AMSA Educator Shines!

Ms. Murphy, AMSA's Academic Department Chair for History & Social Sciences, exemplifies excellence in her field. Last month, she proudly represented AMSA at the prestigious National Council for the Social Studies Annual Conference, a premier event attended by over 1,500 social studies educators from across the nation. Her expertise and passion shone through in two remarkable presentations: one explored the use of oral histories to teach the complexities of World War II, while the other showcased her original graduate research on women's significant roles in the War of 1812.

The conference's presentations are selected through a highly competitive application process, highlighting Ms. Murphy's extraordinary contributions to social studies education. This achievement not only underscores her dedication to her craft but also reflects AMSA's commitment to fostering academic excellence and innovation. We are proud to have such an inspiring and accomplished educator leading the way in history and social sciences.

☆☆☆ AMSA Core Value Super Stars ☆☆☆

These AMSA Super Stars were honored last week because of their commitment to our core values of Integrity, Excellence and Community. Each student was nominated by an AMSA faculty member who caught them in action! Way to go!

Integrated Monitoring Review Special Education & Civil Rights

“We are pleased to tell you that the Department has found your charter school to be in compliance with all Group B Universal Standards monitored during the PSM Review, and no corrective action is required at this time.”

Special Thanks to Special Education Director Lynn Jarvis & Dean of Students Anthony Montesion.

Also thank-you to the AMSA Staff for their work on using the Washington Model to review our curricula.

MCAS CD Update

Students must still participate in MCAS.

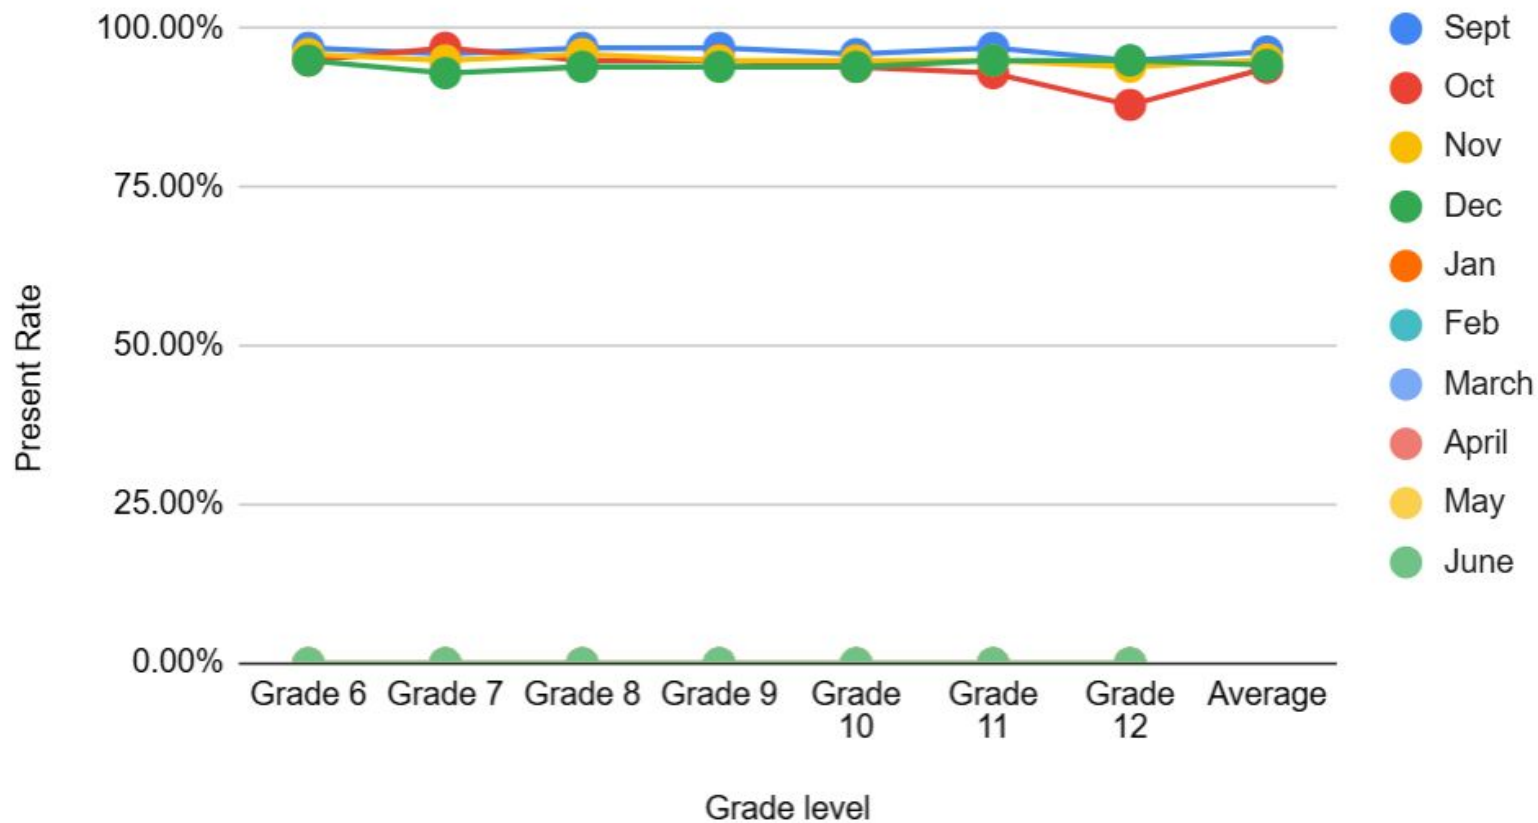

Local Boards must establish graduation requirements.

MCAS can be used as a local requirement.

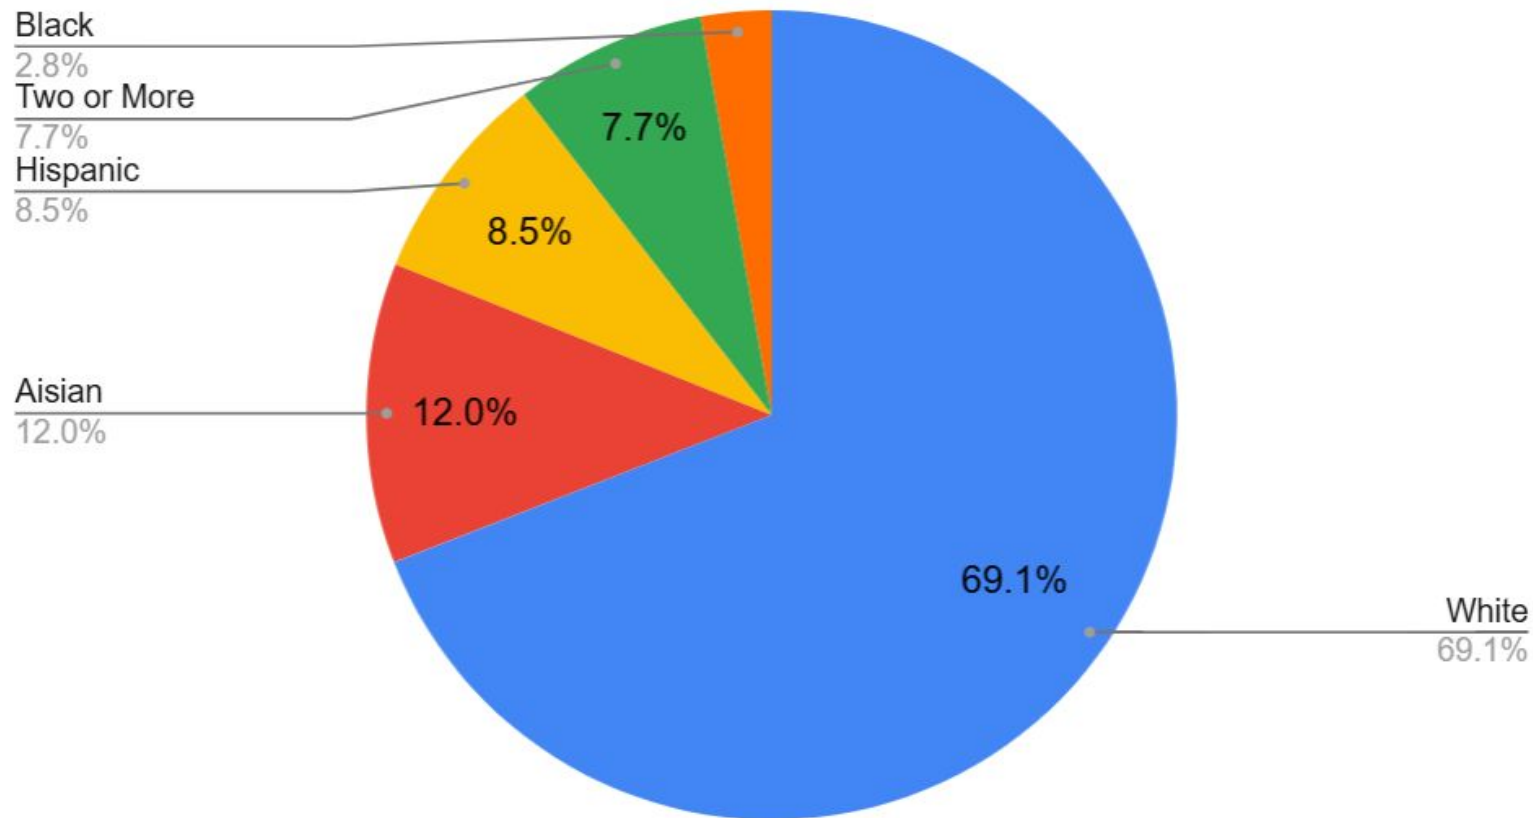

Re-tests will only occur to determine eligibility for Adams Scholarships.
