In Memoriam

PAULINE V. RICE

Only students who were fortunate enough to have studied under the able guidance of Pauline V. Rice knew her rare talent for her work, her keen interest in their slightest effort, and her dedication to their advancement in the artistry she so dearly loved.

Her friends who knew her steadfast devotion to her family, her more than normal capacity for great friendships, her complete honesty in all her dealings with others, her strong adherence to the Christian principles of life will forever think of Pauline Rice as an inspiration to nobler living.

Her students, her associates all mourn the passing of a beautiful person, an excellent teacher, and an incomparable friend.

SENIORS

President — Robert Dell Isola

Vice-President — Diane Dello Russo

Our class officers for the past three years have been both efficient and capable. Every event which they planned was a great success.

At the beginning of the sophomore year our officers were elected, dues collected, and plans for the Sophomore Hop started. Everyone who attended the hop, "Moonlight and Roses," in May had a wonderful time.

Our junior class officers planned the "Emerald Fantasy," the Junior Prom, which was held on the eve of Saint Patrick's Day. Despite the snow-storm many came to the dinner-dance. Because of the snow, which had accumulated, many did not arrive home before four or five o'clock in the morning.

Thanks to our senior class officers, advisors, and advisory council, the major events of our senior year were successful. The Senior Prom, "Snowball," was held on January eighteen, and Mustang favors with moving parts were given to the girls. The Class Week activities, including the Senior Reception, were equally successful.

Our Case For The Humanities

In this age of atomic power, when science and engineering are becoming all-important, we must not lose track of the artistic side of life. The cultural and artistic interests — including art, music, drama, religion, literature, and philosophy—are what the colleges and universities term the humanities.

My opinion is that much of the present interest in the fields of science and engineering is motivated by the desire for money. This is all very good from a practical point, for money is something which we all need. There is something else, though, which we all need in order to have a full life. It is the ability to express our own ideas and feelings and to live vicariously through the experiences and knowledge of others. This need can be fulfilled by use of the humanities.

Science itself creates a need for the humanities. Nowadays our homes are filled with all kinds of contrivances which do work for us quickly and easily. These time-saving devices give us plenty of leisure time which we would not otherwise possess. This time is often spent in some useful and enjoyable hobby, such as painting or music. Scientific creations, like radio and television, would be of little interest to us without the dramatic and musical programs. The great medical discoveries of the past century, which have increased man's life expectancy, have also increased his need for the humanities. Since the retirement age is relatively young, man must have something to occupy his mind after retirement. Hobbies in music and art are wonderful things to pursue. Many people write books or continue their search for knowledge. Books and plays are very entertaining for leisure time. A play like The King and I takes us to a far off land and entertains us with the amusing experiences of a person like ourselves in a foreign atmosphere like Siam. For more serious entertainment there are books, like Three Came Home, which acquaint us with the suffering which the P. O. W.'s had to undergo in the hands of the enemy during the two world wars and the Korean War. There are also biographies of such fascinating people as Edward Bok and Henry Ford, which show the rewards which these men received for persistent effort.

There are a great many values involved in the use of the humanities, which provide recreation for spare time; playing a musical instrument, acting in a dramatic presentation, reading books, and creating some work of art are of great worth.

They also give us a chance to provide entertainment for others in plays, on television, and in musical recitals or concerts. These humanities give us an opportunity to develop some of our latent talents in music and art and perhaps writing.

Knowledge of the humanities can also further our scientific program. It has been established that a great many of our scientific principles today, such as the atomic theory, originated with such Greeks as Plato in classical antiquity. Many of our mathematical and philosophical ideas originated from such ancient Greeks as Pythagoras and Euclid. Most of us have heard of the Pythagorean theorem, which states that in any right-angled triangle the square of the hypotenuse is equal to the sum of the squares of the other two sides. This theorem was originated by Pythagoras, a Greek philosopher, about 550 B. C.

The humanities can be of great use in strengthening friendship throughout the world. First of all, family relationships can become improved by group use of these arts. One good example is that of the Trapp Family, which came to the United States from Austria and has toured the United States, giving concerts and impressing people everywhere with their happy family life. This idea of unity could be effected in a neighborhood. In my opinion the neighbors in European countries are much more friendly with each other than those in America. In many countries there are neighborhood gatherings in which everyone takes part. I believe that America in its fast development has lost much of this fun-loving attitude. The neighborhood could gather for a festive evening with entertainment given by those who can play musical instruments, sing, or act. Finally, I believe that the humanities have great possibilities on the national and international level in the exchange of groups of students of the humanities. This practice could do much in the way of increasing knowledge by an exchange of ideas and of promulgating international friendship.

So, at this time when every country in the world is building up its scientific and engineering program, and many of us are going into these fields ourselves, we must not forget the fact that the humanities can be of great value to us.

We must never forget that each human being possesses a double entity: a body and soul. While science can produce a fuller life from the material side, we must not allow our souls to stagnate through neglect of the humanities. For some of us, these same humanities may even provide a living, but for most of us they will provide not only entertainment but also the cultural vitamins necessary to fortify our spiritual needs.

So let us realize the full value of the humanities and put them to good use.

Fading Barriers

The concept of brotherhood means "good human relations" — about which there is often more talk than practical concern. True brotherhood involves the relationship of individual to individual; it concerns our daily actions. Brotherhood is something like faith. Religious faith is a concept most of us honor, but which we unfortunately neglect much of our lives. Then comes a crisis when our life or the life of somebody we love is threatened. Then our lips begin to form unaccustomed prayers that stumble haltingly from the heart. Is it not the same way with brotherhood? When danger sharpens our sense of common cause, we are only too glad to acknowledge that we are our brother's keeper, and that he is ours. Yet the common cause is always there. If we are all brothers on the field of battle or in the operating room, surely we are still brothers in the mundane surroundings of our daily lives. The truth of the matter is that, although we accept these high principles of brotherhood, we are often individually too insincere in our application of them.

This being so, it is especially important to document by living example the faith which we must have in people and in the conviction that differences among people need present no insurmountable barriers to friendly relations. Once men are brought together under circumstances that really permit them to know one another and to embrace common purposes and values, then narrow prejudices concerning race, religion, and color disappear.

A very encouraging demonstration of brotherhood is exemplified by the Secretariat — the working staff of the United Nations.

It shows the ability of perhaps the most diversified assemblage of people in the world to understand one another and to work together amicably.

Altogether, there are some four thousand members of the United Nations staff, representing the majority of the nationalities of the world. They are of all races, colors, religions, languages, cultures, and ideologies. Their habits of dress, eating, worship, marriage, and work are varied as many come from highly developed and industrialized countries, while others are from underdeveloped, agricultural areas. There are Africans, Indo-Chinese, and West Indians, working side by side with their British, French, Russian, Greek, Scandinavian, and Latin-American colleagues. There are Arabs and Jews, Hindus and Moslems, Buddhists, Roman Catholics, Anglicans, Greek Orthodox, and varieties of Protestants from Baptists to Episcopalians. They represent capitalist and communist countries, thoroughly democratic governments, republics, monarchies, and even certain types of dictatorship.

In short, just about all the barriers known to human relationships are to be found in the United Nations Building. However, we find that these barriers are remarkably fragile, for all these people, so widely diversified in origin and background, work and play together in impressive harmony. Genuine understanding of different cultures dissolves and eliminates discriminations. Social and athletic clubs are formed on the sole basis of common interests. Thus, the United Nations has become a congenial human company, which is enriched, rather than divided, by its many differences.

Thus far I have mentioned only one of the great examples of working brotherhood. Let us recall the saying, "It's the little things that count." What are these little things? What can you and I as "little people" do?

There should be the deep desire to understand people different from us as understanding brings the recognition of the good in others, an act which is the basis of brotherhood. To gain understanding we must read about, live, work, and play with people of all races, creeds, and colors.

For centuries, civilization has fought to gain and preserve the basic human rights of religious freedom, tolerance, and the brotherhood of mankind. Our nation was founded upon just such principles, and devotion to them has helped build the spiritual strength without which America could never have achieved lasting greatness. However, our country is strong, not because of the efforts of one class, one person, or one job, but through the cooperation of all. The pooling of knowledges, skills, and experiences has proved to be the answer.

One of the most common fallacies is to think of human beings in terms of categories rather than in terms of individuals. Often when an American visits a foreign country, many assume that he is vulgar, gullible, and extravagant; in short, he gains the distasteful and bigoted sobriquet, a "typical" American. In like manner, the oriental may label a white man as "typical," implying all the defects and vices which are repulsive to eastern society. Catholics, Protestants, Jews, or Democrats and Republicans are wont to use the name of the opposite sect, cult, or party in a derogatory fashion. However, in all these cases, when the "typical" has been forgotten on both sides and only the individual appraised, it is usually discovered that a mutual respect obtains and that the two have much in common. The most important point to practice is to be on guard against the danger of generalizing with only a few instances as a gauge. Intolerance disappears if a man is honest with himself, if he stops judging people in general terms and confines his estimates to his own personal experience.

It is much more important to build bridges of understanding between persons than barriers of dislike. During the Korean conflict the breaking down of race barriers occurred every day: a soldier of the West rescuing a Korean from a shell crater, or a Frenchman fighting side by side with a boy from Kansas who could not understand a word the former was saying. To remove a barrier of discord and replace it by a bridge of harmony is a service to the world as well as to oneself.

Mutual consideration and understanding, tolerance, and devotion to principle are the strongest links we can forge in strengthening the bonds of brotherhood and faith among our fellow men. Graduates of Medford High School, our solemn responsibility is to do all in our power as individuals to destroy the remaining fading barriers of prejudice and bigotry.

In Memoriam

JUDITH ANN KELLY

A person's worth can be measured by the impression which he has made upon his companions and acquaintances. Herein we record comments of the teachers and classmates of dear little Judy Kelly

" . . . and I marvelled at her courage." "Judith endeared herself to her classmates by her sweet disposition and friendly personality. A perfectionist in all her endeavors, Judith's superior scholarship and conscientious work habits were inspirational to all who knew her. To have her for a friend was to know true friendship." "Quiet, extremely well-mannered; carried out assignments faithfully; possessed a quiet sense of humor and a gentle smile." These were excerpts from remarks of teachers

"A girl who loved life, but who was denied it. A girl whose courage brought her top honors in her class. A girl with great cheerfulness in spite of the odds against her. A friendly girl whom we all shall miss."

We pay tribute to our Judy, whose memory we shall treasure forever.

Snowball — Senior Prom

Our Senior Prom, appropriately named Snowball, was one of the most memorable events of our senior year. To add to the winter effect a sleigh was used instead of the customary throne. We shall always remember the little snowballs, snowmen, and stars. The Mustang favors, which we all received, will always occupy a prominent place in our collection of souvenirs.

Medford 6

The inexperienced Mustangs started the season at Watertown. Watertown scored in the second and fourth periods, while Medford's only score came in the final quarter.

The Mustangs drove 66 yards on some fine passing by Pete Sullivan and eventually reached pay dirt when Sullivan hit Dave Young in the end zone. The defensive play of Captain Bob Dell Isola was outstanding.

Medford 0

Underdog Medford rebounded to outplay Chelsea and hold them to a scoreless tie. The Mustang line played extremely well. Maguire, Flynn, Sgan, and Young were line standouts. Medford crossed the Red Devil goal line early in the first half, but the T.D. was nullified. George Flynn saved the day for the Blue and White on the last play of the game with a jarring tackle in the open field.

Medford 20

Trailing 6-0 at halftime, Medford roared back to defeat the Red and Blue. Bobby Dell scored first on a thirty-yard sprint and on a one-yard plunge. Dom DiVincenzo plunged over from the two for the third. Good line play by Piretti, Hill, and Lacey and fine running by Dell Isola, Sarno, and DeeVee sparked the Mustangs. Medford retained the Medford-

Watertown 12

Somerville trophy.

Weymouth 24

After trailing, 6-0, at the half, a strong Weymouth team overpowered Medford in a hard-fought battle. Medford scored first on a pass play from Pete Sullivan to Dave Young. The hard running of Carl DeBenedictus, along with the brilliant play of Bobby Dell, sparked the game for the Mustangs.

Medford 0

Medford once more took the field as the underdog against strong Everett. Although unable to score, the fighting Mustangs kept Everett from penetrating deeper than the 28-yard line.

Medford 7

The Blue and White were behind, 7-0, early in the game as a result of a blocked punt. Medford capitalized on a missed second-half kickoff by marching 40 yards for the touchdown. Dave Young booted the extra point. Carl DeBenedictus featured the drive with a 23-yard run. Sgan, Maguire, and Jack Lingblom stood out in the line, while the ball carrying of Bobby Dell, Bobby Sarno, and DeBenedictus and the brilliant passing of Pete moved the offense. A last play T.D. by Medford was nullified.

Medford 6

Everett 0

Newton 7

Haverhill 13

The Mustangs exploded for four first-half touchdowns to spring one of the biggest Class A upsets over a highly-favored opponent. Every back in the Blue and White starting lineup scored. A dazzling run by Bobby Sarno, after grabbing a Sullivan pass, featured the scoring. Once again it was brilliant play by Bobby Dell and hard running by Carl DeeBee and Bobby S behind fine blocking by Ed Hill, George Flynn, and the entire line which made the offense. The defense again held in check one of the best offenses in the state. Jack Lingblom, Jim Maguire, Bobby Dell, and Larry Vass played outstandingly.

Arnie clears the way

Medford 7

Quincy 27

The Mustangs did almost nothing right after Bobby Dell had been injured on the fourth play of the game and was out of action for the rest of the day. A sparkling 55-yard run by sophomore Louie Parella on a well-executed play set up Carl DeeBee's score from four yards out. Dave Young kicked the extra point.

What a hole!

Medford 6

Malden 20

Malden went 85 yards on the first two plays from scrimmage to lead the Mustangs, 7-0. Medford could not recover. Malden dominated play throughout the game. Medford scored on a Sullivan-to-Maguire pass after Captain Bobby had done some great running to set up the score. It was a sorrowful ending to an otherwise colorful season.

Medford 65Everett 51

After a see-saw battle for three periods, Medford put on the pressure in the fourth period and outscored the visitors, 22-9. Medford 63Somerville 61

In a true team performance, the Mustangs outlasted a powerful Somerville team to win. Late in the third stanza Medford pulled away to a 41-38 lead, but the visitors narrowed the margin to 41-40 at the end of the third quarter. Dick Cotter took charge in the overtime session by netting four foul shots to send Medford into a 63-59 lead. With seconds remaining, Somerville cut the score to 63-61, but that was as far as they could go. The game ended amid deafening cheers as Medford qualified for the Tech Tourney.

Tech TourneyMedford 68*Lawrence 55

After a 15-15 first period, Medford went into a mild slump and trailed 28-26 at the half. In the second half, however, Larry Fudge, Jim Whalen, and Bud McGrath paced the locals to a sizeable lead. Bob Dell Isola also contributed to the one-sided victory with his towering set shots. The Mustang quintet was minus the services of versatile Dick Cotter, but Larry Fudge adequately filled his shoes as he scored 16 points. Jim Whalen led the scoring with 17, Bud McGrath had 15 and Bob Dell Isola netted 12 points.

Medford 55Lynn English 64

Plagued by illness, the Medford five could not overcome a 10-2 lead which Lynn compiled in the opening minutes of play, and Lynn maintained an 8-point lead throughout most of the game. Late in the third period Medford narrowed the margin to 45-41, but that was the closest they could come.

Jim Whalen and Bud McGrath sparked the team, scoring 18 and 10 points, respectively.

Summary: After a fighting finish of the regular season—in which the Mustangs defeated Lowell, Everett, and Somerville in succession to gain a Tech Tourney spot—sickness cut down two of the starters and handicapped the team. Captain Richard Cotter could not play in either game, and Bud McGrath was battling the virus in the final game. However, Medford's 11-6 record was very respectable. Very few seconds separated them from a 15-2 season. Congratulations to the squad and coach.

Connors, Travers, and Garo held the vaunted Newton attack to three hits. Only a lucky bounce in the ninth allowed the Tigers to tie the score.

Jack Callahan and Hogan did a grand job in the field to keep the Mustangs in the game.

The Mustangs have started the 1957 season in an auspicious fashion, for they have lost only one game in their first five and that to Exeter Academy, a leading preparatory school.

Loaded with ambitious and capable sophomores, the team is looking forward to a fine season. The seniors whom we see on these pages promise to give the Blue and White plenty of victories in the league competition.

Good luck, Mustangs.

Another batting hero and clutch man helped Medford to its third game without defeat. Fred Walsh drove in the winning run in the fifth inning with a smash off the pitcher's glove to give the Mustangs their fifth and deciding run.

Lou Perella, one of the sophs on the first club, drove in three runs with his homer in the third inning.

The Blue and White were solid in the field to protect the lead that Lou and Fred had produced.

Connors, Travers, and Garo again did the pitching, with the last getting credit for the win because of four-inning tenure in which he gave no runs and no hits. DeAngelis and Hogan were the top hitters with three and two, respectively.

Soph Lou Perella, Co-Captain Walsh, Dick Connors, Jim Travers, and Soph Vic Garo were the big guns and chief bulwarks in the initial league victory of the Mustangs.

Until the eighth inning, when the Presidents got three runs off the slants of Garo, the three Blue and White hurlers held the opposition scoreless.

Two singles by Lou and a triple by Fred were the offensive blows that drove in four runs. Perella also stole home on the front end of a double steal.

Connors and Travers were very effective in their three-inning stints.

The Blue and White suffered its first defeat in five games at the hands of the strong preparatory school team. However, Medford played a very creditable game, making seven hits and playing errorless ball. Exeter's power hitting was the deciding factor.

In the first inning the Mustangs got their only run on a DeAngelis single, a Sallese sacrifice, and a Perella single. Walsh and Perella each got two hits.

The Art Club held several very interesting meetings. In February the club had a Valentine Day party; in April it had an Easter meeting at which all the members participated in an Easter egg hunt.

The prime interest of the members was in art, which interest Miss Pratt fostered and developed with many projects of importance about the school.

Camera Club

The Medford High School Camera Club, under the supervision of Miss Catherine Burke, consisted of members of the sophomore, junior, and senior classes. The year began with an organization meeting at which the new members were scheduled for the dark room where they learned the process of developing films. An illustrated lecture on the art of Christmas card making was presented at the December meeting. Speakers who discussed various phases of photography addressed the group at different times. In addition to enjoying themselves tremendously, the members were able to improve their knowledge of photography through active participation in this club.

French Club

Le Cercle Francais, the French Club, was composed of those students, taking French III or IV, who maintained a high average. Miss Josephine Bruno and Miss Pauline Webber were the very capable advisors.

All the activities were planned in order to further our interest in, and to increase our knowledge of, French culture and civilization. The varied program included the following: a French speaker, A Christmas party, a play, and a banquet. None of us will ever forget the January meeting, during which we were so delightfully entertained by the play, "Leave It to Suzanne."

This year the club enjoyed many interesting meetings, including one in November on the subject of flower arrangement. The members also sent baskets at Christmas and Easter to needy families. In June they ended their activities with a picnic. It was a very enjoyable and worthwhile year.

The Junior Classical League, under the capable leadership of Miss Edith Lynch, enjoyed a most successful season. This year there were over one hundred members from the sophomore, junior, and senior classes. There was one meeting on the second Tuesday of each month in which the members actively participated. The highlights of the season were the induction of sophomore members, the outing, and the Junior Classical League Convention. The members of the Medford Chapter of the Junior Classical League are also members of the National Organization, in which there are over 30,000 members. The Medford Chapter is also recognized by this National Organization as one of the most active chapters in the country.

The "M" Club, one of the most popular organizations in the school, is under the supervision of Mr. O'Connor. The club's major aim is to promote good sportsmanship and citizenship. In order to raise money to defray certain necessary expenses of the athletic teams the club sponsored the annual Talent Show and Fall and Spring Dances. In addition to scholastic achievement three other qualities are necessary for membership: leadership, character, and service. In Medford the Phi Alpha Epsilon chapter of the National Honor Society is under the energetic leadership of Mr. Pidgeon. This year's program included a Christmas party for underprivileged children, the initiation of new members, and lectures by various guest speakers. The Science Club, under the able guidance of Mr. John Bradley, enjoyed an extremely successful year. As in previous years, the major aim of this organization was to increase its members' interest in the knowledge of the sciences. The year's plans included trips to a Ford plant, a television station, a chemical plant, the Harvard Observatory, and a research laboratory.

At one of the monthly meetings a person from the telephone company spoke on the solar battery, while at another meeting a man from General Electric spoke on jet engines. The highlight of the year took place in April when this organization sponsored the Science Fair.

The All-Girl Choir, under the capable direction of Miss Gudrun Ekman, has been extremely busy in many activities. The Choir sang at the Centennial Banquet of the Medford Public Library. During the Christmas season the girls did caroling in the corridors and at the Christmas assemblies.

They sang at Filene's in Boston during the Christmas season. Needy families in Medford were very pleased with the lovely food baskets the girls sent at Christmas time. In the Spring, along with the Band and Waring Chorus, the Choir gave a concert. It competed in the State Music Festival in May and did a wonderful job. The girls in the Choir have many memories of long hours of rehearsal, justified by perfection at performances. The girls gained enjoyment and made many friendships during the past year.

This year the Cheerleaders, under the guidance of Mr. Pidgeon, worked hard to perfect their cheers. It was their voices that spurred our Mustangs on to victory. They also led several rallies this year. One of the most successful rallies was held in Chevalier Auditorium on the day before the Thanksgiving Day football game. A great deal of energy was concentrated on inspiring more school spirit which of course encouraged the boys on the team. Another one of their activities was producing a chorus line in the annual Talent Show. The group also participated in the Fifth Southeastern Massachusetts Cheerleaders' Tournament, where they represented our school excellently.

The drama classes, of course, form the backbone of the Footlighters, but the club is open to other students as well, provided that they are willing to take an active interest in it. This year the club was the general basis for drama throughout the high school, its purpose being to interest the students in a drama workshop. In this endeavor it has succeeded very well. It was a very active club, whose members presented several entertainments monthly, making each meeting interesting and profitable.

After these entertainments were approved by the club, they were then presented to the student body during assembly periods. The Footlighters were very well represented at the Massachusetts High School Drama Guild one-act play competition. It was asked to take part in the competitions sponsored by the drama workshops of several surrounding schools.

House of Delegates

The House of Delegates consisted of one student from every homeroom. Each member acted as a representative from his homeroom, and it was his duty to place before the "House" any suggestions that were given to him by his classmates.

Under the experienced leadership of Mr. Edwin Pidgeon, the members did their best to support the activities of the school. Two of the special duties were selling tickets for the talent show and for the Prom.

The Junior Marshals and Ushers played an important part at the Class Day Exercises, the Senior Reception, and the Graduation of the Class of 1956. The Marshals were chosen by the girls; the Ushers by the faculty. It is indeed a great honor and privilege to be chosen. These people added much to the dignity and beauty of these ceremonies. Each Marshal and Usher will always remember this honor as one of the highlights of his high school days.

Library Staff

The Library Staff, headed by Miss Hardy, is composed of those girls who are interested in seeing that our library is well run. The duties of the girls include making out library permit slips, arranging books on the shelves, pasting in record pages, keeping records of delinquent books, and helping pupils to find needed information.

Without their help many pupils would be left with a confusing and difficult task. We all owe many thanks to Miss Hardy and her capable staff.

The Protective Department is one of the school's most essential organizations. The members of this department are stationed at intervals throughout the building to help people to locate rooms and to keep students from entering parts of the building in which classes are being conducted. Under the supervision of Mr. Edwin Pidgeon, this group helps to keep order throughout Medford High School.

Senior Advisory Council

The Senior Advisory Council is composed of the senior class officers, members at large, and one delegate elected from each senior homeroom. This council assembles once a week to decide upon any social or educational function of the senior class. The members of the council are responsible for planning most of the activities during the senior year, including the Senior Prom, Senior Reception, and Senior Banquet. This year those events met with great success.

Student Cabinet

The Student Cabinet is the highest ranking group in the school. Its function is to review bills from the House of Delegates and, if the bills are approved, hand them to the Headmaster for consideration. This organization acts also as the governing body for the Student Council as a whole. The Cabinet is made up of the club presidents, class officers, and representatives of the Vocational School.

Pauline Turco was elected representative at the Jewish Brotherhood Award which was sponsored by the Brotherhood for Christians and Jews.

The annual Talent Show, staged for the benefit of the "M" Club under the direction of Edwin F. Pidgeon, was a tremendous success. A capacity audience cheered the numerous presentations thunderously. It was an evening long to be remembered.

Many dance lines — Pistol Packing Mama, Diamonds Are a Girl's Best Friend, Tennessee Wig Walk, Who Wants to Be a Millionaire, By the Sea, Schooldays, and Ain't She Sweet — were extremely well-drilled. Leonora Teixeira, Joel Baseman, Carol Sears, Margaret Dempsey, Lucille Minutoli, Paul Donato, Joan Fagan sang solos. Also, Patricia Burns, Jean Piazza, Sheila Foster, Carl Christansen, and Patricia Ricker entertained with solo songs. Dance numbers by the Smith Brothers, Diane Ciampa, Margaret Gault, Roberta Emmons and Ingrid Peabody, Patricia Gawlinski, Virginia Cogliano, and the Brophy Sisters lent much life to the evening. Six Suns and the Blue Flames were very entertaining bands. A pantomime by Nancy Byrnes and Chris Parziale and a baton-twirling stint by Arlene Edgerly and Nancy Howard were well done. Songs by the Pontiacs and the Fluorescents were enthusiastically received.

The group can be proud of its work.

Vocational Student Council

Each homeroom of the Melvin V. Weldon Vocational High School elects two representatives, one a senior and one a junior, to hold membership in the Student Council, the official voice of the student body. The chief aims of this group, under the able guidance of Joseph P. Corrigan, were to promote unity and cooperation between the faculty and student body both in classwork and in outside activities. Along with its promotion of excellent school spirit, high ideals, and the practice of good citizenship, the Council has kept up the honorable reputation of the school through their sincere desire to improve that which has already been recognized as outstanding; they have entered wholeheartedly into the plans and arrangements for proms, banquets, and assemblies.

Waring Chorus

The students of Medford High School are justifiably proud of the fine male chorus, directed by Mr. Ralph I. Schoonmaker, Head of the Music Department. This organization, composed of boys from the vocational and high schools, has given much pleasure to audiences at various times throughout the year, including the entire school at the Christmas Assembly. At the annual Spring Concert the boys gave an excellent performance. Elizabeth Brown, the only feminine member, is the very capable accompanist.

Washington-New York Trip

The annual Washington - New York Trip, under the guidance of Mr. Edward M. Brooks, was again a success; the pupils had a very entertaining and educational tour of the two cities. Mr. and Mrs. Daniel J. Hobart also were chaperons.

On Monday, April 15, the party arrived at the Carlyle Hotel in Washington for supper.

In the evening the pupils enjoyed a walking tour of the Capitol area and downtown Washington, viewing the National Capitol Building, Senate Office Buildings, Mellon Gallery, Supreme Court, Congressional Library, F.B.I. Building, and National Archives Building.

On Tuesday at Arlington Cemetery the party witnessed the changing of the guard at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier; they also saw the Amphitheater, Lee Mansion, Iwo Jima Statue, and the grounds and buildings of Mt. Vernon.

Other interesting sights were the White House, Blair House, U. S. Treasury, Washington Monument, and The Mall and Museums. Following supper at the hotel, the tour visited Lincoln Memorial, Jefferson Memorial, Tidal Basin, and the city under lights.

Through the courtesy of Senator Saltonstall the party toured the interior of the Capitol; it also saw the House and Senate Chambers.

En route to New York the party visited the U. S. Naval Academy in Annapolis, Maryland. They checked in at Hotel Taft at 9:45 P.M.

Tours of N.B.C. Studios at Rockefeller Center, United Nations Building, Radio City Music Hall, Museum of Natural History, Central Park Zoo, Cathedral of St. John The Divine, St. Patrick's Cathedral, Empire State Tower, Wall Street, Chinatown, Bowery, Battery, and Roosevelt Drive kept all very much occupied during the stay in New York.

The members of the touring group are greatly in debt to Mr. Brooks and Mr. and Mrs. Hobart for their understanding and patient help and instructive advice at all times during our memorable trip. These five days were indeed a very pleasant experience for us.

The group included Sandra Androski, Mary Boyle, Priscilla Brown, Prudence Caloggero, Camille Cella, Helen Churchill, Paul Crowley, Janice Driscoll, Madalyn Gigante, Judi Handley, Lois Jackson, Joyce Johannsson, Mary Kelly, Jane Kerins, Dolores Lo Cicero, Deanne Milano, George Murphy, Judy Pierce, Elayne Rand, Stanley Simeone, Marilyn Tobin, and Carol Turco.
