SPECIAL EDITION

AMCOR LEARNING LAB RIBBON CUTTING CEREMONY

Amcor and Appleton Technical Academy (ATECH) are excited to announce the donation and implementation of the new Amcor Learning Lab at ATECH, a 9-12 charter school in the Appleton Area School District. This state-of-the-art facility will provide ATECH students with hands-on experience in Industry 4.0 curriculum, enabling them to earn micro-certifications through the Smart Automation Certification Alliance (SACA) starting this school year.

Utilizing advanced Amatrol Trainers and Fanuc Robots, the lab is the first of its kind in the area and the state. The curriculum has been tailored to meet AMCOR's workforce needs, ensuring that ATECH graduates are fully prepared for high-skilled technical positions within the company. This partnership exemplifies ATECH's commitment to equipping students with cutting-edge skills for seamless entry into the workforce. By integrating the Lab Midwest curriculum and cutting-edge equipment, Amcor and ATECH are preparing students for future careers in automation and industrial maintenance. The collaboration underscores our commitment to providing meaningful career pathways and hands-on learning experiences.

Amcor employees will be present as mentors, sharing insights into career pathways in the industry and assisting students directly in the classroom. Students will also have the chance to tour Amcor facilities, further enriching their learning experience.

The partnership also includes participation in Youth Apprenticeships (YA).

Opportunities for students to transition directly into a YA are a priority of this partnership and an element of the Junior/Senior capstone YA experience available to all ATECH students. One ATECH student is already gaining valuable experience at an Amcor plant and we are excited to see this pathway grow this school year.
