The First Penguin in Australia

By: Will Tyler

On November 1, 2024, Aron Fowler and his friends were at Ocean Beach, just south of Denmark in Western Australia, when they saw an emperor penguin walking toward them. This aquatic flightless bird had swum over 2,000 miles to Australia. "He was probably about a meter high, and he was not shy at all," Fowler said. "He tried to do, like, a slide on his belly, thinking it was snow, I guess, and just face-planted in the sand and stood up and shook all the sand off." Emperor penguins are the tallest and heaviest of all living penguin species. They are usually found on the sea ice surrounding Antarctica's coast.

The National Women's Soccer League

By: Joy Becker

The National Women's Soccer League is called the NWSL. It is women's professional soccer. The first women's league was called the Women's United Soccer Association. Then, after three seasons, they changed their name to Women's Professional Soccer. Finally, they became the NWSL in 2013. In the beginning, there were eight teams for women's professional soccer. Now, in 2024 there are 14 teams. The Utah Royals and Bay FC joined the NWSL in 2024. On May 10, 2023, the person in charge of the league, Jessica Berman, announced that the league was going to grow to 16 teams in 2026.

The running for being in the next team in the NWSL is between Cincinnati, Cleveland and Denver. The leader of the group trying to get a team in Denver is Jordan Angeli. She used to play in the NWSL and is from Lakewood, Colorado. Denver is the biggest city in the U.S. without a women's soccer team. For Denver FC would have to build a new stadium if Denver is selected to be a part of the NWSL.
