Deep Roots of Tradition and Pride

Dr. Greg Poole

I write this with a blistered hand and a body sore from the manual labor of chainsawing and hauling the remnants of seven big oaks blown down by Hurricane Beryl.

We lost more trees than from any previous storm and most of them were over 100 years old. It's inherently depressing to see the demise of something that's lasted a century and weathered immeasurable threats only to be killed in a matter of seconds by wind.

I've always been intrigued by the field of dendrochronology. These experts study the growth rings of downed trees to establish the trees age and the width of growth rings indicate years when the tree flourished versus years of stress caused by drought, etc.

Our tremendous school district is fast approaching its centennial in 2029, and if our district was a tree, the experts would be astounded and perplexed by growth rings that indicate a district that has flourished every single year of its existence!

This does not imply we have not had strong obstacles to overcome, and we continue to be buffeted by tumultuous winds created by those who resent our district's success and what we stand for.

A newspaper article published just a few years after our district's founding titled "Barbers Hill Brags About Having Finest School District in Texas" had the following quote ...

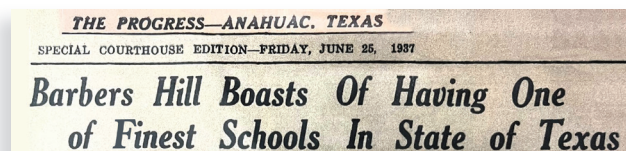

"while oil has been an important contributing factor in the development of the splendid school system. Credit is due to a progressive school board and well-trained faculty who are constantly seeking to improve the usefulness of the school to the community."

This vision and philosophy has sustained our district and drives the successes that have produced year after year after year of our state-leading results.

Every school district has experienced significant obstacles such as the COVID pandemic that have the potential to harm the districts image, yet our district's image has been enhanced by adversity because of our school board's relentless pursuit to meet the needs of our taxpayers, community and students.

Returning to the tree analogy, I "leaf" you with this (pun intended). A dendrochronologist would be sorely disappointed if our district were a tree because they only study trees that have fallen. Our district continues to be a state leader because of the deep, deep roots of tradition, pride and phenomenal community support!

I've had enough chainsawing to last a lifetime but I never get tired of bragging about our state-leading district that has deep roots and strong protecting branches ... with an eagle perched on one, I'm sure!

On the cover:

Generations of Greatness – Convocation theme & more

Established in 1929, the Barbers Hill school district has a proud tradition of community involvement and school pride. As we approach our centennial year, we continue to grow and achieve academic, athletic, and financial success. Our stellar reputation has drawn families from far and wide for decades, and the story of our storied district is still being written.

And now, with our Generations of Greatness project, we aim to reinforce that tradition of excellence and enhance community unity.

This year's convocation theme is "Generations of Greatness," a nod to the district's success and some of our oldest standing families.

In April, we reached out to families, asking if they are fourth- or fifth-generation Barbers Hill High School graduates. The response was overwhelming, with over 30 families, 100 graduates so far and over 85 current students stepping forward to acknowledge their deep roots in Barbers Hill. All the photographs on this newsletter's cover are a sampling of these families – some photos are from as far back as the turn of the 20th century, some only 10 to 20 years old which are joined by some of our newest Eagles.

The technology department put together a video that premiered at the Aug. 5 convocation. You can view anytime on the Barbers Hill website.

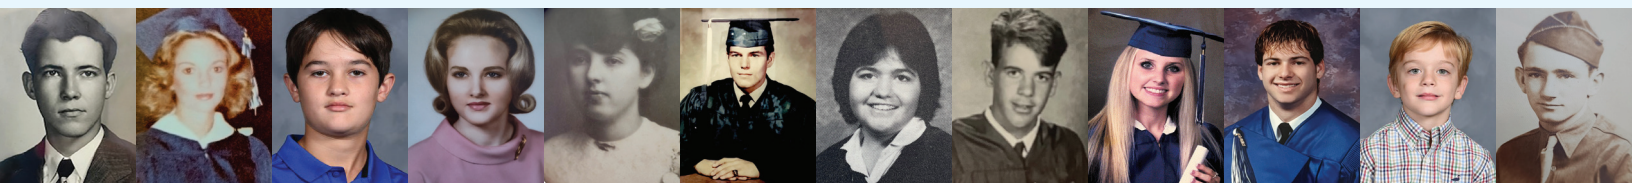

Moreover, all the student helpers at the Aug. 5 convocation were fourth- and fifth-generation Barbers Hill students.

As a token of our appreciation, the district will provide each family with a printed image of their family from the video as a keepsake. Another special way to honor these Barbers Hill legacies, the district purchased T-shirts for current students to wear on the first Friday of the new school year.

We believe that nurturing strong relationships with our multi-generational alumni can bring numerous benefits to our school district. Not only does it reinforce the Barbers Hill tradition of excellence, but it also creates a more supportive and vibrant community.

Going forward, the Barbers Hill Generations of Greatness project is here to be the living legacy of Barbers Hill High School and the district as a whole. In the near future, look for a dedicated webpage on the Barbers Hill website with photos and stories about the Generations of Greatness families.

The district would like to give special thanks the following people for their hard work on the project: Lori May, Executive Director of Safe Schools; Jami Bauer, community relations director; Kristen Davis, Asst. Superintendent of Technology; Barbara Ponder, Asst. Superintendent of Human Resources; Chloe Yowell, Asst. Superintendent of Curriculum and Instruction; Sandra Duree, Deputy Superintendent; and to all the participating families.

Danny Grimes – Honorary Eagle

Danny Grimes was born and raised in Corsicana, graduating from Corsicana High School in 1967. During his time there, Grimes excelled both academically and athletically. He was a star player in football, basketball and track, and his talent and hard work earned him the prestigious All Central Texas Football award in 1967. Grimes also received the FFA Public Speaking Award, showcasing his exceptional public speaking skills.

After graduating from high school, Grimes pursued higher education at East Texas State University and Stephen F Austin University. He majored in History, Kinesiology and Education and earned a Bachelor of Science degree in 1971. Later, in 1982, he obtained a Master of Education with 30 hours toward his Doctorate. Grimes also holds a Driver's Education Certification. His dedication and commitment to education was recognized with the Gallup Inc. Award – Teacher Perceiver Specialist, an honor awarded to successful educators.

Grimes' career in education spans over four decades. He began working as a teacher and coach in 1971. During his career, Grimes has also served as UIL Director for five school districts, showcasing his leadership and organizational skills.

In 1977, Grimes moved to Barbers Hill when he was hired as a coach after his Hardin High School team beat Barbers Hill in football for the first time. He later became the first baseball coach at Barbers Hill High School. In 1983, he was named Barbers Hill Middle School Principal where he served until retirement in 2001.

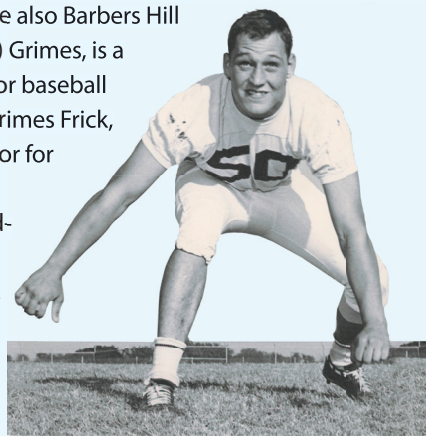

Grimes' dedication and passion for Barbers Hill is evident in his active participation in various BH organizations, including the Barbers Hill Sports Hall of Honor. When asked why he chose to serve the students and community of Barbers Hill, Grimes proudly proclaims, "I BLEED BLUE!!!"

One of Grimes' favorite activities at Barbers Hill is serving as a UIL judge. He also believes that the school's greatest strength lies in its commitment to providing an excellent education to all students while meeting their individual needs and desires through the employment of outstanding educators.

Aside from his illustrious career in education, Grimes has also been actively involved in various civic, religious and community activities. He serves as a deacon at Old River Baptist Church and has held leadership positions in organizations such as Lions Club. Grimes' contributions to the community have been recognized with numerous awards and honors.

He has been married to his wife Brenda since 1968 and has two children, both of whom are also Barbers Hill graduates. His son, Brent (Bink) Grimes, is a member of the Hall of Honor for baseball while his daughter, Danyelle Grimes Frick, is a member of the Hall of Honor for basketball.

Grimes is also a proud grandfather to two Barbers Hill Middle School South students, Halley and Briley Frick.

Austin Kinghorn – Distinguished Alumnus

Born in 1982, Austin Kinghorn had a unique upbringing, spending time in Baton Rouge before moving to Pasadena and eventually settling in Mont Belvieu, graduating from Barbers Hill High School in 2000.

During his time at Barbers Hill, he served as the vice president of the senior class and secretary of the student council. He was also a member of the Soaring Eagle Band, holding the position of 1st chair trumpet. Not stopping there, he also found time to be the editor of The Eagle Echo and a member of the yearbook staff. He also participated in UIL journalism and solo and ensemble competitions, earning various placements at UIL meets. Although he admits he wasn't the best, he also ran cross-country for the school.

After graduating, he continued his education at Stephen F. Austin State University and then the University of Texas at Austin, where he earned a bachelor's degree in government. During his time at UT, he was the chairman of the Young Conservatives of Texas chapter and later became the statewide executive director.

He then went on to attend Baylor University School of Law, where he received his Juris Doctorate. During his time at Baylor Law, he was the Executive Editor of the Baylor Law Review and was awarded the Prof. Matthew Cordon Excellence in Legal Research Award. He also excelled in moot court competitions. After graduating, he began a judicial clerkship with Justice Jeff Brown on the Fourteenth Court of Appeals.

Following his clerkship, he joined the Houston-based commercial litigation firm Edison, McDowell, & Hetherington, representing life-insurance companies. He then returned to the public sector, working as an Assistant Attorney General in the Civil Medicaid Fraud Division, where he was part of two successful settlement teams that obtained $15 million and $5.5 million respectively.

In 2012, he was offered a position as a staff attorney for Justice Jeff Brown at the Texas Supreme Court, where he continued to excel in his legal career. He eventually became the General Counsel and Chief of the General Counsel Division at the Office of the Attorney General, overseeing a team of 20 employees and handling high-level initiatives, such as guiding and drafting OAG policy and serving as an executive sponsor for a $5 million IT procurement and implementation project.

But his achievements don't stop there. He also finds time to be an active member of The Federalist Society, the Texas Supreme Court Historical Society, the Austin Citizens Police Academy Alumni Association, and All Saints Presbyterian Church in Austin. He is also a lifetime member of the Texas Exes.

In 2015, he married his wife Desiree, and together they have four children, including their newest addition who was born earlier this year.

Reflecting on his time at Barbers Hill, he is proud of the district's tradition of excellence, togetherness, and legacy. He believes that Barbers Hill played a significant role in shaping him into the confident, hardworking, and driven individual he is today.

ISN ‘Buddy Bench’ cultivates community

At Barbers Hill Intermediate School North, an innovative idea is fostering friendships and building a stronger school community.

After viewing a video in class about the Buddy Bench project, ISN students in Alisha Ward’s fourth grade homeroom class presented the idea for a bench of their own to Principal Dr. Tina McCorkle, and now it has come to fruition with a Buddy Bench installed at school.

Located near the ISN playground, the blue bench is a signal to classmates. Children who want a friend to play or talk with can sit on the Buddy Bench. School ambassadors and other children are encouraged to invite them to join activities. The bench encourages children to meet new friends and get to know children who are experiencing difficulty making friends in a new light.

Studies have shown that the presence of Buddy Benches can counteract antisocial behaviors and a sense of social isolation, in turn making for happier children.

ISN students helped install and paint the bench, and then participated in a video explaining the project.

“Being a part of the Buddy Bench project was just as impactful on me as it was the kids. Watching the ideas and dreams of this class become reality was so rewarding to me as an educator. This class reminded me what my purpose is and my why,” Ward said.

“My class wanted to leave a legacy and make a difference. Not only do we hope that there will never be a lonely or left out kid on our playground, we also hope that the school can see how big of a difference a group of kids can make when they work together and put their minds to something,” Ward said.

“Dr. McCorkle went above and beyond listening to these kids ideas and giving them ownership in the project. This is something they will remember forever. The life lessons learned through this project will outlast anything else I taught them in 4th grade.”

However, the Buddy Bench is more than just a place to sit, it’s a beacon of teamwork to the district’s commitment to the social and emotional health of its students. The bench stands as a testament to what can be achieved when young minds are encouraged to share their solutions for social challenges around them.

Everyone at ISN came together to help because building friendships helps establish a positive climate which positively impacts learning.

“The coolest thing about the Buddy Bench is to see how fourth-graders live out our mission of ‘to inspire, and empower students to achieve excellence,’” said Dr. McCorkle, ISN principal. “These students were inspired and empowered to bring the bench to our school to connect with others.”

School attendance is important!

School attendance matters. It is arguably one of the most important indicators of school success. You cannot learn what you are not there to learn. Students who attend school regularly improve their chances of being academically successful.

On the flipside, poor attendance creates significant learning gaps. Even if students complete the make-up work, they most likely will not learn and retain the information as well as if they had been there.

The 2024-2025 attendance goal for Barbers Hill no more than four absences a year. Each school this year will offer more incentives to students who come to school each day.

Here’s the bottom line, according to Director of Student Service Mandy Malone:

- Students are more likely to succeed in academics when they attend school consistently.
- Attendance can help students boost academic performance, develop a sense of commitment, build self-discipline, social skills, and overall personality development. Attendance can also ensure that students are safe and secure.
- Irregular attendance can be a better predictor of whether students will drop out of school before graduation than test scores.
- School budgets may suffer when students don’t attend.

The Eagle Educator Interns attended the Educators Rising National Competition June 27-July 1 in Washington, D.C. Over 3,000 U.S. students attended the competition. BHHS junior Madi Gray and seniors Kenna Poole and Kennedy Cox each earned white ribbons in Varsity Elementary Interactive Bulletin Board.

High school work to be completed by end of school year

The Barbers Hill High School Additions and Renovations project is progressing well. Both addition areas are about 65% complete as a whole and are on schedule.

School officials anticipate completing their $75 million construction project for Barbers Hill High School by May. This project was funded by a 2020 bond election.

A $378 million 2024 bond passed in May will add two new primary schools by late 2028.

Staying ahead of expected growth is the main driver. Barbers Hill ISD enrolled a total of 7,623 students in the 2023-24 school year; projections for the 2030-31 school year range from 11,389 to 14,866 students.

School officials implemented the high school construction project to accommodate up to 1,000 new high school students. The project will add more than 150,000 square feet of new construction, 32,000 square feet of renovation, and an additional 73,000 square feet for parking. The project will include a new three-story classroom wing and a PE/athletic facility.

The classroom wing will feature 40 grade-level classrooms, 10 science labs, a dance studio, and CTE lab, spaces for health services, anatomy and physiology, business management, and STEM, along with new administration and counseling suites.

The new athletic facility will feature an auxiliary gymnasium, a PE dressing room, team meetings, multi-purpose activity spaces, football dressing rooms for JV and varsity, and new offices for athletic staff.

Renovations in existing buildings will modify administrative offices and athletic rooms, expand the clinic and attendance office, and improve faculty workrooms and food service. The project will also centralize the special services instructional, lab, and office spaces.

Barbers Hill Technology Update

How does BHISD protect my child online?

Barbers Hill ISD uses Linewize as a web filter. Linewize also provides our families and staff with resources and tools to help with cyber safety at school and at home (see below). Our teachers can use Classwize which helps us monitor what our students are accessing in the classroom on their device.

BHISD also ensures that all of the digital resources we use in the classroom have a Data Privacy Agreement in place to protect our student data and personal information.

Parent and Student Resources

We are in the process of improving our website! BHISD Technology hopes to provide you with many resources to help you maneuver through the district digital resources, district devices, and safety.

5 MAJOR CYBER SECURITY TIPS FOR FAMILIES AT HOME

THINK BEFORE YOU CLICK

Stay cautious of the unknown links you receive through emails, messages, or while visiting other web pages that are not secure enough. Don't click on links if you are not sure!

USE STRONG AND VARIED PASSWORDS

You should use distinct passwords for all your different accounts. You can use a password manager tool to store your passwords securely.

SET UP TWO-FACTOR OR MULTI-FACTOR AUTHENTICATION (MFA)

With this, you will receive a prompt to add another method of authentication along with the password. This could be a code, fingerprint, OTP in your phone number or email, etc.

KEEP YOUR SYSTEMS UPDATED

The older your system and its configurations are, the longer the hackers have to find and exploit all the weaknesses. Check for updates weekly!

USE FIREWALLS AND ANTI-VIRUSES

With the help of anti-virus software and firewalls, your system will be capable of defending itself against these attacks. These programs will scan your devices for viruses.
