

Form 1095-C

Form 1095-C is used to report certain information to the IRS and to taxpayers about individuals who have health insurance through their employer. Taxpayers are not required to include Form 1095-C when filing their taxes and it should not be attached to a tax return.

Updates to Form 1095-C

The Internal Revenue Service (IRS) no longer requires taxpayers to provide Form 1095-C with their tax return and no longer requires employers to mail them to employees. You can still view, download, or request a copy for your own records using one of the following methods below.
