Students have various options when meeting the requirements for the special areas they may miss during a brick and mortar school day. Using the attached journal, you will provide a summary and reflection for each activity completed. Each experience must also include a signature verifying your attendance.

Examples of acceptable completion of the music requirements would include, but are not limited to:

- Participating in music lessons (vocal or instrumental)
- Using chromebook to create a song

Examples of acceptable completion of the art requirements would include, but are not limited to:

- Submitting/participating in an art contest
- Visiting local art venues, galleries, or museums

Examples of acceptable completion of the physical education requirements would include, but are not limited to:

- Participation in an organized sports activity
- Exercising at the YMCA or Oxford Club with a plan / purpose
- Enjoying leisurely but active family activities

Examples of acceptable completion of the library requirements would include, but are not limited to:

- Checking out a library book and providing a brief reflection on what you read
- Participation in a public library program

Examples of acceptable completion of the STEM requirements would include, but are not limited to:

- creating a structure using blocks, legos, or other materials
- coding

Student's art, STEM music, P.E., and library reflection journals and verified signature logs must be submitted to your teacher as close to the end of the nine weeks as possible. This provides adequate verification and grading time for the student report card.
