

JASON CUNNINGHAM CHARITABLE FOUNDATION - SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT

Hearing Aid Battery Program

Response to COVID-19

In response to COVID-19, the Jason Cunningham Charitable Foundation (JCCF) created a hearing aid battery program in response to a need for children to have working devices while out of school and during the stay-at-home order issued by Governor Kemp. JCCF is accepting donations, raising funds, and distributing batteries to children ages 0-22 who need batteries for their hearing technology (for hearing aids, cochlear implants, FM systems, etc.) through January 2021 or as long as the stay-in-place order remains. JCCF is partnering with the Georgia Mobile Audiology program to get the word out to audiologists and teachers across the state of Georgia and for distribution.

Did you know?
Most families who receive batteries
through Medicaid
have to show up in person to collect.
The COVID-19 stay-
in-place order
makes that difficult
for many families

If you are a teacher, audiologist, or concerned family member and are worried about a child, ages 0-22, who is in need of batteries for their hearing technology during the COVID-19 stay-in-place order, please reach out.

Please click here to fill out the form or use the QR Code to the right. Be prepared to provide family information, number of devices, device information, and battery size.

Please contact the Jason Cunningham Charitable Foundation to donate or MAPInfo@doe.k12.ga.us with questions or to receive more information.

This program is sponsored by the Jason Cunningham Charitable Foundation.
