Being Involved

Upper Merion Area School District fosters an environment for success due in large part to the strong relationship established between the schools and the community. The Elementary Handbook represents one of the many methods the school district employs to inform an important part of the community - parents and guardians - about our schools.

Educational research indicates that parental interest and involvement in school activities have a positive effect on their children's achievements. As parents and guardians, your attitudes and actions help your children learn better, know more, perform well in school, function better in society, and develop a positive attitude about learning.

We invite and encourage your participation in the educational growth of your children. This handbook, which provides an overview of the district's elementary curriculum and explains basic operating procedures and policies, is a starting point. Additional opportunities to become more aware of, and make contributions to, your children's education come from visits to their schools and involvement in organizations for parents. As always, home-school relationships are an essential building block for the knowledge, skills, and attitudes children need to develop their full potential as adults.

Finally, a significant source of reinforcement parents and guardians can draw upon is their school principal, as he or she sets the school's educational tone. By keeping current with the new ideas and experiences that comprise their children's school day, parents can continue to nurture their children's education in the most critical classroom of all - the home.

Report Card Distribution

Elementary School

Student progress is communicated to parents and guardians through a written progress report/personal conference format. Progress reports for grades kindergarten through 4 are issued in December, March, and June.

Middle School

Report cards are issued four times during the year. If students are doing poorly or are not completing assignments, an interim report is sent home halfway between report card periods. It is important to realize that interim reports are not final marks; grades can improve or decline after interim reports are issued.

High School

Grades are issued for each of the four quarters (grading or marking periods) of the school year. In addition, a letter grade for the final examination and the final letter grade for the course are reported at the same time as the grade for the fourth marking period.

Being Involved

Parent Teacher Conferences

Elementary Schools

Parent/teacher conferences are held shortly after the December and March report periods. Parent/teacher conferences are mandatory in December following the first trimester. Parents and guardians are encouraged to meet with their children's teachers, either at the scheduled conference sessions or another convenient time. Conferences offer a valuable opportunity to discuss students' academic progress, achievements, health, and activities. All grades K-8 will be utilizing the My Conference Time online scheduling system to arrange for parent/teacher conferences.

Middle School

Conferences for parents/guardians of students in grades five through eight are held regularly twice a year. Parents in grades five through eight may request a conference with an individual teacher or a team at any time. Parents should call the appropriate teacher to set up an appointment. All grades K-8 will be utilizing the My Conference Time online scheduling system to arrange for parent/teacher conferences.

High School

Conferences for parents/guardians of students in grades nine through twelve are held regularly twice a year. Parents in grades nine through twelve may request a conference with an individual teacher or a team at any time. Parents should call the appropriate teacher to set up an appointment.

Being Involved
