Working with Maps

We read a book called Mapping Penny's World by Loreen Leedy to get us learning about maps and their features (the key, compass rose, distance). We discussed that a map is a birds-eye-view of a place and that a map can be of something local, like a park, the school, or something bigger like a state, country, or the world. We then had some fun creating our own imaginary places using watercolors and marker details. The kids had so much fun with the project!

4th Grade Buddies

We're excited to have our very first "Buddies" meeting with Ms. Price's 4th Grade class this Friday. Our two classes will do projects together, make things together, and read together on most Fridays throughout the year. We'll start this week with Buddy Interviews. Should be fun!

Math Games at Home...

Just checking in... How are the math games going? Is your child playing them? Please let me know.

I can't believe it's October already! ~Ms. Boyesen
