the New Year's Eve and two Roman holidays, Feralia, a festival honoring the Roman goddess of fruit, Pomona. The holiday was then named All Hallow's E'en-hallow meaning a holy person and e'en meaning evening. Later it was shortened and called Halloween.

The trick or treating part comes from an old Irish tradition. On the evening of Oct. 31st, beggars would go begging at rich peoples' homes. They would give the beggars things. If they weren't generous, they believed that Muck Olla, a god, would destroy their nice home. The dressing up in costumes really didn't come from anything, but people used to believe in witches and other mythical characters, which leads to people dressing up like fictional characters. Gradually the holiday reached America, and now it is one of the top holidays that children look forward to.

To continue the tradition, STMA students dressed up in costumes on October 29th, a Friday. A few of the costumes were a dead gardener with a dead flower, a robot and assistant scientists, the main characters of Wizard of Oz, and TLC (the music group) by Kristen Antil, Megan Christensen, & Cassie Bixler. The different contest categories were creativity, scariest, cutest, and crowd reaction. In addition to the contestants, many other students, and several teachers, dressed up on October 29th. Some classes even had treats for the day.

By Katie Kiesner
& Heather Satrang

The deadly duo Kari Holvik (gardener) and Rachel Hoeschen (flower) entered the costume contest on their last leg and root.

Decking the Halls, Seniors Nikki Hemann, Shelly Vetsch, and Sarah Trebesch go Hawaiian style with this recreation of Santa Claus in the sun—a sure winner as the Seniors received first place in the Deck the Halls contest.

what were your predictions for the millennium?

Nothing would happen. We flipped the breaker and all the girls screamed and huddled in a group saying I love you, oh my God we're gonna die.

—Chris Dellwo (10)

END OF WORLD!

—Elias Bresin (10)

I thought the world would blow up.

—Ben Polaschek (12)

We would blow up—but we didn't.

—Ashley Rathbun (9)

Apocolypse and some games.

—Mark Peloquin (9)

The electricity was not gonna go out. Computers were gonna function in a funny way.

—Andrea Bloomquist (9)

Power would go out and there would be street riots.

—Kent Aalderks (11)

An inspiration to all. It was a beautiful thing how everyone pulled together in case anything happened. It's an inspiring beginning to a great millenium.

—Eric Holland (11)

Hans and Franz were back this year, although Franz had to make a late entry. When he did come in-selling their "body bungi" for only $49.99, $79.99, $99.99—Hans had to carry him out to make him stop.

holiday

traditions

On Wednesday December 22nd, students entered the school full of Christmas spirit as music filled the hallways, decorations lined the lockers, and friends laughed and talked over Christmas plans. But elsewhere over the world different celebrations and traditions were going on from the O-Bon festival in Japan, Diwali in Hindu, and The Three Kings in Puerto Rico.

While all the celebrations are used to bring family together, they all have their own traditions. In Japan they celebrate by lighting bonfires and lanterns to guide the spirits of family and friends down to earth. African Americans celebrate Kwanzaa and they remember their history and customs while having seven days of celebration and work together while being creative. The Jewish people celebrate Chanukkah by having eight days set aside to sing, eat, play games, and tell stories, all while lighting the candles of the menorah, their central theme. Besides these celebrations there is also Boxing Day in Zimbawbe, Parol in the Philippines, Yule in Norway, and Germany's main holiday is Advent.

Here at school, many traditions were continued as well. NHS organized Toys for Tots and the mitten tree, while Student Council sponsored the Penny Wars and the Elf Auction. Both of these events were a great success, with Joe Zachman & Marty Hackenmueller being purchased for $80 and Josh Fornelli for $60 at the Elf Auction. Student Council brought in $1300 for Adopt-A-Family and $800 for the Justin Korteum Cancer Fund.

As the teachers and staff at St. Michael-Albertville High School put on skits and music celebrating Christmas, other countries were prepared and ready for yet another celebration. However it may go and wherever they may be, Christmas is one celebration that everyone joins together in.

By Katie Kiesner
& Heather Satrang

The Seniors got into the holiday spirit in the tasks they had to do for the Elf Auction. The owners of Karla Eull, Brittani Wegner, and Bridget Eliason made them perform a line dance to "Jingle Bells."

As a reward for bringing in mittens and toys, students had the opportunity to sit on Santa's (Tony Griffin-10) lap and have a commemorative picture taken.

Presentations can be quite stressful, as seen by Nathan Jackson pointing to Tony Jamison in the middle of a presentation, letting Tony know that it's his turn to speak, while Todd Hicks hides behind the poster.

what kind of stress has plagued you this year?

ACT test.

-Eric Kolles (12)

I had a lot of stress because of work and school.

-Jillian Haller (12)

I got very stressed when Mabel (my prized chicken) wouldn't win.

-Tony Falbo (12)

I have had everything and every kind of stress known to mankind.

-Tasha Foss (11)

Chemistry.

-Jessica Vetsch (12)

Too much Grad-Standards crap!

-Nicole Roddy (10)

Grad-Standards are too much work.

-Jason Schulz (10)

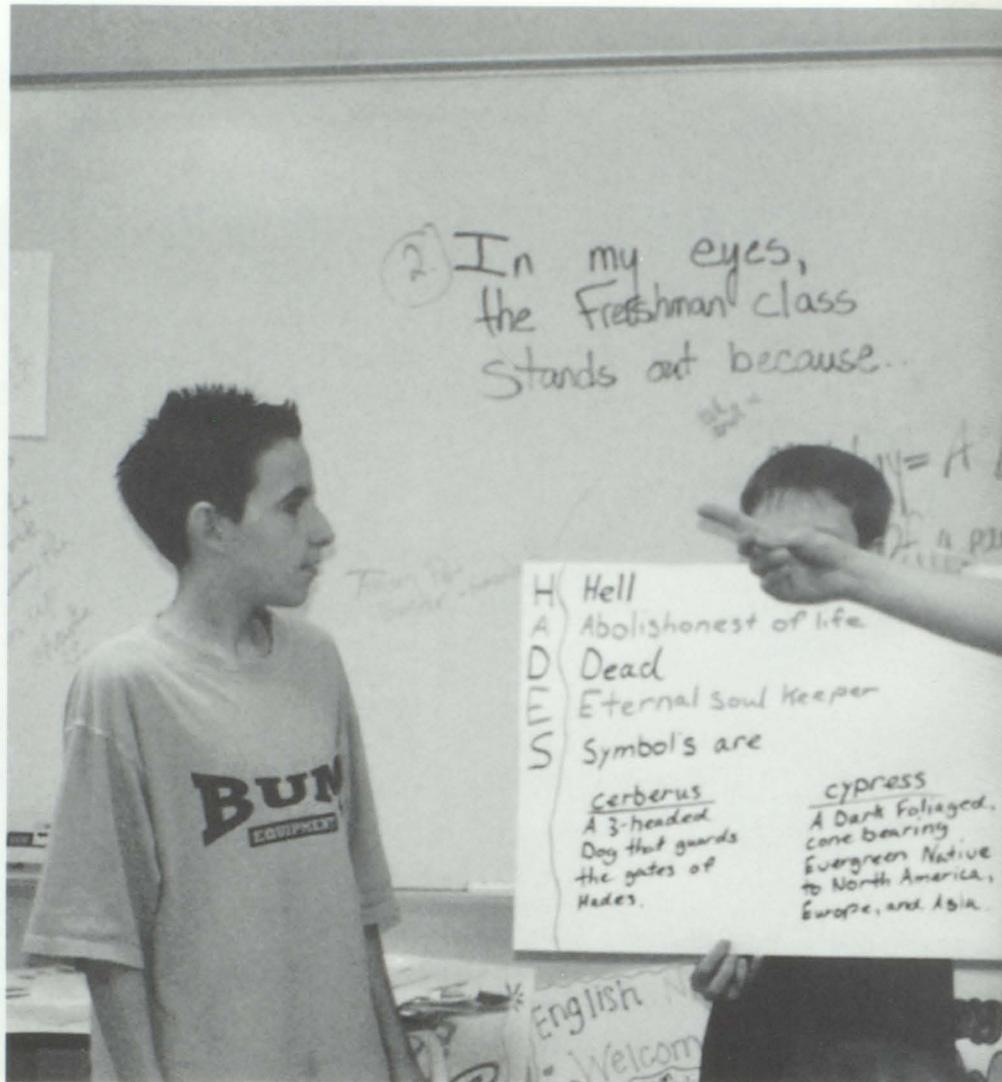

All my harder classes are over, time for some relaxing.

-Courtney Flanagan (11)

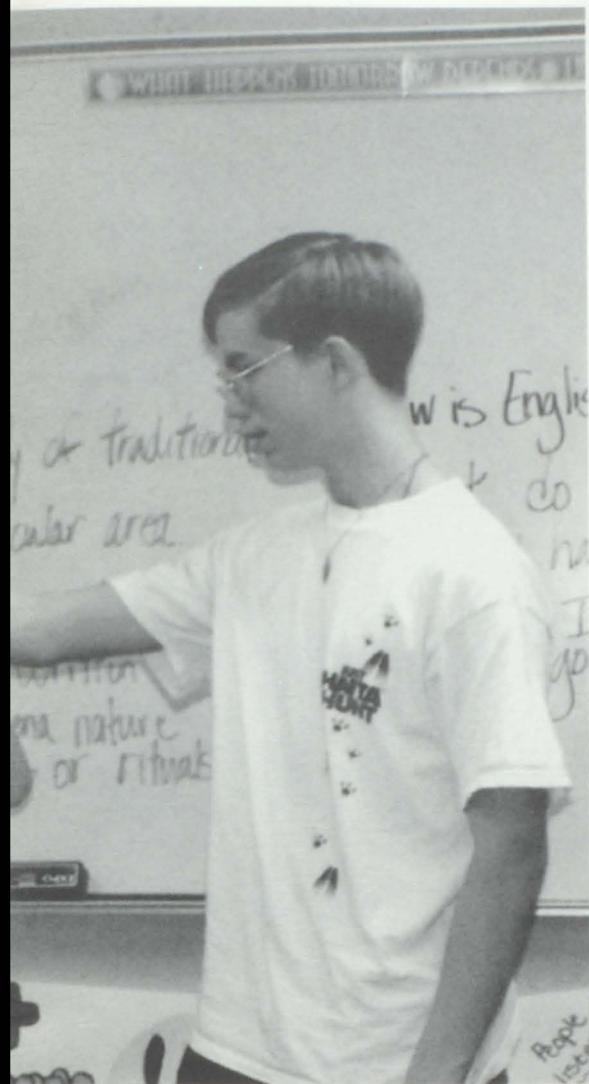

Intense Amounts-school is Ahhh!

-Jackie Radunz (11)

Stress also comes with sports and extracurricular activities, during wrestling season, Billy Vee takes a break from aiding Mrs. Heinks' art class.

finals, testing, & stress

When it comes to hard work & studying, most STMA students nearly pull out every hair from their heads. Most students have a heck of a lot more. Many students enjoy the stress; they involve themselves with extra-curricular activities in order to improve their abilities and relationships with others. Some of the stress is unwelcomed and causes students to literally lose their minds. An accurate portrait of this would be the college entrance exams for Juniors and Seniors to show their basic knowledge. Over-stressed Senior Eric Luken only exaggerates the point, "the SAT's are the closest thing to hell that I've ever been through." But not only the Seniors are faced with stress. The underclassmen and their Graduation Standards have caused more work, and the community service that many students have to do is another stresser. The final weeks of the first and second semester are most likely to find students with tired and frustrated attire.

Teachers also are put under lots of stress during the school year, but most students don't recognize it. In the long run, all the stress builds character and prepares students for college. So, although now they have a good chance of going on a rampage of breakdowns, they will learn a little more about life on the way.

By Jean Prokott

The stress of homework is always a factor for students. Here Ashley Rathbun does her work, in hopes of having to do less at home.

Deciding to take a breather, Eric Luken stresses out over class work and in his case, everything.

Singing Valentines came around on February 11th. Here, Seniors Joleen Brown, Emily Christenson, Bridget Eliason, Laura Barthel and Steve Steele serenaded Joe Lynch and presented him with candy and a message.

what did you think of snow days?

I liked it, because we got to wear certain things every day of the week.

—Jessica Reese (11)

It was nice to have the "snowflakes fall" all through the week.

—Sarah Trebesch (12)

I thought Snow Days was really great this year, the candidates and the people who put it together did a great job.

—Christina Bloms (11)

I don't understand the election! It's just recognition of who's popular and who's not.

—Hilary Plantenberg (11)

Fun—but we should have had different days (new ones).

—Erin Waldeland (9)

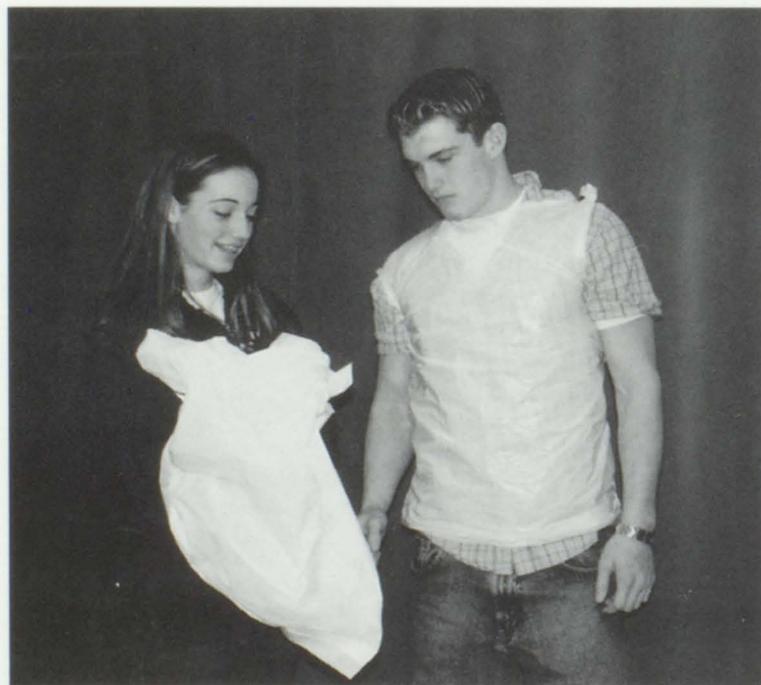

We had more fog days than snow days.

—Jerry Chenvert (12)

Fun. I liked the "She Thinks My Tractor's Sexy" skit.

—Ashley Rathbun (9)

On Friday at the Competition, Duchess Jenna Johanson turned Duke Ryan Zachman into a snowman as did all the other couples.

a festive week

In the bleak mid-winter, students need something to break the mundane cycle of everyday life. That thing has become Snow Days. The week itself is co-planned by Student Council and NHS. There is the Royal Court whose candidates were announced one pair per grade per day two weeks in advance. On Monday of Snow Week, each grade did a skit prior to the coronation. There were the traditional days of the week including Pajama Day, Dress Up Day, Winter Sweater Day, Forget Winter Day, and Bundle Up Day. On Wednesday and Thursday, students were treated to cookies in the cafeteria. Lastly, on Friday, there was a competition between grades with various snowy events.

Although Snow Days didn't fall right on Valentine's, other things took place for this holiday of love. Choir did Singing Valentines and gave the proceeds to the American Heart Association for the second year in a row. Target also sold flowers that were distributed on Monday the 14th.

By Alexis Roden

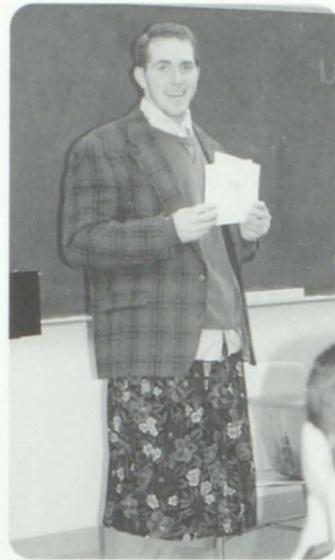

For their skit before coronation, Freshmen Joe Lefebvre, Ashley Poirier, Luke Carlson, and Lauren Wallerius, acted out the popular country song "She Thinks My Tractor's Sexy," bringing along a picnic lunch to their partner on the tractor.

The Royal Court: King and Queen Ben Dehmer and Karla Eull, Prince and Princess Jesse Hackenmueller and Jaquelyn Wallerius, Duke and Duchess Jenna Johanson and Ryan Zachman, and Court Jesters Luke Carlson and Lauren Wallerius.

business & computers

With changing technology, the business and computer classes provide preparation for nearly all future careers. Students involved in these classes participate in typing, accounting, personal business & finance, marketing & sales, business presentations, and other classes learning about specific computer programs.

Even if students don't wish to enter a career field involving computer applications or accounting, these classes provide a learning experience for the future of students that are willing to put their effort into them. Since the classes teach students the basic format of computer programs, they can not only learn programs for school, but can improve basic computer knowledge that is needed for the future.

By Jean Prokott

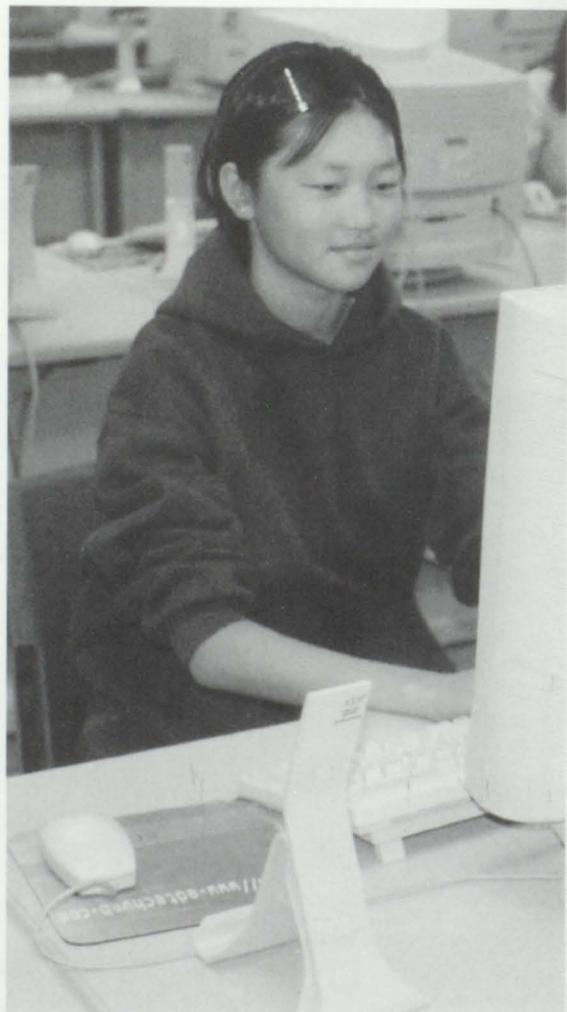

"When I was taught to type right, that was the best skill that I was ever taught."

-Darrell Skogen

In the Business and Computers department, Brian Winter and Renae Carlson teach the many classes that students opt to take.

The most common activities on a computer are typing, web browsing, and playing games. Since Freshman Linday Sipe's hands appear to be over the letters and not the arrows or mouse, she must be typing.

family & consumer sciences

Basic knowledge of basic living is taught in the family & consumer sciences (formerly—and still—known as living skills) courses. With these classes, students can prepare for future family life along with careers in different fields. Classes such as child development, nutrition & foods, and personal money management teach students facts about their life after high school. Fashion, textile arts & construction, and housing & interior design show students possibilities for careers and also knowledge for life after high school. Different varieties of students take these classes for different reasons. They learn about various cultures as well as their own. This is taught in class and by taking field trips.

By Jean Prokott

The foods room is very unique. How often do you see five or six kitchens in the same room? Along with these multiple kitchens, Anne Oullette (12) demonstrates a moving work station with a mirror so students can see what is going on without crowding around the demonstrator.

"One of my favorite pastimes is sewing, which I learned in the family and consumer science area."

—Renaë Carlson

Teaching kids how to hold down the fort, Darcie Pemberton teaches living skills from money management and fashion to child care and food preparation.

foreign language

¿Que tal? Çava? This year in the foreign language area, there have been many changes. One is the loss of Sra. Briel. To fill the position, two new teachers have been hired. Sr. Fair finished Sra. Briel's first semester classes and has continued to teach Spanish I and Spanish II. Sra. Clausen, who started at the beginning of the second semester is teaching only Spanish I.

In the French department, M. Muellerleile is on his second year at STMA, teaching French I, II, and III. One event happening soon is the upcoming trip to France this summer. With the support and interest in different cultures and languages, the foreign language classes have been growing and improving each year.

By Stephanie Gertken & Mara Erickson

"Foreign language is important because it causes you to open up your mind and see that there are other people in the world besides yourself."

-Dan Abrahamson

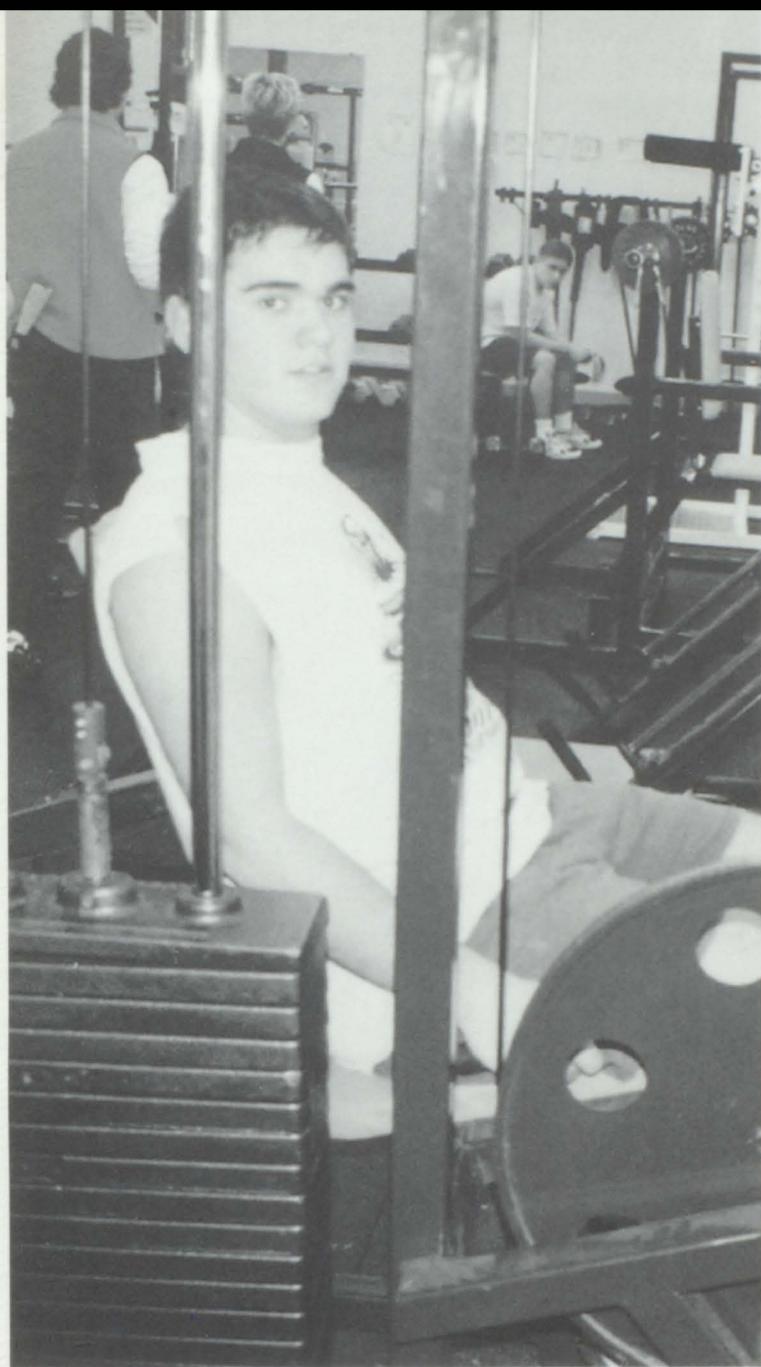

Presenting at the Minnesota Zoo, Juniors in Spanish III Amanda Merges, Melissa Pietsch, Jennifer Grambart, and Leah Scofield presented information on the iguana in Spanish.

Two foreign languages are offered at STMA. Jahna Clausen, Jon Muellerleile, Aaron Fair, and Gina Jordahl help to make foreign language fun and exciting.

gym & health

In the past, ninth and tenth graders had to take gym and health. That has now changed. Only ninth graders have to take both classes the first year they are in the high school. In order to graduate, students must take two full years of both gym and health the rest of their school career.

There are optional gym classes available to upper classmen, which include Team Sports, Individual Sports, and Weight Training.

In health, the basics are taught, like CPR, nutrition, metabolism, and a disease unit along with many more topics. The class also teaches students how to balance your physical, mental, and social health.

By Steph Helm & Bridget Kasper

Weight Training is one of the options when considering a gym class. It is also a unit in other more generalized classes as well. Dan Franklin uses his opportunity in the weight room to strengthen his muscles.

"Great things to learn."

—Brian Winter

Wow are they good! Jox Metcalf, Leslie Dingman, and Chris Wylke show off their athletic skills by spinning their basketball, football, and soccer ball.

With the skills that make and use the tools of technology, Scott Danielson, Roger Bovee, and Earl Bauman use their talents and knowledge to enrich the learning of their students.

Industrial & visual arts

Art classes at STMA are optional, proving that the students that take them have a true passion for art. The art department has a new teacher, Ms. Ness. Ms. Ness is teaching Studio Art and Sculpture classes. While Mrs. Heinks teaches Graphic Design and Ceramics, Ms. Hedlund teaches Photography. Art classes like sculpture, ceramics, graphic design, photography, drawing, and painting force students to be creative and find a new way to express themselves and possibly open new doors for their futures.

In the industrial tech area, the teachers are Mr. Bauman, Mr. Danielson, and the new addition, Mr. Bovee. The classes consist of Woods, CADD, Architectural Drafting, Technical Systems, Metal Technology, and Aviation. These create many hands on experiences for students that will prove to be valuable skills in the future.

By Emily Zachman

"Art is or can be an extension of oneself."

-Gina Jordahl

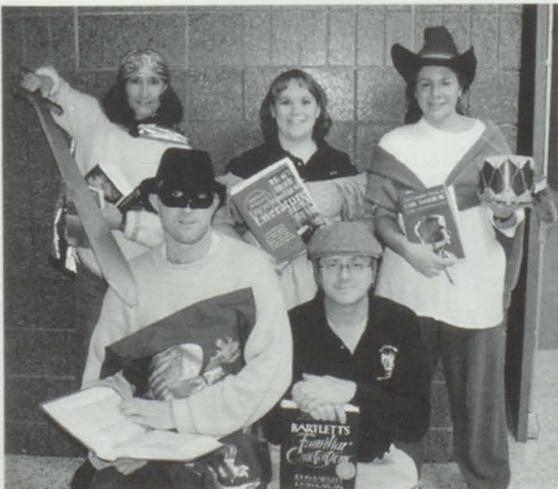

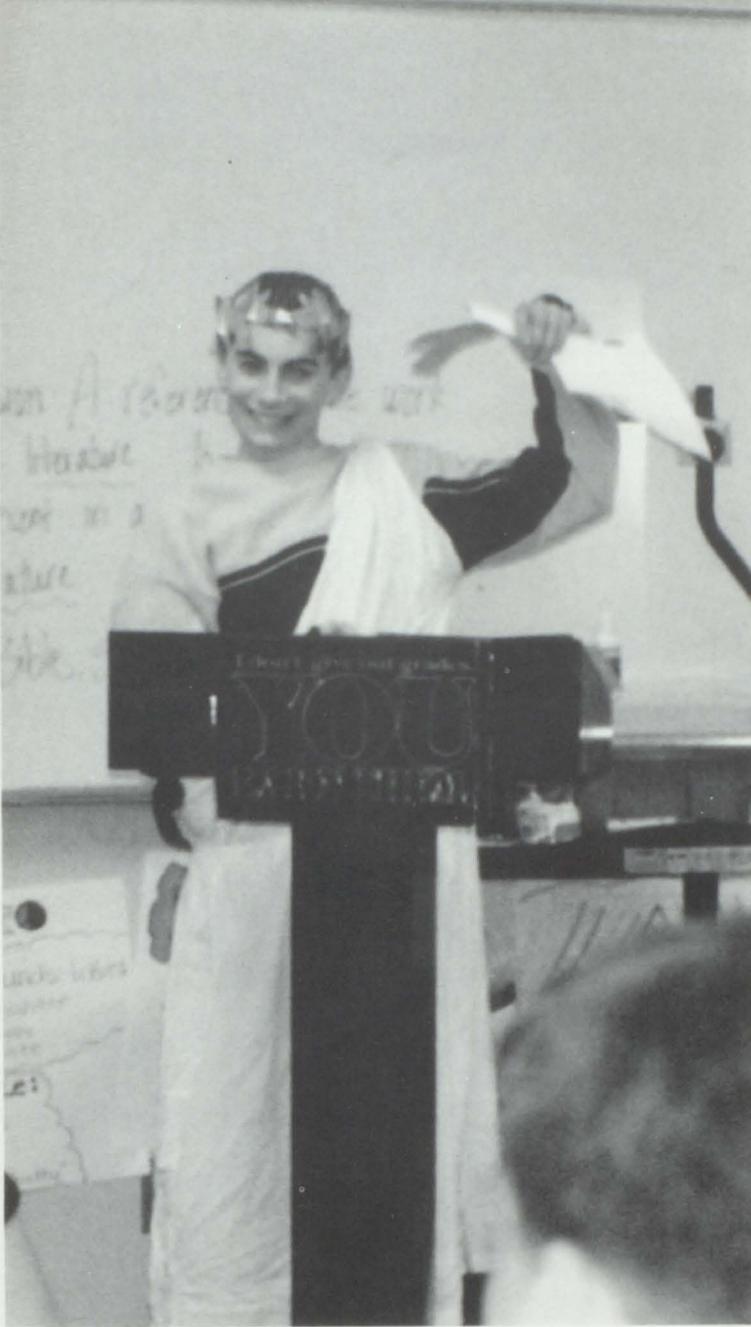

Teaching us how to be creative with many different mediums, Corina Ness, Kari Heinks, and Alice Hedlund explore the arts along with their students.

language arts

English at STMA can be looked at with many different views. Many students merely stride through English classes for the credit, while others take extra classes to improve their skills. Language arts classes help students create better relationships with their peers. Unrequired courses consist of classes that could possibly help students with their future careers. Theater Arts, Mass Media Communications, and Public Speaking give students a different perspective on things they want to do in life. The required classes allow students to enhance their views on literature by examining fiction and nonfiction works, and relating them to reality. Language arts gradually prepares students for life by teaching writing, grammar, vocabulary, comprehension, and interpretation. With these skills, students can make a good impression on others and prepare themselves for college and afterwards.

By Jean Prokott

In English 9, Freshmen learn about the Greek gods. Each class forms groups and presents information on their assigned god or goddess. As part of his presentation, Scott Gillette plays the part of Zeus.

At their usual hallway post, Janet Welty, Jeremy Hoffman, Michelle Koss, Michael Frickstad, and Erica Johnson, raid the props cupboard and also grab their favorite books.

"I feel English is important to our learning because it is our basic language and it's important to learn, not only reading skills, but how our language has evolved both past and present."

-Dale Barthel

math

Every single future plan that a student has relates either directly or indirectly to math. Math courses are quite varied for different levels of knowledge by students. If they pass, students move up to the next level of math, the highest being calculus. Math courses have become much more difficult with graduation standards this year. Fortunately, students have many options to choose involving math education. The classes consist of applied math, algebra, geometry, and calculus courses. Students also can take discrete math or probability and statistics classes to prepare them for life. For many students, math can be frustrating; very often in class when learning about topics such as trigonometry and logarithmic functions students find themselves asking, "What is the point of all this!?" But, in the long-run it's all worthwhile.

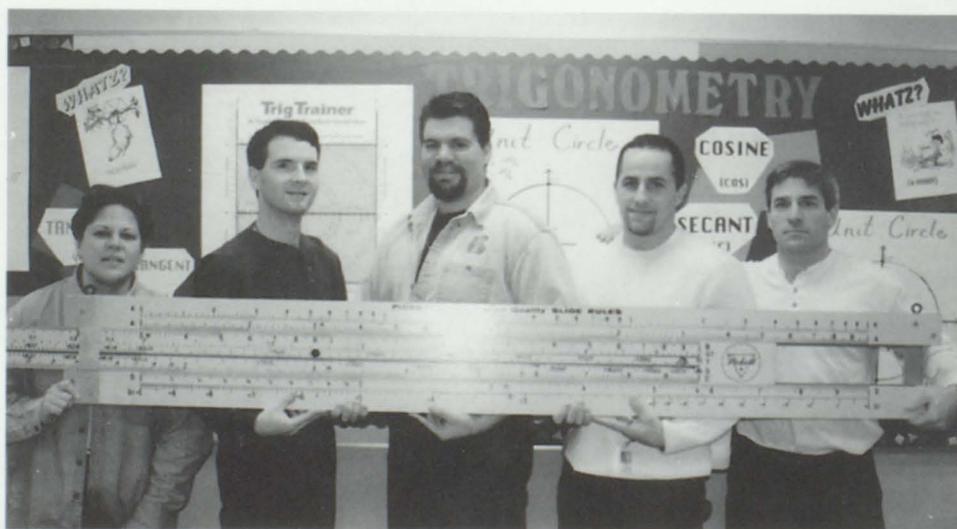

By Jean Prokott

No matter how many times students are told not to play games on their graphing calculators, Mary Barthel always seems to play hers anyway.

Along with their teaching duties, the math teachers always have time to tell a joke...or mess around with a very large ruler, as Karen Volkenant, Bill Breedan, Tate Nagengast, Mark Mischke, and Gregg Greeno are displaying.

"Instead of having 'answers' on a math test, they should just call them 'impressions,' and if you got a different 'impression,' so what, can't we all be brothers?"

—Jeremy Hoffman

music

Students that take the music courses must put forth many extra efforts. For most of the courses, musical talent is required, such as the bands and choirs. The other class, music theory, is for students that wish to improve their basic music knowledge as well as learn about certain musical time periods and composers. The department consists of two teachers; Mr. Bergstrom teaches instrumental music for the concert band and wind ensemble as well as music theory. Ms. Hanson keeps herself busy managing four choirs throughout the day. They both teach lessons to individuals throughout the day as well. All the hard work of the musicians pays off when they perform for the community.

By Jean Prokott

Miss Hanson's first class of the day is Mixed Choir. She stresses proper posture in all her choirs, but since the first bell has yet to ring, very few of them are actually using it.

"Our music department offers many opportunities for our students and also provides a lot of enjoyment for their parents and others."

-Gregg Greeno

To be a good teacher, one must love what they teach. Therefore, Sam Bergstrom and Melissa Hanson do indeed love performing music, for how else could they teach it so well.

science

Very often in high school the question "why?" is used. For example, "why do we have to do our homework?" Well, science classes can't answer the previous question, but they can answer and create a lot more. Science classes explore many different fields, careers, and ideas. Ninth graders are required to take basic science, and from then on choose what they wish to encounter. The most common class taken after Science 9 is (Advanced) Biology. After that students choose from Earth & Space Frontiers, Environmental Science, Anatomy & Physiology, and at a higher level, Chemistry and Physics. No matter what classes they choose, their questions of why things happen and how things happen are answered.

By Jean Prokott

After every science experiment, a lab report should be put together. Sara Lindenfelser and Tina Lidberg have collected their data and are now busy creating their reports.

Science experiments enhance the learning experience. With these experiments and demonstrations, Roger Ketel, Dan Abrahamson, Lynn Dahring, and Kay Nowell almost always bring life and entertainment to the class room.

"My science classes have guided me in how I approach and view life. They have taught me to examine the subject at hand and to keep searching for definitive answers. Then, once I have the answers, take a closer look from another angle. This has defined Janet Welty."

"Social studies helps students learn their role in our society as an important, contributing citizen—their rights and responsibilities, and give important historical background to bring meaning to current world events and problems."

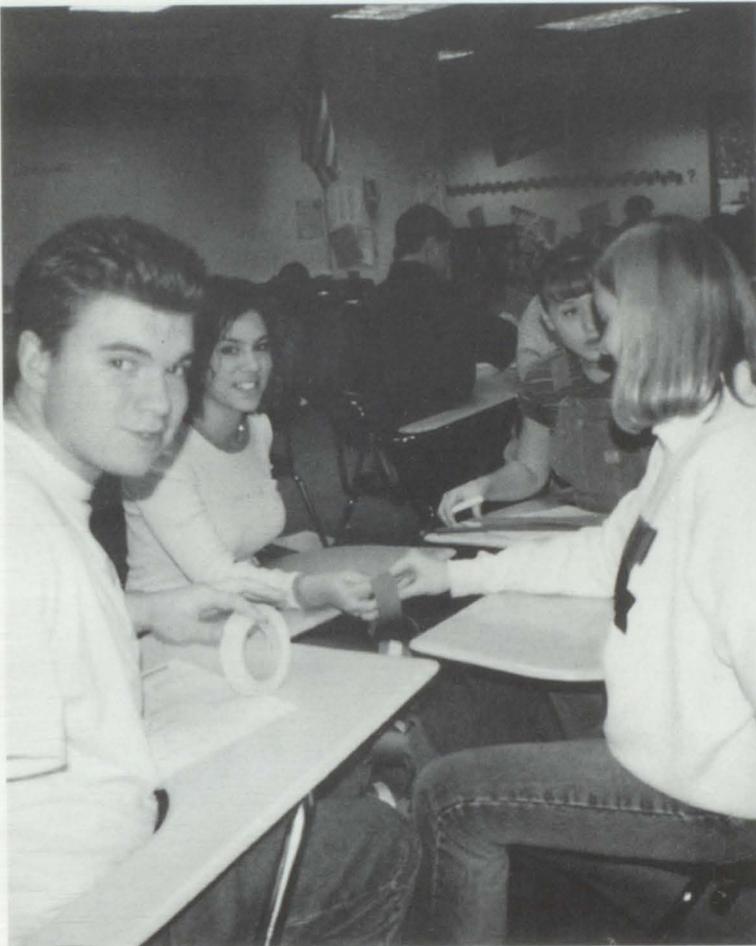

—Roger Ketel

social studies

The classes in social studies provide a wide range of options for the different interests of students. They focus on history as well as examination of different cultures, current events, and human interaction. The required Responsible Citizenship class for Freshmen enables them to improve their duty as citizens by requiring community service. Sophomores must take U.S. History, and Juniors must take Economics. Seniors have a wide range of classes to choose from, and these classes can also be taken by Juniors. Nose for the News, Ethnic Issues, Women's Studies, Psychology, Cultural Geography, Sociology, and many other classes are optional to enhance learning about social studies.

By Jean Prokott

In U.S. Citizenship, Josh Werp, Kristina Irhke, Darcy Beaudry, and Steph Gertken work together to make a chain of respect with only one hand each.

To prevent future mistakes, it is good to learn the mistakes of the past. Dale Barthel, Darrell Skogen, Pete Warne, Carrie Berning, and Jodi Ward work together to teach students, history, geography, and many other society related subjects.

In every school there is a special education area. Ann Johnson, Deb Buch, Jill Gehl, Kevin Crocker, Kelly Carter, and Shawn Hackett work with the students at STMA who have learning disabilities or behavioral difficulties.

special education

The Special Education department is constantly evolving to meet the needs of their various students. Students can be enrolled due to dyslexia, learning disabilities, or behavioral issues. Once a student is tested and qualified, a plan is submitted to make their education the best it can be. This means that some students are offered Special Education classes and some are involved in an immersion program where they attend mainstream classes. It is everyone's goal to help these students prepare for life.

The learning lab is another program to help students who need help with basic skills. These students are given opportunities to enrich their skills. Students are required to set goals and plan for success in this class taught by Heather Cornelius.

By Alexis Roden

"Our Special Ed Staff has an uncanny ability to listen—whether it's staff or students, they are always willing to lend a helpful ear."

—Jox Metcalf

In one of his special education classes, Mr. Crocker looks up to answer a student's question.

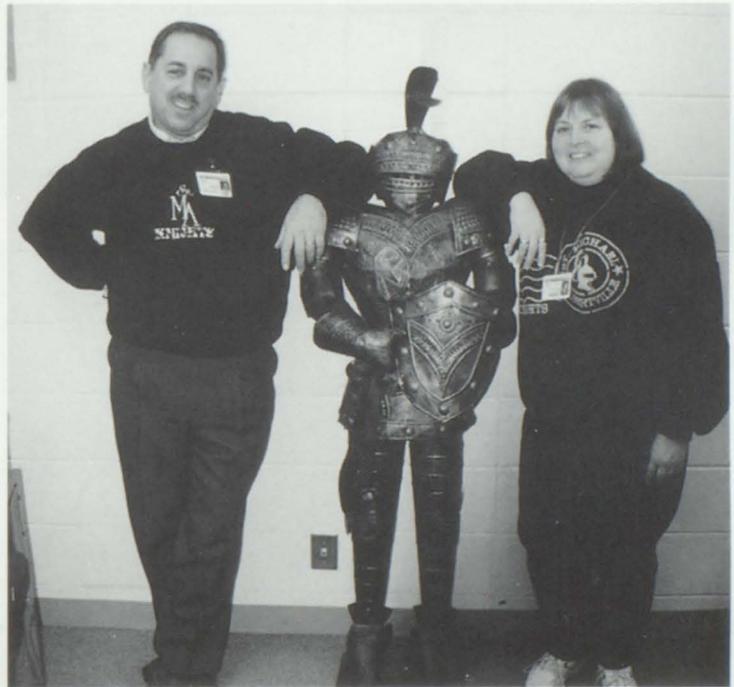

In order to deal with possible law breakers and instill a general sense of security, the school has a liaison officer from the Wright County Sheriff's Department. Deputy Jeff Fox joins our staff three to four days a week and is welcomed by everyone at STMA.

administration

From top to bottom, STMA High School could not function without its non-classroom staff. At the top, we have Mr. DeMatteis, Mr. Minkler, and Mrs. Shomshak. They are ultimately responsible for the smooth running of the district, high school, and discipline. There are many others in the scheme of things, who make STMA the wonderful place it is. Obviously, without the help of all these staff members, crucial elements of the school would be missing. Their efforts are what keep the school running and their perspectives in their respected duties give the school a personality all its own.

By Alexis Roden

Charged with the duties of cleaning, the evening custodians perform many tasks. Tom Shelquist, Kasey Smith, Kathy Larson, and Dale McHugh empty class room garbages, sweep floors, vacuum halls and classrooms, tidy the restrooms and many other necessary tasks that would otherwise interfere with the classroom structure.

Mark Minkler and Wendy Shomshak perform the duties of keeping the Knights in order here at STMA, along with making sure everything is successful.

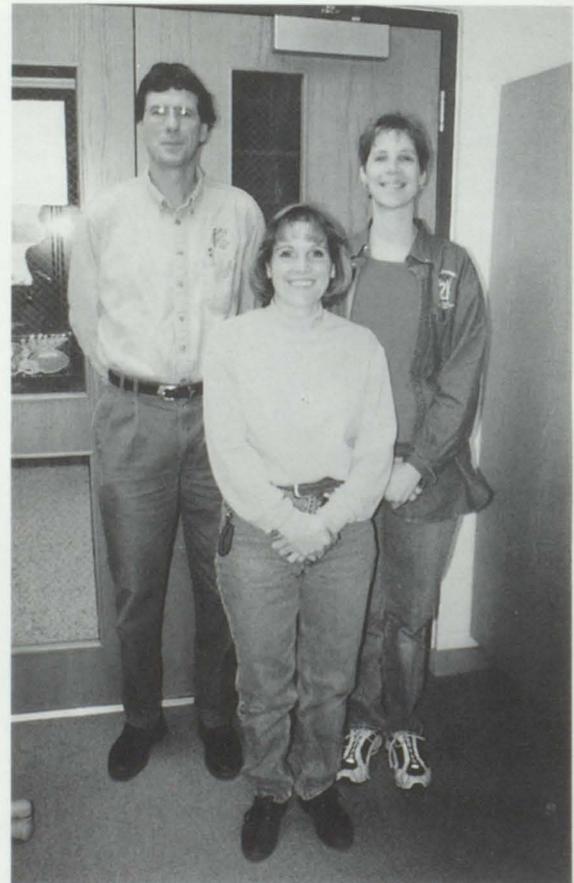

District #885 has many community education activities and classes offered to its residents. Deb Spencer, Lisa Lorence, and MaryEllen Barthel keep track of all the groups using school facilities, driver's ed, and many other activities.

Responsible for the entire district is Mario DeMatteis. As Superintendent, his duties include keeping the School Board up on what's happening, working with the bus company, and supervising all the schools.

Minnesota Graduation Standards and Profiles of Learning have required teachers to revamp their classroom plans. Rita Swansen, Sharon Barsness, and Jennifer Haller help them understand these requirements and approve ideas.

With the many computers in the district, Jenny Thompson, Jean Scherifels, Jerry Bossen, and Wayne Hoistad work to keep them all networked and running properly.

The District Office Staff takes care of many duties that apply to not only the High School, but also the other schools. Barb Kolling, Ginny Verbrugge, Clarice Kessler, and Marilyn Satrang, work hard to keep the district up to date on district doings.

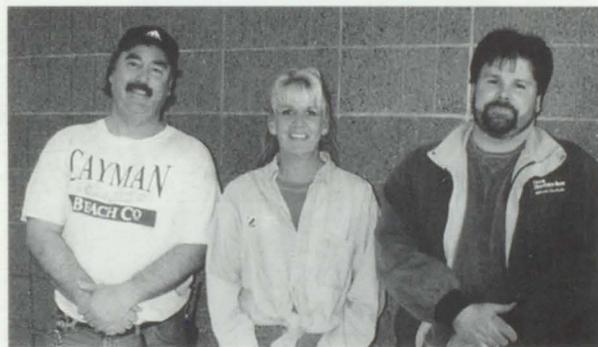

The Activities Office entails several duties. Mike Beck schedules events and takes care of activity fees, transportation, etc. Jane Lynch makes large amounts of copies for teachers, puts together sports and events programs and tickets, etc. Joan Gindele helps Mrs. Lynch with these copying duties as well as maintaining the copiers in the teacher work room and the print room.

The Library/Media Resource Center is vital for students doing research. Pat Stenglein and Jan Peterson keep track of all these resources and help students find the information they need.

Running a school requires many secretarial duties. Karla Bergsten, Denice Petrowski, and Wendy Nygaard document attendance, order supplies, and keep communication going between everyone involved in the school system.

Not only must attendance be kept track of, but students' progress as well. Steve Scherber, Barb Lynch, Dave Schlaak, Colleen Harrington, and Tracey Acker make sure students are taking and passing the necessary courses, as well as help them prepare for after school plans and deal with personal issues that may be troubling them.

Every public building needs cleaning and maintenance. Kasey Smith, Karla Clem, Terry Zerwas make sure the building is kept in tip top shape and running properly.

Often, people have aches or pains that prevent them from concentrating on school work. Julie Winkleman and Barb Bouelle help them relieve these problems to the best of their abilities.

Everyday, between seven and eight hundred people must be fed in this school. Marla Gmach, Cissy Wickham, Sharon Hackenmueller, Jill Krone, Alice Helfert, Dolores Helgeson, Mary Zachman, and Joan Gindele do their best to make sure that they are nutritiously fed.

A common happening in the musical was group action with songs and dances. Student choreographer Angie Johnson (12) organized the dancing throughout the score which involved time and hard work for everyone.

Working behind the scenes was just as difficult as working on stage. Light technician Derek Fore (12) made the show a success by understanding all the technological aspects.

The character of Moose—David Myrom (10), a dumb-founded cowboy plays a string bass as a guitar in order to prepare for a concert with the Zangler Follies.

Most of the work was put forth by the two leads in the show, Polly Baker—Sarah Trebesch (12) and Bobby Child—Steven Steele (12). The mix between the two was a sappy love story with lots of slap stick humor.

what did you think of the musical?

"Crazy for You is one of my favorite plays—great music, fun story, great lines, and a chance for people to show a wide range of talents. Our cast sure did that! The people we had this year—from the leads to the Follies girls to the cowboys to the citizens and servants—were superb and wonderful to work with."

—Mr. Frickstad

"The play was wonderful. The entire cast did a great job. The hard work and dedication really paid off, and everyone from the audience really loved it. I know I did."

—Renae Anderson (11)

"Choreography was a big challenge. With all the hard work of the cast, we were able to make miraculous strides. I was pleasantly surprised along with the audience with the outcome."

—Angie Johnson (12)

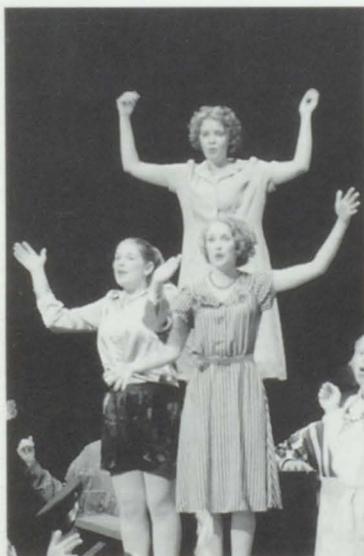

Every fall our high school puts its most talented actors & actresses together to perform the annual musical. This year, under the direction of Melissa Hanson and Michael Frickstad, more than eighty students teamed up to perform the musical Crazy for You. Crazy for You is a story about Bobby Child, a tap-dancing banker, who finds himself falling in love with Polly Baker, a cowgirl theatre operator. But when Bobby is forced to foreclose on Polly's theatre, he is slapped in the face (literally), sending Polly away in tears. To try and make up for his mistake, Bobby pretends to be the famous dancing star Bella Zangler sent from New York City to try and keep Polly's theatre from going bankrupt. Bobby's plan fails again as Polly falls in love with Bobby disguised as Bella. Bobby then tries to prove to Polly that he is Zangler by showing her the fake moustache and glasses, but just as Bobby is proclaiming to be Zangler, the real Bella Zangler shows up and makes the whole situation even more confusing.

Steven Steele (Bobby Child), Sarah Trebesch (Polly Baker), and the rest of the cast pulled this musical together magnificently! Long practices with the pit orchestra (under direction of Sam Bergstrom), student choreographer Angie Johnson, and hours of construction of the sets from the art department, made this musical of the highest class. Crazy for You ran from November 18-21, with a very special last performance that was dedicated to the class of 2000 Seniors.

CRAZY FOR YOU

Controlling another one of the group numbers was lead by three of the leading girls in the show; Polly Baker-Sarah Trebesch (12), Patsy-Amy Kasper (12), and Tess-Amanda May (11) encouraged everyone to get into the theatre spirit.

The follies prepare the Gaiety Theatre for Bobby Child's idea to put on a show. As follies, Juniors Christine Erickson, Betsy Koch, and Cara Ronning worked late practices preparing their songs, dances, and acting skills.

"This year's musical was by far the hardest show to pull together. The dancing was probably the worst part. But despite our obstacles, Crazy for You was awesome and a wonderful show to end my high school drama experience."

-Sarah Trebesch (12)

The entire cast gathers together after their public performance.

what did you think of the one act?

"We had a tremendous season. I am infinitely proud of all the students who chose to be involved and break new ground for STIMA. Winning the State Tournament proved that not only do we have talented kids, but also we can be competitive in both Athletics and Arts."

-Mr. Metcalf

The One Act was a "very, very good show. I thought it was amazing how well the cast expressed their lines."

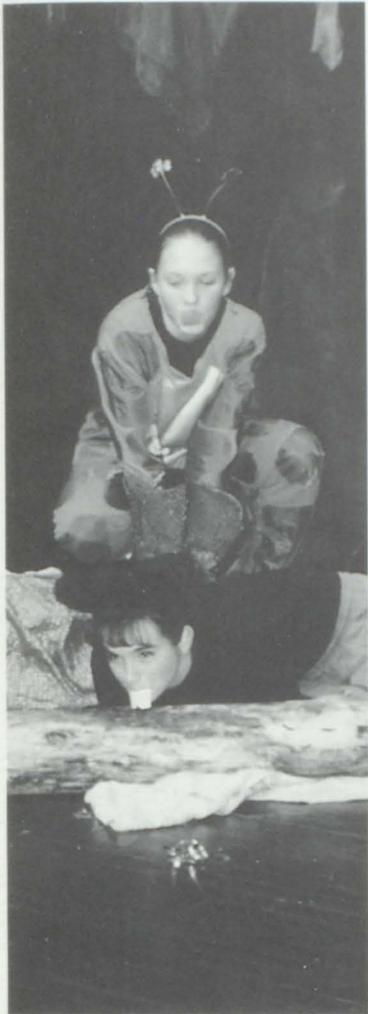

-Dan Flizen (9)

"I had so much fun in the One Act and I thought it was an awesome experience."

-Amanda May (11)

Two friendly forest creatures Liz Lynch (11), the beaver and Rachel Jossart (9), the frog hang out by a log.

This year STMA High School accomplished something they have never done. For the first time, the STMA One Act went to State. The One Act is a 35 minute play that is performed in competitions against other schools. Schools get ten minutes to set up the set, ten minutes to take it down, and 35 minutes to perform the play. If a school goes even one second over the time limit, they are automatically disqualified. After practicing Butterfly Buffet for one month, STMA's first competition was Sub-Sections in Buffalo. To continue on to Sections, a school must receive 1st or 2nd place. STMA got 2nd, placing them in Sections at STMA High School. Only the 1st place team at Sections goes onto State, held at St. Catherine's on Friday, February 11th. There are three people judging a school's performance. If two or more think your play is "superior," your school receives a star rating. This is the highest honor. With the guidance and encouragement of their directors, STMA's Butterfly Buffet was one of the top one acts in the state.

By Stephanie Gertken

Butterfly Buffet

Norvel, Steve Pope (11) and Captain, David Vee (10) impatiently wait while the slow turtle, Tony Griffin (10), finishes talking.

"The One Act was totally unpredictable to what would happen, so when we won, it made it that much more exciting. It was also a blast to be a part of and the cast was so much fun to work with!"

-Amy Kasper (12)

Wind Ensemble: First Row (L to R): Sara Eull, Jenna Stangler, Leah Lenneman, Rachel Bongaarts, Carla Miedema, Jessica Vetsch, Liz Lynch, Liz VanDrasek, Jonathan Maurer. Second Row: Sarah Lindenfesler, Monica Valerius, Adam Gilman, Andrew Savitski, Kate Russel, Joanna Spurbeck, Jon Gilbertson, Sarah Bebeau, Sarah Bongaarts, Cherish Cheney, Tracey Reining, Kathy Vergin, Malina Zachman. Third Row: Eric Pearson, Tony Griffin, Travis Zachman, Karen Berning, Ben Frank, Julie Falbo, Jake Dalbec, Tessa Lenneman, Shelley Vetsch, Dan Franklin, David Myrom, Brian Krause, Laura Lenz, Brenda Lenneman, Aly Piechocki, Derek Fore, Kim Hackenmueller. Fourth Row: Cory Young, Phil Zander, Rick Ruter, Jean Prokott, Les Hanson, Josh Fornelli, Ryan Justen, Phil Quiram, Chris Petrich, Renee Vetsch. Fifth Row: Mr. Bergstrom, Ryan Panning, Anne Stenglein, Steve Steele, Luke Zachmann, Steve Pope, Adam Plantenberg, Jeff Kolles, Bray Wheeler, John Hedlund, Elias Bresin.

Wind Ensemble Council: Julie Falbo, Rachel Bongaarts, Ryan Justen, Anne Stenglein, Tracey Reining, Sara Eull, & Steve Steele. The Band Council was elected the previous year, and their duties include keeping up with the bulletin board, organizing new ideas for the band, and helping director Sam Bergstrom to keep the band under control.

what do you think of band?

"The Jazz Band is made up of a bunch of swinging cool cats who love to jam. Jazz feeds the soul, stimulates the mind, and just makes you feel good."

—Mr. Bergstrom

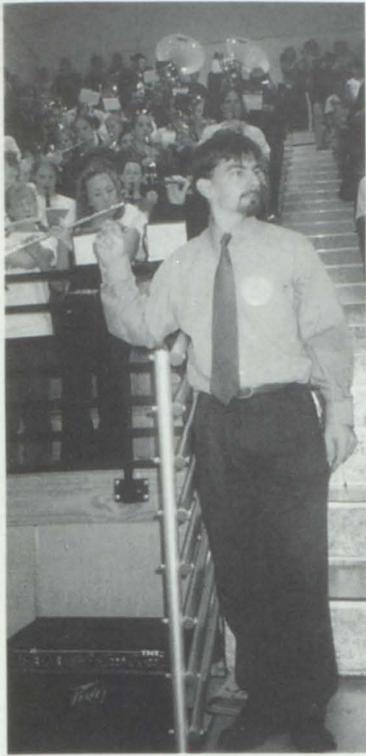

"Band is the most coolest thing and they sound awesome. I almost want to pay to listen to them."

—Rachel Lindenfesler (10)

"I think Band is important, but kids aren't given many options if they want to stay in it."

—Jonathan Maurer (10)

At any pepfest, the band is sure to play the school song at the beginning or end. As they play, Mr. Bergstrom watches for when to cut them off.

Students enforce their musical creativity by taking band. Not many students other than those actually involved in band can appreciate all of the effort that goes toward becoming the talented musician required for band. Some students take band for mere entertainment, while others take it to enhance their musical knowledge. Students in band are a tight, close-knit group. With Marching Band, half of their summer is used practicing and preparing for parades and performances. Pep-band also requires extra time and effort. Many times students in band feel under appreciated for all of their effort, but as band students keep telling themselves, "...the team won because we played..." They will know within themselves their accomplishments. By competing against other schools in solos & ensembles and large group contests, talent is recognized as a whole group and as individuals. The band director, Mr. Bergstrom, has his hands full with the ninth grade Concert Band, the 10th-12th grade Wind Ensemble, Jazz Band, Pep-Band, and Marching Band. he also has to teach individual lessons to different students with various instruments. Over-all, band provides a learning experience for each student and opens the eyes for all that have the chance to view the talent that is musically present in our school.

what do you think of the jazz groups at stma?

"Jazz Choir always starts my morning out on an interesting note."

-Ms. Hanson

"I love watching them perform. It's neat that they put that much effort into what they do."

-Kristen Antil (9)

"Jazz Choir is really fun to be in and gives me a chance to dance close to guys. J/K."

-Cara Ronning (11)

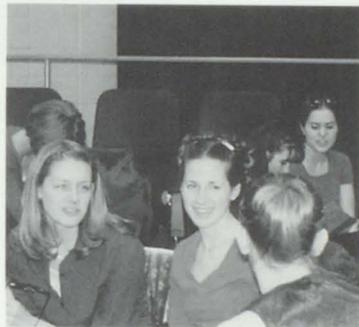

At the end of a dance, there is always the final pose. In The Joint is Jumpin' this pose followed a stradle jump and includes a shoulder seat.

Jazz Band's songs are always filled with solos, and while everyone is playing right now, in a second, they'll stop and a solo will start.

For students that are willing to push their musical limits, the jazz groups satisfy these needs. All three groups, the Jazz Band, Swingin' Knights, and Sirens are auditioned, so only the most capable musicians can be allowed into them. The groups practice in the morning and sometimes evenings to prepare themselves for performances. This year the Jazz Choir put forth extra efforts by strongly improving their dancing ability. The Jazz Choir and Sirens performed for Christmas at the Mall of America. On February 12th, the groups performed a concert specifically for them. The Jazz Band also performed at various events other than the band concert, including the solo/ensemble contest along with the Sirens and Jazz Choir.

The jazz groups are known for their fun times and outrageous attitudes. Over the years the groups become more and more improved, and have more fun in the process. Laughs usually control most of the Jazz Choir practices; ask any member of the choir about Ms. Hanson telling them to hold out their "long dong" on Carol of the Bells.

Diva Choir Council: Emily Christenson, Jessica Etheridge, Tanya Starr, Kelly Hofford, Jodi Becker, and Tiffany Farr.

The Music Department is one of the fastest growing in the school, and choir is part of the reason. Director Melissa Hanson is involved constantly throughout her day. She has four choirs, the Freshwomen, the Mixed Chior, the Diva Choir, and the auditioned Concert Choir. In addition to handling all these choirs, there are many students that get lessons during the day. All choirs improved vastly this year—they performed much more difficult music at concerts and contest. Choir also did Singing Valentines in February, where choir students learned music and valentines were sold for other students to buy for their friends, boy/girlfriends, and the person that they secretly admire. Another activity this past fall was Honor Choir, where selected students combined with other schools and their selected students to perform together at a large concert. Many students have different opportunities to improve as individuals by taking choir. It involves time, effort, and talent. Only good musicians can take the challenges and entertaining adventures of choir. It provides future knowledge of basic music skills, and many students wish to further their talents as they leave high school. The most exciting aspect of choir is the thrill of the performance and those not in choir are appreciating the choir students more and more every year.

At the end of a long hard race, Joe Lynch (12) continues in hopes of getting first place for the Knights.

"A nice showing for their first year in AA"

The boys cross country team had to experience their season in a whole new way, as they moved from class A to AA. This meant that they would have to compete against much larger schools, but they stood up to the challenge. They took first place in five of their meets and went on to compete as a team at State, after placing second of 17 teams in the Section 2AA meet. At State, they placed 11th out of 16 teams, a nice showing for their first year. Not only did they do well as a team, there were many other individual awards as well. All-Conference honors went to Martin Robeck, Joe Lynch, Brandon Beaudry, and Adam Plantenberg. Martin Robeck was also honored with the All State award as well!

To finish a good race, Sophomore Angie Helfert keeps her pace. Along with teammates Liz VanDrasek and Trista Paulson (both sophomores), Angie made All-Conference Academic.

Moving from "A" to "AA" was a challenge.

This year, the varsity girls cross country took a big step up from last year. Moving from "A" to "AA" was a challenge, but they still ended the season with 81 wins out of 123 meets. Along with this accomplishment, three runners made All-Conference: Lauri Grambart, Natalie Clem, and Kelly Lefebvre. In addition, All-Conference Academic was achieved by another three members of the team. Liz VanDasek, Angie Helfert, and Trista Paulson kept up their good grades while being on the team. Unfortunately, Casey Cook and Jodie Stream were unable to participate running because of injuries, but were still able to be involved as managers. The team is looking forward to another good year.

STMA SCORES! 60-33-Shane McLaughlin (12) scores a touch down against St. Cloud Cathedral.

"It was a very different year, almost like two separate seasons. When we lost two games in the middle, we had to rebuild and rethink what we were doing. Once that happened, the kids started to have fun and believe in themselves for a winning record."

This year's football season started with high expectations. Practice started August 16th. The football players ran and did jumping jacks so they would be in shape for their first game, which was on Friday September 3rd and started the season with an oddball loss to Monticello. Fans were hoping that the team would pull together and win all the remaining games. By the time the season was half over, the team had pulled together and stayed together. They kept going, never giving up, despite the rare losses. This cooperative effort by the team finally brought them all the way to the Prep Bowl. On the way, they made a new record of 5309 offensive yards, made a trip up to International Falls for a play-off game, as well as to the Dome twice. Everyone was proud to attend and cheer on our team to victory.

Winning all but two matches

The '99 girls tennis season was the best ever. The varsity girls only lost two matches, one against State ranked Brek with a score of 3-4 and the other against New Ulm in Sub-Sections at Gustavus. The team participated in many tournaments taking first in all of them. They also took first in the conference and ten girls were named All-

Conference. They were, Sara Eull, Sarah Sellers, Cari-Ana Bloberger, Christy Stockmann, Michelle Kleist, Aimee Lefebvre, Nikki Hemann, Melissa Trettin, and Lindsay Johnson. The JV had a great season as well and are well prepared to replace the eight seniors leaving.

"Adjusting to all the change was very challenging."

The Knights volleyball team had an exciting season this year. Not only did they do well record wise, but with a fairly young team and a new coach, a few heads were turned. According to Junior Jackie Radunz, "In the last four seasons, the team has had three different coaches. Adjusting to all the change was very challenging." Even with those challenges, the team pulled through with a 17-9 record and won a tournament on the way. The team unfortunately lost in the first round of Sections, but next year will be ready to go for the gold.

"The cheerleaders made a special effort."

The cheerleaders at STMA put in countless hours to cheer on the many teams at school. They had cheerleading camp in the summer and put in time practicing new cheers and dances after school. Cheerleaders performed at pep-fests, football games, wrestling tournaments, basketball games and hockey games. These are the sports that have cheerleaders specifically signed up to cheer for victory. However, this year, the cheerleaders made a special effort to show up and cheer on the cross country team and others that don't necessarily have regular cheerleading support.

The STMA boys basketball team got off to a rough start this year. In an effort to pull the season together, the coaches called a meeting with the team, explaining how to improve the overall performance. After that, the team completely turned around, including a run for the Sub-Section Championship. They started to defeat teams that had beat them before. They had lost to Becker three times, but as a better team, beat them the fourth time. They won four of their five games in sub-sections, making the season close with a wonderful display of unity and talent as a team.

The Knights beat out the Wild Cats for the rebound by sailing in the air.

"The girls came out with a huge victory."

The Girls Varsity basketball team had an amazing year. One of their greatest accomplishments was against Annandale. Since Lisa Sukulski has been coach, STMA has never beaten Annandale. The girls came out with a huge victory. Their record remained undefeated, until they played Annandale for the second time. It was a close game, but Annandale left with the win. The girls ended the season with a 21-3 record. With their outstanding season, they clinched the Wright County Conference champs. The girls were ranked first seat for the sectional tournament, which gave them a bye their first game. The season ended with a loss to St. Cloud Cathedral in the Section Championship.

Somersaulting into another great season

This year the gymnastics team created new ground for the sport at STMA. Starting the season with scores in the 120's, the team came through in the Chisago Lakes Invitational to take second place. The team really took off a few meets before Sections by breaking the school record three times. Gymnastics took third place in Sections with their highest score of the season. Not only did the team do well during the season, but individuals also had excellent performances. Lauren Wallerius broke nearly every individual school record and qualified for the State Meet during Sections. Lauren, along with Ashley Poirer, Lori Lindenfelser and Jacquelyn Wallerius were given the All-Conference award. After this year's exciting season, the team anticipates the winnings of next year.

GreenSpan is the new Environmental-Spanish Club. The group is led by President Cari-Ana Bloberger, VP Ben Steiner, Secretary Amanda May, and Treasurer Julie Falbo. The advisors are Mrs. Nowell and Sra. Jordahl. The group was started to bring awareness of local environmental problems and to do all we can to help solve them.

GreenSpan has been presenting and speaking throughout the community to save the Becker Big Woods and has started a fund to do so. These woods could be used as an outdoor lab for the new middle school. Their effects have been received well and there is a lot of support throughout St. Michael and Albertville.

Other things GreenSpan is planning include starting plastic recycling in the high school and, cleaning the river and roadside. GreenSpan is also considering a summer trip. Ideas include the Boundry Waters or Wolf Ridge Environmental Learning Center.

By Cari-Ana Bloberger

While visiting the woods they are trying to save, members of GreenSpan, along with Advisor Mrs. Nowell play a game of hide and seek. Unfortunately, they all hid behind the same tree.

"I think it's great that I was able to help start a group that is so important to helping our community."

what do you think of mock trial?

"What I enjoy most about Mock Trial is being able to work with such exceptional students!"
-Mrs. Ward

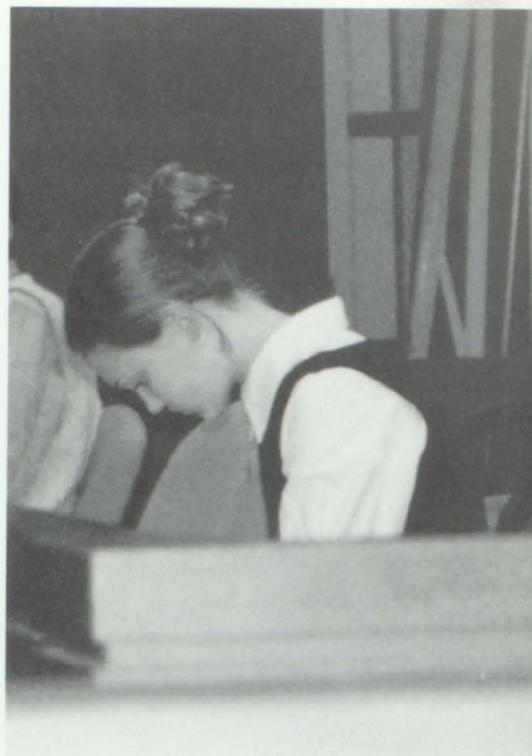

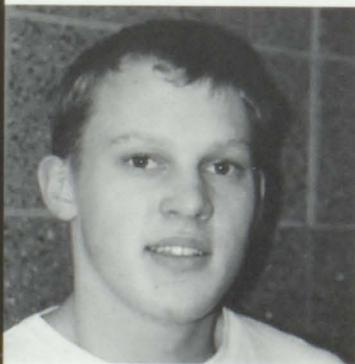

"It was really cool to get to go into a real court room and experience what lawyers go through everyday."

-Marie Welter (9)

"Mock Trial rules."
-Ben Stiener (11)

When asked to comment on Mock Trial, Phil Zander (11) first pondered for a while and then responded, "Did they convict that mockingbird?" Well Phil, no, but if that had been the case, they certainly would have tried their best for both the defense and prosecution.

While other lawyers make their case, Rachel Jossart (9) looks down at her notes, so that she will be prepared for her turn to examine the witness.

"In the beginning, I had no idea of what to expect, but as the season went on it grew to be a lot of fun! We got to know some really neat people and learned a lot at the same time!"

-Rachel Jossart (9)

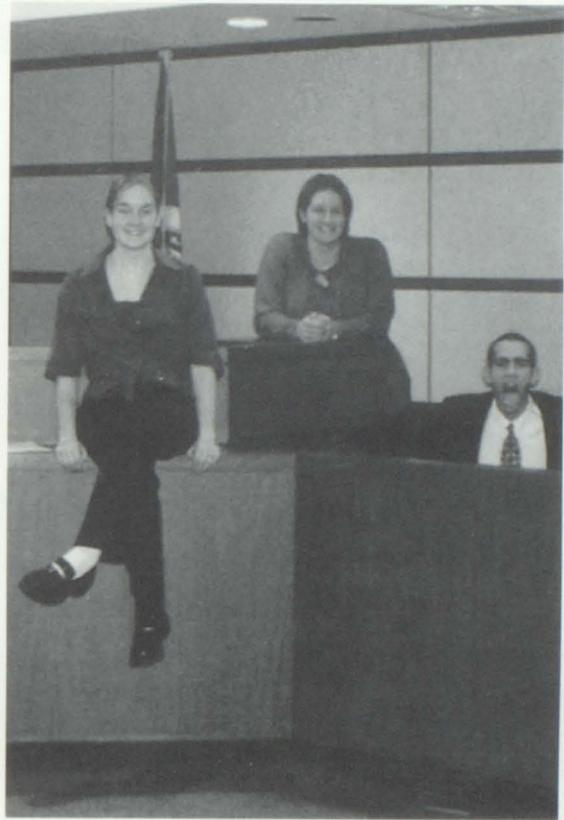

After a magnificently won trial, Ben Steiner (11), Jessica Vetsch (12), Renee Vetsch (11), Tabitha Davey (10), and Marie Welter (9) amuse themselves and witnesses with a victory dance.

mock trial

Mock Trial is a team of students who play the parts of witnesses and lawyers in a fictional case and perform for a judge in a real-life courtroom setting. They are given a score based upon how familiar they are with their materials and how well they present their case before the judge. The case for the 1999-2000 season was Pat Carter vs. Northstar Kids Daycare Center Inc. Pat Carter was suing the Daycare, claiming that they had ignored Toby Carter's (Pat Carter's child) asthma difficulties, thus leading to a severe attack that was supposedly caused by an employee's negligence, leaving Toby developmentally delayed. STMA's team consisted of eight students, many of them playing more than one role for the trial. They were led by coach Mrs. Ward through many practices and two trials. They lost the second meet, but had enough fun throughout the season to realize that fun is what really mattered.

By Rachel Jossart & Marie Welter

Things are topsy turvey as witness Monica Valerius (11) becomes the Prosecutor, Jessica Vetsch (12) becomes the judge, and Lawyer Ben Steiner (11) is put on the stand.

what do you think of the national honor society?

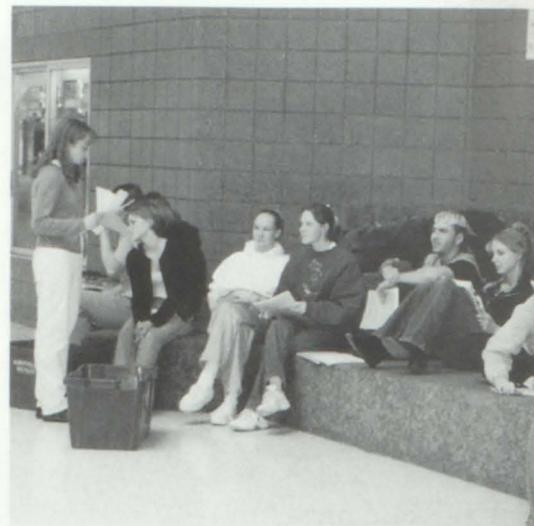

"What a zealous group of students. There they go and I must hurry...for I am their advisor!"
-Ms. Dahring

"It's great to work with other people and organize events at STMA to make it a better place!"
-Kim Hackenmueller (12)

"NHS is a chance to help out in the school and community while improving our leadership skills."
-Tessa Lenneman, President (12)

It seems as if many students don't know what NHS is all about. This is seen in Jenna Johanson's (10) comment of "I don't know, but I like the doughnuts." While doughnuts are one of the duties NHSers perform, some students don't even know that they recycle paper and plan many school activities.

After recycling, NHSers sometimes hold quick meetings in the atrium. The topic is usually something quick such as a hand-out of some sort.

"Being on NHS gives me and others the opportunity to help others and contribute to the school."

-Heidi Rademacher(12)

At the Homecoming Dance organized by NHS, Tessa Lenneman (12) got into the Macarena, one of the many dances the DJ demonstrated for the crowd.

As honor students, the NHS has proven to be an effective, positive influence around the school. The four pillars of the National Honor Society are scholarship, leadership, character, and service. They show that students on NHS are supportive towards making school a better place for the student body. This year they produced many events around the community. Cookies & Caroling, bingo with senior citizens, Toys for Tots, the Mitten Tree and Clean the River are some examples of all the activities that the NHS did to help others around the community. For the school, NHS sponsored dances, provided doughnuts every Tuesday morning, recycled paper, and arranged for Santa Claus to come to school. Meetings were held every other Wednesday for the society. The Executive Council, consisting of President Tessa Lenneman, VP Sarah Trebesch, Secretary Nikki Hemann, and Treasurer Amanda Valerius, organized events along with NHS students that were elected to committees. Heidi Rademacher and Cari-Ana Bloberger were the historians, having the duties of keeping up the bulletin boards and creating an NHS Scrap Book. Each year the NHS tries to vastly improve the school environment with new ideas proposed by students. These ideas, with the help of advisor Ms. Dahring, are then put into action. Organization within the group itself also improved. Starting last year, the "point system" was arranged. This has been a controversial subject within the society. With the new system, NHS members must write down all the time that they worked on certain events. The Council says the reason for the evaluation is just to get NHS members to pull their weight. However, some members feel that they shouldn't be evaluated. Whether or not the members and the council disagree on some issues doesn't matter toward the outcome of all the effort put in by all. Without a doubt, the NHS has proven that honor students can achieve a lot more than just good grades.

By Jean Prokott

n.h.s.

Half-way through the year, NHS became interested in what its members thought about the first half of the year. Liz Lynch (11) fills out her survey to help the Executive Council direct the discussion at the next meeting.

what do you think of speech?

"The main reasons I enjoy coaching include the closeness of the activity to the general curriculum—writing, reading, analyzing, researching, presenting—and the opportunity to teach these skills in the most effective environment, one-on-one with kids who are interested in learning the material. Another reason is the fun of seeing people grow into more confident, self-motivated, and outgoing human beings. The most important reason, however, has to be the getting up early on a Saturday morning; climbing onto a cold, metal-enclose moving structure (bus) with a bunch of other groggy, overly tired, and cranky individuals; and traveling to such winter garden spots as Apple Valley, Annandale, and Dassel-Cokato, realizing five minutes into the trip a 30-ounce bottle of caffeine-free Coca-Cola for breakfast was not a good idea."

—Mr. Frickstad

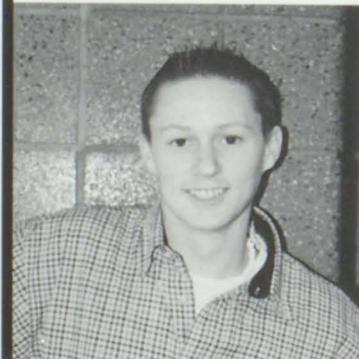

"Speech is great because it allows you to meet so many new people from all different areas. It is fun to go out and work hard too."

—Anne Stenglein (11)

Speech members often purposely use poor English skills as is demonstrated in Katy Rego's (11) praise for it. "Speech is the gooddest! Everyone should be in it. You've never had more fun than speech."

While most people are quite capable of speaking with friends and other normal situations, some push their speaking ability to be interesting, whether informative or a story, to an audience of varying people. As Andy Croteau (11) puts it, it "takes talent to talk about something so stupid."

In preparation for the upcoming Speech Meet, Kelly Hofford (11) practices her speech in Mr. Frickstad's room. Many members work with Mr. Frickstad after school to perfect their speech.

"Speech is a lot of fun because it gives me a new way to express myself and it feels really good to know I can be someone else besides me."

—Jessyca Duerr (11)

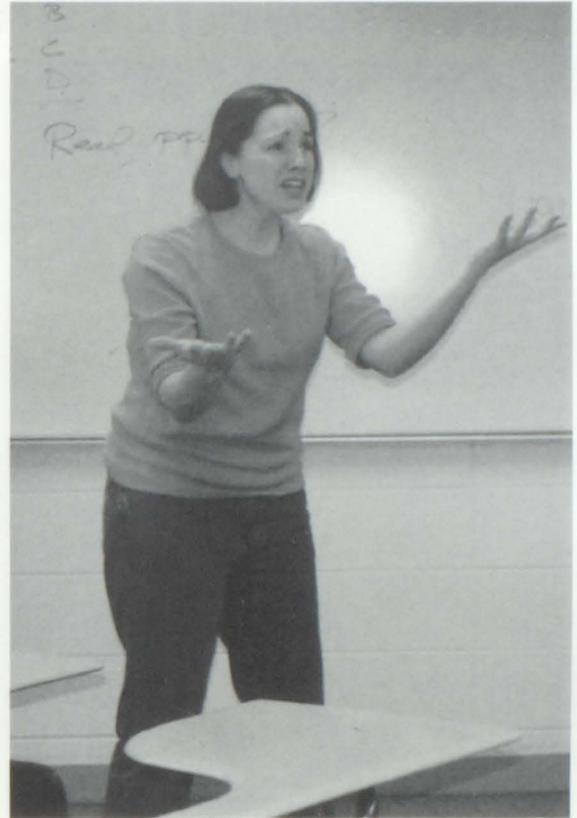

The speech team entered a different, larger section for the '99-'00 season, creating more competition. Head speech coach Mr. Frickstad spent evenings after school preparing the team, and Saturdays accompanying them to meets. To prepare for speech, students must pick the category they wish to compete in. Categories range from Creative Expression, where they write their own speeches, to Discussion, where by good arguments and persuasion they earn points. Other categories include: Dramatic Duo, Poetry, Prose, Exempt Reading, Story Telling, Drama, Humorous, and Exempt Speaking. This wide range of categories allows students to determine what area of speaking suits them best. In competition, students go against people from other schools in three rounds. There are about seven people (or speeches in) in each round. According to the number of people in a group, they receive a rating of one (the best) through five (lowest). After three rounds, the top seven speakers with the lowest total enter the final round, and then finally receive first through seventh place. So, as individuals, speakers can receive awards as well as the team. Many students put lots of effort into their speeches. On an average they usually last about eight minutes. Although they are not required to memorize them, they usually do. Most speakers practice with Mr. Frickstad after school on the weekdays. On Saturdays, they wake up at about 6:30 to spend their entire day at a speech meet. Later in the season, speakers have a chance to go to subsections and then to state. All of the effort is worthwhile and the chance to express themselves makes memories for them all.

what do you think of student council?

"Student Council is a lot of fun because we get to plan things for the school to enjoy."

-Jacquelyn Wallerius (11)

"Student Council is fun because people look up to you as the leader of you class and you get to help plan everything."

-Kevin Hegland (9)

"It's fun to see how kids can be leaders and carry through all of their creative ideas."

-Ms. Cornelius

"I think it's cool that Student Council works hard to plan activities and fun things to do for the students."

-Angie Bammert (12)

Student Council isn't just about organizing activities. Ms. Cornelius and Kim Hackenmueller (12) show off all the goodies sold daily, before and after school at the Knight's Nook.

"Students do have a say in school and that's what Student Council is all about."

-Sara Lindenfelser (10)

For Halloween, Student Council organized a costume contest. Although teachers didn't officially participate, all those that were dressed up, including Mrs. Heinks and Ms. Hanson, were called down and judged by the crowd. Brittany Bauman (11) won as her dad.

student council

This year, St. Michael-Albertville's Student Council members needed to get busy rightaway. With Homecoming only four weeks into the year, Pride Week was postponed and Coronation preparations were in full swing. Homecoming candidates this year were surprised at school while their reactions were caught on film. During SNAP, candidates also played the annual "Newlymet Game" to name the most compatible couple.

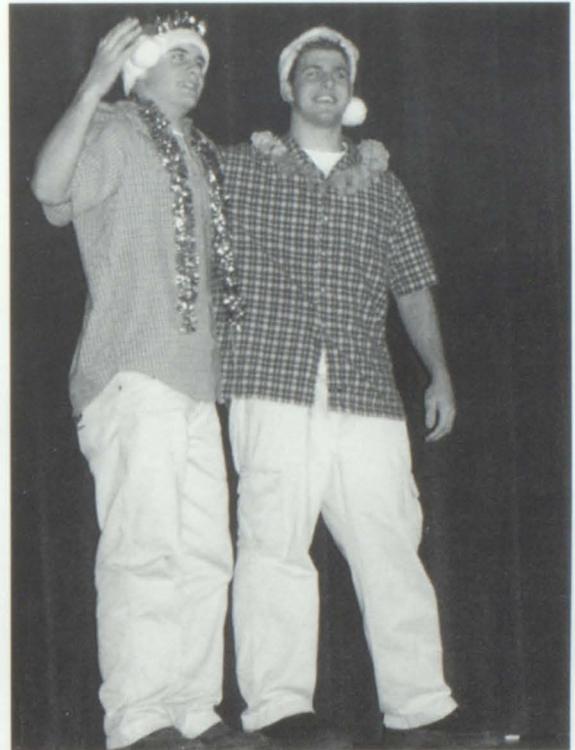

Halloween comes along with the costume contest, also put on by the Student Council. Students signed up to show off their unique designs.

During the holiday season, the Student Council has their hands full with a variety of activities. They penny war is held, with each grade competing to see who can raise the most money. There was also the Elf Auction, where Seniors are auctioned off to be a slave for the day. After that, Deck the Halls takes place with competition between the grades once more—this time for the best decorating results.

As the new year comes around, so does Snow Days as students are nominated for the Royal positions to reign over the week. This year, Student Council worked hard and has done a great job of making our school a fun place to be with a lot to be involved in.

-Matt Manders (9)

When students were asked what they thought of Target, some seemed a little confused giving responses like, "Great buys and friendly people" -Jesse Cole (11). Others had some clue, but still incorporated the store saying, "They should wear red and khaki on the days they have meetings."

Target is a group of active students who have agreed to remain chemical free. The group is lead by two new advisors, Mr. Nagengast and Mrs. Dingman. Both have been working hard to make Target a fun group. The council consists of Cari-Ana Bloberger and Sarah Hanson, along with Secretary Ashley Baldrige. The group has had football games and movie nights as an alternative to going Target has begun a Positive Pals program to help elementary students with homework and they also planned a Sweetheart Dinner for the community. # what do you think of yearbook?

"It is amazing to work with such a fine group of students who are able to take a National Award winning idea and bring it to reality."

—Mrs. Koss

"Even though yearbook is one of the most stressful, nerve-wracking experiences that I have ever had, I know I will miss it. I developed close relationships with great people, greatly improved my writing skills and brought comic relief to the group. Someday, everyone will appreciate all the crap that we all have been through."

—Jean Prokott, Copy Editor (12)

In the midst of having questions answered about her assigned layout, Maureen Reilly helps name band members while students are gone for wrestling.

"As I sit here listening to the Tarzan soundtrack, I realize that Yearbook will be my most missed thing about High School. However, along with missing it, I'm looking forward to the absence of overwhelming work and stress!"

—Alexis Roden,
Chief Editor (12)

"Throughout all of the scatological stories with Jean and the odd vocabulary that Alexis has, Yearbook makes a fun gang to be with."

—Emily Zachman,
Photography Editor (12)

"It's cool, it's awesome, and it reminds me of all my high school memories."

—Crystal Lehn (10)

Almost any night after school, Chief Editor Alexis Roden can be found on the computer, cropping pictures, or stuffing & numbering envelopes until and Mrs. Koss finally kicks her out so that she can go home.

making your history

Where would you be without the yearbook staff? Well, you would not be reading this right now, would you? Nope. Actually, the fact that you are reading this proves your appreciation of all the hard work done by the Valor staff. Right along with the yearbook's perception of "change" a lot of things have changed about the book this year. All of it started with the trip taken by three of the Editors (Jean Prokott, Alexis Roden, and Emily Zachman) and the Advisor (Mrs. Koss) to Colorado for yearbook camp. Although totally unprepared, the four performed to their best, taking the NATIONAL award for copy and theme and design. That is a big honor. The judges literally fell in love with the editors and their designs & ideas. The theme copy summarizes the changes of the school and the book, including a look at more individual students. At the return of the school year, the staff initiated two new editors. Their skills added relief to the other over-worked editors. The staff was the best it has ever been. With each member making a contribution—whether it be writing, selling ads, taking pictures, or doing computer work—the book is a portrait of the talent in STMA high school.

Now as for the book itself...think about this—in twenty years would you sell your yearbook for five-hundred dollars? At what cost would you get rid of your memories? Memories can last forever. Someday this book is going to make you cry. It's all up to you what it means. It is all in your own perspective.

-Lydia Gindele (9)

RAK started the year off with a positive outlook on helping others. Their first achievement was the STMA clothing drive. # teenage pregnancy prevention program

"Being the mother of a teenage daughter who has a two-year old son as well as having been a teen mom myself, I feel this is a very beneficial program. Young people are faced with many challenges and we hope to provide them with information that can enable them to make better, safer choices."

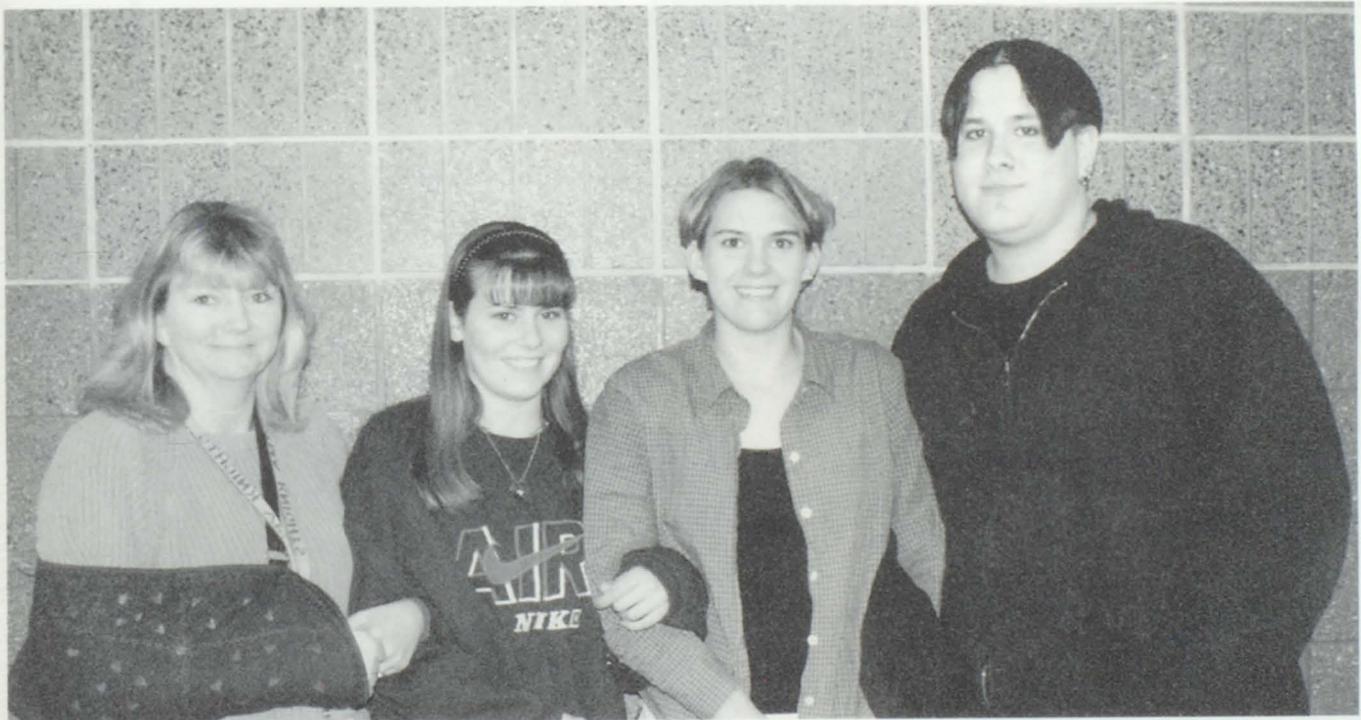

—Barb Bourelle

The Teenage Pregnancy Prevention Program is yet another new organization offered to students at STMA. This program is a spin off of Project 4 Teens, which teaches teen leaders about issues dealing with dating, making healthy decisions, and goals for their future. These teens attended Camp Koinonia where they received their training. Their goals include providing teens with information about sexual health issues, relationships, and the importance of serving as a positive role model for the younger grades. With these goals, they develop ways to teach all this crucial information to the younger grades. It is an important message to get out and a valiant lifestyle to pursue.

Adam,

After kicking and screaming while the doctor sewed stitches around your eye at age four, you were wrapped toga style in a hospital sheet. You bravely stood on the table and exclaimed, "Hey Dad, now do I look like God?"

Ryan Sieg

"I'll have my pizza with extra cheese...Have my driver pick me up after Sesame Street...Make reservations for me at McDonalds (party of 4)...Oh, and Mom, You're the Best!!"

So are you, Bud!
Congratulations, Love,
Mom

Sarah,

From the moment you were born you had challenges to beat and you did it and continue to do it. Keep reaching for the stars. We are so proud of you.

Love,
Mom + Dad

Jane,

We are so proud of you. It has been wonderful watching you grow. Keep a song in your heart. God bless you always.

Love,
Dad + Mom,

the editors of valor would like to thank the following people for their help in producing the yearbook...

Zahler Photography

For all your wonderful photos and willingness to help out whenever necessary.

Advertisers

For supporting the book and helping us put Senior pictures in color.

Coaches and Advisors

For giving us all the information we need in a pinch.

Deanne Alexander

For making numerous trips to help, and always bringing treats as the ultimate motivator.

Local fast food chains

For providing us nourishment and energy when the going got tough.

Seniors

Thanks for being so great about turning in all your pictures and quotes on time.

M & M Koss

For being available so we could stay late and on weekends to get this thing done.

Disney Princess Collection

For driving Mrs. Koss crazy on all those extra long yearbook hours while the editors stood by and laughed (and loudly sang along).

Webbies

You know who you are.

No Thanks to all of those "on" the Valor staff who didn't do a da-rn thing!
