my leadership skills but have learned more about both myself and others.”

With aspirations to become a business leader and entrepreneur, Balta is grateful to have spent his high school years at Servite thanks to its priority of brotherhood, fraternity and service. “With a unique all-boys atmosphere, being a student provides an experience like no other: one filled with growth and the idea of surpassing limits,” he said. “Servite proves a quintessential factor in creating a high school experience that develops leaders in the image of God whilst fostering the idea of serious fun.”

“My favorite part about being class president is that I get the opportunity to work and collaborate with my peers to create the greater goal, which is a great school year for everyone,” Orendain said. “I have the opportunity to be able to build the school culture because we’re so new.”

Although she’s only a sophomore, Orendain hopes to attend an Ivy league school and major in neuroscience with a minor in business, all while keeping “Christ at the center of my success.”

If you experience a student event at JSerra, chances are Elliana Castro and Olivia Cancellieri played a role in putting it on. “My favorite part about being ASB president is having the opportunity to provide fun activities for the entire school and seeing my peers enjoy the events and pep rallies,” Olivia shared.

Elliana agreed and said representing her class has allowed her to grow and “represent a school that constantly strives for faith, intellect and character in each student.”

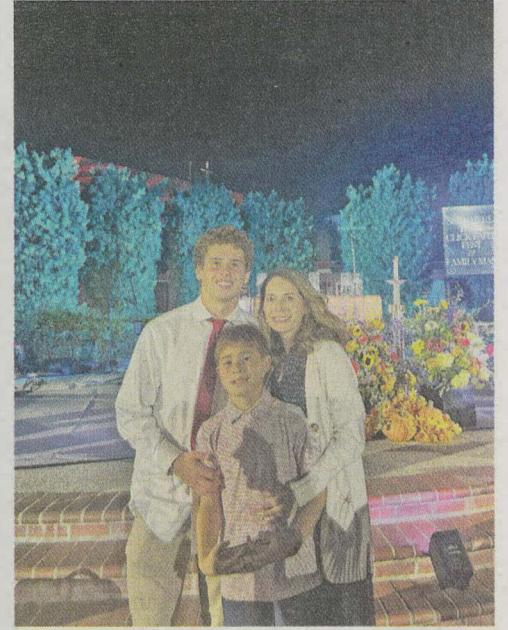

“I would want future high schoolers to know that JSerra is one of the best schools when it comes to opportunity,” she said. “At JSerra, the teachers and staff all work really hard to prepare us for adulthood and give us every chance to succeed later in life. At JSerra, they offer opportunities for us to each grow in our faith, academics and athletics.”

MATER DEI ASB PRESIDENT DANIEL CONTRERAS

Before graduating from high school to pursue a career in sports management, Contreras is making sure students have the best experience at Mater Dei.

“My favorite part about being president is how I can be a voice for other students and collaborate with both faculty and my fellow officers to bring about positive change on campus,” he said. “I would like future high schoolers to know that Mater Dei is a great place to get involved. Due to the school’s diversity, there are a number of opportunities to try new things and to discover what you are passionate about.” ✝
