

Adam Eilath, Educator-in-Residence

JIMENA is pleased to announce the appointment of Adam Eilath as our new Educator-in-Residence. In this role, Adam will provide essential support for our newest Senior Jewish Educators Cohort as well as offer ongoing support for educators involved with JIMENA.

Adam Eilath brings a wealth of experience in Jewish education and leadership. Currently serving as the Head of School at Ronald C. Wornick Jewish Day School in Foster City, Adam is known for his commitment to Jewish values and innovative educational approaches. He has played a significant role in fostering a learning environment that celebrates Jewish diversity and heritage, particularly focusing on the Sephardi and Mizrahi traditions (Distinctions Journal, JWeekly).

Adam's educational background and experience in Jewish studies make him an invaluable asset to JIMENA's mission. He has previously served as Dean of Jewish Studies and Hebrew at the Jewish Community High School of the Bay in San Francisco. His work has consistently emphasized the importance of connecting Jewish education with the experiences and histories of the Jewish communities from the Middle East and North Africa (JWeekly) (eJewishPhilanthropy).

"We are thrilled to have Adam join us as a Educator-in-Residence," said Sarah Levin, Executive Director of JIMENA. "His expertise and dedication to Sephardic education and culture will be instrumental in supporting diverse educators and administrators seeking to better integrate Sephardi content into classrooms and learning spaces, nation-wide. JIMENA receives a constant stream of requests from Jewish day schools and educational institutions seeking support in strengthening school culture and content and we are happy to have Adam on board to support this critical work.”

JIMENA is excited to work with Adam to further develop educational initiatives that empower and inspire educators and students alike, ensuring that the unique narratives and contributions of Sephardi and Mizrahi Jews are recognized and celebrated.