Course Selection Process

keep in mind...

Course Selection

Choosing Courses:

Counselors and teachers will discuss options and make suggestions to guide your student through the process

Important Decisions:

- ✓ Balance of ability and difficulty
- ✓ Based on interests and future plans
- ✓ Can affect college admissions

Course Levels

Academic levels are based on middle school teacher recommendations.
There are 3 levels:

Seminar, Integrated,
or AP

Honors (H)

Advanced (A)

Teachers understands their students':

Abilities, interests, and work habits

Levels are continually reevaluated

Course Leveling and Expectations

Seminar/Integrated/Advanced Placement

Seminar, Integrated, and Advanced Placement courses follow an extremely rigorous curriculum prescribed by each department and develop higher-order thinking skills using an accelerated pace and enriched content. These courses prepare students in their progress toward meeting the challenges of extremely competitive college work. Students enrolled in these courses undertake a very demanding workload that involves extensive reading, writing, problem solving, and critical thinking; they must consistently demonstrate independence and learn to think conceptually. Students receive weighted grades in these courses.

Honors (H)

Honors courses follow a rigorous curriculum prescribed by each department and develop higher-order thinking skills using a challenging pace and enriched content. These courses prepare students in their progress toward meeting the challenges of very competitive college work. Students enrolled in Honors courses undertake a demanding workload that involves extensive reading, writing, problem solving, and critical thinking; they must demonstrate independence and learn to think conceptually. Students receive weighted grades in Honors courses.

Advanced (A)

An Advanced course follows a demanding curriculum prescribed by each department to help students progress toward meeting the challenges of competitive college work. Advanced courses aim to develop higher order thinking skills, using accelerated pace and content. Students enrolled in an Advanced course undertake a challenging workload that involves reading, writing, problem solving, and critical thinking; they will continue to develop independence both inside and outside the classroom. Students receive an un-weighted grade in an Advanced course.
