What is the Teacher Cadet Program?

The North Carolina Teacher Cadet Program began in 1997 and has proven to be successful in increasing student interest in the teaching profession with the long-term focus on “growing our own” teachers.

What is the Teacher Cadet Program?

Teacher Cadet is a solution for the teacher shortage and the lack of educators who reflect student demographics, both of which can lead to increased student achievement, graduation, and career preparedness. The Teacher Cadet is currently the only teacher recruitment program in the state.

The Curriculum

*Hands on

*Field Experience

*Gives realistic view of the teaching profession

*Promotes leadership

*Helps to develop a passion for teaching.

Teacher Cadet During Remote Learning

Teacher Cadets were paired with elementary teachers to observe and assist virtually during remote learning. They utilized breakout rooms to assist students, read aloud, mentor, and observe all within the virtual classrooms.

Quote From a Cooperating Teacher

“I have thoroughly enjoyed having Carlos and Samantha in my class as teacher cadets.  They have helped students with morning math work and shared when I have asked them questions.  They are both very respectful students, and I hope they have learned something by observing my 5th grade class.”

Quote From A Student

“Throughout this program the things I have most enjoyed are the projects. I love to draw even if I'm not the best at it. I also love thinking of what my future could look like, and we do that a lot in this class. I enjoy observing the elementary classes because it's different and helpful. Watching as teachers discipline and reward when needed is pretty cool. Overall I like this class because I can be myself, and it really makes me think about what it is that I want for my future."
