COURSE DESCRIPTION: Film & Literature

Description of course:

Film and Literature is a full year, five credit course for all high school students, is part of the English Department's elective program and fulfills the graduation requirement for "21st Century Life and Careers."

This course will provide the opportunity for students to approach film with an understanding of and an appreciation for the techniques employed in the evolution of film from concept to screen. Students will understand that the creation of a film depends on a variety of skilled professionals and will have the opportunity to explore those various roles and responsibilities, including screenwriter, cinematographer, storyboard/art producer, actor, editor and director. The class will highlight the process whereby written texts such as novels or screenplays are translated from the written to the visual and have an opportunity to learn how film critics interpret this art form. Students will also understand the financial and marketing aspect of the film industry and the cultural, political and social influence of Hollywood in American society. The viewing of films in this course is always active and student response is consistently framed within an academic and professional context.

Film and Literature provides an opportunity for a variety of students to learn, study, and appreciate a unique aspect of American culture from both technical and artistic points of view.

General Objectives:

Upon completion of the course, students will be able to:

1. Demonstrate knowledge of technical and artistic elements incorporated into films.
2. Demonstrate an ability to discuss and write about past and present film criticism.
3. Improve viewing skills through note-taking and reference to previously presented material.
4. Participate actively in class discussion, group activities, oral presentations, and supplementary projects.
5. Analyze both fiction and non-fiction in order to communicate theme in discussion and in writing.
6. Demonstrate the ability to make connections between classic films and their modern counterparts by tracing specific film, movements, themes, or directional concerns.

7. Demonstrate creative, critical thinking, collaboration and problem solving skills to function successfully as global citizens and workers in diverse ethnic and organizational cultures. (9.1: 21st Century Life Skills)
8. Develop skills and strategies that promote personal and financial responsibility related to financial planning, savings, investment, and charitable giving in the global economy. (9.2: Personal Financial Literacy)
9. Apply knowledge about and engage in the process of career awareness, exploration and preparation in order to navigate the globally competitive work environment of the information age. (9.3: 21st Century Life Skills; NJ Administrative Code: N.J.A.C. 6A:8-3.2)

The films in this course focus on a variety of themes. Certain films may be able to be used in a variety of units. Additional readings and writings provide depth, universality, and appreciation of these themes.
