If an English teacher is convicted of a crime and doesn't complete the sentence, is that a fragment?

Announcements

- The annual College Transfer Tour is coming to Montgomery Community College on Tuesday, November 30th! Plan to come and talk with representatives from 4-year colleges and universities to learn more about your transfer opportunities. They will be set up in the Multipurpose room in Capel Hall (building 200) from 12:00 pm.
- Senior and Phoenix Scholar members of the Beta Club, the National Beta Scholarship is now OPEN.
- Attention Juniors - Calling all high school juniors! Apply today to serve as a student advisor on Superintendent Catherine Truitt's Student Advisory Council. If you are interested in state education issues, advocating on behalf of your peers, and serving as an advisor to decision-makers in K-12 education, this council is for you! As a member of the Student Advisory Council, you will meet monthly and serve a two-year term that concludes at the end of your senior year. The Advisory Council is open to all students in North Carolina. Applications must be submitted by noon, Nov. 15.
- MCC Fall Festival is on Thursday, November 18 - Crafts and games are free. MCS will serve lunch that day but bring money if you would like something from the food trucks.
- College Math Students - Don't forget Mrs. Hare offers Math assistance from 12:45 - 1:15 every Friday.
- College Chemistry Students - Mrs. Williams will be offering Chemistry assistance from 12:45 - 1:15 every Tuesday.

Thank you for reading The Phoenixes' Call! This publication was created completely by Montgomery County Early College students. We write, edit, and publish this work on our own. We are using this publication to showcase all of the wonderful students of MCEC and to show the community what it means to be a Phoenix. We apologize for any typographical errors or misspellings. Please see Ms. Heather Dunlap or Connor Poole if you have an idea for a new story or if you would like to be involved.

Profiles in Nature: Turkey

By Mauricio Aguilar

The turkey is a species of bird in either the Phasianidae or the Meleagrididae family. This is a native game bird of North America that is commonly used to feast on during Thanksgiving across America. These animals have been domesticated over the span of countless years and when they first started to be bred, they were bred for their feather quality. Then, over time, these animals were bred to have a higher meat quality and to be eaten.

These animals eat fruits and nuts as their main diet. Turkeys can have about a four-and-a-half-foot wingspan and they usually live for about five years in the wild. When domesticated, these animals can live for up to ten years. These animals mate by the male spreading his tail and shaking his tail feathers loudly.

A Note from The Editor: Photography

By: Connor Poole

It is with much consideration I have decided that a large portion of this issue should be devoted to photography. It is often said that a picture speaks a thousand words, and in most any circumstance, I truly couldn't agree more. With this being said, I feel that the only thing necessary to speak for the events which occurred over the past two weeks, is not words, but photographs; simple pictures which capture the emotions, scenery, and individuality present within the very moment. Enjoy the photographs, and enjoy the moment!

Native American Heritage Month: Jimi Hendrix

"While groundbreaking guitarist and rock icon Jimi Hendrix died tragically young, He's one of several foundational rock stars to have Native American ancestry.

Hendrix's grandmother was Cherokee, and surviving family has helped make that fact better known. In 2010, many of his belongings were lent to the National Museum of the American Indian."
