

Education Service Center: Region 19 Positive Behavior Support & Interventions Conference 2022

Conference Program: Interconnected Systems Framework: February 15, 2022

Interconnected Systems Framework (ISF)

The Interconnected Systems Framework (ISF) is a process to create a more streamlined approach to school mental health and wellness by connecting all social-emotional-behavioral (SEB) efforts through one system, while eliminating barriers inherent in systems that previously have operated separately.

8:30 – 9:00 – Opening (ESC)

9:00 – 10:30 – General Session: Integrating Initiatives: Making Sense of RTI, PBIS, MTSS to improve student mental health

Conference Room: Rio Grande Summit Room

Zoom Link:

Presenter: Dr. Betters-Bubon

Session Description: Now more than ever, it is imperative that we collaborate to address mental health and wellness in our schools and communities. During this keynote, Dr. Jennifer Betters-Bubon will uncover how RTI, PBIS and MTSS fit together with integrated system frameworks that result in equitable outcomes for all students. In this engaging session, you'll discover how to design your MTSS WITH students, families, and communities so that all students have the opportunity to succeed. You will leave with concrete strategies for moving your PBIS team work forward all while engaging in reflective thinking and systems planning.

2:45 – 3:45 – General Closing Session: Integrating Initiatives: Putting It All Together

Conference Room: Room 1 (Rio Grande Summit Room)

Zoom Link:

Presenter: Dr. Bikowsky's

Session Description: After a full day of learning, Dr. Bikowsky's closing keynote will address specific takeaways from the day including solidifying the need for implementing integrated systems within school buildings as well as foundational aspects of connecting with families and communities. We know from our research on evidenced base practices in schools, the keys to building a successful system include equity, access, and inclusion. This spans throughout our entire system, with an end goal of multi-tiered systems of support for supporting students and their families. These systems do not happen unintentionally, they take time and intention with a clear focus and goals. Dr. Bikowsky will share her experiences supporting thousands of educators throughout the nation on building the infrastructure to support this work.
