

But I Don't Speak Spanish! How non Spanish-speaking teachers can help Spanish-speaking students learn in English

Because both English and Spanish share the common ancestry of Latin, there are thousands of cognates, word roots, word formations, and grammatical patterns that will connect your Spanish-speakers to the academic level of English.

Other topics include: teaching the patterns of English through games and puzzles, using sentence frames to teach writing, teaching with visuals and kinesthetics, collocations ("go-togethers"), idioms, and transitioning from informal to formal English. Using the ideas that you learn in this workshop will also help you teach your English-speaking students.

Date: December 17, 2024

Time: 8:30 am – 2:30 pm (Lunch will be provided)

Location: SCLS Auditorium, 627 North Sunrise Service Road, Bellport

Register: Click Here

Presented by Amy Benjamin. Amy is a nationally recognized consultant specializing in improving student performance through literacy and classroom conversation. She has given workshops, courses, and keynotes throughout the United States. Since moving to Long Island in 2018, she has worked with educators in 100+ districts in Nassau and Suffolk counties. She is a member of the professional development network of the National Council of Teachers of English.

Questions? Contact Carl Vitevitch, ESBOCES School Library System Administrative Coordinator
(631) 286-0891 or cvitevit@esboces.org