

NYCHELLE WINTERS

FINE ARTS PROFESSIONAL

The Irma P. Hall award winning actress, Nychelle Winters, is a distinguished director, educator, artist, and musician. She currently serves as the General Music Instructor and Director of Choral Studies in Dallas Independent School District. Under her direction, the choir has earned consecutive UIL Sweepstakes awards for superior performance in both concert and sight reading. They have also been afforded the opportunity to be a featured ensemble at the 2022 Texas Alliance of Black School Educators Convention. Her leadership skills have allowed her to host many district events including the All City Honor Choir Auditions and Concert.

Winters earned the Bachelor in Music Business and Management from Berklee College of Music in Boston, Massachusetts. She holds professional affiliations with the Texas Music Educators Association and the National Education Association. As an educator, Winters has been afforded the opportunity to teach, train, and perform at many venues nationally, including the prestigious Carnegie Hall. Her passion for community service and arts extends to many districts in the DFW area, proudly serving as the Secretary for the Region 20 Vocal Division.

Her talents have been seen in off-Broadway productions including Aida (Nehebkah), Dreamgirls (Effie), and Beauty and The Beast (Ensemble). Her work in these productions earned her awards and acknowledgment including Best Featured Actress in a Musical (The Column Awards).

Winters is highly sought-after to be a musical role-model for youth. Her energetic instruction can be described as a helping tool for students to develop a love for music. By teaching at a very high level - constantly adjusting instruction and differentiating, Ms. Winters can guarantee that every student that encounters her instruction can all find musical success.
