

BCS Hosts Another Fun and Informative Open House

The evening of March 15 brought a bevy of activity to every corner of our building. From Cheer Club and t-ball sign ups to the announcement of a student film festival in May, there were examples of fun and innovative ways that our faculty are opening doors, with expanded skills and a growth mindset, for our students and their families.

Belfast Central School's Mission Statement

The mission of the Belfast Central School is to work together to provide a comprehensive, equitable, and quality education for all students based on the belief that all children can and will learn. The community, faculty, staff, parents, and students will cooperatively foster each individual's intellectual, moral, social, civic, and physical development so that Belfast Central School will continue to be looked upon as an example of excellence in rural education in New York State.

Open House (cont'd)

Pre-k students had their planes, trains, and automobiles on display from a building project they did in February with their parents. First grade students performed a puppet show and 100% of the students had families in attendance at Mrs. Miller's first grade classroom. Seven students claimed prizes for the Lego estimation contest housed in Ms. Denning's classroom. Anthony Snyder, Logan McCarthy, Colden Caiazza, Isabelle Lindo, Pierre Lussier, Alyssa Cole and Sean Mahon were the best estimators.

Kids Club after school program raffled off a large prize basket which was claimed by Lucy Simzer.

In middle school, K'nex simple machines were a big hit. Surface area paper sculptures from math class in grade 6 were also on display. Retiring from teaching grades 5 and 6 in June, the outgoing Mrs. Parker was wistful about her last open house celebration at BCS.

"I will miss this," Parker said, "especially seeing older students come by to say hello. It is so nice to reconnect with them at open house."

Juniors traditionally compete in Mrs. Flanagan-Watson's mole project. This chemistry class event is very popular. The winner for 2018 is Kayleigh Blocho with "Molana," a spin-off on a Disney movie. "Donmoled Trump" and "Elon Molesk" were among the other many clever entries.

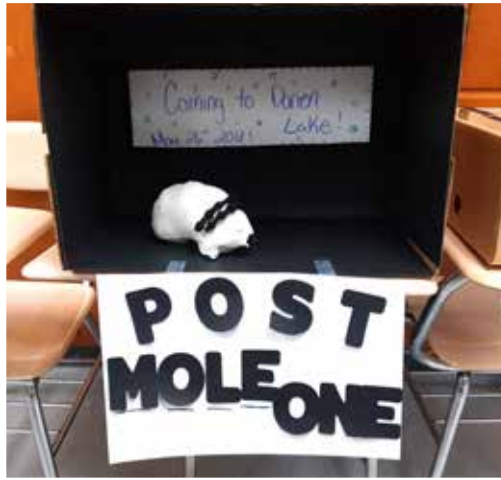

High school student book recommendations were on posters throughout the hallways.

In keeping with our voracious appetite for books, the Belfast Public Library was positioned in the gymnasium with an impressive array of books to raffle.

Also in the gym, the Cornell Cooperative Extension table included 4-H, nutrition, and Cassandra Bull, the Farm to School Coordinator. Ms. Bull hopes to connect with BCS faculty more in the future to talk about what her grant can do to promote more fresh produce at school, while enriching the student experience with gardening and agriculture.

Belfast Rescue Squad had a large corner of the gym reserved for life saving equipment and recruiting adult volunteers while sparking student interest in the emergency medical field.

Allegany Council on Alcohol and Substance Abuse (ACASA), Allegany Arc, Cuba Cultural Center, Houghton College, Genesee Community College, ACCORD, Lifeway Youth Center, Allegany County Area Foundation (ACAF), CORE (formerly Literacy West NY, Inc.) and Belfast PTO rounded out the community agency roster. Jacquie Elliott was the winner of the PTO door prize.

Nurse's Corner

Happy Spring, and hopefully better weather! This means kids will be riding their bikes and playing outside! Safety is always a big concern, so please remind them to wear their helmets and watch for cars, play nice, and follow the playground rules.

Safety first!

Anthing on the ground stays on the ground!

Find friends!

Everyone follows directions!

Treat others the way you want to be treated!

You must line up when called!

Spring physicals at school with Dr. Kassav are May 23, 2018. If your child is in need of a physical, please let me know. If your child is overdue for a physical, they will automatically be put on the list. If you prefer a family physician, please let me know. Just a reminder if your child had a physical at a family physician, please have them forward me a copy or send me a copy. The offices are becoming more strict and are not always letting me call to get them.

Any concerns or questions please contact me anytime!

Odyssey of the Mind Competition

This year BCS sent two teams to the Odyssey of the Mind competition! The teams consist of 4th/5th graders and 6th/7th graders. OM is an international creative problem-solving program that engages students in their learning by allowing their knowledge and ideas to come to life in an exciting, productive environment. Participants build self-confidence, develop life skills, create new friendships, and are able to recognize and explore their true potential. Odyssey of the Mind proves that students can have fun while they learn. The teams competed on March 24th at Allegany-Limestone Middle/High School.

Learning Tips from Mrs. Hess

Learning is Messy

The learning process is filled with mistakes and setbacks. Our children need to know how to navigate those inevitable mistakes in order to grow from their experiences. Here is a three-step strategy to teach children to harness the power of mistakes both at home and in the classroom:

1. Normalize mistakes: Children need to learn that mistakes are a normal part of the learning process. By teaching them how to acknowledge and learn from their mistakes, failure will no longer be something that is feared. Rather, it is an important and natural experience that they can learn from.
2. Value mistakes as learning opportunities: Turning mistakes into valuable learning opportunities is also key to normalizing them. Mistakes should be used as a jumping-off point for a discussion for improvement.
3. Coach students through setbacks: When your child hits a snag in their learning that they cannot resolve, their parent has the opportunity to step in and coach them through it. Provide them with open ended questions such as “Why do you think this happened?” or “What’s another strategy you could use?” or “How might you avoid this mistake next time?” to guide them through the learning of their mistake.

Have you ever noticed that your child is willing to tackle a new level of a video game for hours but gives up on their math homework or cleaning their room in a matter of minutes? Lisa Blackwell, a mindset-researcher notes that the threat of permanent failure is taken away in video games, where the player is given an unlimited number of chances to improve. Every failed attempt at a level is still an incremental step toward the mastery of it. Take some clues from the gaming industry – masters at engaging kids – to provoke the same kind of stick-to-it-ness that kids employ in video games.

Here are some strategies:

1. Provide examples.
2. Nonthreatening - Children should have the opportunity to fail without consequence.
3. Child input - Allow your child input on the work they’ll be doing. Voice and choice will promote ownership over the task and help children self-motivate to succeed.
4. Embrace differences - Not all children learn the same way, let them try multiple paths and figure out on their own what works and what doesn’t.
5. Intrinsic motivation - External rewards are never as successful as when children discover what motivates them intrinsically.
6. Cheats - Give your child tips and tricks to use as strategies in learning.
7. Constant feedback - Children need a stream of feedback from parents, teachers, and peers offering valuable advice and information that can enhance their learning.
8. Scaffolding - Make sure you provide support to your child in the form of scaffolding information and skill acquisition.
9. Create healthy competition - Competition is often intrinsically motivating to students.

When parents and teachers swoop in to protect children from failure, they do them a disservice by depriving them of the opportunity to learn how to fail in a way that’s productive and meaningful. Knowing how to fail is a valuable skill. Productive failure is the idea that mistakes and setbacks can be transitioned into valuable learning opportunities. So the next time your child struggles with something, let them fail. Then help them figure out what they can learn and how they can grow from their failure.

Want a Summer Job?

START NOW to prepare!

- ✓ Get your Employment Certificate ("Working Papers")
- ✓ Make sure that you know how to complete a great application for employment
- ✓ Make a plan for getting to and from a job, on time, every day
- ✓ Check out the Access Allegany bus schedule at <https://www.ardentnetwork.org/access-allegany.html>

Summer Youth Employment Program (SYEP) applications are available in the Guidance Office. Deadline to submit is May 4th. Contact Shery for more information at Allegany County Employment & Training, 7 Wells Lane, Belmont, NY (585) 268-9445.

Safety First!

Belfast Central School ask that you please notify the school if your child is going to be absent. We must account for every child, and your help is greatly appreciated.

Call 365-2053 for absences.

For your child's safety, please drop them off out in front of the school, not in the parking lot. Students that are tardy may be brought to the main door (Greeter's desk) as they need to be signed in by an adult.

Students must be in the classroom by 8:05. Absent, tardy, and early dismissals are documented, and letters are sent to parents at the end of each marking period.

Thank you!

Alumni Event

The Belfast Central School Alumni and Friends Banquet date and venue have changed.

Please join us on July 21st at the Belfast Town Hall!

Notices will be sent out soon, and we are still looking for people and addresses.

Watch the Belfast Central School Alumni Banquet page on Facebook for updates.

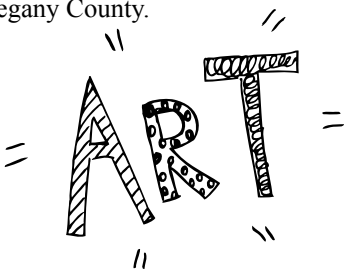

Contact Diana Grastorf or Patty Oliver for more information.

See you in July!!

Congratulations, Elisa Houser!

Elisa was selected for the High School Juried Art Exhibition at the St. Bonaventure University Regina Quick Arts Center. Her self-portrait pencil drawing will be displayed along with other 9th-12th grade students from Allegany County.

Scientists in First Grade

The students in Sandy Miller's first grade have been studying properties of light. Their final engineering project involved planning, designing, creating, and redesigning a light house. It was incredible to see the collaboration between the children, and how they were able to solve the problems that they were presented. They all encountered challenges along the way, but as a group they were able to overcome them.
