

Davie County Names Jami Gullick Assistant Principal at North Davie Middle School

Mocksville, NC – June 19, 2024 – Jami Gullick has been named assistant principal at North Davie Middle School beginning in the 2024-2025 school year.

Gullick brings a wealth of experience and a deep commitment to educational excellence, having recently completed a Master's in School Administration from Appalachian State University, Boone, NC, as part of the distinguished Principal Fellow Program.

With a Bachelor of Science in Education concentrating on Social Studies from Appalachian State University, she completed a 1,500-hour internship at Newton-Conover Middle Schools, where she also served as a testing coordinator, managed student discipline, and played an integral role in various committees including the School Improvement Team (SIT) and the CARES committee (MTSS evaluation team).

Gullick's 10-year teaching career spans multiple grades and roles, from second to fifth grade, in both Newton-Conover City Schools and Iredell Statesville Schools. She has been a vital part of professional learning communities, led professional development sessions, and served as a mentor to beginning teachers, and was recognized as a Top 25% Educator for Growth in ELA in North Carolina.

"We are excited to welcome Jami to our administrative team," said Jinda Haynes, Assistant Superintendent, Davie County Schools. "Her extensive experience and instructional knowledge will be invaluable as we continue to support our students and staff."
