Normandy Schools Collaborative SCHOLAR SPOTLIGHT

Soloman
JOHNSON

Sophomore
Normandy High School

Soloman Johnson, a well-mannered sophomore at Normandy High School, shines as a creative student who inspires educators and peers with his dedication and innovative thinking.

His ability to think outside the box and go deeper into problem-solving, matched with his persistence, are traits that resonate in my math classes, enriching the class discussion and motivating fellow students. Soloman is eager to collaborate with peers and contributes towards a positive learning environment.

District Takes Steps Against Bullying

School bullying is a national problem. Approximately 20% of US students ages 12-18 experience bullying at school.

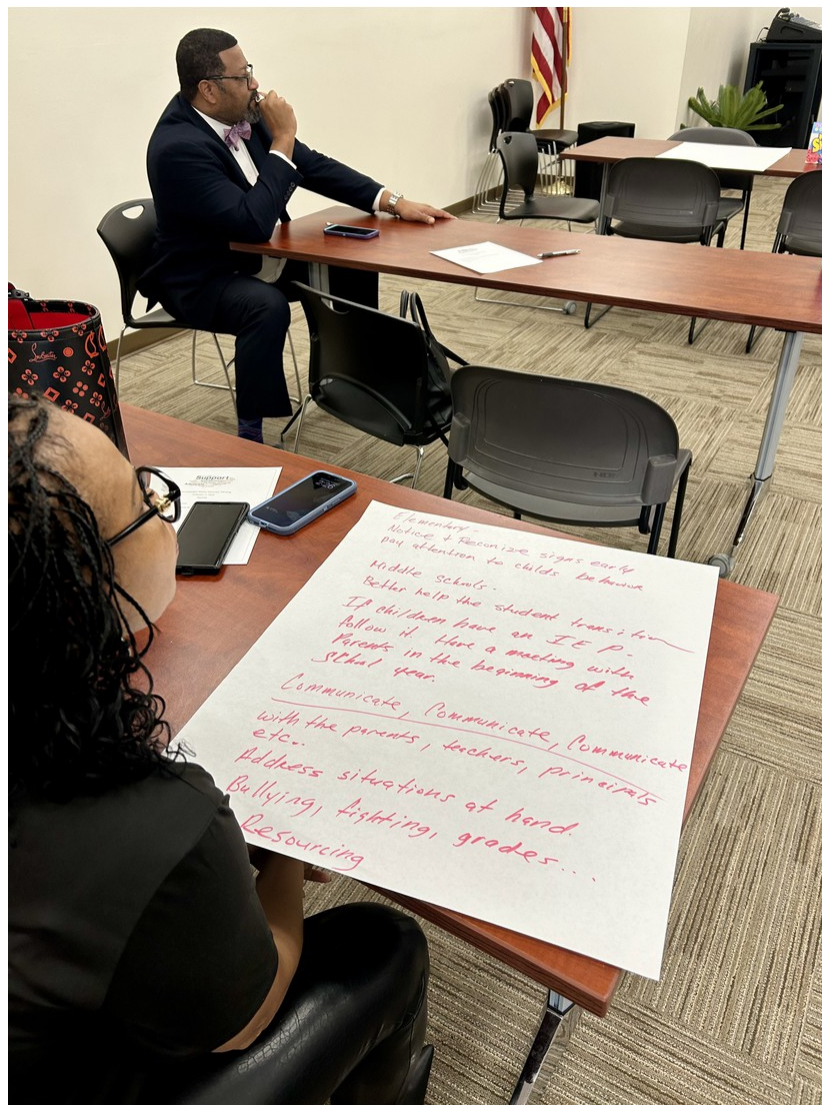

Normandy Schools Collaborative is taking proactive steps to combat bullying by creating a committee to address this issue. The committee is made up of district and school leaders and community partners, including the Special School District, mental health professionals, and our strategic partner, Beyond Housing.

Committee members held their first meeting recently. They will meet regularly to develop and implement anti-bullying policies, establish channels for students to anonymously report incidents, review and analyze data to help create anti-bullying plans, and plan initiatives to foster a culture of inclusivity and empathy at our schools. The district will conduct regular training sessions for students and staff and work with parents to reinforce the anti-bullying messages at home.

Superintendent Seeks Student Input

This week, the Superintendent's Student Advisory Committee met, placing student voices at the forefront. Representing students from every school in the Normandy Schools Collaborative, we unite to mold a more promising future for our district through active listening, continuous learning, and impactful contributions!

Parent Advisory Committee Provides District Feedback

Earlier in the school year, Superintendent Dr. Michael Triplett launched monthly meetings with parents to hear directly from them and ensure we work as partners in making decisions about the education of the children in Normandy.

The meetings are geared towards collaborating with the Superintendent's office to provide input and feedback on matters affecting students throughout the district. Thank you to the families that met and shared ideas on how we can improve.

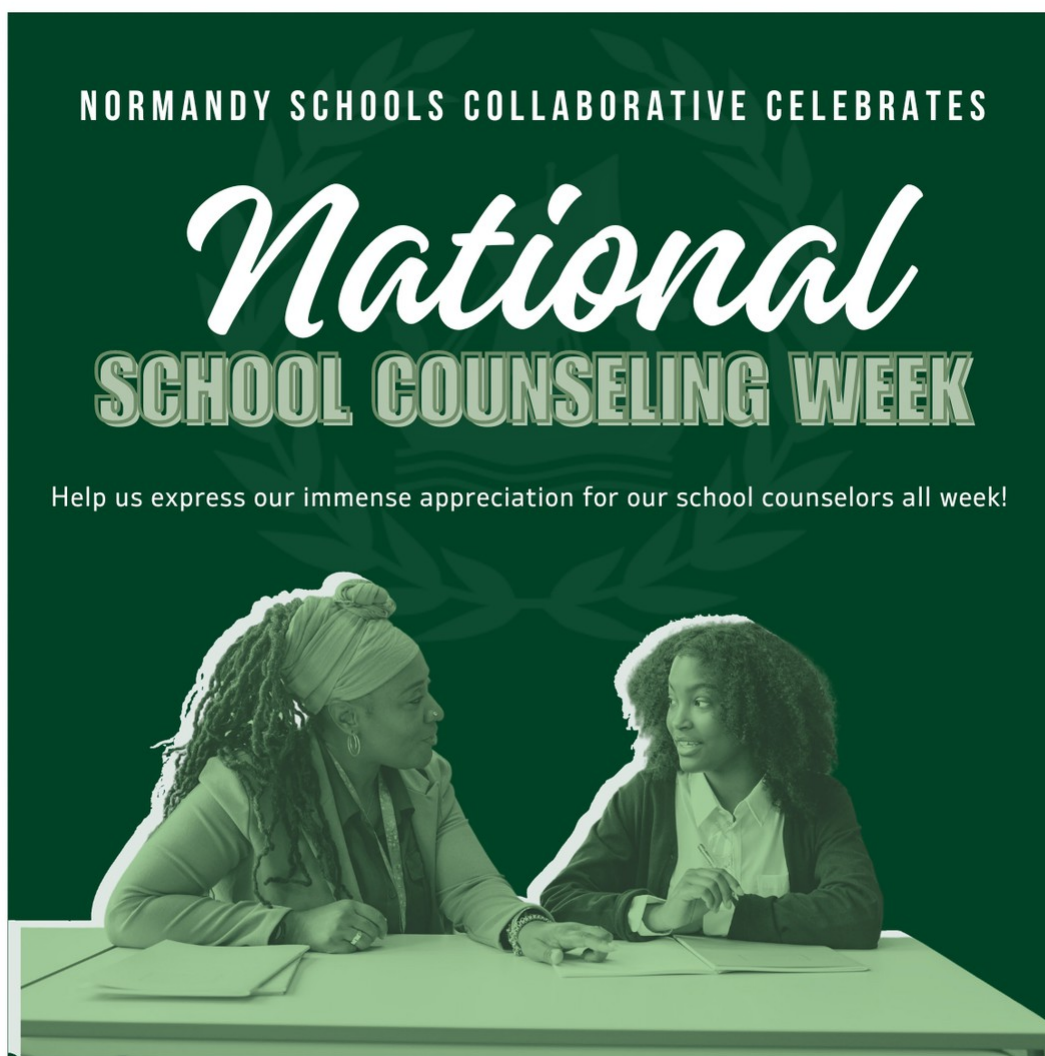

Dr. Triplett Releases New Book

Normandy Schools Collaborative Superintendent Dr. Michael Triplett is not only the district's leader but also a published author. He recently released his second book, 'Navigating Educational Turbulence: How to Land the Plane.' The book explores problems that lead to conflicts and examines effective methods for fostering a positive, influential, and highly productive team environment. His first book, 'Different Thinking Leads to Different Outcomes,' was released in 2022.

Normandy Celebrates Our Counselors

Join us in celebrating National School Counseling Week! Let's honor our dedicated counselors for their invaluable support and guidance in shaping the future of our students.

SSD Superintendent Visits Normandy

Normandy Schools Collaborative welcomed the Special School District of St. Louis County Superintendent Dr. Michael Maclin to the district recently. He met with district leaders and toured schools, including Normandy High School, to learn more about our district and find ways to work together to increase student achievement.
