Killingly Public Schools

Killingly Public Schools serves approximately 2,500 PreK-12 students with the support of 576 employees, including 263 certified and 313 non-certified staff. The district includes an accredited early childhood center, two elementary schools, an intermediate school, and a comprehensive high school featuring a regional agricultural education center for students pursuing careers in agriculture and related fields. The district values diversity, recognizing the benefits of staff from various backgrounds, races, and ethnic groups. Killingly Public Schools takes pride in its award-winning programs and the dedication of its nurturing, respectful, and enthusiastic staff, who work tirelessly to meet the needs of all students, including those from economically disadvantaged and isolated backgrounds.

Killingly Intermediate School

Killingly Intermediate School serves 691 students in grades 5 through 8 with a rigorous, standards-based curriculum designed to empower students to take ownership of their learning and prepare for future success. Our academic programs enrich students' knowledge and skills across all core content areas, while our vibrant Arts and Technology programs enhance their critical thinking and creativity. We are committed to fostering strong partnerships with families, encouraging students to engage in reflective discussions about their goals and progress through our spring Student-Led Conferences. At KIS, every student is provided with the personalized support needed to excel academically, socially, and emotionally.

Community Profile

Killingly, located in northeastern Connecticut's "Quiet Corner" near the Massachusetts and Rhode Island borders, sits at the crossroads of New England. It is under an hour from Hartford and Providence, 90 minutes from Boston and New Haven, and 30 minutes from Worcester and Eastern Connecticut's resort casinos. Home to approximately 17,000 residents, Killingly spans 50 square miles of residential neighborhoods, commercial and manufacturing hubs, and open spaces with bike and nature trails. The town includes the villages of Rogers, East Killingly, South Killingly, Ballouville, Attaugan, Dayville, and Danielson. Killingly Public Schools takes pride in meeting the diverse needs of students, many from economically disadvantaged or isolated backgrounds. The district's schools, programs, students, and staff have earned numerous State, Regional, and National awards.
