Good afternoon, Eagle Families,

What a fun and exciting week we've had here at school! Today marked the end of the first semester, and we're officially halfway through the school year. Time sure is flying! On Monday, we'll kick off semester two, and I can't wait to see what great things our students will accomplish in the months ahead.

As we look forward, don't forget that our Read-a-Thon is just around the corner! Who will read the most books and earn the title of Principal for the Day? It's always fun and rewarding, and I'm excited to see everyone dive into their reading.

I hope you all have a fantastic weekend. Be sure to get outside, get some rest, and pick up a good book to enjoy. Have a great weekend, and I'll see you all on Monday!

News from the Classroom

It was a short but sweet week. This week, we continued our unit on fairy tales and read the "fractured" tale of Little Red Riding Hood, Little Red Riding Hood was Rotten! A fractured fairy tale is a retelling of a classic with a twist or from a different point of view. Little Red Riding Hood was Rotten is told from the wolf's point of view. Ask your student to explain why the mostly vegetarian wolf decided to change his ways.

We also learned about Chinese New Year and had a chance to get outside for an amazing nature walk.

On a side note, we are experiencing some illness in the classroom. If your student is not feeling well and cannot learn (without taking medication in the morning), please allow them time to rest and recover at home.

Have a wonderful weekend!

READERS & WRITERS!

Students will write a superhero story about one of their favorite stuffed animals in February.

All students need to bring their story character (aka stuffed animal) to school in their backpack on Monday, January 27. The character will remain at school until March 7.

Students will take turns using the school's digital cameras, creating backgrounds, and staging pictures to illustrate their stories.

All books will be displayed at the Super Readers Read Across America Community Breakfast on Friday, March 7 @ 8:30 a.m. We will also announce the Top Readers and Fundraisers from the Read-A-Thon at this event, Mrs. Ballou's new hair color, and who will be the Principal for the day.
