

Portrait of a Graduate

AN INDEPENDENT INQUIRER

- Can design, perform, and report on an independent scientific experiment.
- Can critically analyze a range of texts from different times and cultures.
- Can develop and research social questions across boundaries of time and culture.
- Can use mathematical skills and concepts to solve real world problems.

AN EFFECTIVE MULTILINGUAL COMMUNICATOR

- Can communicate orally and in writing in three languages at A2 level and +.
- Can speak in public.
- Can present original ideas in research, personal, and literary critical essay forms.
- Can utilize digital tools and multimedia literacies, enhancing their language skills through interactive and collaborative digital or online experiences.

A PRINCIPLED GLOBAL CITIZEN

- Can identify, analyze and respond effectively to social problems, locally and globally.
- Embraces International mindedness.
- Can respectfully consider multiple perspectives in response to both ideas and emotions.
- Cares for others, both on a local and a global level.

A CREATIVE AND CRITICAL THINKER

- Can use design thinking to solve product and process challenges.
- Can play an instrument effectively in a concert performance.
- Can communicate complex ideas through visual arts media.

A BALANCED AND RESILIENT INDIVIDUAL

- Can manage free time to meet diverse academic and extracurricular commitments.
- Can resolve interpersonal conflict through respectful communication.
- Can reflect appreciatively on personal and community strengths as a resource for addressing challenges.
- Understands the importance of respectful online communication, including proper etiquette and the impact of their digital footprint, while engaging with diverse audiences in multiple languages.