DOUG GWINN

-Class of 1932

A lifelong educator who was ahead of his time with inclusion, equity and belonging.

>> Mr. Gwinn had a profound influence on the lives of countless boys and girls. His willingness to work with young people and his interest in them were evident.

A native of Walla Walla, Doug Gwinn came full circle graduating from the 8th grade at Jefferson Elementary School to holding the position of principal. At Walla Walla High School he played football and was in ROTC. He began his career in education in Pomeroy, then returned to Walla Walla in 1943 where he taught Physical Education and Shop at every grade school with the exception of Prospect Point and Berney. He became the Principal at Jefferson Elementary School in 1950.

During his 23-year tenure at Jefferson, Mr. Gwinn was a hands-on educator working through many challenges. Jefferson was the designated school for physically and developmentally disabled students. He was heralded by his staff at his retirement in 1973 for his direct involvement with the students.

While Jefferson's student body was economically diverse, many of Jefferson's students were living in poverty, so he created a closet with his own money where children in need could discreetly select clothing. On his own time, he held Saturday PE in the gym for students and took physically handicapped children to bowl.

Mr. Gwinn helped start the Walla Walla Junior Wagon Wheelers, and organized outdoor recreational programs at Camp Wooten for Walla Walla youth.

His teaching legacy includes his three sons, five grandchildren and two great-grandchildren who became teachers. His wife Helen also taught at Washington Elementary School. Doug's nomination was spearheaded by Pam Ray, with help from Brian Jones, Brenda Jones and Jon Campbell.

For example, Karen pushed for licensure of the YMCA's child care program, and it is now fully licensed by the states of Washington and Oregon. She also pushed for expansion of the Aquatics program, and it now provides training and operational support for other area pools. She consistently strives to make the YMCA a good community partner. Karen has made connections with other community nonprofits in order to better both the Walla Walla YMCA and other area nonprofits.

Prior to her time at the YMCA, Karen was a trustee for the Life Sciences Discovery Fund, established in 2005 by the Governor and Legislature of Washington state to foster growth of the state's life sciences sector and improve the health and economic wellbeing of its residents. She served as a business mentor for the nonprofit Kids in Medicine Seattle, providing science and technology tools and training for K-12 teachers.
