What are AP Courses?

AP Courses are classes that cover college-level content and use advanced-level skills but are designed for high school students

AP courses require:

- critical reading & thinking, analysis and synthesis, problem-solving, and writing.
each DAY on behalf of the student
- dedication, organization, time-investment, and commitment for the duration

What are AP Courses?

Different AP Courses are offered at WHS based on:

- *student interest/requested enrollment
- qualified staff availability*

All AP Courses are weighted on a 6.0 GPA scale (for more information, see p. 36-37 of the 24-25 Student Handbook)

 Class of 2026, 2027, 2028 only; Class of 2025, AP Core Content and LOTE only

AP Courses & College Credit:

AP Courses & College Credit

- they are courses designed for high school students, and
- credit may be earned with a qualifying AP exam score (multiple choice, FRQ, LEQ, and/or performance tasks) if they are shared with a college or university.

AP Exams are corresponding end-of-course exams for Advanced Placement courses, not unlike a STAAR EOC.

Who can take an AP Exam?

Anyone can take any AP Exam they choose to register for, even ones we do not offer as a course:

This often happens when we have:

- DC course students with a parallel AP Course
- Students are taking a course elsewhere (i.e. homeschool or virtual school students)
- When students have prior advanced knowledge or are native speakers
- When they choose to self-study.

What is the purpose of an AP Exam?

AP Exams are standardized exams designed to see how well a student has mastered the content & skills of a specific AP course.

If a student earns a qualifying score (a 3, 4, or 5), they may earn college credit depending on their choice of college's or degree program's

Live Session & Submitted FAQs

Q: How do students earn college credit for an AP Exam?

Students who have earned a 3, 4, or 5 must submit their qualifying score to the college or university they are applying or enrolling at by logging in to their collegeboard.org account, choosing “My AP” and requesting a score send.

Q: Can students in a DC (dual credit) course take an AP Exam?

Anyone can take any AP Exam of their choice including ones not currently offered at WHS (DC students, virtual/homeschool students, or students self-studying a course of their choice). All they need to do is complete both steps to register.

Q: How does my student know if they’ve registered for their AP exam(s) or completed both steps to register?

Students should first log in to their myap.collegeboard.org account and look to see if they have course badges with AP exam dates/times listed on their dashboard for each AP course they are taking. Second, students should have an AP Exam registration confirmation email from Total Registration. If they are missing either, have them see Mrs. Rogers in the library.
