

Ringgold Elementary School South
Weekly Update
1-13-25

Mr. Berry-Principal Mr. Meredith Asst. Principal

Principal's Message:

This week, we shift our intentional focus on recognizing the learning that is taking place in our classrooms, and sharing the successes of our students, staff, and school!

In our classrooms, students are taking charge of their academic and behavioral progression through activities like our "Flat Giny Holiday Project". This activity allowed students to reiterate key creative writing skills through sharing of their activities over holiday break. Our older students also focused on effective writing, creating "Biography Blankets" to parallell biographical writing of key historical figures. In third grade, our students also practiced their PBIS expectations of being ready, accepting, mindful, and safe through classroom activities like "behavior bootcamp". We also were able to share our writing success at the early grade levels, as representatives from Brownsville Area School District visited Ms. Davies and Ms. Bowker's class to see the effective implementation of the "Kid Writing" program in our building.

In addition to these successes, we want to share opportunities for future school engagement activities. Please see the flyer for our Kindergarten Registration, taking place on Wednesday, March 12th, at our building. We are also still looking for potential candidates for the role of school paraprofessionals at our buildings. Please reach out to the RESS elementary office with any questions regarding these opportunities.

Sincerely,

RESS Administrative Team

Flat Gingy Holiday Project

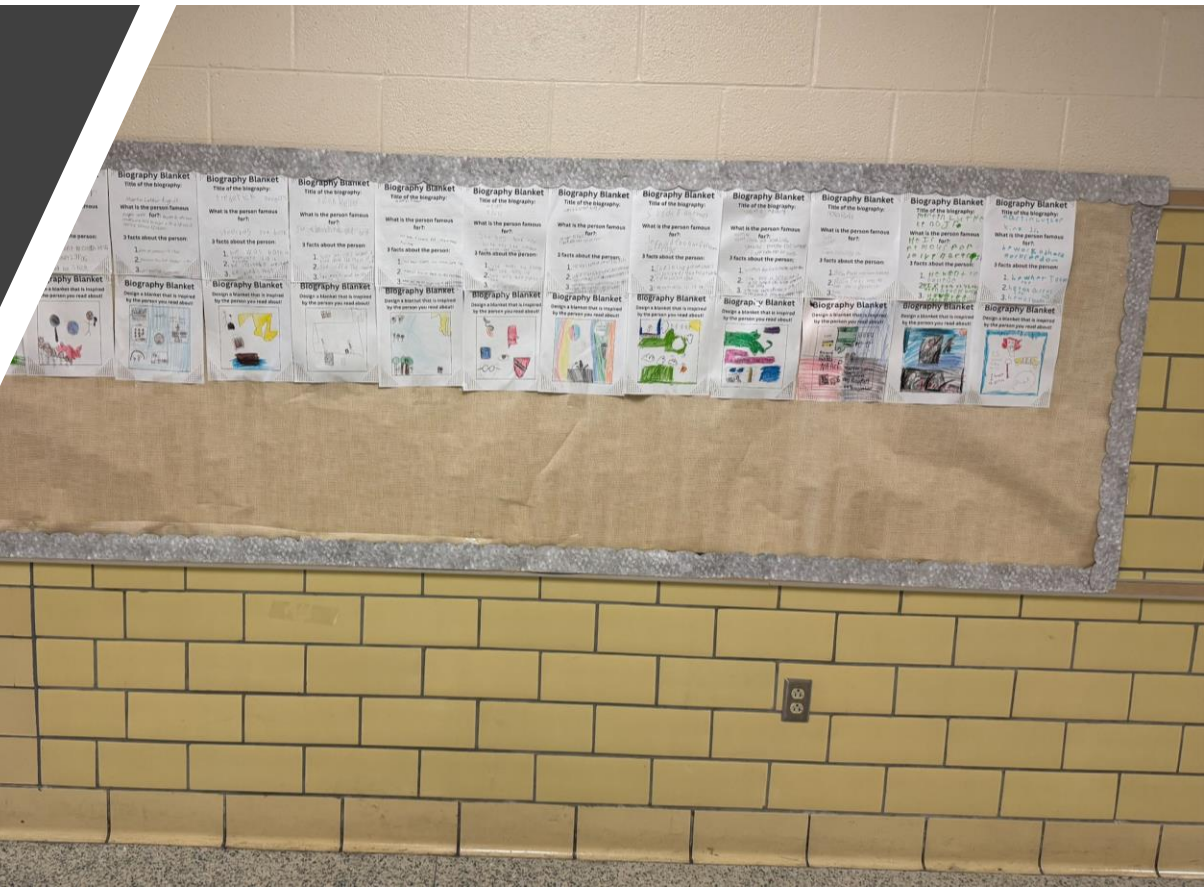

Mrs. Bowker and Ms. McLaughlin's students had a great time taking their Flat Gingys on adventures during the holiday break. Mr. Berry even spent some time with a Gingy! The students documented their journeys by journaling, and enjoyed reading their stories when they came back to school!

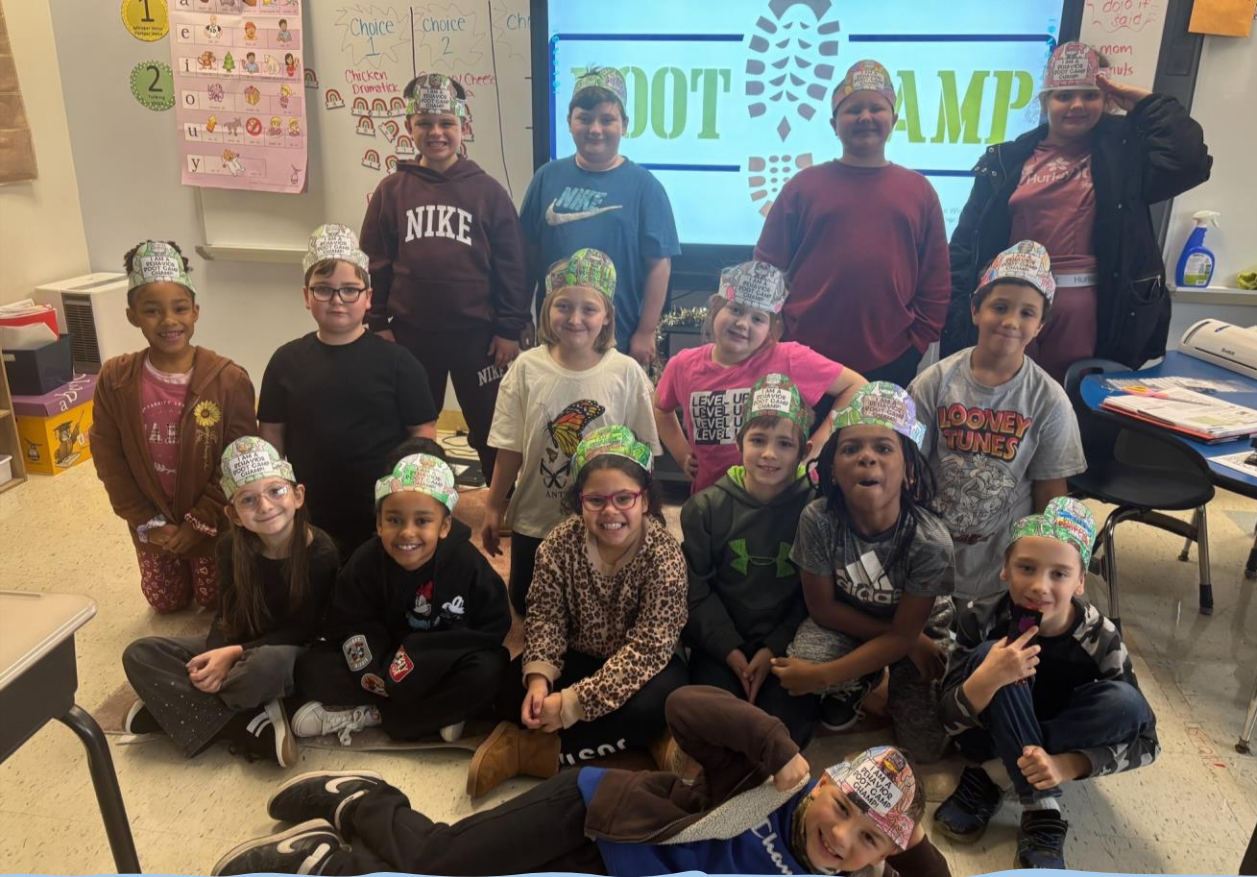

Biography Blankets

Students in Ms. Coblenz's class read biographies on famous Civil Rights individuals and created "biography blankets" of these figures. These blankets included pertinent visual representation and written information regarding these individuals.

Behavior Bootcamp

Ms. McLay's class participated in "Behavior Bootcamp", a classroom activity aimed at reviewing and emphasizing our PBIS (Positive Behavior Intervention and Supports) behaviors.

Kid Writing Visit

Representatives from Brownsville Area School District came to observe our "Kid Writing" program in Ms. Bowker and Ms. Davies' classrooms. Students and teachers did an exemplary job of demonstrating key writing skills associated with this program!
