Crusader Chronicles

Good Shepherd Catholic School

How many times have you read or heard the expression, “You cannot give what you do not have?” Probably more than you can count! The nature of what we give may be spiritual, material, intellectual, social, or whatever. But, isn’t it true?
Whether it’s our time, talent, or treasure, we cannot offer it to another person if we don’t possess it. The same is true for the Easter gift given by the Risen Lord. He offered his Apostles and disciples the gift of peace. While some variation in numbers may exist, Jesus appears to speak of peace 23 or so times in the Gospels. One of the more familiar passages where Jesus offers this gift is found in Saint John’s Gospel telling of the Easter night appearance of Jesus. He greets those whom he loved with “Peace be with you.”
At each liturgy the priest offers us Christ’s gift of peace and we share it with others. In this Easter season, are we conscious of this treasure? We have the ability to bring Christ’s peace to our lives, our families, and our communities, and our places of work. We can give peace to others because we have it! We can even greet one another, especially in this Eastertide, with an expression wishing them peace.
Pace e bene!
