The History of the Class

We extend an invitation to you, member of the class of '46, to journey with us back three years—via the "Chattanooga Choo, Choo," for no other method of transportation would be apropos for a class led by as "hep" a personage as Robert A. DuLong. . . . Remember that first memorable day at MHS? . . . Our knees would have made good vibrators, for we had none of the initiative and self-confidence that has since become characteristic of our up-and-coming group. Despite the helpful (?) advice of upperclassmen, our noses rivaled Pinnochio's, so glued were they to that life saving Blue and White Handbook. . . . After wandering about in this daze for about four months, we really settled down and proved we'd had our eyes opened, by the election of four illustrious officers, Paul Skerry, Betty Ann McCaffrey, June Bauld, and John O'Leary.

As a class, we first proved our worth when we completely disregarded all we'd heard about seniority, and literally "scooped" our senior classes by raising $35,000 in aid of the purchase of the Mustang Plane, in our first War Bond Drive. The cause was furthered by an auction conducted by the class officers. . . . Blind dates brought in the greatest return—and no wonder, with Bob Lynch and Shirley Johnson as objects of the bidding! . . .

May 15 brought our Sophomore Hop, for many their first high school prom. Why hop rhymes with "flop," we never could imagine, for the high school gymnasium was the scene of one of the most successful hops in years. . . . With that happy night in mind, we struggled on until June. Then it was that we, as challenging juniors-about-to-be, greeted the class of '47, comforted by the realization that they were as befuddled as we had ever been, and that it was now our turn to lend a helping hand.

Our junior year was an important year in world history, as well as in our lives. President Franklin D. Roosevelt died at Palm Springs, Georgia, on April 12, only a month before historic V-E Day. Assemblies marked both the sad occasion and the later joyful one. . . . The affairs of the class of '46 were entrusted this year to Frank Brown, who became our president after a close election. The other officers were Beverley Arlen, vice president; Doris Hillebrand, secretary; Richard Palumbo, treasurer.

As juniors we sponsored another War Bond Drive, and as triumphantly as in the previous year. An assembly featuring an all-star entertainment program helped promote this drive. . . . Pat Morrison, Paul Sullivan, Bob DuLong, Bill Polcari, Barbara Cerchione, Bob Lynch, Anna Belino, Dorothy Augustino, and Angelo Nazarro were responsible for the sale of more than a few War Bonds.

Remember those newspapers "published" in Miss Hall's English classes? . . . Remember the Junior Prom, which the blustering month of March ushered in? A success both socially and financially, the prom was pronounced one of the most enjoyable in years. . . . Remember all those assemblies, from "Life With Father" to Bouve's modern dancers? . . . Remember how happy were the lucky girls who were elected junior marshals? . . . And how lovely they looked as representatives of the class of '46 at the Senior Reception and Class Day? . . . The ushers looked handsome too, but rumor had it that all our stalwart young gentlemen were not as happy about the entire affair as the fairer sex. . . . Seventeen juniors were chosen as cheerleaders for the following season, with Lois DeAndrade and Janet Moor as head cheerleaders.

It was that year that the resignation of our beloved headmaster, Ralph L. Kendall, was accepted by the school committee. Only the knowledge that Submaster Edward H. Leonard would succeed Mr. Kendall could help atone for this loss.

Our senior year was our first at MHS in a world of peace. . . . It also brought our new headmaster and assistant headmaster, Daniel A. Manley. . . . After much thought and consideration, we chose as president of the class, Robert DuLong, who had proved his capability and done much in the past to merit this honor. Marjorie Baldwin was elected vice president; Marjorie Bonnell, secretary; and Robert Benoit, trustee of our funds, which were destined to increase remarkably, thanks to his "timid" reminders, "Pay your dues . . . or else!"

Our first social undertaking as seniors, the Senior Promenade, was held in the Amory on January 25, and was pronounced by all who attended—and even those who didn't—a huge success. Our initial thespian activity was in aid of this event—a skit written by our illustrious president, and revealing much hidden talent—notably in the personages of Margie Bonnell and Eddie Fargo. . . .

Will we ever forget the laurels that were forever being won by MHS athletes in one field or another: how that soccer championship seemed almost to have become a permanent fixture, also the baseball and hockey crowns, all during our years at the Alma Mater; how Dick Veinot became one of the highest scorers in the GBI Hockey League; how Jackie Murphy was voted all-scholastic by almost every Boston sportswriter; how the names "Buzzer" and "Sugar" were on all lips during that last football season; how popular Joe Morelli, our versatile athlete, became president of the "M" Club? We'll always remember, too, how un-glamorous the rain-drenched cheerleaders looked at the Wakefield and Malden games . . . the thrills at the basketball games and the track meets . . . the various musicals conducted by "Schoony."

The class play, "Through the Night," a mystery, was presented in Chevalier Auditorium on May 9 and 10. The cast included Lois DeAndrade, Ruth Clark, Barbara Van Amburg, Roy Kennan, Victor Shehab, Francis Yennaco, Robert Fallon, Donald Henderson, Robert Fader, and Joseph Livoti.

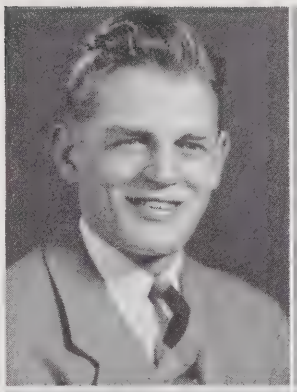

Before long the Senior Advisory Council began to make plans for those last few wonderful days before graduation. It was decided that the Senior Reception would be held on June 4 in Cousens Gymnasium at Tufts. . . . The honor parts for Class Day, June 5, were given to Robert Meserve, Class Day Orator; Beverley Arlen, Ivy Orator; Barbara Bommer, Marjorie Bonnell, Walter Connor, and Fred Tough, Historians; Ruth Clark, Frances Curry, Trase Davies, Shirley Tyler, Betty Griffiths, and Robert Fallon, Prophets; Rutilio Corvo, Class Poet. . . .

At graduation, held in Chevalier Auditorium on June 6, the three students with highest scholastic averages, Jeanne Sumner, Marion Corbett, and Constance Conlan, were given recognition.

Thus end our memorable years at Medford High School. . . . Now, remembering the last three years, let us hope that the future will always be just as bright and happy, whether in college, office, shop, or home. And let us always cherish the glorious ideals and never-say-die spirit of the Class of '46!

Haverhill 0 Medford 7

After the Arlington game had been postponed, the 1945 edition of the Mustangs journeyed to Haverhill to start the season off right. Both teams showed the lack of game experience, and Medford's scoring chances were repeatedly crushed by offside penalties against the overanxious Mustangs. The break came suddenly as Bill Hanlon intercepted a pass and sprinted 50 yards for six big points. The extra point try was converted by Hayes and the victorious team returned to Medford.

Medford 14 Wakefield 6

In a game which started off with a midsummer temperature of 87; and which featured a 45-minute downpour, the Mustangs overpowered a good Wakefield team, 14–6. Due to the fact that the ball was wet after the first period, quarterback "Buzzer" Hayes called nothing but straight line plays, which sent hard-driving Dick Palumbo crashing over for both the Mustang's touchdowns. Much credit is due the Medford forward wall for the yawning holes they tore in the Wakefield defenses. Wakefield came back to score once, but the Mustangs, nevertheless, rolled on to victory number two.

Brockton 25 Medford 0

In the only game in which the Mustangs were decisively defeated, a powerful Brockton team, which rolled over all opposition during the season, downed the local charges, 25–0. The nearest the Mustangs came to scoring was when "Buzzer" Hayes ran through the entire Brockton team with the exception of the safety man who made a touchdown-saving tackle on the Brockton 40-yard line. Despite the score, the Mustangs could boast then, as they could at the end of the season, that no team succeeded in making a sustained drive through the Medford forward wall.

Medford 33 Somerville 0

Led by the captain of the day, Jack Murphy, who was in rare form for the occasion, Medford took revenge for the Somerville defeat last year as they chalked up a smashing 33–0 victory, the largest score in the history of the series. Frank Butts, Gino Paglucia, Warren McFague, "Buzzer" Hayes, and Tom Kelley, all scored in the touchdown parade. "Buzzer" and Tom scored on end sweeps, Frank and Gino on long runs, while Warren was on the "gravy" end of a perfect Hayes pass. The Medford line, which spent most of its time in the Somerville backfield, prevented the Somervillites from holding the ball for long. No victory of the season was sweeter.

Melrose 27 Medford 6

Three long runs and a pass accounted for the Melrose touchdowns as a fighting team of Mustangs went down 27–6. The Medford touchdown came the hard way on line plays through the big Melrose line, culminating in a buck by Gino Paglucia. It is true that the score was lopsided, but it was a well-known fact, admitted by the Melrose coach, that the boys from the Mystic dealt out more punishment to the Red Raiders than any other opponent. Joe Morelli's twin recovery of fumbles and George Bardaro's rugged tackle on Emerson after the latter had received a kick saved more trouble. During the second period Medford was denied a touchdown on a very questionable decision on a play in which Warren McFague snared a long pass and fought his way to the goal line. As the game ended the Mustangs were marching on the Melrose goal line, but the score remained unchanged.

Everett 7 Medford 6

An inspired Medford eleven invaded Everett to take on the much-publicized, highly-vaunted Everett team. As the game got under way it was evident that the Mustangs had no idea of being defeated. However, late in the first period Everett's Romboli wormed and squirmed over the goal line for six points with the extra point being added. The Mustangs came back and after driving into Everett's territory "Buzzer" Hayes uncorked a long heave to Warren McFague who grabbed it on the 12, shook off the would-be Everett tackler, and crossed the last white line. The try for the point failed. It is impossible to single out anyone for individual line play for, although outweighed 25 lbs. to the man, the whole line was at its brilliant best, as they stopped many an Everett balltoter before reaching scrimmage. A late period drive failed to bring the needed points for a well-deserved victory.

Medford 13 Newton 12

After the first five minutes of play, most people would not have given Newton a chance of winning, for the Mustangs had already registered 13 points. First, Phil Richardson broke off Bill Bradley's left tackle position and made a beautiful 30-yard run for the first marker.

Then, Joe Morelli snatched a deflected center from the air and aided by two fine blocks by Bill Bradley and George Bardaro scored what proved to be the last Medford touchdown of the game. The point was good. Twice during the course of the game Peter Drennan demonstrated his alertness at intercepting Newton passes. After the Orange and Black had struck back to make the score 13–12, with time running out, Medford's line made a great goal-line stand to preserve the victory.

Waltham 12 Medford 7

The game started badly for the Mustangs as Waltham drew first blood, with the score 6–0 at the end of the half. Medford came back fighting after the rest period with a pass from Tom Kelley to Warren McFague producing a score. Tony Martignetti, who had been playing a fine game, was taken out as "Sugar" Cervone rushed in to make a perfect placement. The glory was short-lived, however, for powerhouse Ernie Zino culminated a long drive by scoring again for Waltham to make the final score, 7–12. The Mustangs licked their wounds and resolved to take revenge on the arch enemy, Malden.

Malden 0 Medford 0

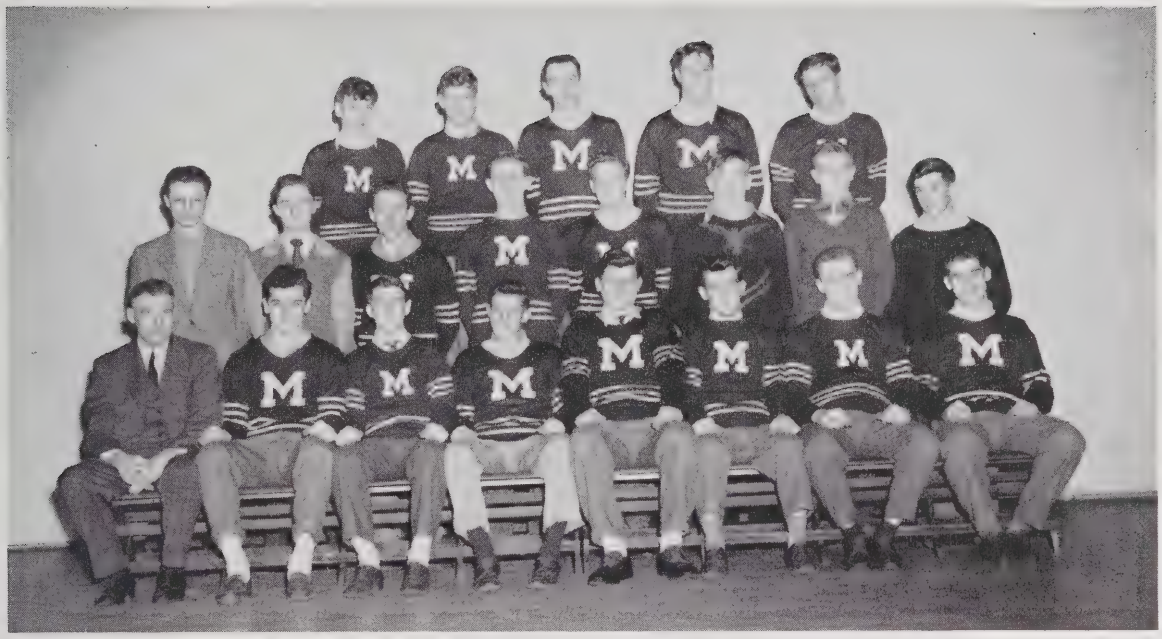

The annual clash between the ancient rivals was played this year under conditions which could not have been worse. The field was turned into a quagmire by the torrential downpour, and the activity on the playing field was a far cry from a football game. Ball carriers, blockers, and tacklers alike, slipped and slid in the deepening mud. The boys were really "keyed up" for the contest and it is indeed unfortunate they were not permitted to give a true account of themselves. The chief interest in the game was the brilliant kicking duel between Johnny Carroll and Mustang Phil Richardson, in which the latter had the edge. Phil's fine kicking and Peter Drennan's unerring centers, despite the elements, are worthy of much praise. On the last play of the game George Bardaro intercepted a pass and raced for the goal. A last-ditch Malden tackle deprived the Mustangs of the victory they had struggled so hard to achieve.

Summary

The Mustangs started off the season badly handicapped by the lack of veterans, with Jack Murphy the lone regular starter from last year's aggregation. Despite this, under the able direction of Coach Pidgeon, the boys managed to complete the season with a record of four wins, four losses, one tie. With a few more breaks at Everett and Waltham, these games might easily have been in the win column. Win, lose, or draw, the Medford team was a fighting team. When they had the opportunity of taking revenge on Somerville for last year's defeat, the first in thirty years, the boys came through in fine style as they ran up the largest score in the history of the antiquated series, 33–0. A victory over Somerville is one of the chief objects of any season. It was indeed unfortunate the Malden contest was played under such adverse conditions as the boys were confident they could give Malden a good licking.

As has been the case for several years, Medford was once more represented by a fine hockey team. Starting from scratch, the boys developed fast under the able tutelage of Coach Prior. Medford occupied the top spot for much of the season, where they might have wound up with a few breaks. The best contests were the first meetings between Arlington and Rindge, with both games going in the Mustang win column. The first team of Dick Venoit, center; Bill Duryea and Dick Marshall, wings; Bill Bradley and Phil Richardson, defense; and Pete Brady, goal, was the equal of any in the league.

Under the very able leadership of Priscilla Fyfe, captain, the Girls' Tennis Team of 1945 completed a fairly successful season. For the purpose of selecting material, and for the practical experience, the season was opened with an inter-class tournament among the girls, made up of sophomores, juniors, and seniors. From the results of this tournament the team was chosen. According to the usual custom, letters and numerals were awarded to the girls who participated. Although most of the girls on the team graduated, many other girls have shown a great interest in tennis and under the leadership of this year's co-captains, Angela Anderson and Marion Corbett, we are looking forward to the development of an outstanding team.

As this book goes to press the M.H.S. Girls' Softball Team is just beginning its 1946 season. Last year, operating under the leadership of an excellent captain, Pat Constantine, the team was fairly successful. Barbara Lewis obtained the highest batting average of 874, with Pat Constantine not far behind receiving 828. This year with another fine captain, Lindy Lauretano, and a large number of returning veterans, we have hopes of building a strong and successful team.

Apparently field hockey is going to be one of Medford High's most prominent sports, for although it is comparatively new, a large number of girls have shown a great interest in it. The girls played a full schedule this year and although they were not always successful, their team consisted of girls with a never-say-die spirit, grim determination, and comradeship. It was because of these virtues that the team was known for its clean, fair play. It is hoped that in the years to come this same fine spirit will prevail and thus make Girls' Field Hockey a great sport.

As usual there was a great interest shown in basketball as was illustrated by the large turnout when the season opened. Practice was held twice a week in the gymnasium. After weeks of practice a first and second team were carefully chosen. Under the capable tutelage of the coach, Miss Stewart, various skills were developed. The girls had a full schedule this year, but the excellent leadership of their captains, Lindy Lauretano and Carol Cramer, along with their own fine spirit and team work, enabled them to complete a fairly successful season.

Although the Blue and White track team was stripped of every point-winner from last year's outstanding team, they optimistically undertook the task confronting them. It was supposed by numerous followers that the 1945–46 team would be completely inferior to previous teams. Determined to disprove this theory, every trackster settled down to commence difficult training and practice under Coach Hormel's expert supervision. We were fortunate, however, to have a few of last year's boys who knew the ropes. The veteran tracksters were Fred Hoyle, Frank Marshall, Walter Connor, Richard Stevens, and Stanley Thompson.

With the customary fighting spirit that is typical of Medford High School, the team fought back at every meet. As a reward for their earnest participation, the indoor season was ended with a creditable result. Of the six dual meets, Medford broke even with three wins and three losses. This is a reputable record for a practically all new team.

The boys that really showed some fancy stepping were Captain Fred Hoyle, Richard Stevens, Thomas Kelley, and Charles Parris. The outstanding relay team was composed of Charles Parris, Edward Clayton, Richard Stevens, and Paul Richards. With Captain Frank Marshall back again, the outlook for a successful outdoor season is very promising.

In our first league game, Warren McFague scored fourteen points and led his team to a 32–30 triumph over Revere. The following week we lost a heart-breaker over in Chelsea's band box gym while "Sugar" Cervone led the Mustangs in that game with seven points. We then nosed out Malden 31–30, on two foul shots by Bill Gregoire in the last minute of play.

Bob Doherty's long shots gave Medford a 38–30 victory over Everett followed by an exciting 27–26 triumph with Lowell. We met defeat, though, at the hands of a powerful Somerville quintet and bowed to Newton.

It was in the Chelsea game that the Mustangs gave the local fans a whale of a ball game. With less than three minutes to play, Medford was still trailing by nine points. A series of baskets brought us from behind rapidly. Al Kelley proceeded to loop one as the game ended and Medford tied it up at 31–31. In a two minute overtime period, Medford managed to score several times, but, in every case, they had committed some infraction of the rule. It was Carl Dean who finally put the game on ice for Medford, with a foul shot.

Under the able leadership of co-captains Richard Veinot and Haig Ohanian, the Blue and White soccer team achieved a very successful season. The Medford High "Booters" won ten games, lost two, and tied one. This brilliant showing enabled them to retain the Greater Boston Interscholastic Soccer League pennant for the fifth successive year. Both games that were lost by Medford were extremely close. A single goal in each instance would have resulted in a tie. The triumphant competitors were: Exeter Academy and M.I.T. Junior Varsity.

In what was undoubtedly the most spectacular game of the year, Medford tied Andover Academy. The score, 0–0, verifies the intensity of the event.

Tabor Academy was added to the Medford schedule this year and was successfully defeated at Medford on a rain-soaked field. The final score was Medford 2, Tabor Academy 0.

Instructed under guidance of Coach Stillman, the entire squad worked earnestly and faithfully. As a result, Medford High School produced another aggressive and well-coordinated championship team.

Riding Club

The Riding Club of Medford High consisted of approximately forty-five enthusiastic girls who were eager to develop their riding skill. Once a week, under the supervision of Miss Ellard, the girls went riding at Pine Banks in Melrose. The large number of members necessitated the division of the group, one of which went riding on Tuesday afternoon and the other on Wednesday. The girls spent many enjoyable hours developing their skill and riding through the picturesque woods of Pine Banks. They are sorry the fall season has come to a close and are looking forward to happy hours together again in the spring.

Girls' Swimming Club

The great interest in swimming was shown this year by the large group of frolic-loving girls who joined the girls' swimming group. Every Monday afternoon, for an hour, during January, February, and March, you could find a group of fifty girls thoroughly enjoying themselves at the Y.W.C.A. pool in Boston. Under the supervision of Miss Luce, Miss Stewart, and Miss Ellard, skill was developed in proper breathing, stroking, kicking, and diving. The last thirty minutes of each swimming session were devoted to jovial undertakings. This was an opportune time for the girls to meet each other and make new friends. Such enthusiasm and interest has been shown this year that we are convinced swimming will become a prominent event in the future.

Vocational Student Council

The Student Council accepted two large projects during the school year.

They took over total management of the lunchroom during the Vocational School recess, and the lunchroom is now operating smoothly and effectively in a democratic manner.

Secondly, they accepted the responsibility of accumulating money for a bronze plaque commemorating the memory of the Vocational boys who lost their lives in the service of their country in World War II. This will be accomplished by the end of this year.

This plaque was dedicated during memorial exercises at a Vocational assembly.

Biography Editors

Under the direction of Miss Marian R. Daggett, the biography editors had the difficult task of delving into their classmates' characters to find words appropriate to be printed in the yearbook under each picture. They deserve our appreciation for a task well done.

Protective Department

With Mr. Pidgeon as adviser and director, the Protective Department has again performed its service to the school. The Protective Department, as all know, consists of students of the high school who assist strangers to the school to find their way about, aid teachers in their work, keep watch over the lockers, see that the corridors are kept clean, and maintain order in the school halls. The "captains" for the school year 1945–1946 who supervised the P.D.'s were Audrey Furze, Marjorie Baldwin, Margaret Fazio, Lois De Andrade, Elaine McLean, Marjorie Vass, Shirley Tyler, Dolores Dyer, and Ruth Clark.

Art Club

The Art Club is a well-known school organization under the capable leadership of Miss Pratt. The aims of this club are to promote friendship among fellow students with the same interests, to encourage social life among the members, and to provide extra-curricular activities such as outdoor sketching and pose drawings. One of the principal events of the year was an enjoyable Valentine party held with the Hobby Club, at which time the palette pins were presented to the Art Club members. These students throughout the year took active parts in sketching and attending fashion shows and art exhibits.

The officers were President, Helen Ohanesian; Vice President, Patricia Hogan; Secretary, Zabelle Hedison; Treasurer, Mary Martin.

M. H. S. Girls' Club

The members of the Medford High School Girls' Club had a wonderful time getting acquainted at the party given for the Juniors by the Seniors, playing big sisters to a group of children at the Christmas party, dressing up for their men at the Valentine Dance, saying goodbye to the Seniors at a party given for them by the Juniors, and finishing the year with the annual banquet. The club advisers, Miss Junkins and Mrs. Bagley, ably assisted the officers at all times. The officers were:

President, Elizabeth Griffiths; Vice President, Trase Davies; Recording Secretary, Ruth Clark; Corresponding Secretary, Patricia Morrison; Treasurer, Frances Curry.

Business Girls' Club

The Business Girls' Club started the year off with a bang! Forty-seven members, with Miss Hubbard and Miss MacBrayne as advisers, flocked to a weiner roast at Bellevue, bowling at the Daylight Alleys, a skating party at the Bal-A-Roue, and a visit to the state prison. The girls themselves, who proudly wear the emblem of the club, a tiny book-shaped pendant with a rose and quill in the center of the pearl cover, feel that they have gained many new friends and an outlook on what is going to be asked of them when they enter the business world.

The officers were President, Ruth Myers; Vice President, Norma Gradone; Recording Secretary, Helen Marookian; Corresponding Secretary, Marjorie Bonnell; Treasurer, Doris Hillebrand.

Technical Club

Since its organization in 1938, the Technical Club has been a leading influence in the school. It is the only active boys' group in M.H.S. On this year's program were a trip to the Tufts College Physics Laboratory, trips to Wentworth Institute and M.I.T., an inspection tour at General Electric, the annual treasure hunt in April, and the annual banquet in May. The power behind this group of fifty-four fellows was the popular Mr. Rogers.

The officers were President, Kenneth Rose; Vice President, John Black; Secretary, John Street; Treasurer, Warren Brackett.

Camera Club

The Camera Club was organized to gather together those who took an active interest in photography so that they might enlarge upon their own information and contribute to the knowledge of their fellow members. The members, with their adviser, Miss Burke, discussed the sundry types of photographic reproductions and took up the absorbing topic of technicolor in photography. They also proved their capabilities by taking pictures of the high school, scenes at the Senior Prom, and school groups. Thus, the members of the Camera Club are leaving the high school equipped with a basic and rather extensive knowledge of their avocation, a knowledge which may prove to have a practical advantage.

The officers were President, Roy Kennan; Vice President, Richard Poirier; Secretary, Ada Fondacaro.

Library Staff

The girls working behind the desk and behind the scenes in the library were helpful assistants to our librarian, Miss Dorothy L. Hardy. They worked before and after school and during study periods to help keep the library running smoothly and efficiently. The students of M.H.S. will not soon forget the periods spent in our attractive and well managed Richard D. Crockwell Memorial Library.

The staff included:

Stamp Club

The Stamp Club has been enjoying another successful year at M.H.S. Although the members numbered only in the twenties, the group was a friendly, progressive one. Meetings were held twice monthly under the guiding hand of Miss Adams. At the meetings new and old stamps were discussed, collections were talked over, and stories about stamps were told. A stamp exhibit was on display in the library during January. All told, the Stamp Club was an enjoyable and educational body whose members truly enjoyed "their hobby of kings."

The officers were President, Burgess Taylor; Vice President, Eleanor Wolsey; Secretary, Lois Swenson; Treasurer, Richard Power.

Band

The Band is one of our outstanding musical organizations, and it offers a fine opportunity for students who are instrumentally minded. The approximate number of members in the group this year was sixty-eight. In the past, Medford has won high honors in the musical field and has always had a fine band, having won state awards several times under Mr. Schoonmaker's direction.

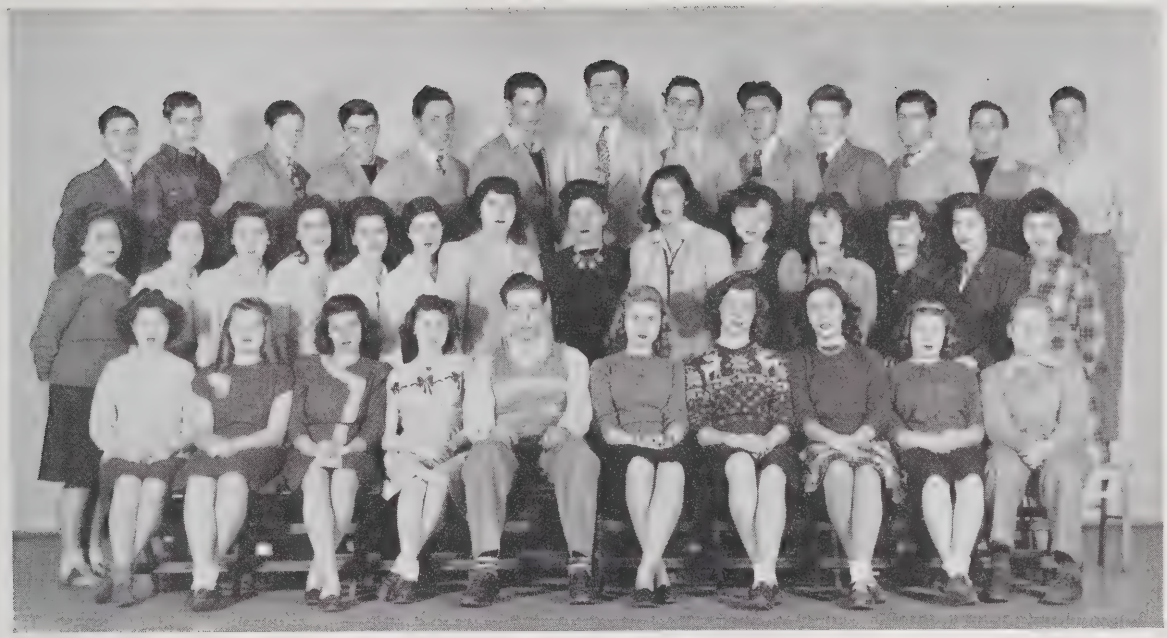

Among the public appearances of the band were football games, Music Festival, Spring Review, Annual Concert, and State Band Contest.

All Girl Choir

Why was it that the Christmas Carol Program, the Spring Revue, and the Frolics of 1946 were such successes this year? There were eighty-one reasons for it, the eighty being the girls of the All Girl Choir, and the one being their tireless leader, Mr. Schoonmaker. He auditioned all eighty of them and questioned each personally on her knowledge of music. They have planned a night at Pops and an annual banquet. We all agree that the All Girl Choir of 1946 was the best yet.

The officers were President, Margaret Vaznaian; Vice President, Ruth Smith; Secretary, Fay Nelson; Treasurer, Eleanor Meade.

Italian Club

The purpose of the Italian Club is a twofold one; namely, to appreciate in full the culture of Italy and to learn of the traditions and customs of her people. The members engaged in discussions about Italy, attended performances of Italian Opera, and visited museums. Also, the members preserved some of the beautiful customs of the Italian people in singing at Christmastide the hymns of Italy, among them the lovely "Pastorales." They celebrated the Feast of the Nativity in the traditional Italian manner, with delicate pastries and confectioneries.

Then too, the members performed a very charitable service in gathering and sending to the starving babies of Italy eight hundred and forty-seven cans of evaporated milk, and to the Italian mothers seventy-five household kits.

Thus, with the thanks of a grateful people and genuine joy in worthwhile things said and done, the members of the Italian Club, with their adviser, Miss Bruno, have concluded still another successful year.

The officers were President, Vincent Savarese; Vice President, Joan Morgan; Secretary, Josephine Buoncuore; Treasurer, Joseph Bonafine.

French Troupe

This year the French Troupe was organized with Miss Loftus again as adviser and Gabrielle Balch as leader. The Troupe has as its "motif" the heightening of interest in the French language and the application of instruction in the French tongue to a practical use. The members joined in the singing of French melodies and also took part in the dispatching of relief articles to prostrate France. Let us hope that future French Troupes continue the good work!

M Club

This was the ninth anniversary year of the M Club, an organization composed of all the lettermen in the school. The club was formed to promote better school spirit, to develop sportsmanlike conduct at all times, to develop character among members and fellow classmates, and to promote athletics in M.H.S. Guest speakers, movies, and special programs made membership a pleasure for the fellows, with Mr. Pidgeon acting as faculty adviser. Here's hoping they have a bigger and better M Club each year!

The officers were President, Joseph Morelli; Vice President, John Hayes; Secretary, Richard Veinot; Treasurer, Carl Dean.

Home Economics Club

The principal aim of the Home Economics Club, under the able leadership of Miss Baker, is to serve, along with providing a tinge of sociability and enjoyment for its members. The regular meeting day for the club was Wednesday afternoon, at which time the girls sewed and made useful articles for the Red Cross and veterans' hospitals throughout the Greater Boston area. The members will always remember with pleasure their trips to the hospital and the privilege of being able to serve in those places.

The officers were President, Mary Castles; Vice President, Janice Doty; Secretary, Rita Morrisey; Treasurer, Shirley Monroe; Social Chairman, Mary Hamilton; Production Chairman, Gloria D'Errico.

Hobby Club

The aims of the Hobby Club, with Miss Pratt as leader, are to promote enjoyment of crafts work as a hobby and to enable those not in the crafts classes to do this type of work. The club's first important event of the year was the Christmas party at which time the members enjoyed a puppet show which was put on by Miss Pratt. The next social event was the Valentine party held with the Art Club. The members' ever-present desire to continue after school crafts work was carried on throughout the year, climaxed by a spring social and exhibit of the members' work.

The officers were President, Carol Cornoni; Vice President, Joseph Tello; Secretary, Marion Corbett; Treasurer, Barbara Cerchione.

Girls' Athletic Association

Sports are very much a part of school life at M.H.S. and most girls who participate in them belong to the G.A.A. The Social Committee, with Dolores Dyer as chairman, planned some enjoyable events for the year such as the Thanksgiving Dance, the Bowling Play Day, and the Theatre Party. The Misses Luce, Stewart, and Ellard spurred the girls on. One hundred and fifty girls became acquainted with each other and took part in the sports. To put things in a nutshell, the G.A.A. is sports and sports are the G.A.A.!

The officers were President, Marion Corbett; Vice President, Clorinda Lauretano; Secretary, Barbara Cummings; Treasurer, Norma Reese.

Cheerleaders

The cheerleaders of the 1945–46 season aroused plenty of school spirit in spite of the dampening effects of Mother Nature at the football games. Remember the Wakefield game at which their feminine beauty was temporarily disturbed by straight locks and a generally soaked appearance! We'll never forget that Thanksgiving Day of all Thanksgiving Days when Jupiter Pluvius really let loose! The girls looked like ducklings along the edge of a mill pond rather than our cheerleaders at Gillis Memorial Stadium. Let's give a rousing cheer for the cheerleaders and their faculty adviser, Mr. Edwin F. Pidgeon, for their leadership during the football and basketball seasons.

The cheerleaders were:

Co-operative Office Training Class

In September, 1945, the Co-operative Office Training Curriculum was inaugurated in Medford High School, and the following members of the class of 1946 enrolled in it:

Lois Allen, Louise Bergin, Marjorie Brooks, Marie Calareso, Kathleen Corbett, Flora Dick, Dorothy Goss, Eleanor Jennings, Kathryn Laquidara, Albina Lucia, Muriel Marshall, Phyllis Martin, Rosemary Marzeoti, Eleanor McGreevey, Annie Mullen, Ruth Myers, Phyllis Petitpas, Virginia Serino, Marilyn Smith, Mary Snow, Lorraine Snyder, Eleanor Tancreto, Dorothea Thurston, Anna Trebino, Dolores Van Breemen.

The Co-operative Office Training Curriculum gives students an opportunity to secure real office experience, with pay, while still attending school. They attend school classes from eight to twelve in the morning and work in offices from one to five in the afternoon. Real office experience, combined with regular school training, not only serves to increase their technical skill and knowledge of business, but aids in developing desirable work habits and character traits, thus affording students greater assurance of obtaining permanent positions and paving the way for advancement to more desirable positions.

The following business organizations cooperated with the school in this training program: John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company, Employers' Liability Assurance Corporation, New England Fire Insurance Rating Association, Gilmour, Rothery & Company, Dun & Bradstreet, American Mutual Liability Insurance Company, William Filene's Sons Company, and City of Medford Veterans Aid and Pensions Department.

The Co-operative Office Training Class has been very successful this year. The Boston offices have kept all of the co-operative students in permanent positions, and several students have advanced from their initial positions to positions involving more important duties and greater responsibility. Most of the employers have expressed a desire to obtain twice as many co-operative students next year. The course is in charge of Frank C. Phillips, director of business education in the Medford High School.

The Co-operative Store Training Class of 1946 had enrolled in its membership twenty-three young women who desired to follow Retailing as a Career.

The curriculum includes the following subjects: Salesmanship, Textiles, Fashion, Color, Line and Design, Window Display, Advertising, Marketing, Store System, Economics of Retailing, English, Arithmetic, and Personality Development. The classes are held daily for three hours under the direction and supervision of Mary Isabelle McKay, Teacher-Co-ordinator. The students gain practical work experience under trained personnel in the large department stores in Boston, Somerville, Malden, and in our local Chain Stores. The students are required to complete at least fifteen hours of store experience per week in order to fufill the requirements of this Program.

Among the many acheivements attained this year by these students, one outstanding project was noteworthy. Miss Leala Johnson and Miss Leona Beebe, two of our students, received a Twenty-Five Dollar War Bond from the Medford Chamber of Commerce for their excellent Red Cross Window Display at the W. T. Grant Company in Medford Square during the Red Cross Fund Drive.

The following girls are enrolled in this year's class:

Dolores Accolla
Leona Beebe
Mary Bramonte
Rose Bussichella
Grace DiRupo
Phyllis DiNapoli
Mary D'Onofrio
Corinne Dunlop
Dora Ferrelli
Doris Ficarra
Virginia Graffeo

THE CHALLENGE

ROBERT A. DULONG

Within the past year we have entered upon a new era of breath-taking opportunities. The greatest war of all time has been won. In the process of achieving the goal, we have witnessed the greatest scientific evolution the world has ever seen. New fields of scientific achievement are on the verge of development.

This vast development is our challenge. A detailed summary of the many new opportunities confronting us would constitute a lengthy report; therefore, I shall mention only three; electronics, radar, and the industrial applications of atomic energy. To begin with, tremendous possibilities for expansion lie ahead in the field of industrial electronics. Tiny vacuum tubes, some of them no longer than one's little finger, are responsible for electronic controls that will make manufacturing safer, more precise, and more automatic. The worker's health will be safeguarded by electronic instruments which will regulate temperatures and eliminate smoke. Greater accuracy will be attained by electronic sorters that discard oversize and undersize, off-color or defective articles with amazing speed. Moreover, electronics introduces devices that will automatically count passing articles far faster than the eye can see, and control entire batteries of operating machines. Factories are not alone in creating an opening for the immediate use of electronics; the entire field of communications finds them adapted to its purposes. Soon we may be able to pick up a telephone in our car and call our home or our office while driving along the highway. The day may not be far distant when all our telephone and telegraph wires may be obsolete, replaced by wireless link systems. We shall see the beginning of this development in the rebuilding of Europe. We cannot, however, take these developments for granted; many of them are at present only partially completed. Their further development will depend upon what our maturing abilities can accomplish.

Not only are the uses of electronics wide in their range, but those of radar are equally widespread. The news that the moon has been reached by radar presents fascinating conjectures, ranging from an interplanetary radar code to round trips to Mars, 35,000,000 miles from the earth. Fantastic as these speculations may sound, we find radar ready to accept its practical peacetime applications. For instance, radar will make air travel far safer than ever before, and will eliminate crashes caused by bad weather and collisions. Radar will guide passenger planes with unerring accuracy to tiny island bases in every sea and ocean. Installed in ships, it will enable even the largest vessels to come safely into harbors in dense fog. Radar will prevent collisions between ships at sea and detect even icebergs, the ever present dread of mariners. As a result of all these achievements we are confronted with the inevitable questions: Will radar be a means of greater or less employment? What sort of new opportunities will it present? Is it a contribution to a higher national standard of living?

The third challenge, the most breath-taking of all and by far the most important development from which the public may derive the greatest benefit, is the development of atomic power for the benefits of mankind. If released, the energy of the atom will vastly increase the supply of industrial power. There are, of course, many technical problems to be solved before atomic power is made flexible enough, abundant enough, and cheap enough for widespread industrial application. For example we can now foresee a time when everyone will be able to have an air-conditioned house, heated, lighted, and cooled by atomic power. Awaiting development are automobiles which will never have to be refueled, airplanes which will travel many times faster than sound and bring Paris, Moscow, and Bombay as close to Boston as Baltimore is to Washington. We shall be able to tear down our ugly cities and build new ones with sufficient space, light, and comfort for all. Man has almost no dream that atomic power does not promise to fulfill.

By now, the question is on each one's tongue, "What specifically can I, or any other high school graduate, do about these challenges of science?" There are, however, despite the limitations imposed by our youth and inexperience, two things which we can and must do in order to further this development and meet the challenge. First of all, we must strive to keep intelligently informed so that we shall be ready to measure up to these startling exploits. Secondly, we must endeavor to mold public opinion to insure a wise cultivation of them. Nearly 2,000,000 of us will be graduated this year from high schools throughout the country. Every home, every farm, every factory, every building, every ship, every plane, every railroad will continue to need all the thought and improvement we of this generation can give them. Whether the project be as simple as the grading of fruit by electronics or as complicated as the control of a China Clipper by radar, it must be nursed along to its full fruition. Are we prepared to help solve these ever increasing problems? Are we ready to do our part in these new fields of scientific achievement? In answer, we the 1946 graduates, nearly two million strong, go forth to meet the challenge.

THAT PICKET FENCE

By Mario Peter Di Leo

It never occurred to you as a place of thought,
  Just a road, a fence, an open lot;
A little stream with water still
  As that road which leads up to the hill.

The trees around it, elms so tall,
  Bud in the spring, frost in the fall.
Branches that sway, always to and fro
  Clinging to the world of long ago.

Now let us give heed to the thought
  Of the trees, the fence, the open lot—
Though we know not what the years will bring
  Still in our hearts, hope will spring.

For trees are monuments of days gone by,
  With that same old moon, that same old sky.
And our hearts recall with reverence
  That road—that lot—that picket fence.

In Appreciation

Although all good things must come to an end, we cannot bring this book to a close without thanking those who have so willingly given their time and talent to make this yearbook the best ever.

Consequently, we take this opportunity to express our appreciation to:

Mr. Noble, the faculty adviser of the staff, for his tireless efforts in planning and assembling the yearbook.

Miss Daggett for supervising the writing of the biographical sketches.

Mr. Pidgeon for assembling the photograps of school activities.

Mr. Harrison for collecting the students' money for the yearbook.

The editorial staff for compiling and editing the yearbook.

The literary staff for the write-ups under group pictures.

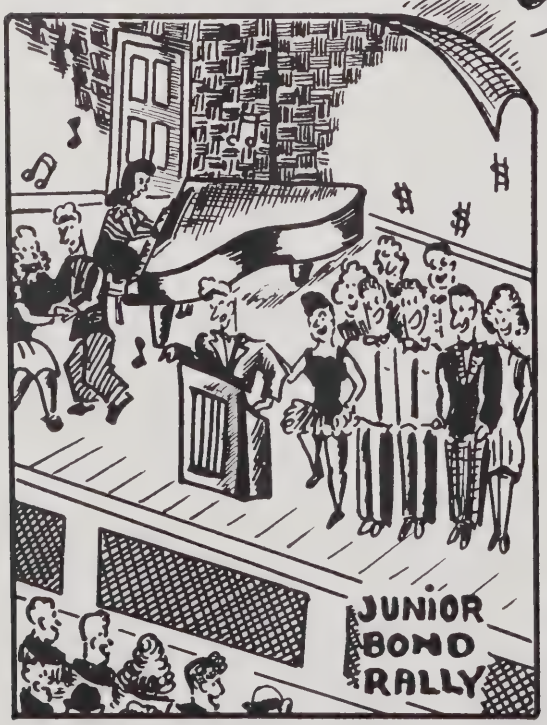

The executive staff for organizing the individual pictures and biographies.

The art staff for their clever cartoons and headings.
