A note from the principal:

Greetings,

We will once again be showing off some of our talented students this week! Tuesday night, from 6:00 to 7:30 PM we are opening our doors to allow all to see some of our great student creations. We will have Artwork as well as creations from all other academic areas on display. The night will start with a few of our students talking with you about what you will see, and talking about the benefits obtained through the creating process, followed by a gallery walk where you can see for yourself how talented our kids are. I can't say this enough, we have fantastic students at Millsap Middle School. I hope you can all make it out.

Warmest Regards,
David Coker

Creativity plays a vital role in your child's learning journey, as it engages the highest level of thinking in Bloom's Taxonomy: Creating. This involves combining knowledge, analysis, and problem-solving to produce something new, whether it's an artwork, a project, or a solution to a real-world challenge.

Brain research highlights that creating activates multiple areas of the brain simultaneously. This integrated activity strengthens neural pathways, enhances critical thinking, and fosters deeper learning retention. Creating encourages students to make connections between ideas, promoting a more profound understanding of concepts and boosting confidence in their ability to innovate.

By fostering creativity in the classroom, we aim to prepare students not only to master academic content but also to become adaptable, inventive thinkers ready to excel in the complexities of the future.
