DIRECTOR'S NOTE

REGINA WHITE HEAD DIRECTOR

The Play that Goes Wrong has been a show I have wanted to direct for years. In times where tragedy and conflict is happening all around us, comedy is a necessary antidote. The members of the fictional Cornley Drama Society really want it to go well, and the hits just keep coming. The set is as much a character as any of the actors, and our student scenic director, Kaleb Dees, has been working tirelessly with Mr. Sierra and the rest of the crew to bring this design to life since we announced the show last Spring. This play takes a tremendous amount of focus from the entire team, and I am so proud of them all! I am especially excited to welcome Katie Guillbeaux to her second season with Centre Stage as Stunt Coordinator, and Skyelar Clouse as our certified fight coordinator. This play looks dangerous, but is actually very safe due to their work with our actors. Please enjoy!

JOHN SIERRA DIRECTOR OF TECH AND CREW

This is Mr. Sierra's sixth production since taking the role of Technical Director for Freedom's fantastic, still "new" theatre. Every show builds on the last. Our crew of designers, carpenters, painters, techies and stage hands get better every year. We had a fabulous time making a complicated set that can't go wrong and *definitely* won't fall down. 😊 This is an absolutely serious show, and we hope you don't laugh too hard. It can be distracting to our all-too-serious actors. If you don't see Mr. Sierra after the show, please send help. He is most likely wrapped in wallpaper or locked in the clock. Thank you, and enjoy the show!

SIERRA REYBURN COSTUME DESIGN DIRECTOR SELF LABELED "COSTUME LADY"

Ms Reyburn has been a part of Centre Stage for three wonderful years. She loves working with students to help create their characters.
