

John Taylor Williams

Class of 1956

Ike Williams went on to graduate from Harvard and later the University of Pennsylvania Law School after he left Middlesex. He began his legal career in Boston at Haussermann, Davison & Shattuck, where he eventually became a Partner. He would later work as a Partner at Palmer and Dodge, where he co-chaired the Publishing and Entertainment Group. He was a Founding Director at the Kneerim & Williams Agency, where he has represented several renowned authors and screenplay and teleplay writers. He has lectured widely on intellectual property and entertainment law and has served on the National Endowment for the Arts Literary Panel and as Chair of the Boston Lawyers Committee for Civil Rights.

