

The Cambridge Diploma involves the selection of subjects from three curriculum areas - Mathematics and Science, Languages, Arts and Humanities; Interdisciplinary & Skills, & Global Perspective. An A Level would count as a full (one) credit qualification and an AS Level as a full (one) credit course within the Cambridge Diploma award framework. Any AS/A level (combination) class will count as double (two) credits. To be considered for a Cambridge Diploma, a candidate must earn the equivalent of seven credits by passing a combination of examinations at either the AS Level (one credit) or A Level (one credit), or AS/A level taken together (two credits), with at least one course coming from each of the three curriculum areas plus Global Perspective. The examinations are administered in May/June and October/November sessions each year. A candidate working towards the Cambridge Diploma may use up to five sessions to take the equivalent of seven full credit examinations as long as they are taken within a 25-month period.
