 Please note that which fate you are playing has not been determined. This will be determined at the first vocal rehearsal. All understudies will also be a part of the Chorus.

Thank you to everyone who auditioned for our Spring Musical, Hadestown Teen Edition. Mr. Heyde and I are so excited to start the production process with all of you. Please don't forget that I need you all to come to the backstage workshop after school today at 2:30 to pick up your actor contract, calendar, get your measurements taken, fill out your cast bio and download the app that contains the rehearsal tracks.

The casting process is never easy, especially when you are blessed with so many talented individuals. There are many things that a casting team must take into consideration when casting a show. Please know that the casting decisions Mr. Heyde and I have made together are a reflection of careful thought, consideration, and what we believe is best for our production.

To my understudies you may notice the note at the bottom of the cast list specifying that you are also counted among the chorus. This is not a typo. The challenge of an understudy is that you not only learn your lead part, but you also are a member of our ensemble. This means you will be taking on learning two roles. You will perform in 4 out of the 6 performances as a member of the chorus and as your lead character in 2 of the performances. As a former understudy in her own high school enjoy this time. You learn so much as an understudy and it is an amazing opportunity to hone not only your skills as a lead, but also as an ensemble member.

Thank you all so much and I'll see you at rehearsal on Tuesday!
