Spiritual, Moral, Social and Cultural Development Policy

(SMSC)

Introduction

Central to Prestfelde, the belief is that the education provided is not only about the gaining of knowledge and the acquiring of essential skills, but it is also about the personal development of each pupil, in its fullest sense. The fullest sense, in terms of the 1992 Schools Act, is one which includes the "spiritual, moral, social and cultural development" of each child. This includes self-discipline, responsibility, respect for others and the environment.

At Prestfelde we believe in providing an education for life in a caring environment, which aims to:

- actively promote the fundamental British values of democracy, the rule of law, individual liberty, and mutual respect and tolerance of those with different faiths and beliefs;
- ensure that the following principles are actively promoted which
 - enables pupils to develop their self-knowledge, self-esteem and self-confidence;
 - enables pupils to distinguish right from wrong and to respect the civil and criminal law of England;
 - encourages pupils to accept responsibility for their behaviour, show initiative and understand how they can contribute positively to the lives of those living and working in the locality in which the school is situated and to society more widely;
 - enables pupils to acquire a broad general knowledge of and respect for public institutions and services in England;
 - encourages tolerance and harmony between different cultural traditions by enabling pupils to acquire an appreciation of and respect for their own and other cultures;
 - encourages respect for other people, paying particular regard to the protected characteristics set out in the 2010 Act;
 - encourages respect for democracy and support for participation in the democratic process, including respect for the basis on which the law is made and applied in England;
- precludes the promotion of partisan political views in the teaching of any subject in the school
- takes such steps as are reasonably practicable to ensure that where political issues are brought to the attention of pupils they are offered a balanced presentation of opposing views. This includes: while they are in attendance at the school; while they are taking part in extra-curricular activities which are provided or organised by or on behalf of the school; or (iii) in the promotion at the school, including through the distribution of promotional material, of extra-curricular activities taking place at the school or elsewhere,

Values and ethos

The School prides itself on an explicit set of core values which are at the heart of all that it does: Empathy, Aspiration, Perseverance, Selflessness, Respect, Unity, Confidence, Integrity, Courage and Humility.

These are embedded in our centenary strategy which is underpinned by six key pillars including:

- a culture of positive wellbeing and inclusion
- community engagement
- inspiring co-curricular program
- academic excellence
