

Austin Preparatory School Director of Integrated Learning

Austin Preparatory School, located in Reading, Massachusetts about 15 miles north of Boston, is seeking qualified candidates for the position of Director of Integrated Learning. Founded in 1961, Austin Prep is an independent co-educational Catholic day school in the Augustinian tradition for students in grades 6-12. There are 800+ students enrolled in the school.

Austin Preparatory School is seeking a Director of the Integrated Learning, who is a visionary and a compassionate leader responsible for overseeing the development, implementation, and management of our innovative program for neurodiverse students. This position offers a unique opportunity to shape an inclusive educational program within the rich tradition of Augustinian education. The ideal candidate will be passionate about empowering neurodiverse learners, committed to fostering a community of mutual understanding and support, and excited about integrating cutting-edge educational practices with enduring spiritual wisdom.

Education and Experience:

- Master's degree or higher in Special Education, Educational Psychology, or a related field.
- Minimum of 5 years of experience in special education or inclusive education settings, with at least 3 years in a leadership role.
- Deep understanding of neurodiversity and various learning differences (e.g., ADHD, anxiety, dyslexia, dyscalculia, executive functioning disorders).
- Demonstrated commitment to inclusive education and ability to articulate its importance within a faith-based educational context.
- Strong leadership and interpersonal skills, with the ability to inspire and motivate diverse teams.
- Knowledge of relevant educational laws and standards related to supporting students with diverse learning needs.
- Experience with curriculum development and instructional design for diverse learners.
