OCSD COMMUNICATION AND TECHNOLOGY DIVISION EMBRACES SPIRIT OF GIVING WITH DONATION TO ORANGEBURG SALVATION ARMY

ORANGEBURG, S.C. – This holiday season, the Orangeburg County School District's (OCSD) Communication and Technology Division demonstrated that the true joy of the holidays lies in giving rather than receiving. During their holiday celebration on December 17, 2024, division members donated coats, hats, socks, and toys to the Orangeburg Salvation Army, extending warmth and cheer to children and families in the community.

Rather than exchanging gifts among colleagues, members of the department were encouraged to purchase items that could bring comfort and joy to local families in need. The initiative reflects OCSD's dedication to going beyond the four walls of its schools and making a meaningful impact across the community.

"Our work as a school district doesn't stop at the classroom," said Dr. Erica S. Taylor, Assistant Superintendent of Communications, Business & Community Partnerships. "This initiative reminds us all that it's better to give than to receive. By stepping outside of ourselves and giving to others, we not only bring smiles to families but strengthen the bond between our district and the community we proudly serve."

The donation drive is part of OCSD's broader commitment to fostering community connections and supporting families throughout Orangeburg County. Through partnerships and outreach, the district continues to embrace its mission of enriching lives both inside and outside of the classroom.
