Did you know our current 9th grade class comes from 36 different middle schools?

CCHS Students Participate in Sports and Activities Across the City

One of the most asked questions by incoming 9th graders is does CCHS have sports. The short answer is no, but the reality is that CCHS students participate in sports and other activities, they just do it for their home attendance high school. They may wear different uniforms, but at their core they are Night Wolves, representing CCHS.

This current school year we have students playing soccer for Cibola and Atrisco Heritage, football for Rio Grande and Volcano Vista, a state champion caliber golfer at Eldorado, wrestlers at Rio Grande and Volcano Vista, and basketball players at Rio Grande, Albuquerque High and AIMS, just to name a few.

Anna Baca is a 12th grader who has been playing basketball for six years and is currently on the AIMS girls basketball team.

"Basketball for me is an escape from school pressure and allows me to be part of a team," Baca explained.

Our students can also participate in other activities with their home attendance high schools, programs like Marching Band. One such student is senior Allianah Nieto who has been part of Sandia's Band for 4 years.

"I would advise that CCHS students that want to participate to talk to the CCHS staff so they can work with your schedule," Nieto said.

Baca said her favorite memory was scoring 15 points during a game her junior year. Nieto said the performances are the best part of band as her and her bandmates get to show off their hard work to their friends and families.

Keep making us proud Night Wolves!

STUDENT PROFILE OF THE MONTH: JORDIN AGUILAR

This month we are profiling 12th grader Jordin Aguilar (pictured to the right), who is finishing up her Business Degree at CNM this spring.

What do you like the most about your major and your CNM classes?" I chose this degree because it's been something I've always wanted to do when I'm older. Growing up you see these major companies and the CEOs making millions off of consumers. I found it fascinating how they do so and build their company sometimes from the bottom up. I like all the free time I'm given because it helps keep me self discipline and taught me how to manage my time. Also how each class is going to be different depending on the professors teaching style, it teaches you to learn to adapt".

"What are your plans following graduation?" "I hope to go to a 4 year college and maybe become a international student".

"What advice do you have for 9th graders at CCHS?" "If all seems lost don't let yourself go down a rabbit hole. Life doesn't end when you fail a class, take every opportunity as a learning opportunity to be better for the future. "
