WICOR STRATEGY OF THE MONTH

What is Inquiry?

In WICOR, inquiry focuses on a student's ability to be a learner through asking questions. By asking questions, whether that be to oneself or to peers, you are able to uncover the level of one's understanding. This can be done through a variety of ways, including "Costa's Levels of Thinking", where questions are broken down into three levels, ranging from gathering, processing, and applying.

When & Why Should Inquiry be Utilized?

Many students aren't aware that they utilize the 'I' in 'WICOR' every day! More specifically, the tutorial process that occurs twice a week incorporates inquiry. It is what allows for students to answer their point of confusion, as they are led to it by their peers who ask questions.

I- inquiry

C- collaboration

O- organization

R- reading

This process is not only utilized in your AVID classes. In English, if you participate in Socratic seminars or literature circles, you are also engaging in inquiry by asking questions to attain a greater understanding of your topic. Students should aim towards incorporating inquiry into their learning every day,

These are some important events that will be occurring throughout the next few weeks! Stop by to tutoring after school on Wednesday's if you need help or must do a make-up TRF. Seniors, don't be afraid to ask questions regarding your college applications! Your teachers are available but don't wait too long, the deadline for applications is already approaching.
