Empowering students with knowledge and skills to succeed

To Whom It May Concern:

Data was collected on how effectively teachers at NRHEG Secondary School integrate technology in their classrooms. The results are posted below:

Of the 31 teachers surveyed,
21 (67.7%) of the teachers agreed that they effectively integrate technology into their classroom. Agree is defined as "I am using technology effectively in my classroom, but I could improve how I integrated technology in my classroom."

7 (22.6%) of the teachers strongly agreed that they effectively integrate technology in their classroom. Strongly agree is defined as "I am using technology in the most effective ways possible for my classroom."

3 (9.7%) of the teachers disagreed that they effectively integrate technology into their classroom. Disagree is defined as "I am using technology in my classroom, but I could make significant improvements in how effectively technology is used."

None of the teachers strongly disagreed that they effectively integrate technology into their classrooms. Strongly disagree is defined as "I only use required technology (like Schoology) and don't know how else to use the technology in my classroom."

The results clearly indicate that specific steps need to be taken to improve technology integration at NRHEG Secondary School.

Sincerely, ,

Grant Berg
